DEFINING MODERN ELEGANCE

Midnight Freakshow

Dramatic and unapologetically theatrical, this model transforms fantasy into a visual spectacle. Draped in a cascade of crimson feathers and bold striped tights, she commands presence like a ringmaster of a surreal world. Her towering hat and glittered makeup add eccentric charm, while her confident stance hints at a fierce storytelling spirit. Holding a striking prop, she blurs the line between elegance and the bizarre, embodying dark cabaret energy with fearless flair. A daring vision of art, style, and unapologetic individuality.

LA CATRINA RISING

Embodying the spirit of La Catrina with haunting elegance, this model transforms tradition into living art. Her face is adorned with intricate Día de los Muertos makeup, honoring ancestry while celebrating cultural beauty. The crown of bold marigolds and roses symbolizes life and remembrance, while skeletal body paint creates a powerful visual narrative between mortality and grace. Draped in black lace and gold chains, she exudes strength, reverence, and mystic femininity—a radiant tribute to heritage, memory, and the enduring power of identity.

SCREAM & SEDUCE

There is a cinematic darkness to this moment — a quiet, poetic tension captured in stillness. The model holds mystery in her expression, blending elegance with a subtle gothic edge. Her pose, her styling, and the symbolic skull in her hand create a narrative that feels both timeless and theatrical. Blackcruze embraces imagery that challenges, questions, and leaves the mind wandering long after the frame is gone. She represents beauty that thinks, beauty that expresses, and beauty that tells a story beyond the surface.

Q - Can you give us a bit of background on how you started your career and how you evolved? What changes have you seen in you from beginning to here?

A - Background & evolution I'm Sean Saunders—photographer, cinematographer, and the engine behind Sean Shot That and Gower Street Media, LLC. I started like most hungry creatives do: saying yes to everything, shooting on borrowed time and borrowed gear, learning to make light out of nothing. What began as portraits and event coverage evolved into fashion runways, music videos, and creative direction. Today I'm the media manager for Inner Circle USA's monthly Stage & Style shows at Skybar, a multi-published photographer, and an IMDb-credited cinematographer. The biggest change in me? I shifted from "shoot everything" to "craft the story." Less gear-chasing, more vision. Less chaos, more systems. I'm still Him—Now I'm just sharper.

Q - What's been the biggest highlight in your career so far?

A - Career highlight (so far) Seeing my work in print and credits never gets old—Enzomnia /Alphero, RLC Talent Agency Magazine, Movier—and being listed on IMDb as cinematographer for Chase Bell's music videos "Money Can't Buy" and "Let Me Remind You" is a milestone. But the top of the top is building the visual language of Stage & Style—month after month, live, high-pressure, high-fashion, and making it look effortless. That's where I get to shine and use what I've been learning.

Q - What's your dream and goal which you want to achieve in your career?

A - Dream & goal I'm building a SeanShotThat creative house that mentors the next wave while delivering cinematic work for major fashion houses and music artists. Long game? Canon Explorers of Light. Short game? Bigger brand campaigns, director's reels that travel, and a legacy studio where my team eats off our creativity for years.

Q - Using one word how would you describe your passion?

A - One word for my passion Relentless.

Q - Who is the person that inspires you the most and why?

A - Who inspires me? That's easy off top My four kids—Sean, Sacia, Carter, and Coryn. They're my fuel. Yeah I love to shoot for myself and others, but I'm doing all this for them so that I can leave a legacy for them. Professionally, I'm inspired by the collaborators who bet on me early—Jim Mullin & Super Model Managment, Inner Circle & Chase Bell hands down! Leila Ciancaglini & RLC, And the designers and models who bring their A-game to the runway. Iron sharpens iron. And I can't forget the other photographers that inspired me daily that are out here killing it or the ones that when they first met me, they showed me the ropes. They showed me what was going on. They showed me who to talk to, they showed me love and I show it right back

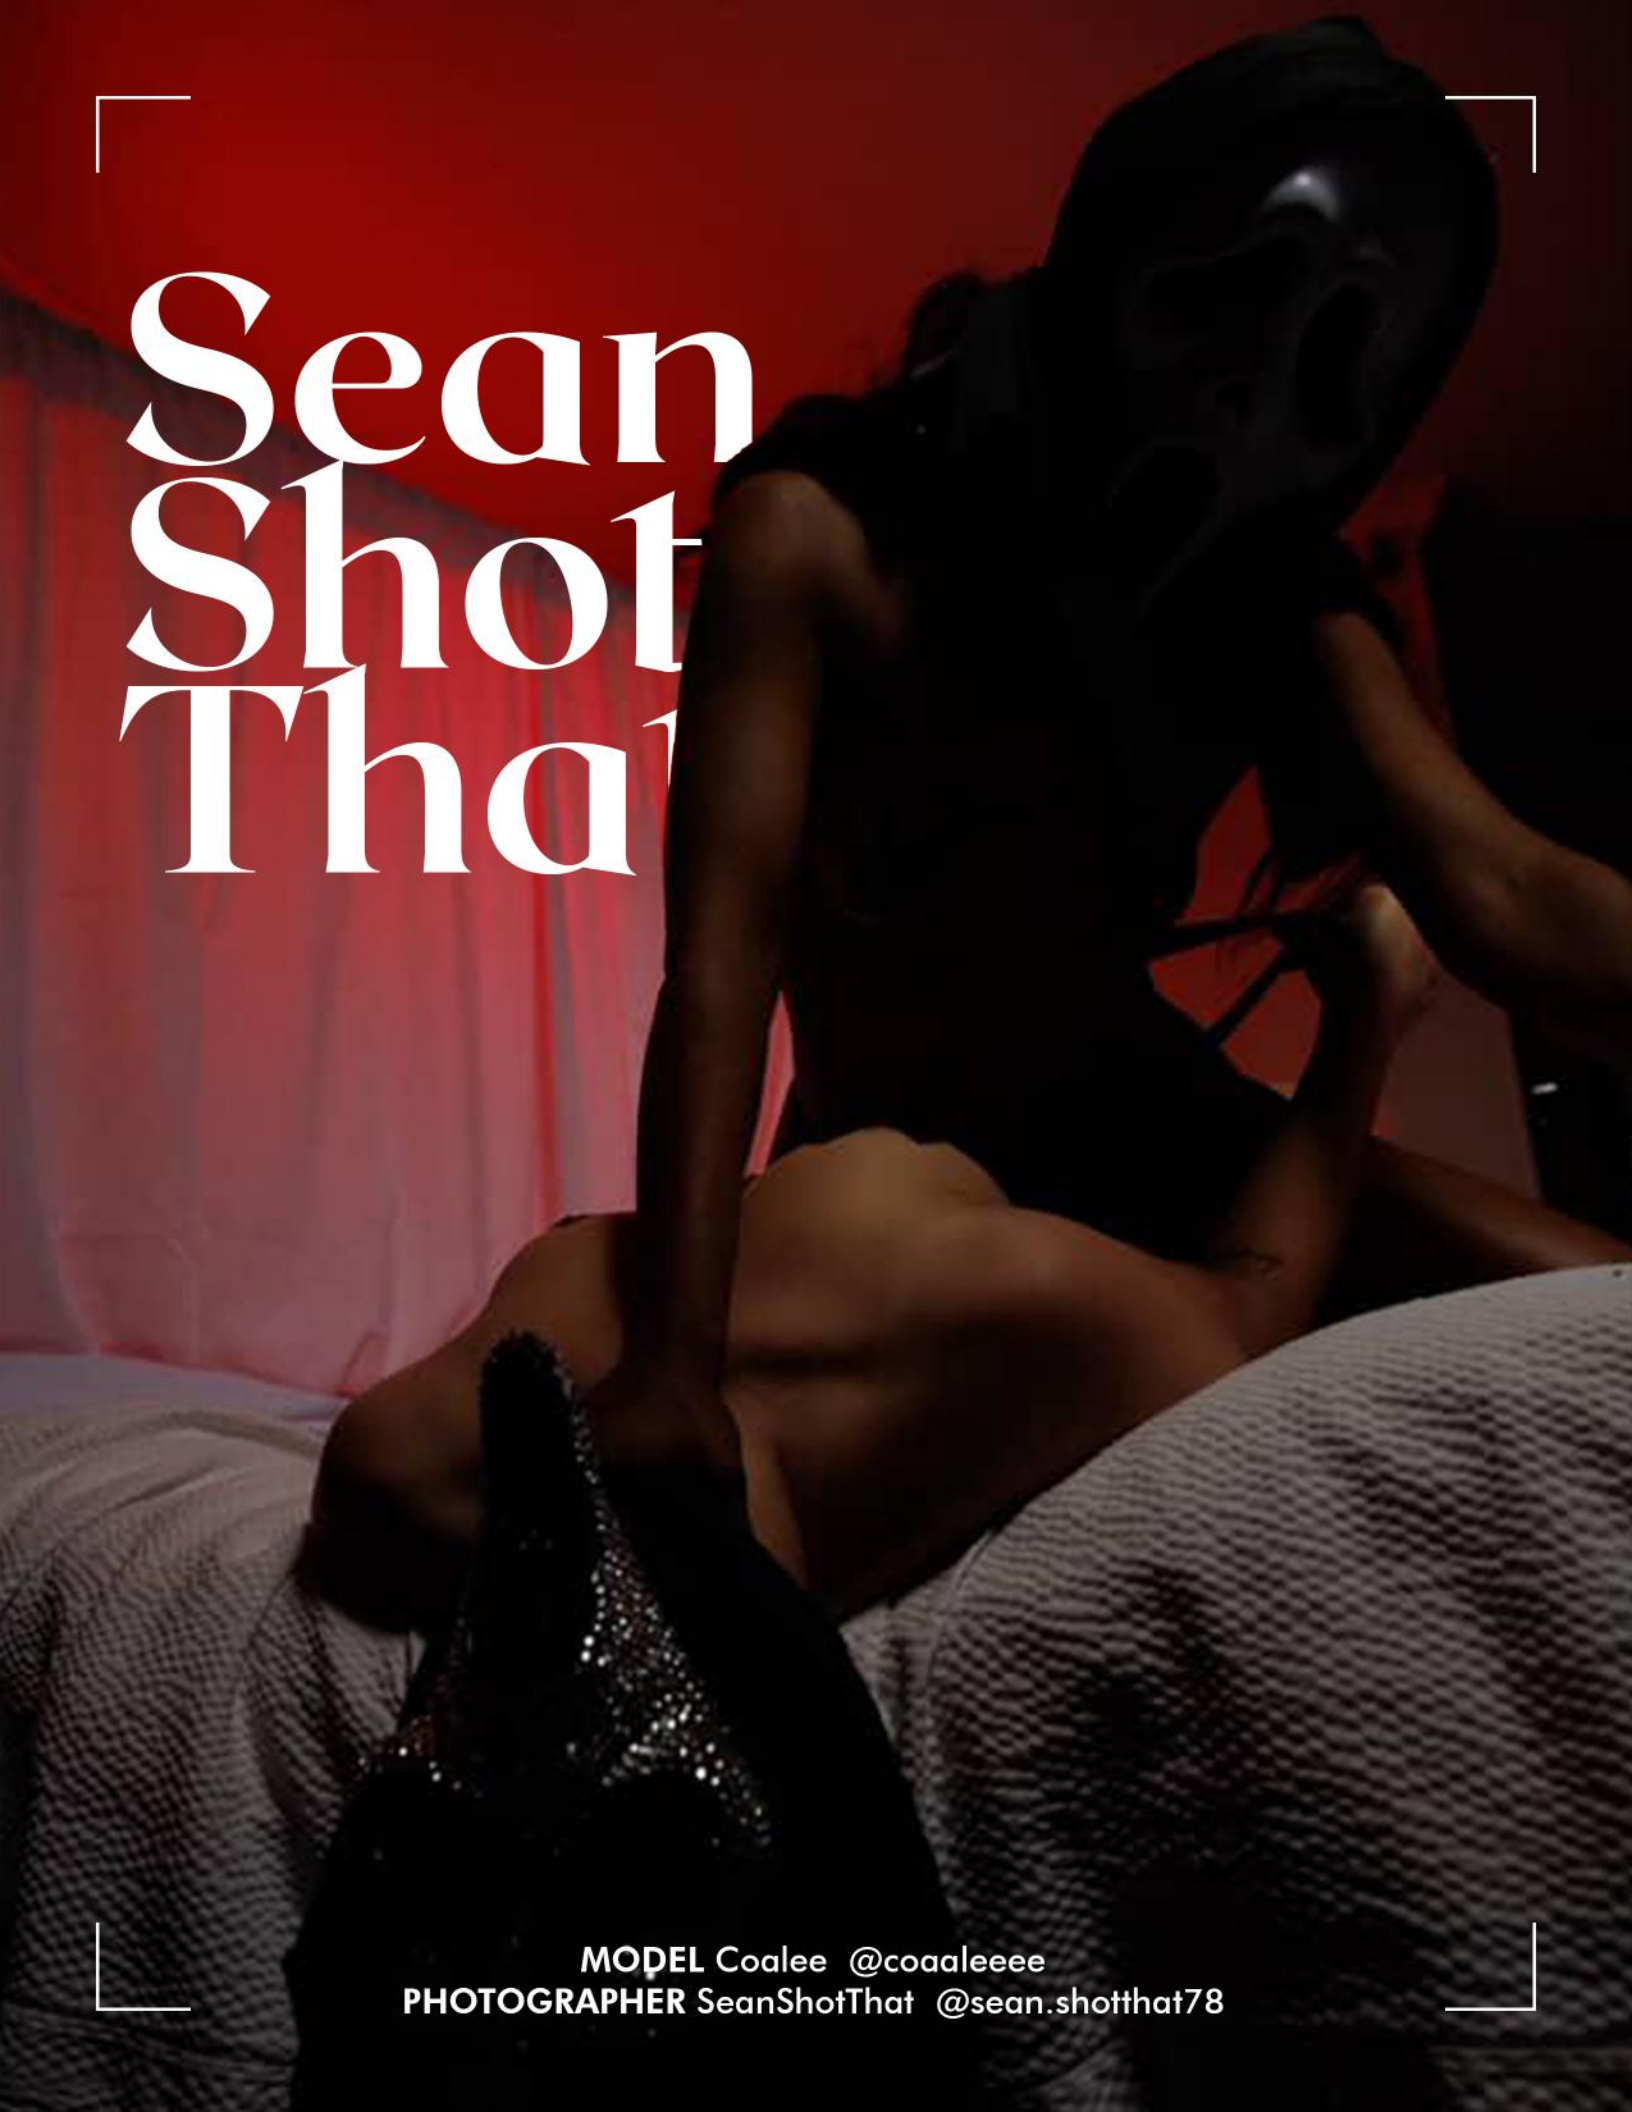

Q - If you have the power to share anything with the world, what would that be?

A - If I could share one thing with the world Confidence is a muscle—train it. Step into the light, claim your story, and document your legacy. Don't wait for permission; excellence is the permission. My mantra: Just keep shooting. Always Cinematic. Always Fresh.

Q - What are your goals for the near future and do you have any exciting projects which you want to share with all of the readers?

A - Near-future goals & what's next I'm expanding my Designer Spotlight series (recent features include Band RUNNAZ, and Outlaw Lote) and continuing to level up the Stage & Style visuals with a two-camera wireless "video village" plus POV integrations. I'm also rolling out a streamlined booking and "Pick Your Package" system on seanshotthat.com so clients can move from idea to green-lit shoot in minutes. Music-video work continues—bigger sets, tighter crews, cleaner pipelines. It's scale season.
