LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Kink is a funny thing because it means so many things to different people. At its most basic level, it can be a sobriquet for anything taboo, and that's largely what the mainstream (anecdotally speaking) sees kink as, primarily what people see or read about in Fifty Shades of Gray and other cultural touchstones. Technically, all forms of roleplay can be considered kink to some degree but I think the use of props or objects plays an important role when it comes to kink and fetish in particular, especially BDSM.

I like to think fetishes reside on a spectrum, or at the very least, a pyramid of subcategories one on top of the other, encapsulating a myriad of kinks, desires and fantasies. BDSM (bondage, domination, and sadomasochism) is what many associate with kink and fetish. At the base level, you have the primarily products of what makes up fetish category: your whips, your chains, your handcuffs, your blindfolds, your nipple clamps, and so forth (in this issue we have great articles on soft play and hard play that you should definitely check out).

Go one level above that and you have fetish products that are much more niche in terms of popularity but require some kind of specialized piece of equipment or device(s) to take part. These are your chastity cages, your sounding rods, your waterproof bedsheets, just to name a few. These products, while available in sex stores, consist of fetishes outside the typical mainstream (or in what this editor's humble opinion the public isn't as aware of). Chastity cages are largely worn by men where there's a significant power dynamic at play, gay or straight. Waterproof bedsheets can be used for watersports or nuru play. Sounding rods, well, those speak for themselves once you know what they are.

That said, I like to think there's a third category in there that uses everyday objects for fetish/kink outside of their intended purposes. Surgical gloves, enema bags, and various devices can be used for medplay; diapers, pacifiers, and baby clothes can be employed for DDLG and various age-regression kinks.

My point being is that kink in large part is what you make of it, as we'll see in the myriad of articles in this final 2024 issue of Pulse Magazine, as well as a profile on BodiSpi B2b, anorgasmia and tips on how to give a great blowjob.

pjur Supports the LGBTQIA+ Community

WASSERBILLIG, LXM – From June through the end of August, it was all about the rainbow at pjur. The premium personal lubricant manufacturer invited everyone to become a part of the rainbow and be true to their own, unique sexual identity with a special sachet card promotion and a competition on Instagram and TikTok. pjur chose to highlight the importance of diversity, inclusion, tolerance, empowerment, and self-actualization, as it publicized its slogan "Choose your colour of the rainbow."

pjur Team at CSD Parades - The pjur team greeted visitors to various CSD parades with a cheery "Happy Pride to everyone!" This year, the PR team mingled with the revelers in Luxembourg, Cologne, and Trier. Of course, they weren't just celebrating – they were also busy handing out sachet cards with three of the most popular products. People could test the premium personal lubricants and even take part in the competition. A Pride Box was up for grabs with travel-size versions of the popular pjur products pjur ORIGINAL, pjur WOMAN Nude, and pjur BACK DOOR Moisturising. The perfect companion for the summer.

Influencers Celebrate pjur's Pride Campaign - The campaign was supported for the whole month by German influencers. Hanna Sökeland and her partner Jessica Huber, from the dating show "Princess Charming" 2022, have long been fans of pjur's premium personal lubricants. This year again, both top influencers were there and advertised the competition on their social media channels. This time they were joined by Valencia Stöhr, the self-described "millionaire of passion," who took part in "Kampf der Realitystars" [Battle of the Reality Stars] this year. She presented the Pride Box in her unique and charming way, and revealed her favourite product: pjur BACK DOOR Moisturising.

pjur Supports Charities - pjur didn't just celebrate at the parades and on social media. It also supported several charities far beyond the Pride celebrations. Court Rules LELO Provided Incorrect and Misleading Information in Ongoing Patent Dispute in Satisfyer Case

GERMANY – On September 9, 2024, in preliminary injunction proceedings, the District Court of Hildesheim ruled in favour of EIS, confirming that LELO had included incorrect and misleading statements in a press release about the status of the infringement proceedings against LELO products.

As reported previously, on July 25, 2024, the Düsseldorf District Court ruled that the LELO's products - Sona, Sila, and Enigma - violate the patents of EIS GmbH. As a result, LELO is required to cease distributing the infringing products within the court's jurisdiction, provide EIS with information about all distributed products and its recipients, and pay damages for the distribution of patent-infringing products. Previously, on October 18, 2022, the European Patent Office had rejected the opposition filed by LELO Europe GmbH against EIS's patent. LELO has appealed both the decision of the European Patent Office and the Düsseldorf District Court.

Ignoring the status of the proceedings, in a press release LELO provided incorrect and misleading statements, including the following:

"Importantly, the German court did not review the patent with regard to its validity; LELO will challenge the patent on these grounds shortly."

"Accordingly, LELO customers and clients outside of Germany will not be impacted by this ruling in any manner whatsoever." In regard to the incorrect statements, firstly on October 18, 2022, the European Patent Office Opposition Division confirmed the validity of the patent EP '297 in question. Secondly, it is not unlikely that the courts in other jurisdictions will follow the German court ruling; LELO had not brought forward any counter-argument for this.

LELO has the right to file an immediate appeal against the Hildesheim court's preliminary injunction.

EIS is encouraged by the recent decision of the Hildesheim court to offer former distributors of our competitor LELO, as well as other companies that will respect our patent rights, the opportunity to collaborate with us in promoting and distributing our Satisfyer products.

What is Anorgasmia?

By Jacqueline Hill

Anorgasmia may sound like a word pulled out of thin air but for those who have this dreadful condition, it is anything but made up. Anorgasmia is simply defined as infrequent, delayed, less intense or the inability to orgasm. Try to imagine months, years or even decades of intimacy without a strong ability to reach orgasm or not climaxing at all! That's the life of around 30% of women, yeah you heard us right, 30%. Some studies have even shown up to half of women aren't happy with the climax frequency despite having an emotional connection with their partner, even combined with adequate and enjoyable sexual stimulation.

For those who don't suffer from this condition, it may be hard to imagine or understand what this is like. Imagine, being with your lover, intimately for 20 minutes and not reaching orgasm. You then breakout the shoe box under your bed filled with sex toys and another 20 minutes goes by and still you haven't had an orgasm or maybe you're lucky enough to have one after 40 minutes.

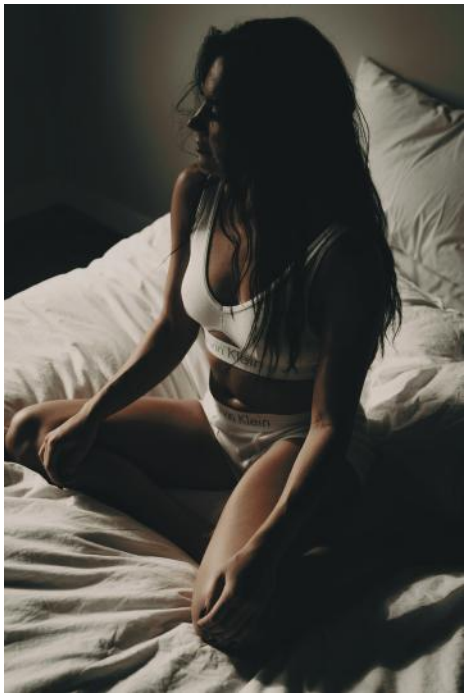

On average, studies have shown that it takes about 13 minutes for women to orgasm. These studies included women with and without anorgasmia. Some women were able to climax in 30 seconds while others took 30-40 minutes or more. Guess which women have anorgasmia? There's no need to worry as there is hope, which we will discuss later on.

Men as well as women can suffer from this ailment. Men suffering from anorgasmia will have a long-delayed orgasm and may take up to an hour to ejaculate. However, this article will focus on the female side of this medical condition. Although the inability to orgasm may be a simple way of describing this condition, anorgasmia is a simple name for female orgasmic disorders.

TYPES OF ANORGASMIA

PRIMARY

Women who have never had the pleasure of experiencing an orgasm. Did you know that surveys have shown that 10% of women have never experienced orgasm? If you don't know if you've had one, then you have not. It's a shame that so many women have never experienced an orgasm. Those most likely to have the primary type of anorgasmia may be younger and less sexually experienced or perhaps may have been brought up in a more sexually-repressed household where sex is dirty or perceived as wrong due to cultural or religious beliefs.

SECONDARY

Women who at one time were able to reach orgasm but no longer can, or cannot reach orgasm with a partner and only through masturbation.

There can be several causes of anorgasmia:

- Medications such as anti-depressants, specifically SSRI's, anti-psychotics, blood pressure medications and antihistamines. When men have premature ejaculation, one treatment is to give them a dose of anti-depressants. Imagine the result if you need a larger dose of anti-depressants due to actual depression?
- Women in menopause or even going through menopause can experience anorgasmia.
- Natural childbirth can cause reduced sexual sensations.
- Women who have been sexually abused or assaulted can suffer from anorgasmia.

Anorgasmia, regardless of which type or cause, leads to sexual anxiety, sexual distress and undue pressure to orgasm. Sex should be exciting and enjoyable, and anxiety and stress should have no place in the bedroom or any other room for that matter.

So, what can be done about anorgasmia? Is there a cure? Is there a treatment? Is there anything one can do to alleviate the symptoms, and once again or for the first time enjoy orgasming? The simple answer is yes! Each type and each cause of anorgasmia may have different solutions and in some cases it may require a combination of solutions, so let's dive right in.

Women in menopause can contact their OBGYN and talk to their doctor about possible hormone replacement therapy. This type of therapy needs to be monitored carefully by your doctor. We feel all those who suffer with this condition, especially those who have had some sort of sexual trauma in their past, should simultaneously seek treatment and therapy, such as counseling from a licensed therapist specializing in sex and or trauma. Medication should not be lowered without the approval of your doctor. However, there's hope using sex toys.

There's one sex toy based on customer opinion that rises above the rest and is better at relieving the symptoms of anorgasmia than any other. That toy is called Celebrator. So many Celebrator owners have expressed their joy and relief at being able to experience an orgasm easily for the first time in years or ever! The reason Celebrator is a better option for symptom relief is due to its unique way of sexual stimulation that is more intense than your standard vibrator. You see, Celebrator does not vibrate or suck your C-spot. Instead it oscillates providing pleasure that is more intense and stronger which is what is needed to produce orgasms in those suffering from anorgasmia.

Therefore, if you or a loved are one looking for relief and wants to begin orgasming again, or for the first time, Celebrator is a life-changing option to reduce or eliminate the symptoms of anorgasmia.

Top 10 Ways to Give a Gourmet Blow Job

By Sara Gaffoor

1. Begin by gently blindfolding your partner, which will heighten their senses and anticipation. Then, take a bullet vibrator and place it carefully underneath the perineum, just below the testicles. This area is incredibly sensitive and responsive to stimulation. As the vibrator hums against this spot, your partner will experience a thrilling and intense sensation that can be incredibly pleasurable. The combination of being blindfolded and feeling the vibrations will amplify their arousal and create a truly unforgettable experience, potentially leading to toe-curling pleasure. I highly recommend.

2. Enhancing your foreplay or treating your partner to something special is always a wonderful idea, particularly when you introduce a touch of naughty excitement to your intimate moments. Delve into bondage by using handcuffs to secure your partner, allowing them to trust you and surrender to their vulnerability. This is the start of something really sexy. Using other elements of bondage will only increase the gourmet aspect. Using nipple clamps gives a session in the nipple area where it can be really sensitive. Using a flogger lightly on the skin can enhance the sensation and, while you already have this enticing tool in your hand, try a whipping motion to add a touch of intensity. (Try Bondage by Nasstoys Whip, Feathers & Cuffs).

3. Derrière play is always magnifique. Back-door play can be incredibly pleasurable for several reasons. While you focus on stimulating the front, using a P-spot toy in the back can provide additional arousal and pleasure. This type of toy targets the prostate, enhancing sensations and leading to a harder erection. Moreover, the combination of front and back stimulation can result in an intensified orgasm, delivering an explosive and highly satisfying experience for your partner. This particular toy comes with a remote. Now all you need to figure out is who gets the remote! (Try Ass-Ssation Remove Vibrating P-Spot Plug-Back).

4. To kick off an enticing session of intimate encounters, incorporating foreplay is essential—it's the icing on the cake. An enhanced vibrating cock ring can elevate the experience for both partners. This toy doesn't just vibrate for the receiver's pleasure. It also stimulates the giver. Its thoughtful design cups the testicles, and the tiny wiggly bits intensify the vibrations, creating a more impactful sensation. With multiple vibration patterns to choose from, I highly recommend experimenting with them all to discover your favorite. When the mood strikes, hop on and feel the vibrations yourself. This toy truly offers a win-win for both participants, ensuring a deeply satisfying experience.

5. I like to call this the ultimate "BJ Helper"! This innovative device both vibes and strokes, adding a new dimension to your intimate moments. If your partner isn't into vibrations, you can use it without turning on the vibrating function, but I highly recommend giving it a try—it makes everything more fun. Not only will this gadget enhance your gourmet BJ experience, but it will also take on some of the work for you. As the fabulous Samantha Jones from "Sex and the City" said, "They don't call it a job for nothing." This handy tool is perfect for those days when you want to take it easy, yet still provide an amazing experience. Using this toy in a stroking motion offers not just pleasure for your partner, but also a surprising benefit for you: an arm workout! It's like having your cake and eating it too, combining pleasure and exercise. Trust me, this little device will transform your intimate moments, making them more enjoyable and effortless for both you and your partner. (Try the Dynamo Vibrating Masturbator Cylinder).

6. This vibrating tool is perfect for the advanced and adventurous. Its innovative design is crafted to specifically stimulate key erogenous zones. Use this as a stroker when your partner is aroused and ready. When it's your turn to indulge in a gourmet blow job, stroke this tool under the testicles to stimulate the perineum. Don't forget to include plenty of water-based lube for a smoother experience. To make it even more enjoyable, choose your favourite flavoured lube—I'd go for birthday cake flavour! This way, you can truly have your cake and eat it too, making the experience even more delightful for both you and your partner.

7. It's mini, it's cute, but don't let its size fool you—this little device packs a serious punch with its 10 different functions. For the ultimate experience, set it to the highest intensity and get ready for some fun. When you get on your knees, let your passion shine through. By placing this powerful bullet vibe near your partner's tush and cranking it up to the max, you'll deliver strong external vibrations that reach deep inside. The intensity of this device is so remarkable that your partner will feel the vibrations stimulating their prostate without any need for internal penetration. This provides a unique and thrilling way to enjoy prostate pleasure, making it a fantastic addition to your intimate moments.

8. If your partner isn't into red meat or if you're looking to switch things up from the classic steak and a blow job, why not try something sweet paired with oral pleasure? Encourage your partner to savour a soft, decadent and delicious treat, taking their time to truly indulge in the flavours. While their taste buds are being delighted by the sweet treat, you can simultaneously provide some downtown action. This combination of culinary and intimate stimulation is a fantastic way to elevate the experience and deliver a truly gourmet blow job. The interplay of delicious flavors and sensual pleasure creates a unique and memorable experience for both of you, making it a perfect way to add some variety and excitement to your intimate moments, I strongly suggest chocolate mousse, or crème brulé.

9. Have you ever experimented with hot and cold play? If not, it's definitely worth a try. On hot days, consider combining popsicles with a blow job for an incredibly refreshing and exciting experience. The cool sensation of a popsicle in your mouth adds a thrilling new element to your partner's pleasure. As you move from the shaft to the testicles, the cooling effect will create a unique and stimulating sensation that your partner is sure to love. This playful approach not only adds variety to your intimate moments but also helps to keep things fun and adventurous. The contrast between the heat of the day and the coolness of the popsicle makes for an unforgettable experience, allowing both of you to enjoy a refreshing and sensual encounter.

10. Grab your headphones and perhaps even a blindfold for an immersive sensory experience. With your partner's favourite playlist playing in their ears, they can fully escape into their own world of sound while you focus on providing a blow job. This combination of auditory and oral stimulation creates a deeply sensual experience, elevating the intimate encounter to a gourmet level. The blend of captivating music and skilled attention down below ensures that your partner enjoys a top-notch, indulgent treatment that's both thrilling and memorable.

BodiSpa B2B: 40 Years and Still Going Strong

In this issue's distributor profile we speak with Karalyne Fosty, Creative Director for BodiSpa B2B and its product brand Nobu Toys, to see what they attribute their forty-plus track record for success.

TELL US A BIT ABOUT THE HISTORY OF BODISPA. HOW DID THE COMPANY GET STARTED?

Bodispa's story first began back in the 80s when our CEO and founder, Alain Elmaleh, seized the unique opportunity of selling adult films out of the back of his van to various video retailers across Canada. Armed with a background in business and a passion for entrepreneurship, Alain quickly discovered the untapped potential of the Canadian pleasure product industry, consequently leading him to embark on a 40-year long journey to build his own retail empire.

What began as strategically opening up adult stores across the then underserved East Coast region rapidly led to the growth of both our retail and wholesale division. Today Bodispa B2B supplies hundreds of e-commerce sites, sexual educators and brick-and-mortar stores nationwide.

In 2013, the company decided to expand once again, this time focusing on product development and design. Leveraging the success of our retail stores and our flourishing wholesale division, we gained unique insights that allowed us to identify the need for more diverse and inclusive play products in the industry. With these insights, Nobü was born, quickly becoming an internationally recognized sex toy brand notorious for product quality, affordability and design.

WHAT HAVE BEEN THE BIGGEST CHALLENGES SINCE BODISPA'S INCEPTION?

Despite being a wholesaler, retailer and international sex toy brand, our headquarters still operates like a small-scale business. On one hand, this comes with a ton of advantages, as our team is deeply involved in all aspects of the business, from product testing to customer service. On the other hand, we don't necessarily have the same resources as some of our larger competitors. This at times has been a bit of a challenge, especially when it comes to expanding our reach beyond the Canadian market.

That being said, over the last year, we've made significant strides in developing partnerships with major distributors across North America and Europe, boosting brand recognition and building valuable relationships along the way. We've also been working hard to optimize our retailer support by shifting more of our resources online.

WHAT HAVE BEEN SOME MAJOR MILESTONES FOR BODISPA OVER THE YEARS?

When it comes to our wholesale division, we've hit some pretty big milestones that have elevated the company in ways we never thought imaginable. We've been able to secure distro deals with a bunch of new, up-and-coming brands, ultimately establishing ourselves as a leader in product selection and variety. We are also big on supporting Canadian Brands like "Zuice" and "No More Wet Spot", making Canadian-made products more accessible to our clientele. Currently we carry more than 5000 SKUs and 50+ name brands, making us one of the largest sex toy wholesalers in Canada.

As for Nobü, over the past year, not only have we secured multiple nominations for product development and design, but we were picked up by a few major distributors including Eldorado and Europartner. Thanks to these partnerships, we've been able to make a significant impact on the North American and European markets, expanding our reach as a brand. Nobü products are now available in more than stores worldwide, which is a pretty remarkable achievement given the size of our operation. Personally, I am incredibly proud of what we've been able to accomplish as a brand, and it's all thanks to the commitment, passion and dedication of our team.

WHAT DO YOU SEE AS THE BIGGEST DEVELOPMENTS FOR THE INDUSTRY?

Definitely the tech, and not just in terms of apps and functionality, but also the materials and variety of toys available as well. We've come a long way from the days of see-through jelly vibrators. The current selection of toys on the market coupled with their diverse capabilities is absolutely incredible. The creativity and innovation that I get to witness on a daily basis never ceases to amaze me. It's very clear the industry has evolved alongside the ways in which people view pleasure.

One size no longer fits all, and I believe this has been – and will continue to be – a vital part of the pleasure product industry, especially as the conversation about sex continues to become less stigmatized, gender becomes more fluid and kinks become more mainstream. With the advancements in technology, we are no longer limited by the boundaries of our imagination, and this has done wonders for product development in the adult toy industry.

WHERE DO YOU THINK THE INDUSTRY IS HEADED?

Inspired by the success of wearable fitness trackers and smartwatches, I expect to see more and more companies integrating biometric feedback into their pleasure products as the technology continues to evolve. We're talking toys that are not only able to read physiological cues like your heartbeat, but products that are able to learn from and adapt to your unique preferences over time by analyzing real-time biometric data and predicting your needs based on past interactions. These smart toys would have the potential to remember patterns, preferences and even small variations in physiological responses, ultimately creating a custom-tailored experience that becomes more intuitive with each use.

Additionally, this type of tech could play a huge role in improving partner synchronization. By integrating AI into toys that already have companion apps, partners could receive real-time feedback based on biometric data, enabling them to adjust devices or techniques to maximize mutual pleasure. With AI-driven insights, partners could better understand each other's intimate responses, making sex not just more satisfying but also more connected and informed. We're already seeing these types of products crop up, and I predict they will only become more popular as the technology evolves.

MAJOR RETAILERS HAVE BEEN EMBRACING AND SELLING SEXUAL WELLNESS PRODUCTS. HAS THIS HELPED THE INDUSTRY, AND BODISPA IN PARTICULAR?

As societal views on sexual health become more transparent, it's only natural to see major retailers embrace the trend of carrying sexual health products. Do I think the staff at these types of chains are as informed and as helpful as specialized boutiques? No. However, I do believe that making these products more accessible to the general public is important. It's really a bit of a double-edged sword. On one hand, having big-name retailers carry intimate products helps de-stigmatize the industry and increase visibility, which has certainly benefited both Nobü and our wholesale division. In fact, select Nobü products are available at Rexall pharmacies across Canada, which has significantly boosted brand recognition and customer familiarity.

On the other hand, one of the biggest challenges that Canadian retailers face is that boutique pricing often cannot compete with large-scale retailers. That's why adhering to MAP pricing is crucial. As long as brands maintain a firm stance on pricing when collaborating with major retailers, there's room for everyone to succeed. The situation only becomes problematic when brands offer special discounts to big-name retailers that boutiques simply can't match. That is why maintaining fair pricing across the board is key to ensuring a healthy balance between accessibility while still supporting smaller, specialized shops.

WHAT ARE YOUR BEST-SELLING PRODUCT LINES AND CATEGORIES?

Unsurprisingly, suction toys are still a strong front-runner when it comes to consumer popularity, however lately we've been seeing a lot of success with our "Beasties" collection. These toys never seem to go out of style thanks to their simplicity and effectiveness. Harness compatible and available in a variety of shapes, colours and sizes, these multipurpose toys cater to a wide range of users, making them perfect for both solo and partner play. Naturally, when you combine that functionality with fun, fantastical shapes, it's easy to see why fantasy dongs are one of our most popular product categories. Whether people gravitate toward them for their shock value or are simply intrigued by the thrill of mythological, intergalactic appendages, fantasy dongs can deliver some pretty unique sensations while encouraging people to explore new kinks and add some spark to their sex lives. They're also great for adult content, making these unique designs a top choice for retailers seeking to expand their fantasy offerings while adding visual appeal to their product lineup.

WHAT CAN WE EXPECT FROM BODISPA IN THE FUTURE?

In the post-pandemic landscape, the importance of robust customer support, comprehensive training and providing a variety of selection of products has never been greater for driving customer loyalty and business growth. We recognize the importance of education and hands-on experience, so we are expanding our product training programs to ensure our clients are well equipped to maximize sales and customer satisfaction. Additionally, we are focusing on delivering more value through special promotions, offering testers, demos and gift-with-purchase programs to help retailers boost their sales and offer attractive deals to our customers. These initiatives aim to strengthen relationships and drive mutual growth within our network.

Looking ahead to 2025, Bodispa B2B is excited to continue growing our in-house line of sexual health-and-wellness products, while acquiring new and exciting brands to add to our wholesale line-up. We are also in the process of developing a unique Caribbean retreat for our wholesale clients that will serve as an exclusive opportunity for Canadian customers to explore the latest products, participate in immersive training and network with industry leaders, ultimately reaffirming our commitment to empowering our clients with the tools and knowledge they need in order to thrive.

do+dare undie co. Looks to Disrupt North America's Undewear Market

Pulse Magazine* had the esteemed pleasure of interviewing the founders and owners of do+dare undie co., Rob (second to the left) and Sarah (left) whose apparel company and brand, do+dare undie co. is looking to disrupt the well-established North American underwear market.

For those that don't already know, why don't you tell us about do+dare undie co. and your products?
At do+dare undie co., we believe your underwear should make you feel as bold and confident as you are. Our products are made from eco-certified bamboo fabric that's incredibly soft and breathable, designed to keep you comfortable while also helping you express your unique style. With vibrant colours and thoughtful designs, our undies bring luxury and fun to your everyday routine. Whether you opt for our simple, beautifully made basics or personalize a pair with your own flair, our mission is to help you feel good inside and out!

Why don't you talk about the origins of do+dare, how the company got started, and what was the genesis for wanting to start an underwear company?
do+dare undie co. was born from a shared passion for creativity and adventure. Rob, with his engineering background, and Sarah, as a teacher, were both driven by a desire to build something meaningful that would bring joy into people's lives. They wanted to create something that combined craftsmanship with a sense of fun and individuality. Underwear was the perfect fit—it's personal, it's something everyone needs, and it offered endless opportunities to get creative. At its core, do+dare is about making something simple, like underwear, feel special, empowering people to express themselves and embrace life's little adventures.

How is do+dare able to differentiate its brand in a saturated apparel market?
We set ourselves apart by focusing on quality, sustainability and self-expression. Our undies are crafted from the softest bamboo-based fabric, which is softer and more breathable than traditional materials, making them perfect for all-day comfort. We also manufacture everything locally in the USA and Canada, which ensures ethical production practices and supports local jobs. On top of that, our bold colours and the option for full customization allow our customers to create something that's truly their own. It's this mix of sustainability, craftsmanship, and individuality that makes do+dare stand out in a crowded market.

What about specific to other big brand underwear companies out there? How are you able to compete? What sets you apart?
Unlike many of the big brands that focus on mass production, we take a more thoughtful approach, making each pair of undies with care. Our bamboo fabric, chosen for its eco-friendly properties and amazing comfort, sets us apart from the pack. While most brands produce overseas, we manufacture everything locally, ensuring high-quality craftsmanship and ethical practices. Where others may stick to a few standard designs, we offer bold colour options and personalization to allow people to express themselves in a fun, unique way. We don't just sell underwear, we provide an adventurous personal experience.

Can you speak to the sustainability commitment of your products?
Sustainability is at the core of what we do. Our undies are made from eco-certified bamboo, which is not only super soft but also a much more sustainable choice compared to traditional materials like cotton. Bamboo grows quickly, needs less water, and is naturally renewable. We also manufacture locally in the USA and Canada, which reduces our carbon footprint and supports fair-wage jobs. Additionally, through our partnership with 1% for the Planet, we give back to environmental causes with every sale. Sustainability isn't just a part of our story, it's woven into every pair we make.

In the years since you've started the company, what kind of growth have you seen in terms of sales?
We've experienced exciting growth, especially in our plain, bare undies. While our customization options remain popular, more and more customers are gravitating toward our beautifully crafted, super-comfortable basics. People are realizing that treating themselves to luxurious, eco-friendly underwear can really enhance their everyday routine. The softness and quality of our bamboo fabric, combined with the care we put into each pair, make them the ultimate treat-yourself purchase. It's this growing demand for high-quality, sustainable basics that's been driving much of our sales growth.

Whose idea was it for the personalized underwear, and how much of your current business does that represent?
The idea for personalized underwear came naturally as part of our mission to encourage bold self-expression. While personalization remains a unique and popular feature of our brand, our best-sellers are now the plain, bare undies. People are choosing to indulge in the luxurious feel of our eco-friendly bamboo fabric, enjoying the comfort and simplicity of a well-crafted pair. That said, the option to customize still allows our customers to create something special for themselves or someone they care about, making it a meaningful way to add a personal touch.

There seems to be a fun energy to your products. How do you come up with so many ideas, and what are your biggest sellers?
The ideas come from everywhere—friends, family and even from fun conversations we have with people who inspire us along the way. At do+dare, we're all about living life boldly and bringing that energy into everything we do. As for best-sellers, our plain undies made from eco-certified bamboo are a customer favorite. They're incredibly soft, comfortable, and offer that little bit of everyday luxury that people are craving. Of course, our bold colours and custom options still draw people looking to add some extra fun to their underwear drawer.

What are some of the biggest challenges or misconceptions about owning a sex toy company/manufacturer?
While do+dare is focused on underwear, the challenge of breaking misconceptions around intimate products is still relevant. One of the most rewarding aspects of what we do is seeing how something as simple as personalized underwear can create deeper connections between people. Whether it's adding a custom message for a partner or treating yourself to something luxurious, these intimate touches can turn everyday moments into something special. It's not just about the product, it's about how it enhances confidence, connection and joy in those moments.

What are do+dare's plans for the product/company in the near future?
We're excited to keep expanding our collection with new styles that focus on comfort, sustainability and luxury. We plan to introduce more designs that cater to different lifestyles, while continuing to prioritize our luxurious bamboo-based fabric for its softness and environmental benefits. While customization remains a key part of who we are, we're focusing more on offering options that allow people to feel their best every day. We're also looking forward to growing our presence, both online and through select retail partnerships, so we can bring do+dare's unique blend of style and sustainability to even more people.

Understanding Impact Play: Sensory Exploration and Safe Practices

Impact play involves striking the body with hands, paddles, floggers, canes or other objects designed to create a combination of physical sensation and psychological arousal. For many, the experience blends pleasure with pain, creating a heightened awareness of the body. Exploring this fetish goes beyond mere physicality—it's about trust, boundaries and communication between partners. Impact play can offer a unique combination of sensation, control and emotional connection that can deepen the bond between participants, offering a transformative experience when done with care.

TOOLS OF THE TRADE

Each tool in impact play offers a different sensation, from the sharp sting of a cane to the thuddy impact of a paddle. Floggers, with their multiple tails, can deliver a wide variety of sensations depending on how they are wielded, from soft strokes that barely touch the skin to hard lashes that leave marks. The choice of tool matters, as does the material—leather, wood, rubber, and silicone each bring unique textures and intensities. For example, leather is often prized for its smooth yet substantial feel, while silicone can deliver sharper, more defined impacts. Understanding the distinctions in sensation, control and aftereffects that each material brings allows players to select the tools best suited to their preferences.

» Paddles: Known for their versatility, paddles can vary in size and material, producing anything from a gentle slap to a resounding smack. Flat paddles distribute the impact over a larger area, reducing the likelihood of injury, while smaller or studded paddles offer more intense, targeted sensations. Some paddles come with cutouts, which can leave temporary designs on the skin, adding a visual element to the experience. Wood paddles tend to deliver harder, more resonant strikes, while leather paddles offer a more moderate thud.

> "At its core, impact play offers a unique blend of physical intensity and psychological connection. For many, the appeal lies in the release of endorphins—the body's natural painkillers—triggered by the sensation of being struck. These chemicals create a natural high, often leaving the receiver in a state of euphoria or "subspace," where they feel relaxed, blissful, and connected to their partner."

» Floggers: With multiple soft or firm tails, floggers can deliver everything from a light caress to a heavy thud, depending on the speed and force applied. Skilled users knows how to adjust their movements to maintain control and adjust sensations. The wide variety of flogger styles—from soft suede tails to stiff rubber—makes them one of the most customizable impact tools, catering to the preferences of both the top and bottom. Using a flogger with finesse takes time and practice, as well as a sensitivity to the body's responses.

» Whips and Canes: These tools, often used by more experienced practitioners, create sharp, precise strikes that can result in welts or bruises. They are highly visual and can be psychologically intimidating, adding to the thrill for both giver and receiver. Canes, in particular, are known for delivering quick, stingy strikes, while whips are more challenging to control, requiring practice to avoid unintentional injury. The appeal of canes and whips often lies in their psychological intensity as much as their physical impact—players who enjoy a sense of daring or risk might be especially drawn to these tools.

SENSORY LAYERING AND VARIETY

Impact play is often combined with other forms of sensory play to enhance the overall experience. For instance, blindfolding the bottom can heighten their anticipation and focus their awareness on physical sensations. Adding temperature play, such as using ice or heated objects before or after impact, introduces new dimensions to the experience. By layering various sensations, impact play becomes a richer, more intricate practice, where different forms of stimulation can complement and amplify each other.

THE ROLE OF CONSENT AND COMMUNICATION

Consent is the foundation of all impact play. Before engaging, partners must clearly communicate their limits, desires and expectations. This conversation includes discussing safe words—prearranged signals to immediately stop or adjust the play if necessary. Clear communication builds trust, allowing for deeper exploration and more intense experiences. Without mutual understanding, impact play can become dangerous, making consent non-negotiable. Trust is paramount in this dynamic, especially when one partner is being placed in a vulnerable position.

» Safe Words and Signals: Safe words often follow the "traffic light" system: "green" to continue, "yellow" to slow down or ease up, and "red" to stop. Non-verbal signals can be just as effective, particularly if the submissive is gagged or unable to speak clearly. In such cases, hand signals or holding an object that can be dropped to signal distress can ensure safety even without verbal communication.

NOISELESS

What is the New Womanizer Vibe?

The first noiseless, clitoral vibrator offering a new kind of stimulation with Womanizer's new UltraWave Vibration. This technology offers deep, rumbly, vibrations for orgasms without overstimulation.

Its unique shape is specifically designed to enhance your pleasure, with various stimulation points to explore versatile vibrations. Thanks to the linear motor, you will not hear the toy in action meaning no distractions just pure pleasure.

UltraWave Vibration explained

Experience UltraWave Vibration, the revolutionary technology that combines low-frequency, rumbly vibrations with 10 powerful, harmonic resonances. Featuring a linear motor, Vibe provides a smooth, enriched sensation that heightens your senses and elevates your orgasmic journey without overstimulation.

Compared to standard vibration, UltraWave vibration doesn't numb the target area. UltraWave vibration gives you all the pleasure without the discomfort.

Sylvain's Opinion on the VIBE

Often in advertisements, some words used are making something seem better than it really is. But when we say Vibe is SILENT, we mean it's TRULY SILENT—I guarantee it.

The VIBE is a clitoral vibrator, and yes, it's a Womanizer, but it doesn't use suction; it vibrates.

The VIBE is designed with an ergonomic angle to ensure optimal comfort, and what's even better is its new type of vibration called UltraWave. This unique vibration doesn't numb but rather heightens sensations in the best possible way.

IN CONCLUSION: It's a Womanizer that delivers vibrations in complete silence and with absolute comfort.

» Negotiation: Before the scene begins, partners should negotiate limits—how far they're willing to go, areas of the body to avoid, and whether marks or bruises are acceptable. These discussions should also include preferred tools, intensity levels and emotional boundaries. The top (the person delivering the blows) should always check in with the bottom (the person receiving) both during and after play to ensure well-being. Negotiation creates a space for both partners to voice their needs and concerns, fostering a safer environment for exploring intense sensations.

THE APPEAL OF IMPACT PLAY

At its core, impact play offers a unique blend of physical intensity and psychological connection. For many, the appeal lies in the release of endorphins—the body's natural painkillers—triggered by the sensation of being struck. These chemicals create a natural high, often leaving the receiver in a state of euphoria or "subspace," where they feel relaxed, blissful, and connected to their partner. Subspace, in particular, is a state of heightened emotional and physical surrender, where sensations feel more profound and time seems to slow down.

On the other side, tops experience a rush of power and control, carefully balancing intensity with care for their partner. The dance between dominance and submission heightens the overall experience for both parties. Impact play often satisfies the desire for power dynamics, where the exchange of control deepens emotional intimacy. The ability to communicate without words, through physical sensations, builds a unique connection between partners.

» Building Intensity: Experienced practitioners understand that impact play is not about going full force right away. It's about building sensation over time, gradually increasing intensity until both partners reach a desired peak. This approach prevents injury and allows for more sustainable play. The warm-up period is particularly important, as it helps the body acclimate to the sensation and avoids shock. A gradual build-up also enhances the psychological aspects of impact play, increasing anticipation and heightening the pleasure/pain threshold.

» Endorphin Highs and "Subspace": For those on the receiving end, the release of endorphins during impact play can create a natural high, leading to an altered state of consciousness known as subspace. In this state, the submissive may feel detached from reality, euphoric and deeply connected to their dominant. However, subspace can be intense, and coming down from this state requires careful attention to emotional needs, which is where aftercare plays a critical role.

SAFETY AND AFTERCARE

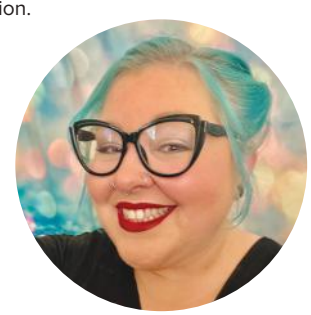

Impact play can leave both physical and emotional marks, making aftercare essential. Aftercare involves caring for the body and mind once the scene has ended, ensuring both partners feel safe, connected, and cared for. Aftercare is not only about addressing the physical effects of impact play but also the emotional and psychological aftershocks. The transition from intense play to everyday interaction can feel disorienting without proper care.

» Physical Aftercare: Cooling down hot or reddened skin with ice packs, applying soothing creams, and providing water or snacks can help bring both partners back to reality. In some cases, light massage or applying a soft, warm blanket can offer comfort, easing the body's return from heightened sensation. Special attention should be paid to bruises or welts, ensuring they are treated appropriately to avoid long-term damage.

» Emotional Aftercare: For many, the psychological drop after an intense scene can feel overwhelming. Cuddling, reassuring conversation and reaffirming the connection between partners help mitigate this. For some, aftercare may involve discussing the scene in detail to process emotions or simply being held and comforted in silence. Emotional care is as important as tending to physical wounds, and taking time to nurture each other after the scene reinforces trust and intimacy.

A DEEPLY SATISFYING EXPLORATION

With the right combination of trust, communication and exploration, impact play can be a deeply satisfying part of BDSM and fetish play, offering partners a path to connect through shared intensity and pleasure. By fostering mutual respect and understanding, impact play moves beyond physical sensation and becomes a means of emotional connection, allowing partners to explore their desires and boundaries in a safe, consensual space. The blend of physicality, psychology and emotional care makes impact play a deeply nuanced practice, rich with potential for connection and exploration.

Electro Stimulation
Selling Electro-Sex With Confidence

By Claire Blakeborough

Historically, electro-sex has mainly been associated with the BDSM and kink communities, but at ElectraStim we seek to cater for all parts of the e-stim experience spectrum: experienced hardcore enthusiasts, curious newbies and everyone in between. In the last few years, we've seen a huge increase in people visiting our website with basic search terms such as 'what is electro sex' so we know that more beginners are finding us where perhaps they haven't before.

The challenge comes when a potential customer has heard the term 'electro sex' somewhere, but they have no clue what it is and why anyone would use it? Understanding technically what electro sex is, is often not enough when it comes to selling it to a customer. Being confident of how to describe the sensations and being able to liken it to something they're familiar with is a huge benefit to retailers.

To refresh the basics; electro sex is the pleasurable stimulation of your nerve endings and surrounding tissue using an electrical current. You might also hear it called 'e-stim', 'EES' or 'electro stim'. If you've not already tried e-stim, then you might be familiar with a TENS unit (for pain management), which works on some of the same principles.

Erotic Electro Stimulation takes this technology and applies this to devices and accessories that are specially engineered to provide an interesting range of pleasurable sensations. Electro sex toys are a safe, fun and unique way to experiment with different types of stimulation simply not possible with more 'traditional' types of sex toys.

To explain it further, all sensations come from the activation of nerve endings in our skin and throughout our bodies. A vibrator for example will stimulate these nerve endings by physically shaking the surface of the skin and surrounding tissue. This is obviously a lot of fun but where e-stim differs is that it safely penetrates the skin and tissue to directly target the nerve endings and take a direct route to the brain. This means that all sensations will be felt more intensely, and your muscles often contract pleasurably at higher levels.

But what does electro sex feel like? The beauty of this type of stimulation is how controllable it can be; running the spectrum from a tickling, teasing massage to an intense, throbbing, muscle-clenching onslaught of pleasure. No other type of stimulation taps into the response of your body in such an intricate way that overpowers your senses and lends itself so clearly to BDSM and kink scenes.

For retailers though, electro-stimulation can seem like a daunting sale. Generally speaking, the more experienced e-stim players will buy their equipment direct from the manufacturer or from a specialist fetish store, but what if your store's positioning is more mainstream?

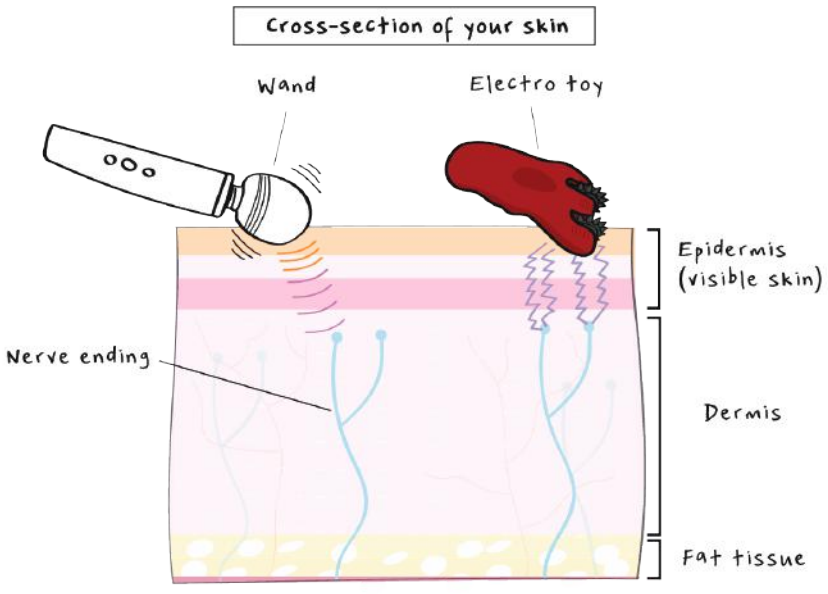

That's one of the largest benefits of electro sex; just how versatile it is and how easily you can arouse even a beginner's interest with some detailed information and descriptive wording. An in-store demonstration where a customer can experience basic electro-stimulation for themselves is also a really important step to communicating how it feels to each individual. Other than some safety limitations for some users* electro sex can be enjoyed by people of all tastes, experience levels, sexualities and genders; whether they're solo or with a partner. Electro equipment is a little more of a financial commitment for a customer and has an excellent profit margin for retailers, so having your pitch mastered is a must!

Not only does electro sex have all the pleasurable pluses above, but it's also found to be incredibly effective for users suffering with erectile dysfunction or loss of sensation. The direct stimulation of the nerve endings can 'override' the body's response to stimulus and cause muscles to contract and blood flow to concentrate in the stimulated area.

We have many anecdotal reports over our 20 years in the business of customers who credit electro-sex with enhancing their libido and physical ability to 'perform'. Although of course the experience differs for everyone, personally for us at ElectraStim knowing that we're able to provide pleasure for some people where other more conventional toys or methods cannot makes us hugely proud.

In an industry where there's an enormous amount of choice for consumers, electro-sex stands apart as a unique niche that is wildly different to more traditional types of sex toys. Through training, education and customer demonstrations this niche is gradually expanding to include more and more users eager to experience electro for themselves.

Could this safety info be put it in some sort of pop-out or box on the page so it's clear?

Users who meet the following criteria MUST NOT use electro-stimulation of any kind:

- If they have a heart condition (known or suspected) and especially if they have a pacemaker fitted
- If they are pregnant
- If they have epilepsy
- If they have any sort of genital disorder or injury

Master Pleasure: Sensual Cock Domination is Trending, What Retailers Need to Know

By Satisfyer Staff

In the world of BDSM and kinky play, Sensual Cock Domination (SCD) offers a unique twist on power dynamics, focusing not on pain but on the tantalizing art of teasing, denial and heightened sensory pleasure. Satisfyer, a leading sexual wellness brand committed to creating pleasurable, multi-sensory experiences, offers guidance on how to effectively engage consumers interested in exploring the growing trend of SCD.

"Unlike Cock and Ball Torture (CBT), which focuses on pain and humiliation, or Cock and Ball Worship (CBW), which focuses on adoration and worship, SCD is about expanding pleasure and arousal through powerplay. Instead of pain or simply adoration, SCD explores the interplay of physical touch and psychological control to cultivate deeper connection, intimacy and unparalleled pleasure," explains Megwyn White, Satisfyer Director of Education and Certified Sexologist.

UNDERSTANDING THE SCD FUNDAMENTALS

Through slow, erotic stimulation and the exchange of power dynamics, SCD allows partners to unlock new realms of sensual pleasure. The submissive immerses themselves in the sensations the dominant creates. Meanwhile, the dominant revels in holding the trust placed in them, using their skill and intuition to push the boundaries of ecstasy.

"This practice isn't about inflicting suffering but rather crafting an experience where both partners dive deeper into their desires. By blending physical touch with the psychological thrill of dominance and submission, SCD opens new realms for exploration, intimacy and pleasure. When explored consensually and with trust, SCD can unlock fresh pathways of sensual intimacy. At the heart of this dynamic exchange lies the exploration of power through erotic stimulation, where the submissive partner ultimately succumbs to becoming the master of their own pleasure," says White.

THE ART OF SENSUAL DOMINATION: CULTIVATING THE SOFT SKILLS

While the technical aspects of SCD are important, true mastery lies in developing certain soft skills. As the dominant partner, honing your intuition, body language and verbal skills are essential for crafting an immersive, satisfying SCD experience.

- Eye Contact and Nonverbal Communication: Through your presence, unwavering eye contact and deliberate touch stake your claim over their pleasure, reminding them you are the master of their ecstasy. Your gaze can be a laser-sharp command, piercing through their defenses and stripping them bare.

- Vocal Tonality and Verbal Finesse: The dominant's voice is a powerful instrument. A deep, rumbling tone can convey unwavering authority, making the submissive partner acutely aware of who holds the reins of pleasure. In contrast, a breathy, sensual whisper can send shivers of anticipation through their body as they hang on your every word, desperate for the next tantalizing command. Ultimately, your voice is a tool to sculpt the experience, guiding your partner through a sensual journey of pleasure and control.

- Intuition and Attunement: The most skilled SCD practitioners are highly attuned to their partner's responses, reading subtle cues that reveal their inner experience. They observe breathing patterns, muscle tension, vocalizations and shifts in facial expressions. These nonverbal signals allow the dominant partner to intuitively gauge when to intensify or ease stimulation and maintain the balance of pleasure and control.

- Prioritize Aftercare: It's crucial to prioritize aftercare—the time spent nurturing and comforting your partner after intense play. This allows both of you to transition back to a state of calm, connection and mutual care. Aftercare can include cuddling, hydration, soothing touch and open communication about the experience.

By honing these soft skills alongside the technical mastery of SCD toys and methods, you'll be able to craft experiences that are truly transcendent—where trust, intimacy and ecstasy converge in the most delicious ways.

RETAIL OPPORTUNITIES: ELEVATING PRODUCT OFFERINGS FOR SENSUAL COCK DOMINATION WITH SATISFYER

To elevate SCD experiences, Satisfyer's innovative products can heighten pleasure, deepen intimacy and explore new realms of erotic control. Designed to blend pleasure and technology, Satisfyer's toys offer new ways to explore and enhance sensual cock domination play. Let's dive into how to craft a powerful and intimate SCD session using these innovative tools.

THE SOFT TOUCH OF CONTROL: SYNCHRONIZE VERBAL DOMINATION AND SENSATION WITH THE SATISFYER POWER MASTURBATOR

For those looking to elevate their SCD sessions, the Satisfyer Power Masturbator offers the perfect balance of power and a softer touch. Unlike traditional masturbators that rely on intense stimulation, this device focuses on a gentler, yet satisfying experience—ideal for teasing and edging. The soft, supple interior with grid-like edges creates a sensual experience.

What sets the Satisfyer Power Masturbator apart is its ability to bridge stimulation with dominance through the Satisfyer Connect App. Vibrations can be controlled through haptic touch, and verbal commands can be enhanced with the app's ambient sound feature, which transforms your voice into unique vibration patterns.

Whether it's a direct command, a subtle moan of denial or a whisper of what will happen next, the app creates a powerful dynamic of verbal and physical control.

DOMINANCE THROUGH SENSATION: THE SATISFYER RING STROKER'S MULTIFACETED STIMULATION

The Satisfyer Ring Stroker is a powerful tool for exploring the nuances of SCD. Unlike traditional strokers that focus on rapid, intense stimulation, this device encourages a more sensual, drawn-out approach.

With the Ring Stroker, you can take your time, slowly teasing and edging each sensitive area. Begin by gently cupping and caressing the scrotum, building anticipation with soft, pulsing vibrations. Trace delicate patterns around the tip, heightening sensitivity with every featherlight touch.

Then, when the moment is right, take firm control of the shaft. Stroke with purpose, intensifying the throbbing pleasure and driving your submissive partner deeper into ecstasy. The Ring Stroker's multifaceted stimulation allows you to seamlessly transition between tender caresses and firm, commanding strokes—cultivating a symphony of sensation that leaves your partner trembling with need.

Throughout it all, maintain eye contact and a confident, dominant presence. Your touch, your voice and your very aura should radiate control, guiding your partner on a journey of unbridled pleasure. With the Satisfyer Ring Stroker as your tool, you can explore new realms of sensual domination, where every stroke, every sensation, is an extension of your power.

ENVELOP YOUR SUBMISSIVE: SATISFYER PLUG & PLAY FOR TOTAL SENSUAL MASTERY

What if you could envelop your submissive in waves of pleasure while commanding their every move? The Satisfyer Plug & Play offers an all-encompassing approach to SCD, stimulating not just the penis but also the anus, perineum and the top of the shaft—bringing every erogenous zone into the mix.

Perfect for those wanting to explore deeper control in their power dynamics, this toy can be worn as the dominant partner manually teases and commands the cock and balls however they see fit. The Plug & Play's encompassing vibrations enhance the energy of control, grounding the submissive in a heightened state of arousal while constantly reminding them of exactly who's in charge. With each pulse of sensation, they're taken further into submission, giving the dominant partner even more power over their pleasure.

UNLEASH THE POWER OF SENSUAL DOMINATION

SCD is not merely an exchange of power but a transformative journey where both partners shed inhibitions and explore their desires more deeply. Through this dynamic interplay, there's the potential to mutually unlock new avenues of self-discovery, where trust, vulnerability and unbridled ecstasy converge.

"Sensual cock domination requires a certain level of awareness of kink psychology. If couples are still unsure how to tap into their fantasies, Satisfyer Connect's Remotyca, which contains a range of kinky stories can serve as a sexy springboard for your sensual cock domination scenes," says White.

In these moments of vulnerability and trust, the true magic of SCD can be revealed. Walls come down, inhibitions disappear and both partners can access parts of themselves that are normally hidden. When approached with care, consent and an open heart, SCD can be a profoundly liberating experience, helping uncover hidden reservoirs of ecstasy, connection and self-knowledge you never knew existed.

'My Escape From Hollywood' by Maitland Ward

Maitland Ward got her start in acting as a teenager when she was cast in The Bold and the Beautiful, but it wasn't until she joined the later seasons of the sitcom Boy Meets World that she got her first taste of fame. As the loveable co-ed Rachel McGuire, Ward soon found herself being typecast as the good girl next door and was repeatedly denied darker, more intriguing roles. Now, Ward reveals the ups and downs of her fascinating career, including personal stories from her time on one of the most beloved shows of the 1990s, in this anything but a run-of-the-mill memoir. By showing Hollywood and triple-X stardom in a whole new light, she offers a fresh and stirring perspective on the sex industry and "champions the discovery of freedom in sexuality" (Kirkus Reviews, starred review). Ultimately a story of hope and triumph, this is a sharp and provocative look at a former Disney princess who found her fairy tale in porn. 'My Escape from Hollywood' is published by Simon and Schuster and available for purchase.

The Nala Wand by Maia Toys

When it's time to get fierce with the power of a sturdy wand, crack out this gorgeous, teal beauty and grab it by the shaft. With ten speeds of pleasure, the silicone encased, well-balanced wand doesn't numb your hand when you're grinding it into exactly where you want it. The slightly pivoting head stays put and doesn't mash around like many other wand massagers. Simply press the plus button to zing up more power or decrease it and when you want to change the functions, just press the power button in the center.

My favourite is low and rumbly, a sensation the Nala can effortlessly supply. Those deep, penetrating vibes really get in there to release tension, no matter where I use it. Sometimes, I slip it between my hungry thighs but sometimes, I just like leaning against some pillows and laying my neck so it vibes at just the right place. Pleasure comes to me wherever I desire. Nala is my new BFF.

Pipedreams' Fantasy For Her - Her Ultimate Pleasure Max

Here's one way to never leave the house. Put the ultimate pleasure max in your hands and between your thighs and you'll be ordering home delivery for days on end. There's nothing this amazing toy won't do. Let's start. Four mighty motors throughout let you choose where you want the action, inside, outside, clit, nipples, both and all. The internal shaft cycles through seven actions and three speeds, all accessible by the controls on the base, which are used for the other functions as well. At the end of the long, silicone tube is a wagging tongue, speed-controlled, of course, that can be used by itself to tickle and tease between the legs or all around the body. You also have the option to screw on one of the two cups onto the tongue to take advantage of the firm suction action, guaranteed to put you over the top.

There are so many things to do with this, I wish I had a bigger body to ignite every cell with stimulation. I swear I'm never leaving the house again. Delivery service, come to my house, I'll be busy. Thanks.

Nasstoys' The Beat

You've got the beat with this incredibly satisfying and easy-to-use vibe. With its unique shape of a "slanted beamed eighth note" (for real, look it up!), you'll be hitting the high notes of orgasmic pleasure when you let the dual egg vibrators do their thing. The two eggs are suspended from two, long, sturdy silicone connections that dangle from a cross piece with the simple-to-use button on it. The eggs can be inserted anywhere you want or placed inside a bra for incredible nipple thrills.

The best part of the Beat is the handy remote control to flip through the 10 speeds while you sing its praises. It's the perfect toy to bring to a concert and zing it when you hear your favorite tune. It's fun, it's easy to use, and is already one of my favourites!

We-Vibe's Jive 2

You'll be jumpin' and jivin' when you slip this simple-to-use vibe right where you want it. The solid egg provides rumbly, interior thrills to fill you up against the g spot and everywhere in between. The exterior stem not only serves as its exterior antenna but also as an extra stimulator for outside fun, which lets me use it on my own or with a partner when we go out in public. Yes, I said it. The We-Vibe app lets either of us zing it and it's a challenge to keep from smiling, giggling and even releasing an orgasm without anyone but my partner and I knowing what's really going on.

As a big g spot gal (both figuratively and literally), the bulb really gets right in there and nestles inside so comfortably, I sometimes forget its inside... until I zing it and make the vibrations race throughout my body. This is so much fun to use by myself or sharing. Oh yeah.

We-Vibe's SyncO

We-Vibe has outdone itself with its latest creation. With an incredibly flexible interior stimulator that's open in the centre, it comfortably fits inside and thrills from within while it hooks around to completely excite the clit and vulva. Just press the outside button control or even better, use the We-Vibe app to enjoy each and every speed, function and orgasmic adventure the Sync-O is sure to deliver.

I found this to be the most comfortable We-Vibe I've ever used. The silicone slips in effortlessly and the insertable shape squeezes together to nuzzle in easily and comfortably. It's ideal for solo use but created to accompany partner ins and outs, which it does to let there be a good time for all! I love it!

Twirl by Cupsland

With all the strokers on the market, here's one that adds a new kind of twist. This unique design is unlike any other because you control the tightness without having your hand to provide the grip you desire. Inside the sleek black canister lies a realistically shaped vulva just looking to be penetrated. Slip your lubed up cock into the rich folds and let it envelop every inch, letting it grab you with more intensity with each twist of the base.

With every turn, the whole length of the inner stroker tightens up for even more gripping action. Tighten it up for as much pleasure as you desire or keep the standard snug when you pump your cock further inside. Shoot your load then simply remove the stroker sleeve for easy cleanup and insert the special drying rod as a complete and sanitary system to enjoy for the next time you want to Twirl yourself into a stroking frenzy.

Rock Candy Toys' Cherry Flicker

Imagine having two tongues flicker and tickle all over your body. Imagine letting them fly wherever you want them to go. Imagine the non-stop pleasure you get when you cycle through the seven speeds of action. Yes, you can have that and more when you have this hot little vibe in your hand.

With a simple to use speed control on the bottom of the base, the single motor transmits remarkable power through the two, fluttering silicone tongues, so much that you'd swear they have motors in them. When you're done with having fun, just wash it off and use the sexy, satiny pink drawstring bag to keep it safe and sound. You'll be using it again in no time.

Stormee by Maia Toys

Grab and go with this cute little vibe meant to go everywhere with you! Finger-sized, with a handy, built-in USB charger, no cords are needed to keep Stormee fast and frisky. Ten speeds and functions keep it zippy for when you need it most and it's cute and discreet enough to leave out when you're done with your pleasure.

In baby blue with a puffy cloud that also provides some fun clit stimulation, Stormee is a perfect starter vibe for beginners or to add a little zinger to your collection. Just push the button on the top to cycle through the speeds and slip it between your legs for a good quickie by yourself or with a partner. They'll love it as much as you will!

Zero Tolerance's Wet It Be Stroker

When penis owners want to take matters into their own hands, some like to do it dry, some like it a little slippery, and some like it sloppy slippery. Now you can have all three with this incredibly creative, ten speeds of vibration pleasure tool. The thick, large silicone ring that you slip your manhood through has gentle stimulation ribs to start the action. Then press the side button to circulate through the multi-speeds to add some special zing to your thing.

Now about that sloppy slippery sensation. Before the action begins, simply load the reservoir on the top with your favorite slippery lube, pop it shut, then press the top when you want to slick your dick, hands-free, at just the right place and just the right time. No more friction or hand burn, leaving you with the sensation of having your best handjob ever combined with the best blowjob ever. It doesn't get better than this!

iroha's Hana by Tenga

Elegance and pleasure are combined in this beautifully deceptive pleasure device. Looking like a hard-boiled, decorated egg in its pristine white stand, just slip it into your hand, let your finger glide to the single button on the bottom, then let it roll where it gives you the most pleasure. The vibrations are buffered so your hands don't absorb the vibrations – only the precious pubic placement.

This gorgeous vibe is ideal when you accidentally leave it out on the nightstand or next to the sofa. No one will realize what it is, especially when you replace the matching white cap over the printed pleasure orb on the inside.
