FROM THE EDITOR'S DESK

The year has been phenomenal, unpredictable and extra-ordinary in every sense. The structural and strategic changes that we have witnessed in education in this last one and a half year has been remarkable. What stands out most is that we have much to be thankful for. It is imperative that our children count their blessings and focus on the gains over the year than brood over the gaps. It is important that they remain grateful and humble. The year has built immense reservoirs of patience and resilience in all of us and it is heartening to see that in spite of all the hardships, children have become more self-reliant, empathetic and have displayed a maturity that defies young years.

The technological advancement and natural knack in adapting it as displayed by our students, even the ones in the Early Years, is unparalleled and has made us think of coming up with ways to reach out to them. Hence the new digitized immersive revamped Reporter. I congratulate the editorial team for the extensive thought and work put behind this new edition which we hope will be explored and enjoyed by all readers. With the Covid cases rising yet again, we pray for your good health and safety. We reiterate that we stand committed to our staff, students, and their families in these tough times. Our self-help groups are active again and vaccination drives for children and booster doses for adults are being organized across our campuses. May the Almighty continue to shower his blessings upon each one of you.

DIRECTOR MRIS SPEAKS

One question often asked by parents of all age groups is about the skills, 21st Century skills and how is the school going to develop them in children. I think this question is being more frequently asked during this pandemic time as all of us are getting exposed to new normal practices and hearing about many unconventional jobs and careers, more so because we have realized that the children in schools today are going to work, maybe after five to ten years from now and what holds good today may not be of value then. We are seeing transformation in the job markets and many new areas are gaining focus in the technology space. So what is it that will help children succeed in future years?

In this knowledge & technology rich age- when things are rapidly charging, skills that have become essential to be learnt, along with the universal human values, character traits and ethical behavior can be classified into three categories: Learning Skills, Literary Skills and Life Skills. Manav Rachna International Schools integrate these skills into its curriculum structure and pedagogy with a visible focus on Socio Emotional Learning. Through a structured life skills program, students learn the Soft Skills of flexibility, adaptability, collaboration, compassion and empathy. Through the group, projects assigned, the students learn about teamwork, and inter-dependence. Education at Manav Rachna is wholesome & holistic where the caring and competent teaching professionals provide a highly motivating and supporting environment where every child feels s/he can identify his/her own identity and realize his potential to the optimum. Manav Rachna promises a world of possibility to be achieved with a step wise action plan and encourages parents as well to invest in empowering and equipping children with right skills, attitudes and behavior with a strong character.

YOUNG AUTHORS FELT PEN

"From composing memorable fantastical worlds to inspiring political revolutions, there is little that cannot be achieved with an idea and a pen."

Manav Rachna has always endeavored to identify and challenge students in areas of their interest and open new doors for them - be it in STEAM, Sports, Art and Culture, or Academics. After having successfully launched 5 books (Limitless, Vivid, Starlight, Over the Moon, and Spring Tide) by in-house student authors, MRIS through The Young Authors' Felt Pen continues to provide a platform to students to nurture their creative side.

The Young Authors' Felt Pen brings a unique program for MRIS students. It identifies and provides young writers, a professional atmosphere to nurture their creativity and writing skills, with the goal to publish their work by the end of the program. In the Academic Year 2021-22, the YAFP is working on three books to be published by the end of the Academic Year. The young talented bunch of writers were identified and shortlisted after a series of screening tests and interviews. From there on, their fledgling ideas were developed into refined stories, which will soon be published in an anthology. Through the journey of exploration of ideas, writing, workshops and revisions, all under established mentorship of authors and content developers, this unique program allow young talent to reliably initiate their own journey of becoming authors.

FUTURE SKILLS & SUSTAINABILITY

The Future Skills and Sustainability team designs and develops learning experiences to make students into thinking and thoughtful people equipped with 21st-century skills. In Tinkering, children make projects pegged on the UN-SDGs that incorporate technological and innovative design solutions to solve real-world problems using the scientific approach and design thinking skills.

This academic year, despite the pandemic, our students participated in several competitions at inter-school, regional, national, and international levels. Here are the notable achievements at the international level competitions:

JOYS OF CHILDHOOD

Literally joy is the feeling of jubilation and contentment that a person feels. While most people relate happiness with materialistic achievements and success, I believe that joy lies in cherishing the small moments of our life and more than that it is a feeling of inner peace that has to be felt from our hearts which does not depend on anything external. Even small things of our life can bring a smile on our face. For me, meeting my friends after a long interim of the lockdown was a moment that brought inexplicable joy to me.

- Ananya Baweja (X-E)

Joy, it's something we have all felt. The feeling of flying free in the sky into the sunset. The feeling of fluttering your wings to reach that one speck of golden light on the top of the sky. The feeling of swimming in a sea whose waves clash on a nearby rock. The feeling that makes you dance to your own heart's fast paced rhythm. The feeling that makes you hum with the tune of the melodious and excited chimes ringing in your head.I refuse to believe that such a feeling can ever be expressed by serotonins or endomyphins. I believe that this feeling called joy it is still beyond human comprehension.

Subject: Letter talking about an app/technology that helped me.
Respected Sir

I Vedh Maheshwari am a student of class 11th. Now it is no lie that the Covid-19 brought forth many unprecedented circumstances but there were a lot of new technologies and apps that helped me and others sail through. Apps such as Zoom, Microsoft Teams, etc, managed to make our lives just a little bit simpler in these times.
The situation posed by Covid-19 has had numerous impacts in all dimensions of human life and in my view these apps have helped mitigate these effects by facilitating the transition to an online medium both in personal and professional domains. Here, as many people took their work to these apps, so did I. And while it was a change to attend classes, to talk to friends and family and to even celebrate events such as birthdays online, we all have somewhat grown accustomed to or at least comfortable with using such mediums, even me. I believe that such apps made a lot many things accessible for a lot many people, a great example is how people including myself have attended/ enrolled for many bootcamps/classes/courses online and learnt new things. They say one of the key purposes of technology is to facilitate communication between people and I think these apps did just that.

Yours sincerely
Vedh Maheshwari

Subject: New app used during the Pandemic

Sir
This is to bring to your knowledge that a mobile application has been playing a big part in the lives of various students including me, since Covid-19 started: Tumblr. It started out in 2007 as a blogging site and it is also a social media app to an extent.

Tumblr houses various up and coming authors whose work ranges from short stories to digital novels. It's free form nature allows people to not only write stories, but blogs, post pictures regarding different aesthetics, discuss various topics, etc. With this, aspiring writers get exposure, this exposure enhances confidence. MRIS frequently hosts various activities/competitions which then work as a building ground and lead to students getting recognition for their abilities. Students are then provided with various opportunities with the help of the school to amplify their skills and help them advance in this field.

To summarise, students have benefited due to the support of both our school and Tumblr. I hope you find this letter in a good condition and view this application in a new light.

Thanking you

Yours sincerely

DON'T BE AFRAID OF CHANGE IT'S LEADING YOU TO A NEW BEGINNING

Life is unpredictable; it doesn't turn out the way as we plan it to be. A similar thing happened in the beginning of year 2020 "THE BURST OF NOVEL COVID-19 virus". The spread of COVID - 19 led to community fear. In the pre-COVID era, there was no social distancing; we met our friends, visited places and did much more. School meant a school campus with friends and teachers. In December 2019, COVID-19's first outbreak was seen in China and then to the world. In India it witnessed its arrival on 30th January, 2020. Everything changed. Lock-down was imposed to stop the spread of this virus. The world was not prepared for such deadly virus. Specifically, the education sector was turned upside down. Method of online learning was introduced. Experiments were made firstly on zoom and then on teams.Teachers and students stood tall in the testing times. This new method of learning kept us going, but we missed the off-line classes. Almost after one year of the beginning of COVID -19, things have changed a lot. We now know the importance of having teachers and friends around. We understand the importance of extra circular activities and sports. Through online studies, we got to know how to overcome the spread of COVID -19 by wearing mask, maintaining proper social distancing and proper sanitization. It's time when schools are open again. There is fear but we don't want to go back to online mode. We will follow the protocols. Now there are students in corridors and fields once again, and the school is cool again.

"The road to success is always under construction."

- Lily Tomlin

Sometimes, life will squeeze lemons in your eyes (trust me, it's happened) and sometimes, it'll make you question your own existence. But there'll be times in the early morning or late night, when you've decided to let your thoughts wander, and you'll realize just how heartbreakingly beautiful life is. My school has introduced me to the reality of this world at a friendly and comfortable pace, making me realize that life goes on, taking my hand gently and showing me the side of change that is beautiful, not intimidating. The dark cloud of goodbye is floating over my head like a bittersweet reality, but I'm ready.

BOOK REVIEW

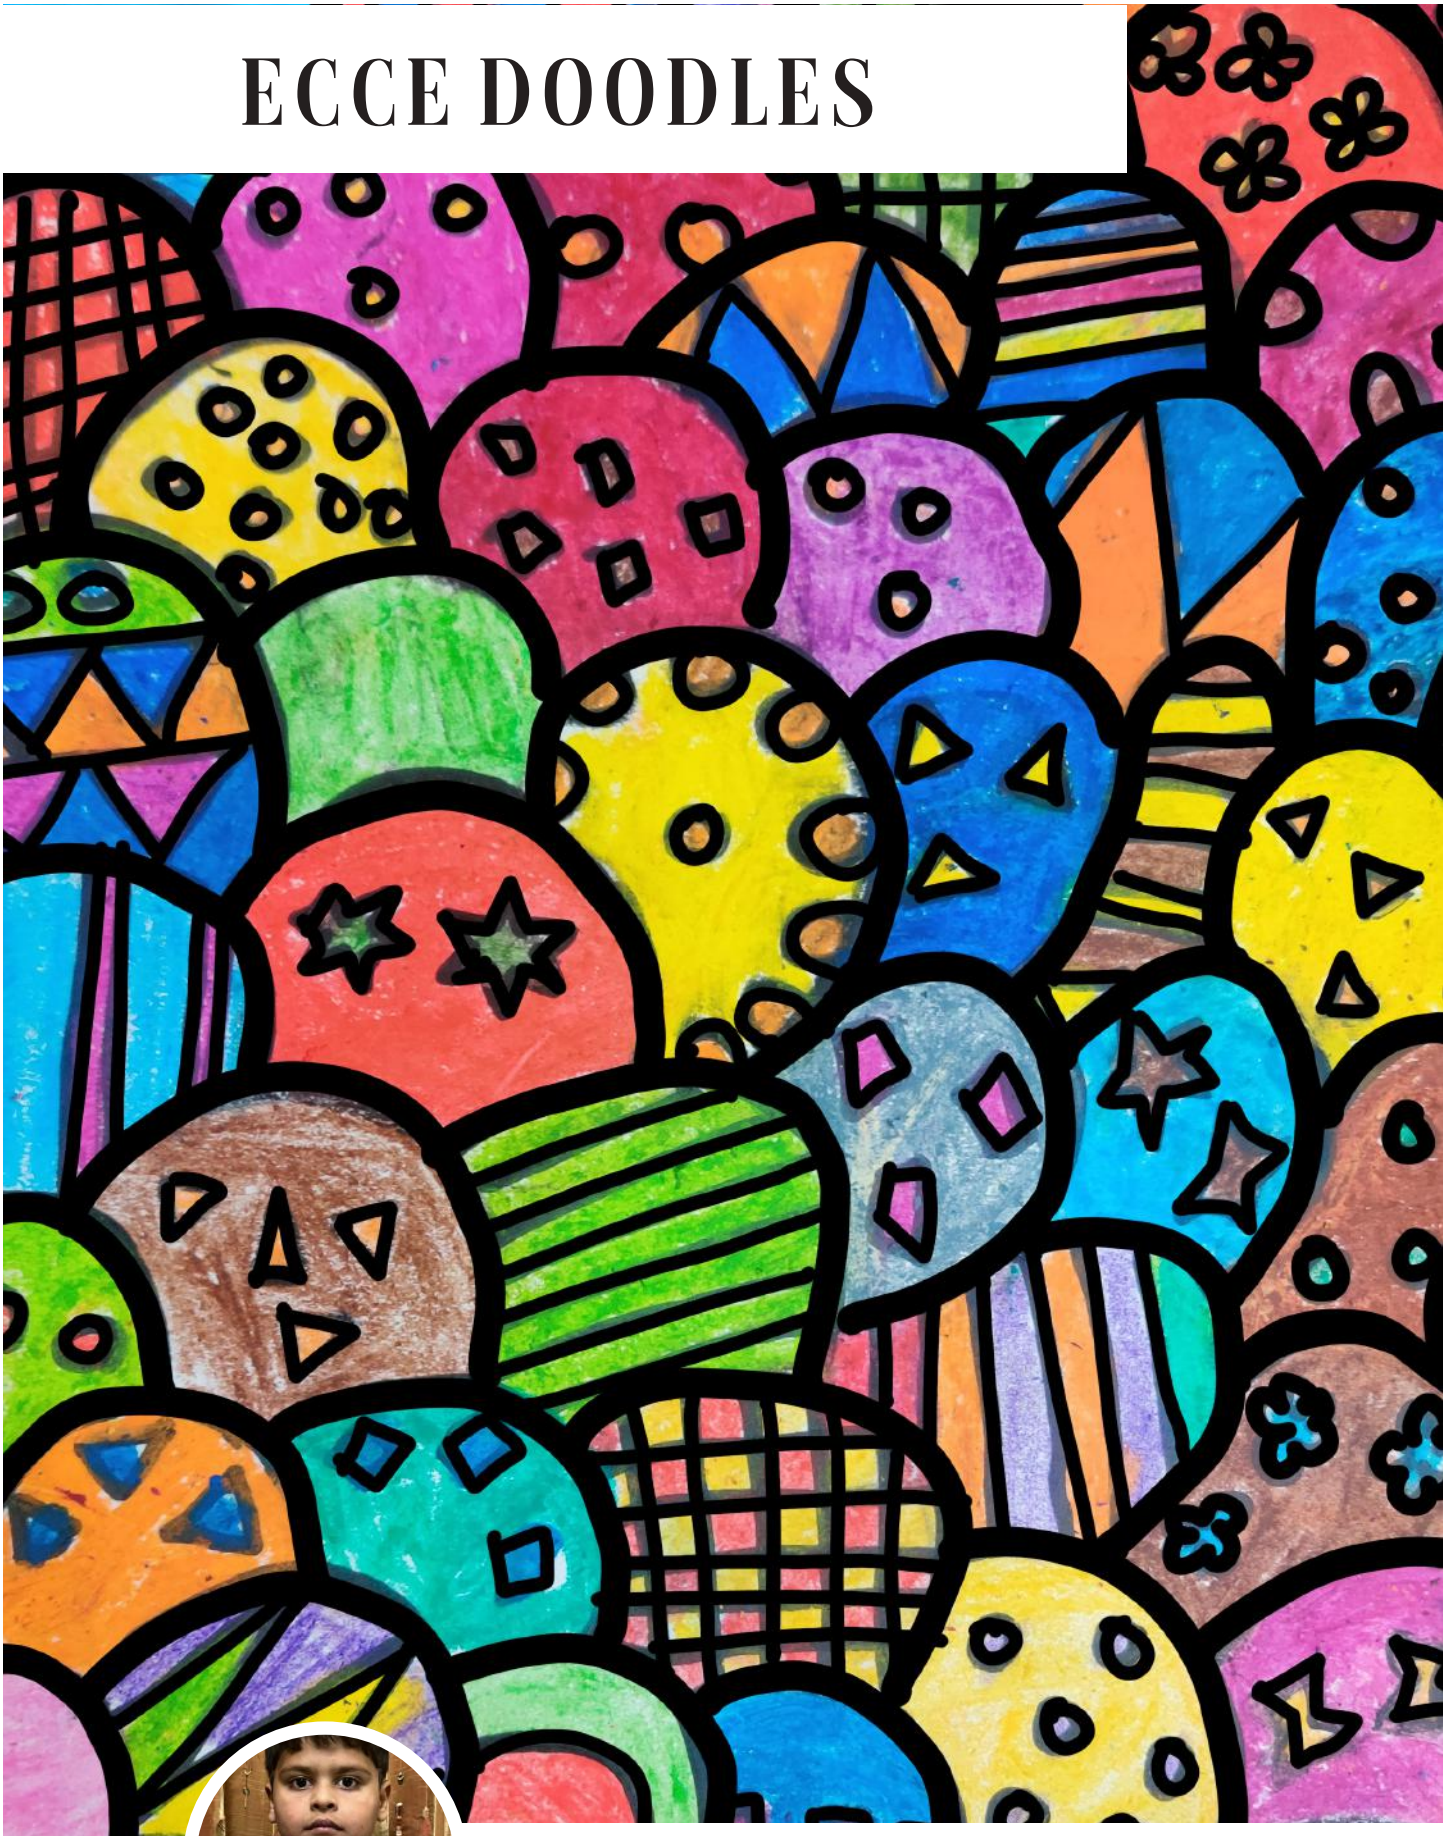

The Hate U Give

by Angie Thomas

Is the story of a young, black girl named Starr Carter who finds herself to be the sole eye-witness to the fatal shooting of her unarmed childhood best friend Khalil by a police officer. She now faces the dilemma of either protecting her own identity and family or raising her voice and demanding justice for her friend. I believe it is a very real and perhaps important book that all young adults must read to gain perspective on the Black Lives Matter Movement. Apart from the social message, the book is also about strength, friendship and family. As Starr navigates through her life after the incident, she learns the importance of surrounding herself with the people she loves the most.The book has also been made into a motion picture starring Amandla Stenberg and featuring KJ Apa and Sabrina Carpenter.

Friendship is one of the greatest blessings that not everyone is lucky enough to have. We meet a lot of people in the journey of life but there are only a few who leave a mark on us. My best friend is one such person who has been able to make a positive impact on my life. I feel extremely fortunate to have someone as a best friend in my life. Our friendship started when my best friend came in as a new admission to our class. Both of us were hesitant to talk to each other at first, but gradually we developed a bond. We learned so many things about each other and found out that our taste in sports, reading books, cultural activities etc was so similar. We spent all our time together and our friendship became the talk of the class. We used to help each other out in studies and visited each other's home as well. On our summer break, we even went to summer camp together and made a lot of memories. Through this bond, I learned that family doesn't end with blood because my best friend was no less than my family.

We all have that someone with whom we share the strongest bond, the person who is our 'Partner in crime'. For me, it's my cousin, Ira. Lately we had a nerve-wrecking experience. Not long ago, she visited me for a sleepover. That night was amusing. It was late night and all my family members fell fast asleep. We could hear the deafening sound of snoring. It was a signal for us to have a little fun. We planned to PRANK CALL! As per the plan, we started calling our friends who were apparently still up. We told them that there's a parcel for them. They went outside only to see a desolate road. We took it to another level when we called a few unknown numbers. None of them took the call. It was time to sleep. The next day, I got a call back from one of the unknown numbers we tried last night. I panicked and that's when Ira had my back. It's very rightly said "Things are never quite as scary when you've got a best friend."

Subject: Manav Rachna at the forefront of innovative technology.

Sir,

Education is a fundamental component of our life and technology is now playing a key role - by making education easier to understand and more accessible. I am writing this letter to your esteemed daily, to appreciate the key role that Manav Rachna has played as an innovator by promoting technology in the education sector as well as in my life.

Manav Rachna has always allowed students to leverage the latest technology by collaborating with globally recognized institutions. MR has helped build IT aided classrooms, to facilitate students to perform as digital learners. One such example, is the usage of Microsoft Teams for conducting online classrooms. An alternative to Zoom, its ease and additional features, is ideal for virtual classrooms. I absolutely adore the versatility of this tool. The ability to use so many apps and tools within Teams makes it a must use for teachers and students. It is a perfect choice for educators, as students are able to complete quizzes and interact through the different tabs. In addition, the apps enable teachers to monitor the performance of each student through the graphical tools provided. So, for these enormous advantages provided, I thank our institution.

Yours Sincerely
Shiva Sharma

IKIGAI: The Japanese Secret to a Long and Happy Life

Self-help books help us stick to the reality and accept it like fantasy. One such book, which helped me give a better and bigger dimension to my life is 'Ikigai'. Unlike many books or novels, it didn't give me a new plot or fiction, but made the plot of my own life clearer to me. The Japanese believe that everyone has their own Ikigai - the reason to jump out of bed every morning, and Hector Garcia and Francesc Miralles - the authors of the book explain the undiscovered Ikigai of and to every reader throughout the world. It helped me discover my own Ikigai- something which I was struggling with since very long. It inculcated in me the wish to live not just to work, to earn or to dedicate myself till a certain age, but to live as long as a healthy person can, for MYSELF, like the people of Okinawa, Japan. We all hear about how stress kills us, and we are occupied by daily practices to alleviate it. We are told to be 'mindful' and 'happy' -but how? ...The book tells us. I would recommend this book to everyone, regardless of their age, profession or interest, because the most important message that the book itself conveys is that nothing matters over your Ikigai if you are passionate about yourself and your life. I never really thought about longevity, but Ikigai makes you think about it automatically!

The Night Diary

The Night Diary recounts the partition of India into two separate countries, India and Pakistan, through the eyes of a twelve-year-old half-Hindu and half-Muslim girl named Nisha. The author's style, tone, and organization of the book are all quite impressive. Nisha often questions the readers and engages them into the story. This is a great book since it delves into how people felt and what they went through during this conflict. I've never sobbed when reading a book before, but while reading this one I did. There wasn't a second that I was bored while reading this book. This is the best book I have ever read! Definitely recommend it to anyone who loves to curl up on the couch with an iced coffee and read.

Sir,

Subject: Evoking awareness towards beneficial technology

With people panicking and protesting against the online mode, they fail to realize that technology can be a great boon for us in numerous ways. Through the medium of your esteemed newspaper, I wish to draw the attention of the youth and adults among the benefits of e-learning platform.

The closing of schools has impacted the learning of 1.57 billion students all across the world. Teachers had to find ways to communicate with their students because we are unsure when the pandemic will end. A very famous quote of Alvin Toffler, an American writer and futurist is - "The literate of the 21st Century will not be those who can read and write but those who can learn, unlearn and relearn." Teachers had to unlearn the old teaching pedagogy and relearn the more creative digital teaching method for the holistic development of students.

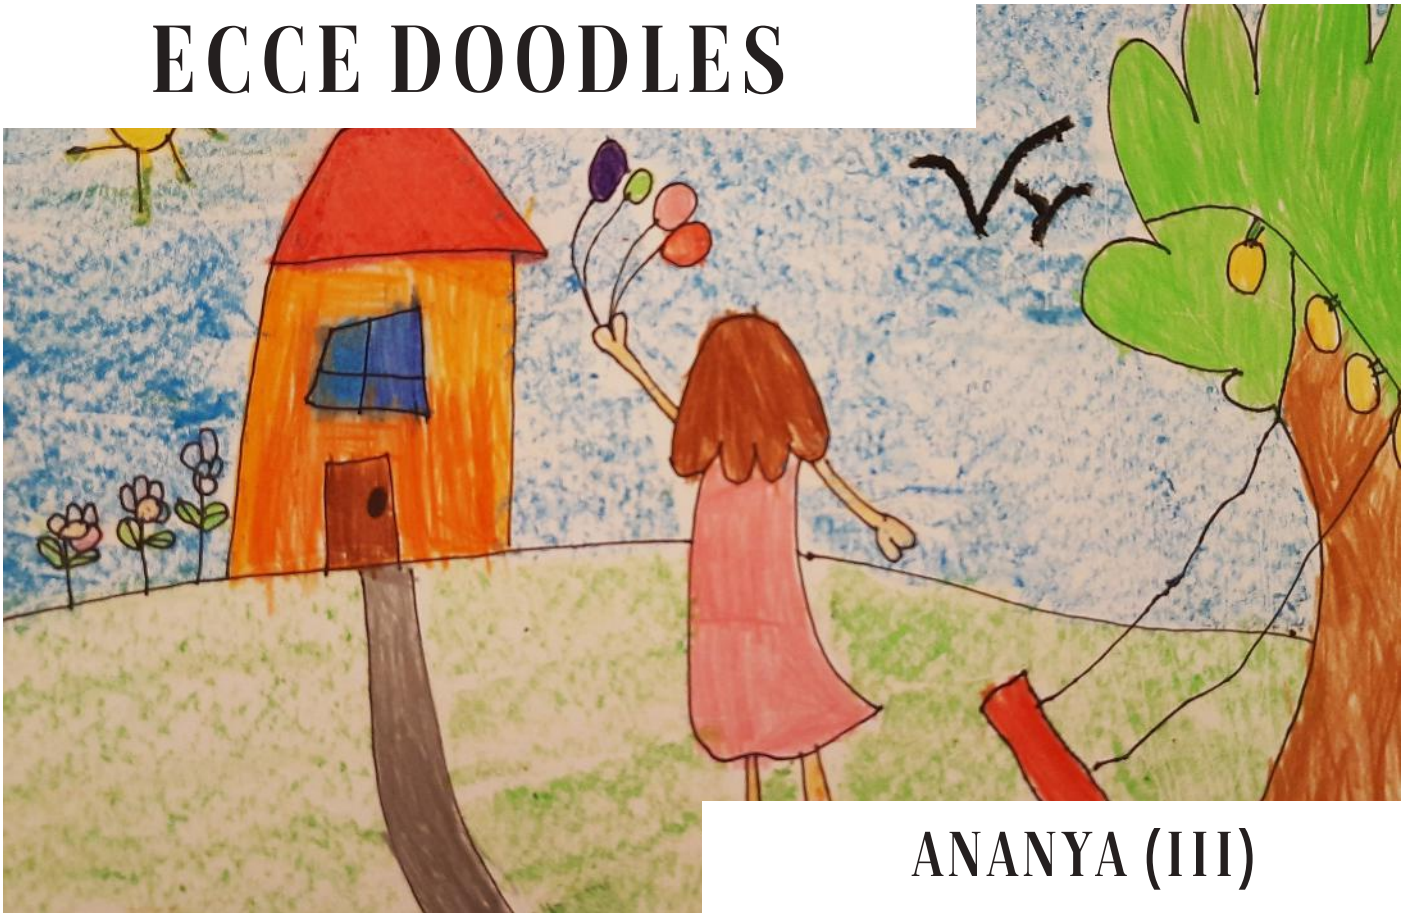

In response to the pandemic, teachers started using online engagement tools to make the school interesting for us. One such tool that benefitted me the most is Quizizz - A gamified student engagement platform that offers multiple features to make our classroom fun, interactive and engaging.

Quizizz is a simple tool wherein teachers create tests and students access them through their mobile phones or computers. It rewards students who answer correctly with higher scores and brings them to the top of the ranking list and thus helping me to boost my confidence. I can access Quizizz anywhere and test my knowledge. There is a plethora of quizizz available in every subject and topic.

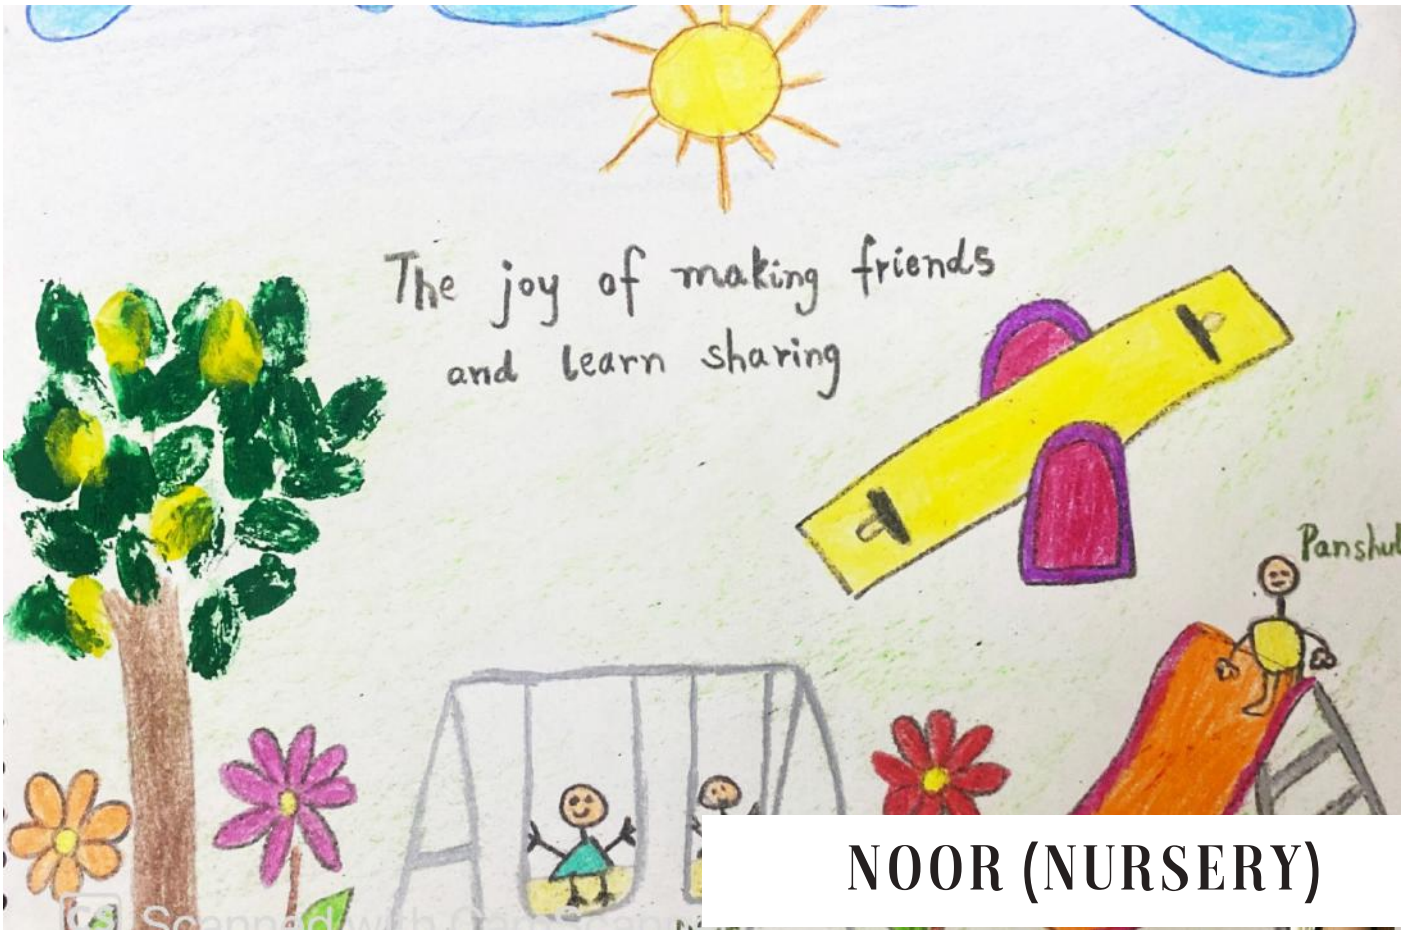

Most schools have adopted this new way of learning, and even if they go back to the classroom, some will still use online learning and blend it into their curriculum even after the pandemic. The world is changing. And the game is to adapt to the changes quickly. Therefore, I hope you will be able to help us in catching the attention of the people at the earliest.

Yours Sincerely,
ISHITA DANG

BOOK REVIEW

The way of Kings

This book is a great example and if you are writing your own novel you can learn a lot by studying the things you liked and those that kept you engrossed in the book. For eg- even though this is a slow paced book, there was conflict or some sort of tension in every chapter which keeps you engaged in the characters and the plot. I also learnt a lot about writing and how you should go about writing characters. I learnt that whatever happens in your life you should never let the grief overcome you. It is impossible that everyday will be good, but in those days you should know that there will always be sunshine again, you will be happy again.

The Secret Seven

From this story, I can make out the conclusion that, how big the mystery is, if we use our brains in the right direction, we can solve any mystery or problem. More than the physical strength and size of a person, the strength and cleverness of the brain matters. In this book, I am inspired from Peter because he never gave up while the others almost gave up completely because they always found bits of hints and clues. Peter collected every piece of clues and hints and he believed that these clues will surely lead us to a conclusion of this mystery. Similarly, we should also maintain our hope and even if there is 1% chance of achieving anything we want, we should always try.

As we started to know things about each other, we realized that we share the same passion for designing, lawn tennis, astronomy and space. He is very sweet, simple and intelligent boy who is teacher's pet. He is a quiet, calm and sensitive boy who tries not to hurt anyone's feelings. Though he is an outstanding speaker, he never makes me feel inferior. He is a great source of inspiration and strength to me. SCHOOL IS COOL AGAIN

Manav Rachna International School, Sector-46, Gurugram is pretty cool because not only does it help us become better and more informed citizens of the world but it helps us reach our potential on our own terms. It gives us space and the opportunity to be who we truly are and explore our identity as an individual. Personally, I have been impressed and humbled by the opportunity our school provided for young authors such as myself. The Young Authors Felt Pen Programme, started by the school, gave us a chance to experience the gratifying and euphoric feeling of getting published. But more than anything else, you know a school is cool when it listens and respects the wishes of the student body, and MRIS-46 is a perfect example of that.

My partner in crime is my only sibling, my elder brother, Aditya Srivastava, who is a devoted student, though not always with his younger sister. He is somewhat hilarious and always enjoys doing some mischief with his sister. He has always been my partner in various crimes. Consistently, 'We' as gangsters steal sweets and delicacies from the fridge, creep like thieves during midnight, determined not to wake up our parents. Many a times, we keep each other's secrets buried, never to be spoken about. Both of us are inseparable and always tend to look after each other. Each of us get scolded by our parents frequently for lying for each other, that always lands us in danger. Nevertheless, our parents appreciate our enthusiasm and respect for each other.

- AADYA KUMAR (VI)

PARTNER IN CRIME

My partner in crime is my mischievous best friend, Aditi. We've been friends for close to a decade now, and have accompanied each other through the thick and thin of our lives. I personally was glad to have been an important person in her life, and even more fortunate to have spent so much time making memories together with her. We've pulled pranks together, even on each other and have shared countless sweet but extraordinary moments. Our endless jokes and teasing has just made the bond stronger and better. There was a time where we almost lost touch, but I'm elated that we got in contact once again. I really hope for this priceless bond to stay as it is in the future, when we'll be running for jobs, with our lives revolving around our own busy schedules. I hope to celebrate my successes with her, and for us to weep together during sad times. But, no matter what happens, we'll always be each other's Partner in Crime.

PARTNER IN CRIME

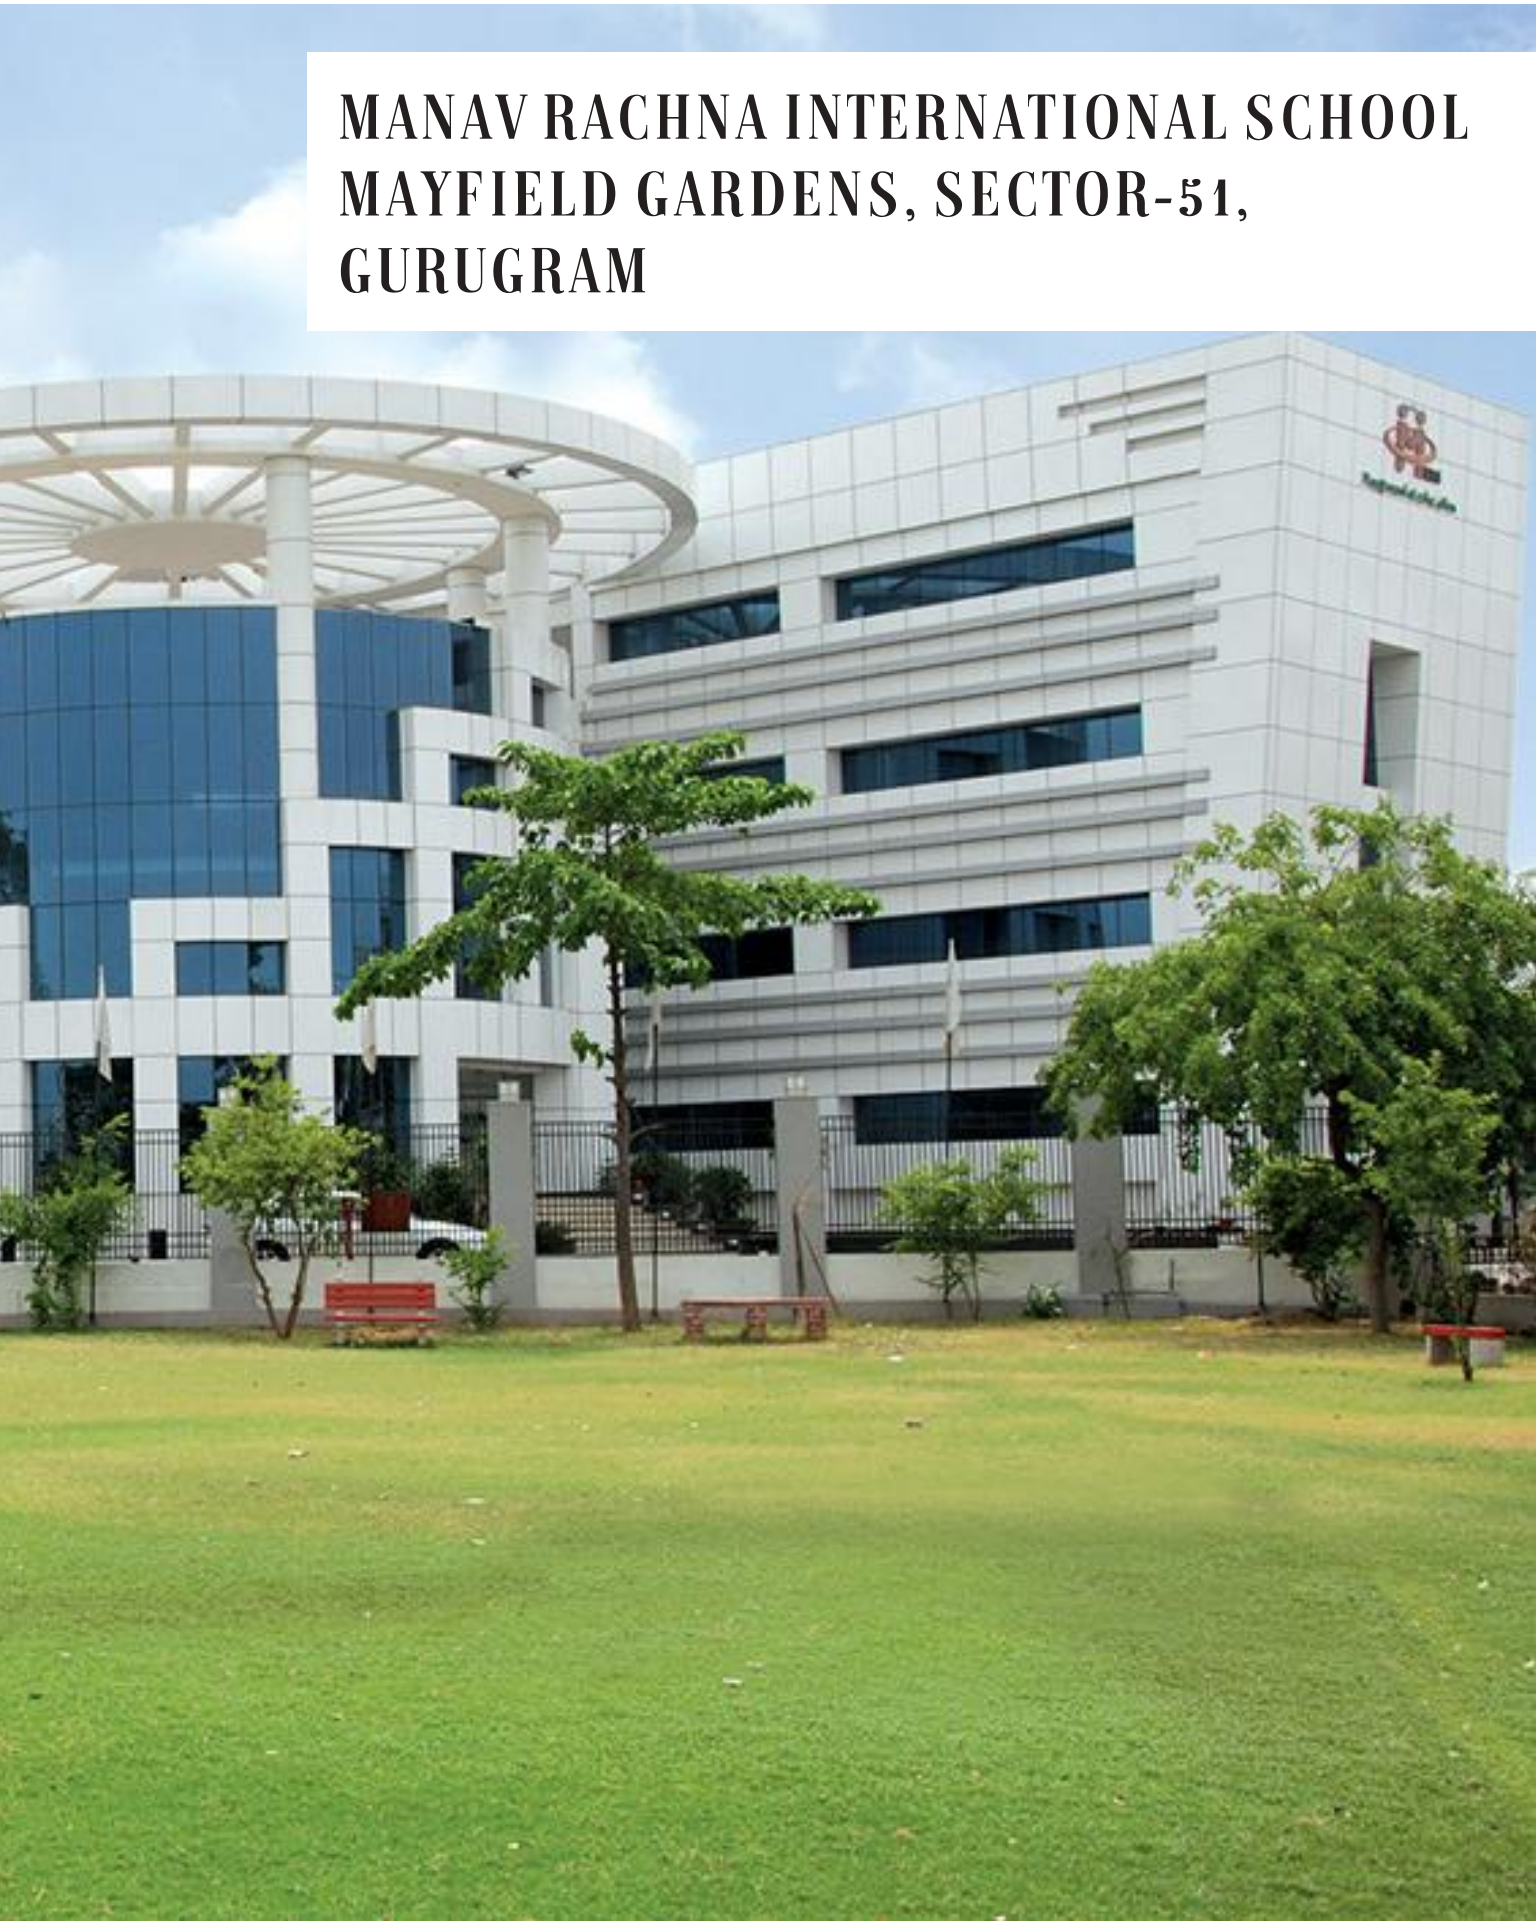

As they say, a good friend knows all your best stories but a best friend has lived them with you. This is so true as my best friend, Niharika, and I have done loads of fun activities together. She is my most promising companion in all the pranks we have pulled off together. For instance, once, we were at my place and decided to do a prank . Niharika could do a very well imitation of our maths teacher so we called one of our friend's mom and Niharika, with the precise imitation of the teacher's voice, told her that Sarah (our friend) had flunked one of the most important class tests. Her mother was outraged and apparently forgot to disconnect the call and started yelling at her daughter. I still remember the loudness and anger in her shouts. We did apologize later though the fun we had was incomparable. We have done so many fun pranks like these and every moment spent with her is my most valued and precious memory. Sure, things did go a bit haywire with our parents after a little adventure but it was completely worth it. Sometimes, having a little fun with your best friend is all the therapy you need.

Subject: My Quotes on 'Your Quote'

Sir,
'Either write something worth reading or do something worth writing.' I am Khanak Amit Jain of Grade VIII Bose, MRIS-51. I am very passionate aboutwriting. I would like to convey to you, through this letter, how an app completely changed my way of writing. I believe that the best apps are the ones that bring people together, or in other words, user-generated apps. 'Your Quote' is India's largest user-generated app for writers of all ages. I had discovered this app earlier this year from a friend, who is also into writing. I liked how everyone wrote their point of view and no one took offense to each other. Also, I often tend to cut and rewrite my poems. Hence, wastage of paper and time was cut short by the app. It helped to change my thinking as well, by reading everyone else's views. Your Quote is truly the most useful app I have ever used. I am happy that during the pandemic we are using technology at its best. I hope this stays the case from here on out.

Yours sincerely,

Subject: Online payment apps - a boon for our lives

Respected Sir,
I am Shaurya Khandelwal from Grade V, Mandela, MRIS sector 51, Gurugram. I would like to share my thoughts on online payment apps. Though in today's scenario it does not need any introduction I got my brush with it sometime back when my mother was ill and my father had to buy some medicines for her. But he was not carrying any cash with him at that time. I saw him paying via a digital payment app that got me intrigued. Initially, I thought it was like rocket science but as I understood the bells and whistles with the help of my father I related it was an easy pie. While earlier I used to correlate an app with games or entertainment, the pandemic has introduced me to the importance of it inour lives. During COVID times when the sudden lockdown was announced and people wanted to avoid physical contact, these online payment apps became our saviour. This was an important step towards 'digital India' a dream and envisaged by our Prime Minister Shri Narendra Modi. An economy that is 'faceless' 'paperless' and 'cashless'. Well, now while my parents may show me an empty wallet I know they have a digital wallet that safely keeps all their money.

SCHOOL IS COOL AGAIN

"I hear I forget.... I see I remember.... I do I understand...."

One learns from books and examples, actual learning requires that you do those things. Education is not only learning of facts but training of minds to think. When we are having a good time, learning becomes easy and not a strenuous task. This year bought a new sense of hope in the minds of people, everything was not so normal but the things were better. The first day back in the classroom was unusual and emotional for both students and teachers. One could observe the mixed feelings of excitement, joy, and confusion among the students, parents, and teachers. My friends got taller in this period and some were even unrecognizable due to their covered faces. We could again feel the spirit of school. We can now see our teachers face-to-face and again have frolicsome conversations with them. The Cool School we missed a lot during these times is Cool Again and we are relishing our each and every moment again.

MOVIE REVIEW

CAMILA CABELLO CINDERELLA

Cinderella is a romantic musical film starring Camila Cabello released on September 3, 2021. It is directed by Kay Cannon. It was based on the idea of the fairytale 'Cinderella'. Some of my favorite songs from the movie are Million to one and Perfect. The story goes as follows; Cinderella lived with her cruel step mother and aspired to become a fashion designer. She fell in love with the prince who wanted to marry her but had leave him to follow her dreams. Fortunately, in the end everything falls into place. This movie is very different from the original fairytale. In the fairytale, Cinderella's stepmother did not let her marry the prince, whereas in the movie, she wanted to leave the prince to follow her dreams. Moreover, the stepmother character did not portray cruelty as she did not want Cinderella to suffer, by following her dreams, like she had. That ruined the personality of the Stepmother from the original fairytale. Also, in end the princess was selected to be the heir not the price unlike the original version. Although I like songs in a movie, this one had a little too much which lead the audience to loose interest. It was very different from the original fairytale. Also the songs could be reduced. Yet the movie was great and supported women empowerment. The princess was selected to be the heir and had amazing ideas. It conveyed an important message of being independent, following your dreams and never giving up on your goals irrespective of your gender. Thus I would recommend others to watch this movie.

BELL BOTTOM

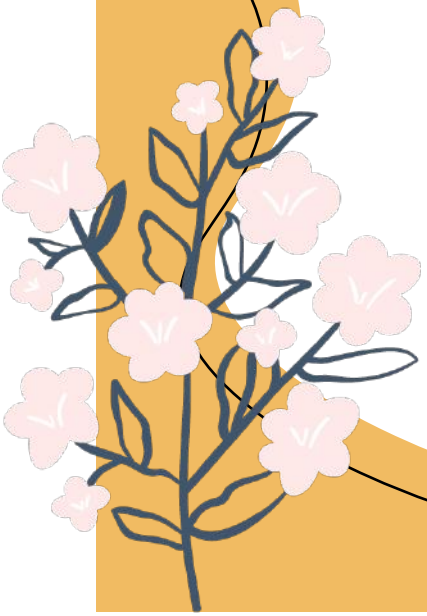

Bellbottom is a story based on real life situation during Indira Gandhi's time as the Prime Minister of India. In the espionage thriller movie, a RAW agent Anshul Malhotra with the code name BELLBOTTOM embarks on a covert mission rescuing 210 hostages and neutralizing 4 hijackers, after a plane is hijacked and lands in Amritsar, the seventh hijacking incident in five years. The fact that his operation is connected to personal tragedy makes it more impactful. Bellbottom is a national-level chess player. He has a sharp memory and is fluent in Hindi, English, French and German. The film is engaging and manages to hold your attention for all of 123 minutes. While you ride along with the story, the incidents that unfold don't really absorb you emotionally. With a film of this genre, you'd expect a lot of goosebump moments such as when at the ending of the movie we get to know that Anshul Malhotra's wife was herself a RAW agent as a talent finder and she was the one who selected BELLBOTTOM. Overall, the film has its flaws, but it doesn't fail to entertain.

My partner in crime is my cousin Sanyam, who is 2-and-a-half years older than me. He and I have had some pretty serious adventures together. Like one time, he went out to meet his friend and I had to cover his back by saying he went to the temple near our house. It was crazy but I covered him well! Once, he concealed my act of climbing the roof for fun. We have had fun by scaring everyone with plastic cockroaches, stealing scooter and riding it, keeping small stones on the blades of the fan and turning it on our cousin etc. The way we hide each other's mischief, we also have an understanding that we won't name one person and split the punishment as we both are ringleaders regardless of who started it. I know that I can depend on him not only in my monkey business but to share some secrets too. He is always there whenever I need him emotionally. I can always reach up to him whenever I am stressed over something. So my brother and I do a lot of crimes but in the end, we are best companions too!

She is someone I can share everything with without the fear of being judged, someone who's company I enjoy the most, with whom I feel the safest and with whom I have the most fun. Of course, we sometimes fight like cats and dogs, but in the end we kiss and make up. Yet she is someone who lifts me up when I fall and shows me the right path. She is a stay at home mother who attends to all my needs. She has always been by my side, especially when I'm indulging in a mischief. We're like a really small gang.

Subject: Effect of cryptocurrency on India

Respected Sir,
Cryptocurrencies is a currency which uses binary data as a source of money exchange; it originated in 2009 as bitcoin. According to reports there are more than 10,000 cryptocurrencies present as of November 2021 and the number of cryptocurrencies are increasing day by day. There are About 2 crore cryptocurrency owners in India cryptocurrencies have come a long way from their relatively obscure origins to a massive market with thousands of options It has taken over the world very fast it for example bitcoin they took 12 years to reach 1 trillion $ market cap cryptocurrencies are a very risky market it goes up and down pretty much every day but cryptocurrencies have proven to be very profitable in the past if they keep on growing, they might just take over banks but as of now in India, there is no legislature that covers cryptocurrencies in India. However, that does not make cryptocurrency illegal in the country and India might it legal in the coming years I personally feel cryptocurrencies have more pros than cons and people should invest a little money in it as it doesn't take any physical space. It is safe and easily transferable; my family also has invested into cryptocurrencies and I look forward to doing it myself. Apps like CoinDCX's made trading in cryptocurrencies easier for the people who want to invest in cryptocurrencies

I am writing this letter to you so that I can tell you about one new technology I learnt about this year. The technology is none other than 'artificial intelligence'. Being an IOS user, I accomplished most of my tasks using the virtual/voice assistant 'siri'. You can ask Siri all kinds of questions, from simple queries about the weather to more complex questions about everything from sports scores to the number of calories in food. Siri can also enable or disable settings, find content, set alarms and reminders, place calls and texts, and so much more. Siri also helps being done with tedious tasks within seconds. You can also control household electronic devices and gadgets. Like controlling the lights, fans etc. just sitting at one place, motionless and only using your voice. I am glad to know more and more about this pretty useful feature and I will surely enhance my knowledge in this topic more and more. Siri can also be very helpful in gaining knowledge if used in fair mean. I am really glad to share this experience of mine about technology with you.

PURSUIT OF HAPPYNESS

The movie portrays the emotions, sacrifices, dreams, pressure and love of an ordinary man.This movie teaches young people and adults a very valuable lesson. It is a family movie, the family should always have faith in one, and moreover, a father and son should always have faith in each other.
Society says that there is always one thing, that father- daughter or mother- son are the most common happy relations, but this movie has changed the perspective of accepting the things that society says.
"Hey. Don't ever let somebody tell you….you can't do something. Not even me."
"The Pursuit of Happyness" counts how Chris, compromises by some bad luck, loses his apartment and, with his 5-year-old child, joins the ranks of the homeless, and not the hopeless. Evicted from the mainstream and bounced from shelter to shelter, Chris holds firm to his dignity, resolve, faith, love and independence. He doesn't want just a better, but a more secure life for him and his child. The ending had the tears flowing, tears of happiness. This movie is worth taking the time to see. It is going to play with your emotions. You are going to cry, laugh, smile along with the characters.
"You deserve to be happy"

I often wonder, Where happiness starts, The journey usually begins, In our hearts. Joy is a mindset. The mindset of seeing the glass half-full. The reasons to be delighted can simply be the smile a newborn brings, the fragrance when rain hits the ground or the satisfaction of helping someone. In fact, we don't require a reason to be happy. For me, joy is not a destination. It's the journey of life, a beautiful one.

Dear Dr Amit Bhalla,

I have recently watched five seasons of the acclaimed OTT series 'The Good Doctor' and it has had an immense impact on me. After watching the show I have realized how it is possible to overcome odds even when one is faced with the biggest challenges and obstacles. In the show, the protagonist Dr Shaun Murphy, is on the autism spectrum with severe emotional and social issues but that doesn't stop him from training to be a surgeon at a leading hospital. The show depicts how Shaun finds support in his colleagues who gradually look beyond his autism and realize how brilliant he is. It tracks his journey from a troublesome childhood to his metamorphosis into an accomplished surgeon who makes an effort to work on his difficulties. 'The Good Doctor' makes one empathize with the protagonist and creates a lot of awareness about what people with special needs have to go through. Thus, it helps viewers become more empathetic towards them.

The show will always have a unique place in my heart as I am a mother of a child with special needs. Watching it made me feel optimistic that children like him can lead meaningful lives with dignity.

Dear Dr Amit Bhalla,

Everyone uses technology in their lives. Apps, in particular, have numerous uses with many of them focusing on education. Educators, especially those teaching Early Years, love to turn a regular lesson into a game to motivate their students. Thankfully, I have come across an application named "Go Kahoot" which enables me to turn a lesson into a game show. Kahoot motivates students to learn, tests their knowledge and helps them in retaining information. With the help of the Go Kahoot application, I am able to create a positive learning environment for my students. The application gives free access to online games and quizzes. It helps in making learning more interesting and increases the attention span of students. I enjoy using Kahoot because the games are fun and help in engaging each child of my class.

SCHOOL IS COOL AGAIN

Indeed school is cool. It has been rightly said that interaction with our teachers and peers is a vital part of the education process. Unfortunately, during the lockdown we were confined to the four walls of our homes and missed all the blessings of normal days. Attending online lessons, using a mobile phone or computer was troublesome mainly due to technical glitches. We understand everything better during physical classes. Not only me, but my friends too are happy to be back in school. We are now waking up early in the mornings and reaching school on time. Thus, trying to bring life back on track. Though this new normal will be a little different, l am very excited to learn with my mentors and friends once again. Finally back to school… I am delighted!

The feeling is indescribable.

SCHOOL IS COOL AGAIN

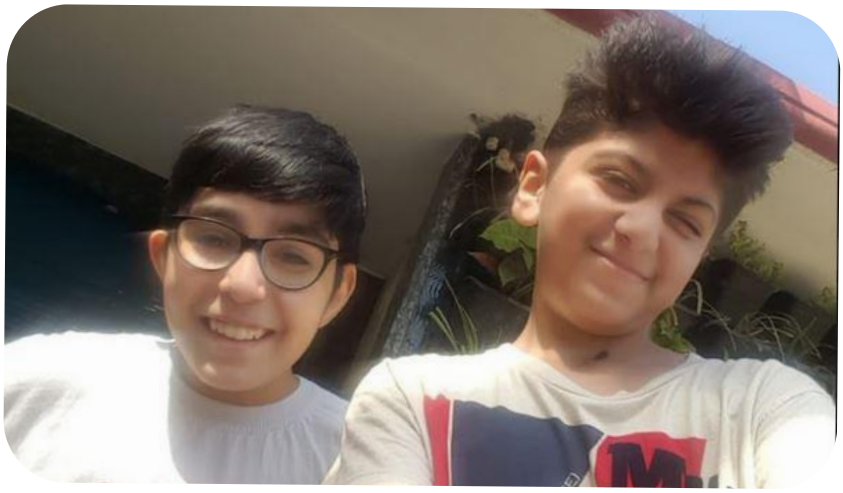

School has always been a very important and crucial part of our lives as students. It is here that we learn to share, communicate and build relationships. After more than one and a half years things seem to be in favour of students and teachers. Our teachers gave their best during the online classes. Now that things are stable we are back at our campus and following Covid-19 appropriate behavior. It feels like a new and a totally different experience -- along with it being an emotional journey. Finally we have got to meet our friends and teachers and are reminded of the memories we made here. Though the school isn't operating at its full strength but as I walk through the corridors, my memories get refreshed. Seeing the computer lab and the library reminds me what all we have missed in the year that has gone by. Playing in the basketball court and on the field makes me very happy. It feels wonderful to be back on campus.

A true friend and partner in crime is simply someone around whom you can be your absolute self. A true friend will always be there to catch you whenever you fall.

Between such friends there is a lot of integrity and honesty. I met him when I had just shifted to my current residence and on meeting him I found out that we were quite similar and would soon be best friends.

Rishit is a year younger to me but really kind and supportive. Besides being a big fan of reading books and playing games, he also loves science like me. Over the past three years we have made memories that we will cherish forever.

Once I ended up in an argument with a bully and Rishit helped me get out of it. I am lucky to have him as my best friend and would not trade our friendship for anything in the world.

Subject: Innovative Idea for Academic Institutions

Sir
As the new era commences, we as the young population of this generation are delegated to give a thought on the future of Artificial Intelligence and how it can affect our academic institutions to make our life a little bit easier. For the same purpose, the students at MRIS Mohali have successfully made a prototype of a Self-Controllable system to be implemented in every classroom. The system focuses on substantially expanding the accessibility of class in-charges enabling them to perform tasks in the class which normally would not be possible for them to do so. A small Camera-like device pre-installed with built-in microphones and speakers will be stationed in every class of a particular school which can be controlled by the class in-charges at the comfort of their homes or cars stuck in major traffic. Supposedly, a teacher is not able to get to the institution on time due to a particular reason, she is given access to the camera system attached in the class and can personally give an announcement to the class regarding her reason for being late. She can even turn off the lights without moving a muscle if her students forget to do so.
This Idea can help bring a significant escalation in the way institutions function and can help save time and thus increase productivity of the users.

Thank you
Yours truly

Dear Dr. Amit Bhalla,

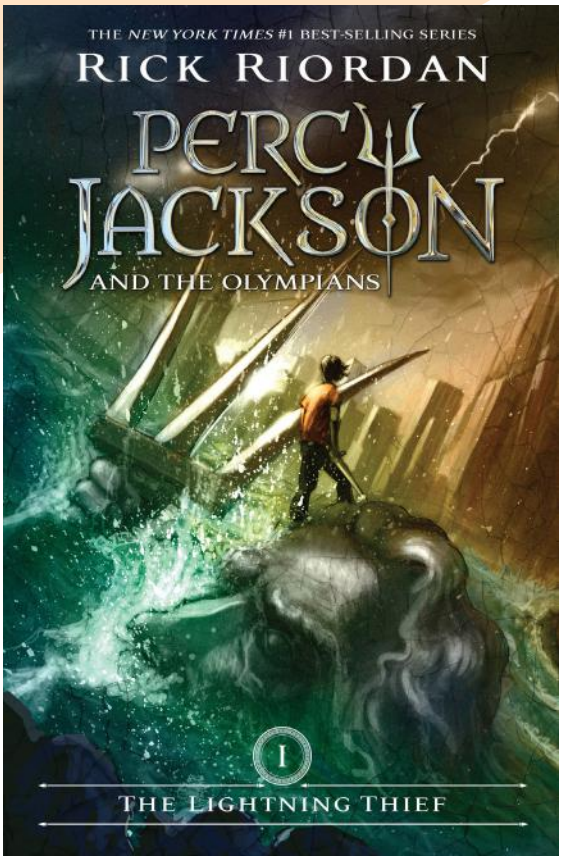

As I type this letter to you, I'm simultaneously observing an online session in Grade I where all I can see and hear is curious eyes and contagious giggles. No the children aren't in a free session or celebration, they are learning. I marvel at this moment because growing up we never thought learning could be so much fun, did we? A process that could evoke laughter or involve joy. With initial hiccups of online education far behind us, everyone emerged triumphant as we all embraced technology. This was the time that was reaped well, rather excellently, by the app developers!

One such blessing has been an app called Kahoot, an amazing user friendly app that helps educators in creating fun quizzes for their sessions. The same mundane concepts when taught through fun apps, stimulates competitiveness, enthusiasm and curiosity amongst students. Added animations and visuals adds to the charm of playing while learning. Including reading apps like Epic too have enhanced the oratory skills of young minds like never before!

Technology is a boon and educators worldwide have definitely made the most of it. Let's keep the tech-spirits high even as we slowly resume normalcy.

BOOK REVIEW

PERCY JACKSON

In this review , I will be talking about Percy Jackson And The Olympians since this is the first series he has written and you guys won't understand a thing if I would get on with The Trials Of Apollo or The Heroes Of Olympus . In this book ADHD teenager Percy Jackson finds himself in the midst of quests , monster-fighting , slaying monsters and other usual demi-god stuff . Slaying monster or homework ? Tough choice . This book series is based on Greek mythology and also tells you about it, so people who don't even know a thing about Greek mythology can still have fun reading it . Percy lives with demi-gods (I'll tell you guys about them in a bit) in a special,only visible to deities and demi-gods place called Camp Half-Blood . Demi-gods are the children of a god or goddess and a human , like Percy here is the son of Poseidon - God of Water , and his mom is Sally Jackson , a mere human . This series consists of Percy and his friends doing death-defying quests which include defeating Titans and hordes of monsters like dracaena , dragons, cyclops and giants . It also includes contemporary references and comedy at a high level which makes this series a whole lot interesting .

AFTER THE STORM

Ryota, a prize-winning author turned private detective, unable to live in the present, attempts to reconnect with his broken family after the death of his father. Being stuck in his mother's home with his ex-wife and son amid a stormy night leads to heartful conversations portraying subtle human emotions.

An underrated film which is both wholesome and balanced, "After the storm" is thought provoking and helps us reconsider our own insecurities in life. This story is filled with nuances and without dramatic twists and turns, but the honest and real characterization and tiny detailed gestures engage the viewers and touches their heart.

A best friend is who supports you during rough times and gives you advice in tough times.

Somebody once said "Friends are the family we choose, so be wise",

SCHOOL IS COOL AGAIN

SCHOOL IS COOL AGAIN

It's one of my favorite seasons of the year: Back to School.

I always waited for the school to open again and was really delighted to come back to school. There have been innumerable reasons why I love to come to school. One thing that I learned during the virtual sessions was that no one can replace the teachers. This really invigorated me to come back to the school. There have been many reasons that cheered me to come to the school. One of the reasons is that it has helped me in bringing the best out of me. It not only exposed me to new ideas but also to same aged compatriots. This instills sociable practices such as empathy, friendship, participation, assistance which turn out to be important in their adulthood. Also how can we forget the fun talks with classmates and teachers, lunch break, cultural activities and many more exciting things. Another thing was that I started performing best when I came to the schools, thanks to the teachers and their teaching. Once beautifully said by Dana Stewart Scott," Learn as much as you can while you are young, since life becomes too busy later." I completely agree with these lines as during the pandemic, being stuck at our homes, limited our exploration insight. But after coming to school, as usual, we were involved in many exploring and exciting platforms where I Was able to get the best of me and get to know about my hidden talents. I would never want the schools to be closed again so that we can continue the same and be more and more creative.

MR INNOVATES

Dear Editor,

I'm writing this letter to appreciate the willingness of my school to offer every possible direction and assistance required in my projects.

My curiosity to apprise myself about the working of my toys, introduced me to toy motors. The journey didn't stop there and I gradually started using a microcontroller 'Arduino Uno' to create something new.

Zeal of school to participate in various interschool competitions brought me an opportunity to showcase my knowledge through my project 'Plant Savior'. Based on the theme 'Green India', this project helped save tons of water wasted due to over irrigation. With the help of Soil Humidity Sensor and Arduino Uno, exact amount of water is supplied to plants as per their individual requirements. This automated watering system of plants brings accuracy in watering along with saving time and being highly cost effective too. Using Arduino Uno and my creative thinking; many interesting recipes of innovation came my way. Projects named 'Smart stick for blinds', 'Smart Desktop Bin' and 'LED Distance indicator', are few of them.

All this would not have been possible without my school's unwavering support and encouragement.

Thank You

Dear Sir,

I want to express my sincere gratitude for being our able mentor and a guiding force who has been constantly working 24/7 to provide the best curriculum and facilitators, who can further mould the students and make them lifelong learners. I am associated with MRIS-Ludhiana since 2018 and have seen myself growing in each learning domain, be it academic or co-curricular. I am extremely ecstatic to share that I wrote and published a book named "Ash Stewart-My wishful thinking". This has been possible only because I could inspire myself from the exposure to vast opportunities provided by the school. My journey did not stop here as I felt a growing interest to learn programming. I have created a few projects, such as games for children under 5 years, a calculator that solves the problem of core mathematical operations, an application that finds the perimeter and area of polygons etc. Currently, I am designing my own website which I intend to complete within the next 20 days with the assistance of my teachers and mentors. In the end, I would say that I am blessed to be a part of such an institute that has made me braver and smarter than I believed.

THE TRIAL

Franz Kafka's novel 'The Trial' written between 1914 and 1915, one of his best-known works. Intensely nightmarish portrayal of justice, the protagonist Joseph K., an ordinary bank clerk who is suddenly arrested one day and forced to defend against the charges whose nature is never revealed to him nor to the readers leading to unintentionally abrupt execution. Despite the simple story/theme, the beauty of the book lies in its details and perception, the way different human emotions are portrayed. The message of the cruel, incomprehensibility of life and the powerlessness of the individual is harsh and callous dispassion. The Novel leaves the reader with an overwhelming sense of perplexity. After reading 'The Trial' I was left emotionally distant and with a lot of questions, I can't say it is the feeling that I enjoyed but it surely makes you think on a very deep level and the moments of clarity and flashes of insight is an experience I intend to repeat. Should you read this? Absolutely without any questions the book leaves you in awe when you catch the glimpse of the deeper meaning he is trying to convey through his prose, the evil of the mindless bureaucracy. whether you read it as existential prose, a parable, or as the prophecy of modern bureaucracy it is a must read.

IT'S OKAY NOT TO BE OKAY

A very new-fangled and uniquely plotted K-drama, "It's Okay to not be Okay" was released in August 2020 with a famous cast of popular Korean actors, written by Jo Yong, directed by Park Shin-woo. The direction of each episode is swoon-worthy that it engages the audience with a spur of the moment. It has gathered remembrance all over the globe with its genre as a rom-com and mental health awareness. Full of jaw-dropping moments, this tale has stolen the hearts of people of all ages. The entire drama deals with raising issues of psychiatric illness. Not only this, elements like butterflies, childhood memories, fears, deaths, and parents all link up to bind the story towards the end. Optimism in the sequence is unbeatable as it clicks each mind with a richness of thinking that fears, psychosis, and grudges are such essential parts of lives that we wish to be immune from. Being mentally unstable does not count for being petrified. The cinematics and each shot of the series is so manifesting and aesthetically pleasing.

Going down the memory lane 2 years back I still remember it was my English period and I forgot my book at home as I was revising for the upcoming exam. I told Arzoi while we were travelling together to school. English Mam always believed in discipline & decorum and announced that day those not carrying English book will not be allowed to appear for the exam due to non - serious attitude. She started checking books and my heart was galloping with fear as I will loose impression on Mam, suddenly I saw Arzoi coming to my class and handing over a book to my Mam. It was my English book with my name on it but actually not my book, Arzoi had changed the cover to save me from the punishment. I was touched and became very emotional. Class ended and then peon came to my class with a book and guess what, it was my English book sent by my Mom as she figured out I left it on dining table by mistake. Whole class was numb and after a pause they started laughing & praised Arzoi for her loyalty. Also a classmate made a beautiful slogan on us:

When we don't have a partner in crime, we usually blame our imaginary twin for our faults but have a partner in crime in our life adds fuel to fire to our mischievousness. My partner in crime is my brother and making one is not an onerous task. My brother's name is Bhaagwat Sharma and he studies in grade 11.He always talks through hat with me.I am grateful to him as my contemporary. He considers Mr. Narendra Modi as his idol. He desires to become a computer science engineer and family too helps him to achieve his dream. My brother studies the entire day but during his leisure time , I am his prey as he disturbs me a lot. After he disturbs me , I go haywire and I punch him very hardly but somehow he shows me a clean pair of shoes. Our quarrel is very famous amongst our family as we break a lot of things.He can't even get up to take adam's ale because he is a very sluggish guy.I would to conclude by saying that my brother is a jewel in the crown for me as well as my family
