Schools can have many goals, some bland or unmotivating. The distant goal of gainful employment is not motivating to children. At Jonathan Edwards Classical Academy, students discover the most compelling reason for study: God is making Himself known in all His works. When we study anything, we can come to love Him more. That's why JECA focuses on the great works and ideas that have shaped our culture for centuries. We teach students to love God in the ways He makes Himself known—in nature, reason, the works of man, and His Word. God's glory is evident in every discipline, from kindergarten phonics to our 12th grade capstone thesis. Our mission is to assist Christian families in raising lifelong learners who, with wisdom and beauty, influence their world for Christ.
