AudiVax is a supplement meant to repair hearing loss without the need for surgery, medicine, or conventional therapies.

Using this "secret" Indian recipe, AudiVax is reportedly able to assist users enhance their hearing and avoid the onset of hearing loss in older persons.

If your hearing is not as good as it once was and you want to do something about it without using a hearing aid or undergoing surgery, AudiVax may be a viable option for you.

What exactly is AudiVax?

As previously stated, AudiVax is a dietary supplement that promises to promote good hearing. According to the product's official website, the mixture employs natural herbal compounds to battle inflammation, which hinders the body's capacity to absorb sounds.

AudiVax was allegedly developed by a medical researcher with over 20 years of experience called Eric Kitzenberg. Eric Kitzenberg claims that he began losing his hearing at an early age, to the point that he found it difficult to connect with people.

Eric Kitzenberg opted to alternative medicine in place of intrusive hearing aids or possibly harmful surgical treatments in order to enhance his hearing. This led him to encounter Sri Chimnoy, a "health guru" who assisted him in developing AudiVax.

After a few months of utilizing AudiVax, Eric Kitzenberg claimed to have had a full reversal. Not only could he hear again, but his hearing was greater than it had ever been. His accomplishment motivated him to introduce AudiVax to the public so that others might enjoy the same outcomes he did.

How does AudiVax function?

According to the designer, a shortage of filial cells is the underlying cause of hearing loss. These cells contribute to the body's capacity to process sound via the ear. Certain drugs may assist the body in producing these cells, but they are pricey and often expensive.

AudiVax is a mix of natural substances that are said to stimulate the production of more neural cells, allowing the brain to absorb sounds more effectively.

Moreover, research indicates that inflammation in the ear might hinder the brain's capacity to process sounds. AudiVax helps to naturally decrease inflammation in the brain so that sound waves can be processed quickly and effectively.

AudiVax is a combination of around a dozen vitamins, minerals, and plant extracts to promote hearing. However, according to Eric Kitzenberg, the major advantages of AudiVax are really the result of nine key elements. These nine components consist of:

Rhodiola rosea: Rhodiola rosea is a herb that decreases inflammation in the central nervous system and is one of AudiVax's key constituents. According to Eric Kitzenberg, the central nervous system is responsible for hearing. Daily use of Rhodiola Rosea in AudiVax may reduce hearing-related brain waves and prevent the formation of earwax, making it an effective two-step hearing loss component. In Ayurvedic medicine, Rhodiola Rosea has been utilized for centuries as a natural stress reliever (also known as an adaptogen).

Ashwagandha is another well-known adaptogen that has been used for centuries in Ayurvedic medicine. According to Eric Kitzenberg, the ashwagandha in AudiVax strengthens eardrums, decreases background noise, and stimulates hearing-related filial cell growth, making it a suitable plant for those with hearing loss.

AudiVax includes chamomile, which is a popular ingredient in tea. According to Eric Kitzenberg, the chamomile in AudiVax decreases hearing-related inflammation as well as inflammation in the ear and across the body. Eric Kitzenberg believes that the tea has "great advantages for the hearing impaired" due to these effects.

Extract of lemon balm, another well-known soothing plant, is supposed to improve hearing by increasing oxygen flow to the eardrums. If inadequate oxygen flow is the cause of your hearing issues, AudiVax's lemon balm extract may be able to assist.

According to Eric Kitzenberg, AudiVax includes skullcap, which also activates hearing-related filial cells. Skullcap, an Indian native, has been used in scores of studies with hundreds of volunteers.

Eric Kitzenberg claims that the hawthorn in AudiVax improves circulation and lowers blood pressure. Hearing depends on blood circulation. If your ear and inner ear cells do not get sufficient blood flow, you will have difficulty hearing. AudiVax utilizes Hawthorn to fix this issue.

According to Eric Kitzenberg, passionflower has a "excellent capacity to restore hearing" and is widely included in sleep aids and soothing aids. It facilitates the relaxation and rest of hearing cells.

Valerian: Another prominent element in sleep aids, valerian is known for soothing the body and mind. According to AudiVax, valerian may make your hearing more strong and powerful while also promoting the formation of new cells by acting as a sedative for your brain and nervous system.

Is AudiVax Risk-Free? - Potential AudiVax Adverse Effects

AudiVax was created not just to be a successful hearing loss treatment, but also to be safe. As a result, there have been no recorded adverse effects associated with this product as of this writing.

In rare instances, any dietary supplement may produce mild stomach pain, nausea, or headache. AudiVax is comparable. However, the likelihood of this occurring is quite low, and if it does occur, it will likely be small and transient.

Although AudiVax is intended to be harmless for everyone, you should still take care. Before using AudiVax, you should see your physician if you are taking prescription medicine or have a medical condition to check that it is safe for you.
