Product choice guide

TAPES AND ADHESIVES

Types of Adhesives:

Acrylic

- ▶ Value for money option
- ▶ Adheres well to virgin grade cardboard, however it does not adhere well to recycled grade cardboard
- ▶ Adheres well to plastics such as, bubble wrap and plastic bags
- ▶ Works well in cold environments such as cold-rooms and freezer-rooms

Hot Melt (Synthetic Rubber)

- ▶ Most common general-purpose packaging tape
- ▶ Adheres well to most surfaces including recycled grade cardboard, virgin grade cardboard and plastics
- ▶ Ideal for use in ambient temperatures; not suited for use in cold rooms

Natural Rubber Solvent

- ▶ Most aggressive adhesive type; has strong initial tack, and the bond will increase strength over time
- ▶ Adheres well to most surfaces including recycled grade cardboard, virgin grade cardboard and plastics
- ▶ The tape will 'yellow' over time due to its natural rubber properties
- ▶ Works well in cold environments such as cold-rooms and freezer-rooms

Other Tapes:

Dispensing Advice

Tape Dispensers - pages 12-13

- ▶ For best results, apply tapes on a clean, dry surface that is free from dust and dirt
- ▶ Avoid stretching the tape when applying as this can weaken the adhesion
- ▶ Run your hand over the tape after applying it to ensure it has bonded firmly onto the surface

Select the right breaking strain:

Use this simple formula to help calculate the breaking strain of strapping you need for your product:

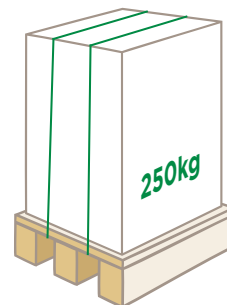

(Load Weight x 1.5) / No. of straps

For example:

Item weight 250kg and two straps will be applied:

$(250\text{kg} \times 1.5) / 2 = 187.5\text{kg}$

187.5kg Break Strength required as minimum
