58 Years of Great Golf
in Colorado

T H E R E C O R D B O O K

In 2004, the Colorado Open Championships moved to their new home at Green Valley Ranch Golf Club in Denver. This marked the first time in history that the Colorado Women's Open, Colorado Open and Colorado Senior Open all shared the same sponsors and host site. Green Valley Ranch Golf Club provides a variety of teeing grounds making it a challenge for all three fields. The following pages detail the year by year results and records for these prestigious events.

We also want to take this opportunity to thank the Colorado Golf Association and Colorado Section of the PGA for the lead roles that they play in the Colorado Women's Open and Colorado Open, and Colorado Senior Open respectively. Their dedication and professionalism bring enormous strength, validity and quality to the Championships and it is because of their efforts that the events detailed in this book truly came to life. — Thank you!

History of the Colorado Open Championships

Written by Ed Mate

THE COLORADO OPEN CHAMPIONSHIP HAS LONG BEEN recognized as one of the best (if not THE best) state opens in the country. There are many ingredients that contribute to an event's success, but three of the most important are great players, a great purse and great venues. Over its 55-year history the Colorado Open has enjoyed an abundance of all three.

For its first 27 years the Colorado Open was held at Hiwan Golf Club in Evergreen. Hiwan's undulating terrain, lightning-quick greens and majestic pine trees gave the event a very strong resemblance to Augusta National. It's no wonder the tournament developed a reputation as "The Masters" of state opens. Add to that mix a great field of professionals and some of the country's finest amateurs and you have all the ingredients for some magical golf.

During the Hiwan years the list of champions included the likes of Dave Hill, Al Geiberger, Willie Wood, Mark Weibe and Steve Jones. At that time the Colorado Open took full advantage of a scheduling coup which placed the tournament the week prior to the Broadmoor Invitational. This allowed some of the country's best amateurs to come to Colorado for two consecutive weeks to play the Colorado Open at Hiwan and follow that with the Broadmoor Invitational a week later. Peter Jacobsen, Bob Tway, Steve Jones, Corey Pavin, Steve Elkington, Phil Mickelson—all of these players won the low amateur crown at the Colorado Open during the Hiwan years.

In 1992, after a wonderful 27-year affiliation with Craig Hospital, the University of Colorado Foundation took over operations of the tournament and brought the event to Inverness Hotel and Golf Club in Englewood. In 1992, with the addition of First Data Corporation as title sponsor, the purse was increased by $25,000 to $125,000, making it the largest purse of any state open in the country. Colorado's own Brandt Jobe won the event that first year at Inverness—his first win as a professional and a win which catapulted his career as a touring pro in Asia, Japan and later on the PGA Tour. Another Colorado player—Jonathan Kaye, put the finishing touches on his first professional win at the Colorado Open in 1996 with a chip-in birdie on the 18th hole.

In 1998 the Colorado Open moved to Saddlerock Golf Course in Aurora where it enjoyed three very successful championships. All three winners at Saddlerock were products of Colorado junior golf: Shane Bertsch (who now plays on PGA Tour Champions), Bill Riddle and Scott Petersen (who played on the Nationwide Tour).

In 2001 the Colorado Open traveled to Sonnenalp Golf Club in Edwards—a venue which brought back a Hiwan-esque feel. A mountain setting, lightning-quick greens and a golf course that put a premium on accuracy over length once again brought some of the short-game wizards to the top of the leaderboard. Players like James Blair of Utah, the fourth all-time leading money winner in the Colorado Open, once again found himself in contention. Blair hung around the lead in that first event at Sonnenalp, but in the end it was an up-and-coming player--also from Utah--Brett Wayment, who finished on top. In 2002 Kevin Stadler, son of PGA Tour veteran Craig Stadler, joined the long list of players to make the Colorado Open his first professional win. Stadler's victory came on the first hole of sudden-death over PGA Tour veteran Gary Hallberg and Nationwide player Brian Kortan. Stadler set up his win with a towering 250-yard 4-metal approach to the par-five 18th on the first hole of sudden-death to set up an easy two-putt birdie.

In addition to the Men's Open, Colorado has also produced two other marquee state golf championships. In 1995, the Colorado Women's Open was started and in 1999 the Colorado Senior Open was added to the Colorado Open Championship docket. The Colorado Women's Open was first held at Fox Hollow Golf Course in Lakewood and then at Meridian Golf Club in Englewood. From 1997 through 2003 the tournament enjoyed a seven-year run at Valley Country Club. For the past 25 years the Colorado Women's Open has played an important role in developing future stars in women's golf. Many past Colorado Women's Open participants have gone on to careers on the Symetra Tour and LPGA, and, like the Men's Open, the tournament has showcased outstanding play from the region's best women amateur players as well.

The Colorado Senior Open was first held in 1999 at Plum Creek Golf & Country Club in Castle Rock. Colorado Golf Hall of Famer John Olive out-duelled a field of 120 senior professional and amateurs to become the event's first champion. The event was held at Plum Creek again in 2000 before moving to Westminster's Heritage at Westmoor in 2001 and 2003. Since coming to Green Valley Ranch Golf Club in 2004, the Senior Open has had many PGA Tour Champions members in the field, as well as some of Colorado's most notable seniors. Winners include R.W. Eaks, Jeff Gallagher and John Riegger from the PGA Tour Champions, and Colorado's own Bill Loeffler, Doug Rohrbaugh and Mike Zarella to name a few. Bill Loeffler's victory in 2009 marked his fourth total Colorado Open championships win.

Since 2004, all three championships have been home at the award winning Green Valley Ranch Golf Club in Denver. This exceptional public golf course provides a wonderful challenge for all of the current championship participants. While each of these championships have served different segments of the competitive golf spectrum they share many common denominators. All have been run at the highest level of professionalism and quality. All have provided an opportunity for the state's best golfers (amateurs and professionals alike) to compete for the top prize in Colorado golf. All have reached out to the region's best players and encouraged participation from players in Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Montana, Wyoming and other Rocky Mountain states. All have showcased some of the best venues in our state and the unique charm of high altitude golf. And all have played an important role in the community by raising dollars and awareness for worthwhile charitable organizations.

2016 marked a new era with CoBank, a $138 billion agriculture business bank located in the Denver suburb of Greenwood Village, replacing HealthONE as the title sponsor after 12 years. The Men's Open also saw the purse increase to $250,000, with $100,000 going to the winner. In 2017, the purse of the Women's Open doubled to $150,000 and first place prize increased from $11,000 to $50,000. In 2020, the purse of the Colorado Senior Open increased 30% to $65,000 and first place increased from $8,500 to $12,500.

2022 highlighted a number of changes for the championships. Inspirato, a luxury travel subscription company based in Denver, took over as title sponsor. As part of their 5-year commitment, the Colorado Women's Open purse increased to match the Colorado Open - a $250,000 purse and $100,000 first place prize! This marked a major milestone in state open and global golf history - the first time the men and women played for equal purses. The Colorado Senior Open purse increased from $65,000 to $90,000 and first place increased from $12,500 to $18,000. All three Colorado Opens currently have the highest state open purses in the country.

Most importantly, the Colorado Open, the Colorado Women's Open and the Colorado Senior Open all represent the wonderful history of competitive golf in the state of Colorado. It's a history we're all proud of, and a history that has laid a great foundation for what are widely regarded as the best state opens in the country.

Colorado Open Awards

THE RALPH MOORE GOLF JOURNALISM AWARD

> This award honors Ralph W. Moore, Jr., whose nearly 30 years of covering golf for The Denver Post included 23 U.S. Opens, 21 Masters Tournaments, 10 PGA Championships and all Denver LPGA events from 1972-1985. Moore's contribution to the game included helping to found the Colorado Golf Hall of Fame and Colorado Sports Hall of Fame, as well as helping Bob Hickman and Bob Kirchner put on the first Colorado Open. In remembrance of all he did for the game of golf, the Colorado Open's Ralph Moore Golf Journalism Award is dedicated to forwarding the pursuit of excellence in golf reporting.

COLORADO OPEN

> The Colorado Open began in 1964 and called Hiwan Golf Club in Evergreen home for 27 glorious years. The championship then moved to Inverness Golf Club in Englewood from 1992-1997. From 1998-2000 the championship was played at Saddle Rock Golf Course in Aurora, and then Sonnenalp Golf Club in Edwards for two years before reaching its current home at Green Valley Ranch Golf Club in 2004. In 2007, the championship was held simultaneously with the Colorado Women's Open and Saddleback Golf Club in Firestone co-hosted both events with Green Valley Ranch Golf Club.

Colorado Open PAST CLUB TEAM CHAMPIONS

>From 1964 through 1970, the Club Team Championship was decided by the 54-hole scores of the club-affiliated professional and any three amateur members of his club entered in the tournament. From 1971 to 1981, the basis for scoring was the 36-hole scores of the club-affiliated professional and any three members of the club entered in the tournament. After being discontinued in 1981, the Club Team Championship was re-established in 2007. In 2007 & 2008 the format was scored over 18-holes and awarded the title to the team with the highest combined stableford point total of the four members of the team. Teams were comprised of a professional, male amateur, female amateur and junior amateur from the same club. The current format pairs a club-affiliated professional and any three amateur from the same club to compete together in a combined low gross/low net stroke play competition contested over 18 holes. The event was retired after 2009.

Colorado Open COLORADO OPEN PRO-JUNIOR

> In 2007, the Colorado Open Pro-Junior was added to the championship schedule. This fun event is contested over 9-holes on the par-3 course at Green Valley Ranch Golf Club. In 2007 & 2008 each of the four chapters of the First Tee in Colorado fielded up to 9 two-person teams comprised of child and a related adult. The team from each chapter with the lowest alternate shot team score represented the chapter in the finals. The "Final Four" played off for the championship title. The current format pairs a member of the First Tee with a competitor from the Colorado Open Championship field. The contest is scored over 9-holes and awards the title to the team with the lowest alternate shot score.

COLORADO WOMEN'S OPEN

> In 1995, the women's flight of the Colorado Open was expanded to a two-day championship tournament. The inaugural 36-hole event was played at Fox Hollow Golf Club for a purse of $15,000. The tournament spent one year at Meridian Golf Club before moving to Valley Country Club in 1997, where it stayed until reaching its new home at Green Valley Ranch Golf Club in 2004. In 2007, the championship was contested over 72 holes and conducted simultaneously with the Colorado Open. Saddleback Golf co-hosted sites by co-hosting the events with Green Valley Ranch. 2008 introduced a Pro-Am Team Competition whereby 40 professionals in the Championship are paired with a net-amateur and the team event is contested simultaneously with the traditional individual event. The purse was increased to $150,000 in 2017 with the first place prize being $50,000. In 2022, the purse was increased to match that of the Colorado Open - $250,000 – with the champion receiving $100,000.

COLORADO SENIOR OPEN

> In 1999, the Colorado Open added a two-day Senior Open Championship to its tournament events. The inaugural 36-hole event was played at Plum Creek Golf Club in Castle Rock for a purse of $50,000. In 2001, the tournament was held at The Heritage at Westmoor. After being cancelled in 2002, the tournament returned to The Heritage at Westmoor for one year before moving to its new home at Green Valley Ranch Golf Club in 2004.
