From The Minto Album

South & South East collection, Victoria and Albert Museum, Kensington UK . Text is from VAM collection object notes.

Persian inscriptions identify the rider as Abdullah Khan Uzbek, the ruler of Samarqand, and the artist as Nader az-zaman, or 'Wonder of the Age'. Jahangir gave this title to Abu'l Hasan, one of his two greatest artists. Abdullah Khan Uzbek had never visited the Mughal court, so the artist had to rely on descriptions. The painting was later extended at top and bottom, and given new floral borders for inclusion in an album of Shah Jahan.

Several versions of the painting are known. This one was mounted within floral borders on one side of a folio for an album, now dispersed, conventionally known as the Minto Album. The other side of the folio (IM.20a-1925) has a panel of illuminated calligraphy with very fine borders decorated with gold painting on an indigo ground.

The Desert Bred Education Committee would like to extend a huge thank-you to all those who have supported our efforts through the years and in particular our catalog this year.

You are deeply appreciated!!

Saluki Generations Explained in Relation to SPDBS CRN Registration

Generation refers to:

the position in a pedigree a parent, grandparent, great-grandparent holds or the number of breeding generations from Country of Origin*.

A Generation 0 is a Saluki whelped in a Middle Eastern country without Full FCI affiliation
EXAMPLE:

Imported Saluki Generation 0

(Sire in Middle East x Dam in Middle East)

A Generation 1 is a Saluki with

a) Both parents whelped in a Middle Eastern Country WITH FCI affiliation.

b) One or both parents is one generation from a Middle Eastern country with SPDBS or FCI registration.

c) One parent may be AKC or FCI registered.

EXAMPLE:

a) Imported Saluki Generation 1

(Sire in Middle East with FCI x Dam in Middle East with FCI)

b) USA Saluki Generation 1

(SPDBS or FCI registered Sire x SPDBS or FCI registered Dam)

c) USA Saluki Generation 1

(AKC or SPDBS or FCI registered Sire x AKC or SPDBS or FCI registered Dam.)

A Generation 2 is a Saluki with

a) one or more grand-parents whelped in the Middle Eastern country without FCI affiliation.

b) All four grand-parents are two or more generations from the Middle East.

c) All grand-parents except one may be AKC or FCI registered.

A Generation 3 is a Saluki with a complete registered pedigree descended from a Middle Eastern import in the 4th generation.

All ancestors are three or more generations (parents, grandparents, great-grandparents) from the Middle East.

- ◆ Many, but not all Middle Eastern Countries, do not have Studbooks recognized by FCI. At this time, Bahrain, Israel, and Turkey are Full Partners with FCI. Turkey does not yet have a Saluki Parent Club. Several countries including Iran and the UAE have entered the first stage of FCI acceptance.
- ◆ Middle Eastern Saluki imports with complete three-generation FCI pedigrees from countries with AKC accepted Studbooks are accepted by AKC thus are not eligible for application to the SPDBS Domestic Registry unless the pedigree is incomplete.
- ◆ Middle Eastern Saluki imports without complete three-generation FCI pedigrees may enter the SPDBS Domestic Registry upon completing the required documentation.
- ◆ Pedigrees in the SPDBS Domestic Registry may be a combination of Desert Bred, AKC, or FCI registration. Generational status is always determined by the individual closest to Country of Origin.

Questions regarding import registrations should be directed to the SPDBS Registrar at www.desertbred.org

*Country of Origin = the Middle Eastern country in which an imported Saluki is whelped.

+ FCI affiliation = FCI registration

Where are our Desert Breds?? Mary Beth Rogers

As we showcase our Country of Origin Salukis for the 36th time, and celebrate our Generation 3 transitions and our program successes, it seems well past time to talk about what is happening in the homelands of our Salukis.

We all are aware of the toll global conflict is taking, but we often do not reflect on how our changing way of life affects how people live, in a literal sense. There are no camel caravans traversing the sands of the Rub' al Khali, it is now a tourist destination. On most of the Arabian Peninsula there is no longer hunting. Most Bedouin are no longer nomadic as great wealth, commerce and modernization have overtaken the region. Hard borders have stopped the Bedouin way of life. The culture that has sustained our Salukis on the Arabian Peninsula has ended.

Turkey is slightly better off as the villages still prosper in Central Anatolia, but there too, urbanization has appeared. The Kurdish regions are under constant political pressure from the Turkish government and are strained by the refugee influx from the Syrian civil war. Drought is becoming a significant issue. The recent earthquakes and subsequent flooding have a grave impact on the region.

Iraq has seen enough peace that, although fragile, the Saluki is again hunting in Northern Iraq. War continues to impact the region, and this directly impacts the ability of the Tribal villages to keep their Salukis and their livestock. As in Turkey, drought is having a very large impact. The Saluki is no longer ubiquitous across the region.

Iran is also experiencing major shifts as economic pressures make village life extremely difficult and climate change brings extreme drought. Hunting is also an issue as, officially, hunting is banned across much of Iran.

What does this mean?

The resource of import genetics in the Middle East is dying. What we once thought was an infinite source for those who love the original Saluki, is now under extreme pressures. Western Salukis are continually EXPORTED back to the Middle East. If these Salukis were fed, housed, and hunted as they always had been it would not be an issue. But, there is a huge rise in dog shows and racing, neither of which have much to do with maintaining Saluki type. Disease remains an ongoing problem as proper vaccination protocols are not understood or not available. This means distemper, parvo, and rabies remain killers across the region.

We cannot ask that time stand still, or that modern life stay away from the region so the old ways continue. We can recognize that the well spring for gene pool health is under extreme pressure and in danger of coming to a close.

The DBE Committee

In 1989 the Desert Bred Education committee was formed by Sandra Cody, President and the SCOA Board of Directors. The committee was charged with bringing the Desert Bred Saluki to the SCOA National in an educational manner.

With the help of Eugenia Kissinger, the first Exhibition was held in 1989. With the exception of 1990 and 2021, the Exhibition has been held at the National continuously from its inception. Since 2002, with the recognition of the Society for the Perpetuation of the Desert Bred Saluki's AKC Domestic Registry status allowing SPDBS to be the SCOA Saluki Import studbook, the Exhibition has featured the Imports and their subsequent progeny allowing the Fancy to see how these Salukis progress and succeed. All Salukis in the ring are found in this catalog.

At this writing, Salukis with SPDBS Registrations and their descendants have been exported and accepted in New Zealand, Australia, England, Finland, Sweden, Belgium, Italy, France, the Netherlands, and Germany.

THE SALUKI IN AMERICA

THE EARLY YEARS

Rashig, The First Gazelle Hound in America

Mrs. T. D. Murphy, of San Francisco, and bred by the Hon. Miss Florence Amherst at her kennels at Foulden, England, whose agents had the greatest difficulty in securing the foundation stock from the Arabs.

When asked to write this history of the Saluki for the Yearbook, I felt it would be more interesting to deviate from the usual chronicle of Saluki events that spell out the progress of our breed in the United States because those facts have been written over and over again in many publications. Instead I opted for a more intimate portrayal of the breed in those first years through the people, the kennel names, and the individual dogs that figure in the background of so many present-day Salukis.

Editor's note: It must be acknowledged that the FIRST Registration kennel club was formed in 1873 specifically to standardize Conformation shows and Field Trials. Originally AKC (formed in 1884) established six groups, Group One through Four were the types of working dogs, Group Five was toys, Group Six was Non-Sporting.

Mrs. L'Hommedieu and three of her Salukis in the 1930's.

THE PIONEERS

Though it has been reported that a Saluki was brought into the United States as early as 1861 with a few other importations following, it was not until the mid 1920s that the breed began its traceable growth in America with the importations of Senator Edwin Macomber of Rhode Island and Mr. W. Ralph Dodd of San Francisco, California. The English-bred Luella and Gola of Grevel and Sarona Dhole, bred by Brigadier General and Mrs. Lance of England, are generally considered to be the first imports, but one cannot tell from the sequence of registration numbers since there were no Salukis registered until 1930. Later born American-bred Salukis were sometimes registered before their parents. Ch. Sheik of Ro-Akbar, for instance, was registered in June of 1930, but his parents, Luella and Gola of Grevel, did not appear in the stud book until August of 1931. I might add at this point that it seemed to be the practice of those very early breeders not to register an entire litter but rather to wait for the buyers to register their puppies individually; therefore, it is difficult to trace the depth of the Saluki population of those times. Furthermore, one notices that in several instances only one or two puppies were registered from a litter, and we are all aware that Salukis generally have medium to large-sized litters.

Later on Mr. Edward K. Aldrich registered all his puppies and then transferred them to subsequent buyers, giving us a much clearer picture of the Saluki census of this day. It is noted in doing Saluki research of this early period that the name of an owner, breeder, or Saluki will appear once or twice and then never surface again . . .

and it can also be assumed that there were litters from which none were ever registered. Those first dogs seemed to change hands rather frequently between the time of importation, registration, and later breeding; Luella of Grevel was imported by Senator Macomber, registered by Mrs. Arthur Neeves in the stud book of August 1931, but by the next month's stud book, a Bergniel Mahomet was registered, his dam listed as Luella of Grevel and his breeder as Katrin P. Vietor, indicating her ownership of Luella!

Champion Zillah of Sarona

Mrs. E. S. Macomber

Senator Macomber used the suffix "Bararey-Jibal" to identify his Salukis, and that name is familiar to all who study the early pedigrees, for it filters through the ground stock of the great kennels that were to follow. At the time of his death in the early 1930s, most of the stock was acquired by Evelyn Southwick of Massachusetts. She registered her first two puppies in April of 1935 using as her brood matron Hibral al Bararey-Jibal, who had previously been owned and used for breeding by a Mrs. Sarah Waller of Chicago. Evelyn did not use a kennel name, and her dogs are hard to spot when simply skimming a pedigree, but she bred conservatively through the thirties until a disastrous fire at the very end of that decade destroyed all her stock. It is most fortunate that both Mrs. Anna Marie Paterno and Mr. Aldrich had already acquired important foundation Salukis from her efforts on behalf of our breed.

Mr. and Mrs. S.Y. L'Hommedieu of New Jersey were the first to register a Saluki - she was Jinniyat of Grevel, an English import; another English import, Peggy of Allenfoot, was added a year later, bringing in the Iraqi strain so prized by Mr. Aldrich and the Honorable Florence Amherst of the Amherstia Kennels in England. The L'Hommedieus were strong supporters of

Sarona Dhole and Sarona Nurnish

Sarona Dhole and Sarona Nurnish

Salukis in several ways - they brought Salukis out at the shows, showing their Sand Spring string consistently and registering their carefully bred puppies. Well into the late forties, their influence was felt in the Saluki Club of America, she as Secretary and he as the Club's delegate to the American Kennel Club.

Among the very earliest imports in 1930 and 1931 are three Amherstia bitches, Amherstia Natisha, Amherstia Nazarath, and Amherstia Royala Ahwa, all with the O'Redledge suffix added, and Sarona Nadir, bred by Miss D. Crookenden and Mrs. E. Milson of England. These four formed the root stock of the Redledge Kennels of Consuelo and Carol B. Hills of Ipswich, Massachusetts. Though the Redledge activity was limited to just a few of the early years, it formed part of the bedrock of Saluki breeding in America.

Mr. James Morgan, also of Ipswich, Massachusetts, imported Rushford Said and Rushford Taz-eet in 1930 and 1931, breeding them at least once in the following years. It should be noted here that Mr. Morgan used the kennel name "Sarona," which can cause confusion when studying these old pedigrees, as we normally connect the Sarona name with Brigadier General and Mrs. Lance's famous kennel in England. There are numerous confusing situations concerning names when we look into Saluki background.

At the very end of the thirties and into the early forties, Mrs. Joseph Willard of New York and Fairfax, Virginia, imported two dogs and two bitches from the Honorable Mrs. Mervyn Herbert of England. Several offspring from combinations of this stock were registered but do not seem to appear in later pedigrees. About the same time, Mrs. Michael Wohl of Pennsylvania was active in our breed, finishing at least one champion and raising a litter or two with the Ab-Ah suffix, which will be discussed later on when I talk about names.

Though it is generally believed that Salukis established their foothold in California after World War II, you maybe surprised to learn that all was not quiet on the West Coast during the formative years. One of the first to import Salukis into the U.S. was the earlier- mentioned

Amherstia Natisha O'Redledge

Foreground-Amherstia Natisha O'Redledge

Redledge Shaiba

Redledge Shaiba

W. Ralph Dodd of San Francisco who bred Zillah of Sarona, a daughter of the imported Sarona Dhole and Rushford Dilcusha. Zillah appears in the stud book of July 1930. In that same edition Mr. Maurice Talbot of Hollywood registered Haji Khan Sheik of Darwin and Kachiri of Grevel, both imports, and their son, Hazaan Sheik el Bokkara, owned by Mrs. Carl Prollius, also of Hollywood. Between 29 February 1928 and 18 January 1933, the records show that Haji Kahn Sheik of Darwin and Kachiri of Grevel produced at least seven litters, with just a puppy or two registered from each. One from the last litter, Sheik el Ra, was the first Saluki imported into Canada in the mid 1930s. A granddaughter of the pair, El Haddifa, when bred back to her sire, Mahmud Ibn Muhammad (Hazaan Sheik el Bokkara x Jameel al Bararey-Jibal), bore a litter of six in 1939 for breeder Harry S. Connable of Moneta, California, but little evidence is left of that activity. Mrs. Prollius had brought Jameel and Kahwa al Bararey-libal from the East, later selling Jameel to Mrs. Sylvia Watt of Oakland, California, who also eventually acquired Princess Kachiri who was from one of those seven litters. All of these early Golden State Saluki breeders were members of the Saluki Club of America.

The young Saluki dog, Sheik of Darwin, is only just released from quarantine, so has not yet been shown. He is a rich golden brindle, bred in Palestine; a beautifully proportioned dog, with perfect front and shoulders. There are two cream bitches still in quarantine, which (with the aid of "Sheik") their enthusiastic owner hopes to found a small kennel of these aristocratic and beautiful dogs.

All of the above contributed to the slow but steady growth of Salukis in the United States. According to Mr. Aldrich's writings, it was a combination of ill health on the part of some plus the Great Depression that slowed progress to a crawl during the 1930s, and it is thanks to them that at least some Salukis were registered. We credit them all for their contributions to the better days that followed.
