MESSAGE

Maharashtra is endowed with a rich cultural and ecological heritage, and among its most unique and sacred natural treasures are the sacred groves. These groves, traditionally protected by local communities, are not just patches of forests but repositories of biodiversity, cultural traditions, and ancient ecological wisdom. They serve as living examples of nature conservation, where faith and folklore intertwine with environmental sustainability. As we move forward in our commitment to preserving Maharashtra's natural heritage, the protection of sacred groves has become an urgent priority.

The Supreme Court of India has, on multiple occasions, underscored the constitutional duty to protect the environment under Article 48A and Article 51A(g) of the Indian Constitution. The Maharashtra State Biodiversity Board and the Forest Department have been working closely with local communities, researchers, and policymakers to ensure their long-term conservation. Traditional knowledge systems associated with sacred groves offer valuable insights into sustainable resource management, and we must integrate this wisdom with modern conservation strategies.

The government is committed to strengthening community-led conservation models, ensuring that local custodians who have safeguarded these groves for centuries continue to play an active role in their management. Encouraging legal recognition, financial incentives, and awareness programs are key to securing their future.

As we stand at the crossroads of development and ecological responsibility, let us reaffirm our dedication to protecting Maharashtra's sacred groves. Their conservation is not just an environmental necessity but a cultural and moral imperative. I call upon all stakeholders—government agencies, civil society, research institutions, and the people of Maharashtra—to unite in safeguarding these natural sanctuaries of heritage and biodiversity. By doing so, we ensure a sustainable future where our traditions and ecosystems thrive in harmony.

MESSAGE

Maharashtra is home to a rich natural heritage, and among its most significant ecological and cultural assets are the sacred groves, or Devrais. These forest patches, preserved through generations due to religious and spiritual beliefs, serve as invaluable biodiversity hotspots. They harbor endemic and threatened plant species, support diverse wildlife, and contribute significantly to local climate regulation and water conservation. They have long been places of worship, cultural gatherings, and traditional healing, with indigenous knowledge systems relying on the medicinal plants found within them. The annual festivals and rituals performed at these sites not only reinforce the sacred status of the groves but also strengthen the social fabric of local communities.

Despite their importance, sacred groves face increasing threats due to urbanization, deforestation, and changing land-use patterns. Encroachments, infrastructure development, and shifting societal values have led to the degradation of these ecologically sensitive areas. In some cases, the construction of concrete structures within sacred groves and the introduction of non-native plant species have altered their natural composition, disrupting the delicate balance that has been maintained for centuries. Additionally, the erosion of traditional beliefs has contributed to a decline in local stewardship, making it crucial to integrate conservation efforts with modern governance frameworks.

The Government of Maharashtra is committed to the protection and restoration of sacred groves through policy interventions and community-driven initiatives. It is imperative that all stakeholders—local communities, researchers, policymakers, and civil society—come together to protect these invaluable ecosystems. Sacred groves are not just relics of the past; they are living examples of how nature and culture coexist in harmony. Their conservation is not only a matter of ecological necessity but also of preserving Maharashtra's rich cultural heritage.

As custodians of this land, we must ensure that these sacred forests continue to thrive for future generations, maintaining their role as symbols of environmental and spiritual well-being. Let us collectively pledge to protect these irreplaceable treasures, honoring the traditions that have sustained them while embracing scientific approaches to ensure their survival in the years to come.

MESSAGE

The sacred groves of Maharashtra, locally known as "Devrai," are invaluable ecological and cultural treasures that have been preserved for centuries through traditional beliefs and community efforts. These forest patches serve as vital reservoirs of biodiversity, acting as sanctuaries for endemic and threatened species. Studies have shown that sacred groves function as natural seed banks, protect watersheds, and provide refuge to rare flora and fauna that might otherwise disappear due to habitat loss and deforestation. Their role in maintaining ecological balance, conserving groundwater, and mitigating climate change makes them indispensable in today's rapidly changing landscape.

Beyond their ecological importance, sacred groves are deeply interwoven with the social and cultural fabric of Maharashtra. These forest patches are not merely protected for their biodiversity but are also revered as spiritual and religious sites, fostering a unique connection between people and nature. Local communities perform rituals and festivals in these groves, reinforcing traditional knowledge systems and ensuring their continued protection.

Many of these groves also serve as repositories of indigenous medicinal knowledge, where rare plant species are used in traditional healing practices. Recognizing these challenges, the Maharashtra Forest Department has been working towards strengthening conservation efforts by integrating traditional wisdom with scientific management. The conservation of sacred groves is not just the responsibility of the government but a collective duty that requires active participation from all sectors of society.

Raising awareness about the importance of sacred groves among younger generations is essential in fostering a renewed sense of environmental stewardship. Further research and documentation efforts are also crucial to understanding the ecological dynamics of these groves, enabling better conservation planning. By working together, we can ensure that the sacred groves of Maharashtra continue to thrive, preserving their rich biodiversity and cultural heritage for generations to come.

PREFACE

Sacred groves, the age-old repositories of biodiversity, have long played a pivotal role in the ecological and cultural heritage of Maharashtra. These sacred patches of forests, protected by local communities due to religious and spiritual beliefs, harbor unique flora and fauna, serving as vital ecological corridors and carbon sinks. However, the last extensive documentation efforts for these sacred groves were undertaken two decades back. The recent Supreme court judgement directing MOEFCC to list out the Sacred Groves and prepare strategies for its conservation, this compendium has tried to list out district wise status of the Sacred groves with available secondary data. As part of the 100 day agenda of the Government of Maharashtra to conserve Sacred groves, the Forest Department has proactively taken the task to prepare the strategy action plan to conserve these biodiversity hotspot through the Maharashtra State Biodiversity Board.

Recognizing the need for a systematic and contemporary assessment in the changing socio-cultural conditions and the rapid urbanization the Maharashtra State Biodiversity Board has undertaken the task of compiling this compendium on the sacred groves of Maharashtra. This effort draws upon various sources available in the public domain, along with insights from field studies, expert consultations, and interactions with local communities. By incorporating recent developments, we aim to bridge the gap between past documentation and present-day realities, offering a well-rounded perspective on the status, threats, and conservation strategies associated with these ecologically significant sites.

These culturally significant, ecologically vital groves are spread over 5000 hectares in more than 3000 locations of various sizes in the state of Maharashtra as per various documented studies. There are around 2936 Sacred groves which are of less than 1 ha in size as per the secondary data. There is a felt need to identify many such Sacred groves which may not have been documented in the earlier studies. In this regard, for physical verification and more exhaustive data collection by way of assessing the biodiversity profile, and Geo-mapping the existing Sacred groves is included in the chapter on strategies for Action plan for the Conservation of Sacred groves.

We hope that this updated documentation will provide a deeper understanding of the current status of sacred groves in Maharashtra and serve as a foundation for future conservation initiatives. It is imperative that we collectively recognize the significance of these ecological treasures and work towards their sustained protection. We express our gratitude to all individuals and institutions whose contributions have made this endeavor possible.

INTRODUCTION

Sacred groves in Maharashtra represent an essential form of traditional conservation deeply embedded within the socio-cultural and religious fabric of local communities. Known locally as 'Devrai' in western Maharashtra and 'Devgudi' in eastern regions, these forest patches are revered spaces dedicated to folk deities, ancestral spirits, or tree spirits. Protection and management of these groves are community-driven, guided by spiritual beliefs, cultural practices, and traditional ecological wisdom passed through generations. Historically existing since ancient times, sacred groves across India have served as living repositories of traditional ecological knowledge, biodiversity conservation, and sustainable management practices.

These forest patches vary significantly in size, ranging from less than one hectare to several hundred hectares. The first systematic studies on sacred groves in Maharashtra were conducted by Madhav Gadgil and V.D. Vartak in the early 1970s. Their research between 1972 and 1973 highlighted sacred groves as crucial remnants of near-climax vegetation amidst extensively degraded landscapes in the Western Ghats. Later World Bank aided Maharashtra Forestry project on “Conservation and Development of Sacred Groves in Maharashtra” by Bombay Natural History Society (BNHS, further documented approximately 2,808 sacred groves across various agro-climatic zones in Maharashtra, covering about 5,119 hectares and harboring approximately 1,040 plant species, emphasizing their biodiversity importance.

The importance of sacred groves extends beyond biodiversity conservation. These patches often represent micro-climates, influencing local hydrology, soil conservation, and even regional climate stability. Their dense vegetation aids groundwater recharge, ensures soil moisture retention, and acts as a barrier against soil erosion and land degradation. Additionally, sacred groves play a pivotal role in local agriculture by sustaining pollinator populations, improving air quality crucial for rural livelihoods.

Culturally, sacred groves embody the spiritual beliefs and heritage of local communities, encapsulating centuries-old traditions and rituals. These sites host numerous cultural festivities, rituals, and ceremonies, reinforcing community cohesion and identity. The rituals and taboos associated with these groves have traditionally ensured sustainable management, where specific plants and animals receive protection due to their religious significance. This intrinsic cultural link has historically maintained the groves' ecological integrity by minimizing human interference.

However, despite their ecological, cultural, and social significance, sacred groves in Maharashtra face increasing threats from rapid urbanization, changing land-use patterns, resource exploitation, encroachment, and diminishing traditional beliefs among younger generations. The pressure from developmental activities, infrastructural expansions, agricultural encroachments, and illicit felling severely threatens these biodiversity hotspots. Furthermore, the erosion of traditional ecological knowledge among younger community members exacerbates the vulnerability of these groves, weakening customary protection mechanisms.

The last extensive documentation effort dates back to 1999, after which the landscape has witnessed significant transformations, necessitating a thorough revalidation and updated inventory. Rapid changes in the ecological and socio-cultural landscape demand systematic documentation to understand current challenges and devise effective conservation strategies. Previous studies, while foundational, require updating to reflect contemporary ecological conditions, management practices, socio-cultural dynamics, and emerging threats.

The Maharashtra State Biodiversity Board (MSBB) has established Biodiversity Management Committees (BMCs) in over 1,000 villages, including those in the proposed study area. Although almost every village in Maharashtra's Western Ghats region hosts sacred groves, only a small fraction has been formally documented and protected. Mapping these forests will enhance visualization of their connectivity and significantly improve monitoring efforts to achieve conservation objectives. Geospatial mapping and GIS-based analyses can identify critical corridors, buffer zones, and areas needing immediate intervention, thus guiding targeted conservation initiatives.

Recognizing the urgent need for systematic documentation, MSBB has initiated comprehensive documentation and compilation of the current status of sacred groves. This effort aims to inform future conservation policies, raise awareness among local communities, and integrate traditional conservation practices effectively into formal strategies. Such baseline documentation will provide detailed insights into socio-cultural practices, floristic diversity, faunal assemblages, ecological functions, threats, and current conservation status, thus forming a robust foundation for sustainable and informed management of Maharashtra's sacred groves.

Moreover, community involvement remains integral to the success of conservation efforts. Strengthening community participation through capacity-building programs, educational initiatives, and incentivization schemes can revitalize traditional ecological knowledge and ensure the long-term sustainability of sacred groves. Establishing formal recognition and legal protection mechanisms further supports these community-managed areas, securing their ecological and cultural heritage for future generations.

In conclusion, the comprehensive documentation and effective management of sacred groves in Maharashtra hold significant potential for biodiversity conservation, cultural preservation, and sustainable development. Continued investment in understanding and safeguarding these sacred spaces not only conserves biological diversity but also nurtures the cultural traditions that have harmoniously coexisted with nature for centuries.

ACTION PLAN FOR THE CONSERVATION OF SACRED GROVES IN MAHARASHTRA

A. Background and Rationale

In 1999, the BNHS study documented 2,808 sacred groves and 1,040 plant species across Maharashtra. Building on that foundation, the Maharashtra State Biodiversity Board (MSBB) is now updating the inventory to assess the current status of these groves. The State Level Committee on Western Ghats Eco Sensitive Area (WGESA) constituted by Govt of Maharashtra in 2014 had carried out ground truthing and delineation of 2133 Villages falling under ESA for natural and cultural landscape, from which 174 sacred groves were added to the compendium even though these were not brought out in the earlier studies. Recent research highlights the ecological, cultural, and socio-economic importance of sacred groves, underscoring the urgency to protect these sites from urbanization and unsustainable development.

Legal and Policy Imperatives

- 1 The Supreme Court judgment of December 2024 reinforces the need for detailed mapping, legal reclassification, and integrated management of sacred groves.
- 2 MSBB's action plan aims to harmonize traditional management practices with modern legal frameworks, ensuring protection for these culturally revered and biodiverse landscapes.

B. Strategic Guidelines for Conservation and Management

Extensive Surveys and Data Inventory:

- 1 Conduct comprehensive field surveys across Maharashtra to update the sacred grove inventory.
- 2 Record the number of groves and classify them by area size (e.g., up to 1 ha, 1–5 ha, 5–10 ha, etc.).
- 3 Integrate the updated inventory with geo-referenced maps to visualize grove distribution.
- 4 Compile a detailed compendium that includes an updated list of all sacred groves.

Biodiversity Profiling

Floral and Faunal Assessments:

- 1 Conduct detailed biodiversity assessments in each grove, documenting the diversity, abundance, and composition of plant species and key animal species.
- 2 Ecological Prioritization.
- 3 Use the collected data to evaluate the ecological significance of each grove and prioritize sites for focused conservation and restoration efforts.

Physical Verification and Modified Data Collection

Field Verification:

- 1 Revisit sacred groves for physical verification to validate and update existing records using a modified BNHS questionnaire tailored for current conditions.
- 2 Data Consistency.
- 3 Ensure that data collection is standardized across regions for comparability and long-term monitoring.

Updating the People's Biodiversity Register (PBR)

Indigenous Knowledge Integration:

- 1 Document local and indigenous knowledge regarding species identification, traditional uses, and conservation practices within sacred groves.
- 2 PBR Enhancement.
- 3 Update PBR entries with local names, cultural narratives, and sustainable utilization practices to preserve both biological and ethno-botanical data.

Legal Framework Enhancement

Zoning and Heritage Designation:

- 1 Advocate for the zoning of sacred groves—especially those in urbanizing areas as Grade-I heritage sites with statutory buffer zones to limit development pressures.

Workshop cum Training Programs for Conservation Management

Capacity Building:

- 1 Organize workshops and training sessions for local communities, temple trusts, Panchayat representatives, and forest officials to improve traditional management practices and incorporate modern conservation techniques.

Participatory Monitoring:

Emphasize training in the use of participatory monitoring tools (GIS, remote sensing, mobile applications) and promote conservation concepts in local languages.

C. Implementation Framework

- 1 The MSBB action plan establishes a comprehensive framework for updating and compiling the sacred groves inventory in Maharashtra while implementing integrated conservation and management strategies.
- 2 The plan encompasses physical ground verification, detailed biodiversity profiling, systematic documentation of traditional knowledge, enhanced legal protections, capacity developing conservation strategies through experts involvement.

D. Financial Support

- 1 There is an urgent need for allocation of funds from various sources for implementation of the above mentioned action plan so as to ensure timely and adequate funding are provided for the successful implantation.
- 2 Maharashtra Gene Bank can be a major player in aiding the interested research organizations and various other departments for implementing projects.

4.1

SAMPLE QUESTIONNAIRE IN LOCAL LANGUAGE

1. Description Of Sacred Grove

- Geographical location (Latitude & Longitude)
- Legal status of the sacred grove (ownership)
- Type of area (listed as sacred grove)
- Area under vegetation

2. Climatological Data

- Temperature
- Rainfall (season – months; number of rainy days)
- Relative humidity

3. Biodiversity Assessment

- Description of flora, fauna as well as avifauna in the area under study
- Changes in vegetation in the area (in last five years)

4. Efforts In Management Of Sacred Groves

- Is there a management committee for conservation of sacred groves?
- When was it established? Is it functional?
- Is there any management plan prepared by the committee?

5. Restoration Efforts

- Area available for plantation (in ha)
- No. of species identified for plantation (basis for identification)
- Location from which these species were collected
- Month in which plantation was undertaken
- Method of plantation
  - a.Nursery grown seedlings, transplanted later
  - b.Direct plantation soon after collection
- No. and types of species planted per hectare
- Percentage under vegetation (per each site)

6. Monitoring

- Percentage survival of species planted
- Problems encountered (reasons for failure)
- Efforts made to avoid failure

7. Future Plan

8. Follow-up Action

- Management plan – year-wise (whether prepared or not)
- Has the management plan been submitted to the concerned government body?

9. Address Of The Contact Person (who Will Take Care Of Implementation Of The Plan).

Preserving Our Natural Heritage: A Call to Action

"Forests are not just trees; they are the lifelines of our culture, tradition, and biodiversity. Protecting sacred groves is preserving our roots."

The sacred groves of Maharashtra stand as timeless guardians of ecological balance, cultural heritage, and spiritual reverence. As we document and celebrate these invaluable ecosystems, let us also take collective responsibility for their conservation.

These sacred spaces are not merely remnants of the past but beacons for the future reminding us of the wisdom of our ancestors, the richness of our biodiversity, and the need for sustainable coexistence.
