ABOUT

JMDC is an Earth and Life Science Museum in the Jurupa Mountains. Founded on November 13, 1964, and originally called Jurupa Mountains Cultural Center. JMDC serves all of Southern California, including our desert and mountain communities. Our primary purpose is to support the education of youth through onsite weekday School Learning Expeditions (field trips) and family visits on the weekends.

PROGRAMS/ACTIVITIES

JMDC offers numerous family-based outdoor activities for the public. Visit our website for an updated list of activities and events.

- School Learning Expeditions
- S.T.E.A.M. based activities
- Family Fun Expeditions

- Garden Walking Trails
- Demonstration Gardens

MUSEUM OF DISCOVERIES

JMDC's Museum of Discoveries is an engaging and educational experience for visitors of all ages. Nestled at the base of the scenic Jurupa Mountains, the museum features an impressive collection of fossils, rocks, minerals, and Native American art and artifacts. Guests can explore the wonders of earth and life sciences. Whether you're a curious child, a lifelong learner, or a teacher seeking a dynamic field trip destination, the Museum of Discoveries offers a fun and meaningful way to connect with the natural world.

JURUPA MOUNTAINS DISCOVERY CENTER

GRANITE HILL NURSERY

Nestled next to JMDC's developed gardens is JMDC's Granite Hill Nursery (GHN), an oasis of specialty cactus, succulents, and plumeria, many grown from seed or propagated in-house. Also, supplemented by carefully selected external inventory. GHN offers both beginner-friendly plants and rare specimens, including barrel cacti and many striking Euphorbias. Our knowledgeable staff are happy to assist with planting tips and tailored care advice.

SCHOOL LEARNING EXPEDITIONS

JMDC's School Learning Expeditions are immersive, standards-aligned, and hands-on experiences that bring classroom science and social studies to life on our 82-acre campus. Programs range from our signature Rock Collecting with the Dinosaurs School Learning Expedition, where Student Explorers discover fun facts about rocks, minerals, fossils, and dinosaurs. Everyone makes a personal collection of rocks, minerals, and fossils to take home. At Dinosaur Dig, Student Explorers unearth a 25' Allosaurus replica and explore paleontology basics. Fossils Through Time, Geology of California, and California Rockhound all dive into earth science and regional geology with real specimens. History-focused options like Gold Fever! Blend hands-on exploration with California history. Other expeditions—such as Pictograph: Language & Art, encourage creativity, cultural understanding, and language arts. Life sciences are discussed in Critters: How and Why and Ecosystems, Genetics and Critters developing an ecological curiosity and an understanding of the animals around us. Each School Learning Expedition is mapped directly to California's Next Generation Science and History/Social Studies standards. These expeditions engage multiple learning styles: students dig, paint, pan, build, observe living creatures, and collect real samples—all while fulfilling core educational requirements. Visit our website for more information or to book your School Learning Expedition.
