The streamlined application process allows patients and their family members to easily apply for JAF assistance with the help of social workers. JAF responds promptly, offers generous support, and listens attentively to our patients, providing the dignity and compassion they deserve during the most challenging times of their lives.

OUR HISTORY

Founded by former New England Patriots three-time Super Bowl-winning offensive guard Joe Andruzzi and his wife, Jen, in 2008, JAF grew out of Joe's own successful battle with cancer.

In 2007, Joe was diagnosed with non-Hodgkin's Burkitt's lymphoma, ending his football career. Joe would go on to beat the disease and remains cancer-free today, but a new passion grew from his own battle. After witnessing first-hand the stress cancer can cause, Joe and Jen created the Foundation to help cancer patients and their families meet life's day-to-day challenges. In 2024, JAF celebrated 16 years as a leading nonprofit addressing financial toxicity for cancer patients.

MESSAGE FROM OUR PRESIDENT AND CEO

Dear Friends,

As we reflect on 2024, I am proud to share that it was a year of growth, resilience, and impact at JAF. We expanded our team, our fundraising, and our supporter base—growth that was truly needed to meet the increasing demand for our services. While the pandemic is well behind us, the economic uncertainty that followed has driven more and more patients to our door. JAF remained resilient, creative, and ready to answer the call as best we could, standing firmly by those who rely on us most.

2024 also marked the creation of a new multi-year strategic plan, mapping out an even brighter future. Central to this plan is our commitment to increasing awareness of the Foundation throughout New England, an effort slowed by the pandemic, and to reaching more patients who need us. Highlights include activating ambassadors in each of the six states we serve, deepening our partnership with our Healthcare Council to address patient needs better, and launching our new Legislative Council to engage lawmakers who are equally committed to supporting cancer patients in their communities. These are ambitious goals, but ones we embrace with urgency, knowing that thousands of patients are depending on us.

Healthcare partners often remind us that “JAF is the go-to resource” or “sometimes JAF is a patient’s only hope.” While it is deeply humbling to hear, it is also heartbreaking—because we know we cannot help every family that applies. That is why our call continues to go out to those who share our belief that no one should ever have to choose between paying a bill and seeking treatment. JAF will continue to stand ready to level the playing field and bring equity, access, and dignity to cancer care—ensuring patients and their families can stay in their homes, put food on the table, and get to treatment.

None of this would be possible without the generosity of our donors and partners, who once again chose to stand with us in 2024. You made all the difference for so many. We are also profoundly grateful to our volunteer leaders—our Board of Directors, Board Committees, Healthcare Council, Young Professionals Council, and countless dedicated volunteers—whose leadership and energy fuel this mission. And finally, I extend my deepest gratitude to the talented JAF staff. Their tireless commitment, creativity, and compassion are the driving force behind our work, and I am endlessly proud to serve alongside them.

As we look to 2025, we are filled with optimism and strong momentum. However, we have experienced an unprecedented surge in demand for our services. This past spring, patient requests became so overwhelming that we temporarily paused our Assistance Programs, as the number of applications exceeded our monthly budgets—this clearly highlights the critical nature of our mission. We have since reopened with resolve, but we cannot do it alone. The generosity of our community is what makes every grant, every program, and every moment of relief possible. We are especially grateful to all our donors in 2024 and now in 2025. It is through your support that we can address the growing needs of cancer patients and their families across New England, ensuring they never have to face these hardships alone.

Jen Andruzzi, President and CEO

WORKING TOGETHER

The Joe Andruzzi Foundation is proud to work with 108 healthcare institutions (347 active healthcare partners) throughout New England to identify cancer patients struggling with financial toxicity.

WHY THEY SUPPORT

Oncology social workers and patient navigators are unsung heroes and heroines in treatment centers. Every day, they work tirelessly to help and advocate for patients while managing overwhelming caseloads. These dedicated individuals are JAF's partners as they identify patients in need of support due to their diagnosis and directly link them to the Foundation by helping them to apply for assistance through JAF's online portal.

Additionally, social workers and patient navigators also comprise JAF's Healthcare Council, a group that counsels the Foundation on patient needs and trends, serving as a trusted and valued sounding board. In this way, JAF programming remains relevant and impactful to those we seek to serve.

Bernadette: From Both Sides of the Desk, She Understands a Patient's Journey

When Bernadette first started working at Dana-Farber Cancer Institute (DFCI) in January of 2004, she was diagnosed at age 28 with APML (Leukemia). She was able to return to DFCI in 2023 when the satellite clinic opened at Patriot Place in Foxboro. Bernadette loves her job as a Resource Specialist because she gets to build relationships with her patients. She understands they're going through some really hard times, and it means so much to be able to help in meaningful ways. She shared:

"There are so many added associated costs when it comes to removing barriers to receiving cancer—child care, transportation, short term accommodations—all spring to mind, but are just some of a long list. I receive several referrals every day for people going through financial stress and my 'go to' is the Joe Andruzzi Foundation since they'll accept applications from the whole of New England and they cover all types of cancer. The fact that I can do this often a way to introduce myself to the patient. There are other organizations that help too, but they often specialize in one type of diagnosis—another reason JAF is vital to patients."

"Every day I see the impact that the Joe Andruzzi Foundation has on our patients. I can't tell you how many times a patient has said to me after receiving funds from JAF 'That is so very kind and it means so much.'"

BE LIKE MIKE

Celebrating the Life and Impact of Michael Lombardo (1987-2024)

In July 2024, JAF lost a cherished friend and dedicated Board Member, Michael Vito Lombardo. While his passing leaves an undeniable void, we choose to remember Mike not with sorrow, but with deep gratitude for the extraordinary way he lived and the immeasurable impact he had on JAF.

Mike's first introduction to JAF was after his own cancer journey. Friends and co-workers established a GoFundMe for his family to help with expenses. While Mike was not in financial distress during his treatment, he wanted to help others who were. After considering starting his own foundation, he spoke with his social worker, who told him about JAF. It took no time at all for Mike and his wife, Jessica, to connect with Joe and Jen, and a partnership (and friendship) was born. Together, they set out to ease the hardships of patients in New England. The rest is history.

Mike was the kind of leader who inspired by example—generous with his time, enthusiastic in his service, and unwavering in his belief in JAF's mission. Whether lending his voice and ideas in the boardroom or rolling up his sleeves at events, Mike brought an energy and authenticity that drew people in to him and to JAF. His favorite JAF moments were those where he could connect directly with patients, especially at Boston Marathon and the Gala, where he was known for his down-to-earth conversations and genuine interest in each person's story.

There isn't a single member of JAF's staff or Board who doesn't carry a story about Mike, most of them ending with a laugh, a lesson, or a kind word.

BE LIKE MIKE

Mike's family, led by his wife, Jessica, and his sister, Andrena, along with his colleagues at GlideFast, chose to solidify Mike's commitment one step further—by establishing the Lombardo Legacy Fund to continue the work closest to his heart: supporting cancer patients and families facing financial hardship. This fund ensures that Mike's passion for helping others lives on, expanding his impact far into the future.

"Mike left something powerful in all of us—and in this Foundation. The Lombardo Legacy Fund stands as a testament to the way he lived, loved, and gave back. We hope to grow this fund in the years ahead, expanding its impact and inspiring others to lift up those who need it most. His influence continues to shine through the countless lives touched by his kindness, humor, and compassion. We are honored to carry forward his legacy at JAF and to be part of the enduring good he set in motion."

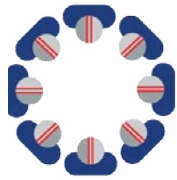

Joe and Jen Andruzzi, Co-Founders of Joe Andruzzi Foundation

Update:

In 2025, one year after Mike's passing, the Lombardo Legacy Fund awarded its very first grant to a cancer patient near Mike's hometown on the North Shore of Massachusetts. This exceptional grant - $3,000 towards household expenses and five months of rent—was presented by the Lombardo and Silva Families together with representatives from GlideFast Consulting. This meaningful milestone brought Mike's legacy full circle, helping a neighbor in need just as he so often did in life. The Lombardo Legacy Fund welcomes gifts year-round, honoring Mike and ensuring cancer patients have a source of support for generations to come.

CHAMPIONS CIRCLE

CHAMPIONS CIRCLE
JOE ANDRUZZI FOUNDATION

JAF Champions Circle is a giving society that celebrates companies and business leaders who demonstrate a commitment to supporting cancer patients and their family members. Through an annual, unrestricted gift, Champions Circle members enable JAF to designate funding to the most in-demand programs throughout the year.

Since establishing the Champions Circle in 2017, more than $473,000 has been generated by these community-minded companies.

JAF began 2024 by welcoming EVVIVA Trattoria as an All-Star Champions Circle member who has dedicated one of its event spaces as the Joe Andruzzi Foundation Private Dining Room! It's a wonderful venue for a variety of occasions; a portion of a event proceeds held in this space is donated to JAF.

Also this year, Joe and the team went out on the road to “surprise and delight” a few Champions Circle members in early summer, which gave us the opportunity to meet employees and get to know more about their businesses.

STORIES OF IMPACT

A Real-Life Battle Outside the Ring

In his 30s, healthy, and working at a dream job in World Wrestling Entertainment (WWE) documentary film department, John Galiani never expected a cancer diagnosis to turn his life upside down. After returning home from WrestleMania in 2024 feeling unusually run down, tests revealed testicular cancer.

What doctors first thought could be resolved with one surgery quickly escalated. John endured multiple surgeries—including one at Memorial Sloan Kettering—and aggressive chemotherapy. “Every time you start getting some momentum and climbing up a hill, it just feels like you fall back even further down,” he said.

During treatment, John tried to keep working, but the toll eventually forced him onto short-term disability. WWE held his job, and he had insurance, but hidden costs added up quickly. “One day we went to CVS after surgery and spent $250 on ice packs, vitamins, supplements—things you don’t think about until you need them. It’s a total 180 in your daily life.”

It was during chemo that a social worker introduced John to JAF. The Foundation stepped in with help for rent and groceries, easing the financial pressure at a time when his energy was focused on healing. “JAF is one of those things you don’t even necessarily know about until you need them. I had my wife (who was my total rock going through it all), my parents, and my sister in my corner, but also people I’d never met—nurses, doctors, and JAF—cheering me on. They made things a little easier, and that meant everything.” Thankfully, John’s treatment ended successfully. He rang the bell, returned to work, and one year later found himself back at WrestleMania—this time healthy, cancer-free, and able to enjoy the work he loves.

“...When you have those random acts of kindness stacking up, it gives you no choice but to fight. If everybody is going to pull on the rope, how can I not pull on the rope with them...I owe a huge debt for the rest of my life and I’m going to spend my remaining time trying to repay that.”

John said. “You can’t go through something like this without being forever changed.”

For John, his toughest fight didn’t take place under the bright lights of WrestleMania, but in the real-life battle outside the ring—a fight he faced with courage, community, and strength.

FOOD SECURITY

Access to healthy and nutritional food is crucial for patients undergoing cancer treatment. Through JAF's Food Security Program sponsored by AmpliX, recipients receive a gift card to a grocery store of their choice to help offset the cost of groceries. By providing gift cards, patients have the ability to make their own choices at the grocery store specific to their treatment needs.

Since 2020, home food prices across the United States have increased 23% according to the USDA, and cancer patients feel that increase every day. In 2024, 68% of Food Security Program recipients reported that they had not experienced food insecurity prior to being diagnosed with cancer, and their food security status changed only after beginning treatment.

In addition to gift cards to cover grocery expenses, in 2024 JAF expanded program offerings to provide more nutrition opportunities for program recipients. This included offering free weeks of home delivery services and referrals to medically tailored meal organizations. During the holidays, JAF provided Thanksgiving meal baskets to over 60 recipients in Massachusetts and Rhode Island with the help of our partners at Personal Best Charity, North Easton Savings Bank and Castro, Thresher & Oliveira PC.

Milestone Moment for Food Security Program presented by AmpliX

In just three short years, JAF's Food Security Program has become a lifeline for families facing the financial strain of cancer and, in April 2024, it reached an extraordinary milestone—providing more than $1 million in food assistance. This essential support has ensured that thousands of patients and their families could focus on healing without worrying about their next meal. To mark the occasion, JAF presented a special $1,000 grant to patient Angel Wagner of Beverly, MA, at Boston Medical Center, underscoring the Program's impact and the generosity that fuels it. What began as a response to a critical need has grown into a cornerstone of JAF's mission, proudly nourishing hope—one family, one meal, and one milestone at a time.

UNICORN

In 2024, JAF proudly launched UniCORN—the Universal Community Oncology Resource Network—a first-of-its-kind online tool designed to connect cancer patients and their families with vital resources during one of life's most difficult journeys. Named for the mythical creature that symbolizes the extraordinary, UniCORN is exactly that for the cancer community: a wish come true. Free, accessible, and comprehensive, the platform provides patients and caregivers with centralized access to a growing directory of support services, practical tools, and streamlined assistance applications.

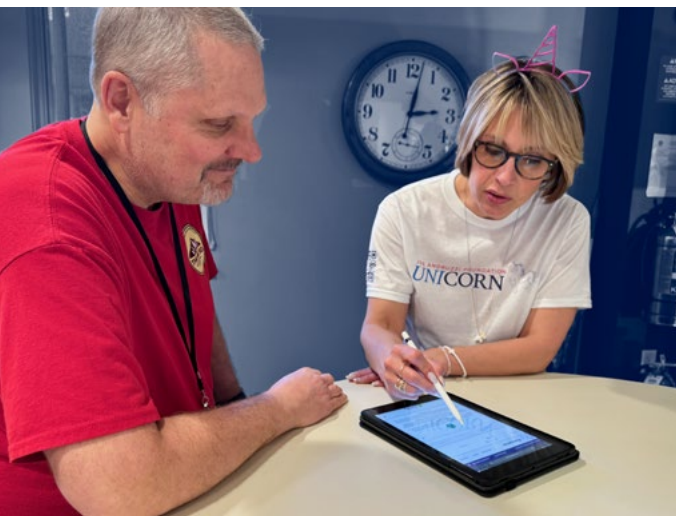

The UniCORN Resource Directory officially went live in April 2024 after years of research and collaboration. Patients and caregivers can simply visit JAFUniCORN.org, enter demographic information, and instantly receive a tailored list of resources they may qualify for—from co-pay and transportation assistance to counseling, wigs, and cancer screenings. While JAF's core mission focuses on New England, UniCORN is intentionally designed to reach far beyond regional boundaries, convening like-minded organizations across the U.S. and helping patients wherever they may be. In its first year alone, more than 4,900 patients and families turned to UniCORN for guidance and support.

More than just a tool for patients, UniCORN strengthens the work of oncology social workers, patient navigators, and nonprofit partners by serving as a shared platform to connect individuals with the right support at the right time. As additional features—including a financial management tool and a single-application system for multiple layers of assistance—come online, UniCORN is poised to transform how families access help. Together with our community partners, JAF is ensuring that fewer families face the financial and emotional burdens of cancer alone.

We also invite new providers and organizations in the oncology space to join UniCORN, expand the directory, and help bring even more resources to patients in need.

FINANCIAL ASSISTANCE AND TREATMENT TRANSPORTATION

Financial Assistance

The Financial Assistance Program is JAF's longest standing program, with grants dating back to 2009. New England cancer patients can receive grants for monthly household expenses such as mortgage, rent, utilities, cable/phone, car payments etc.

In 2024, over 53% of JAF Financial Assistance Grants were paid to help stabilize housing, with payments being applied to either rent or mortgages. 30% of grants were being applied to utility bills, which helps keeps patients home warm in the winter or their lights on through treatment.

JAF works with healthcare partners within over 100 treatment facilities throughout New England to make sure those who need our programs the most receive assistance. Of those healthcare partners surveyed in 2024, 97% reported that the Financial Assistance Program had a positive impact on patients' overall health outcomes.

When patients receive a Financial Assistance Grant it gives them a reprieve during a time when expenses are adding up, and it allows them to focus on what truly matters—their treatment and healing. More importantly, patients report that receiving notification from JAF gives them hope; it lets them know they are not alone on their cancer journey

"Life stops with a cancer diagnosis. All of a sudden you have 100 appointments and are missing work constantly. Treatments are expensive— and also make you sick and tired. The support we received from JAF was a breath of fresh air. Not having to worry about a mortgage payment for a month or two is a huge relief when you're trying to heal and overcome cancer. Without the help that we received, I would have been under more stress than I already was, and that is not good for the healing process."

-Kristy, 2024 Financial Assistance recipient

Treatment Transportation

Accessing care at cancer treatment facilities is crucial to a cancer patient's ability to achieve optimal health outcomes. No barrier is greater than the need for transportation. Often patients do not have access to cars to get them to treatment, or they are simply too sick to drive themselves. If they do not have a caregiver to take them, they may skip appointments and delay treatment due to this obstacle.

The Treatment Transportation Program aims to solve this problem. Healthcare facilities throughout Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Maine have access to a portal that allows them to schedule rides for patients via Lyft. Each facility is given a yearly budget by JAF to best accommodate their patient population.

In 2024, 1,052 patients accessed 2,800 rides to and from treatment centers through the Program. That means 1,400 oncology appointments were attended that may have otherwise been missed—promoting better health outcomes.

EXTRAORDINARY NEEDS AND (UP)BEAT EVENTS

Extraordinary Needs

All of the JAF's Assistance Programs are meant to provide relief to patients undergoing cancer treatment; allowing them to focus less on bills and more on getting better. Healthcare partners revealed that sometimes an expense arises that is too large to overcome, and the patient's treatment course is interrupted or sometimes stopped altogether.

With these situations in mind, the Extraordinary Needs Program was created. The Program funds one-time, project-based needs that prevent a barrier to care. When making funding decisions, applications are evaluated on their sustainability and the impact created. The goal is to fund projects that will not create further financial barriers down the line, and allow patients to continue their treatment course uninterrupted.

In 2024 some projects that were funded through the Program were car repairs when the patient's only mode of transportation to treatment was out of service, mediating cancer-causing radon in a patient's water supply, and airline flights for a patient who needed a clinical trial out of state.

(Up)Beat Events

At JAF, we know that cancer affects far more than just the patient—it impacts the whole family. That's why (Up)Beat Events are designed to give patients and their loved ones a chance to set aside the weight of treatment and enjoy meaningful moments together. These experiences are free to families and focus on mental health, joy, and connection, reminding participants that cancer does not define every part of their lives.

In 2024, (Up)Beat Events offered a mix of unforgettable outings and at-home activities that brought smiles across New England. Families felt the rush of excitement on Boston Harbor aboard Codzilla, a high-speed boat ride that turned a summer day into an adventure. Later in the year, JAF mailed out gingerbread house kits for a holiday-themed contest that brought creativity and laughter right into patients' homes. Baseball fans enjoyed time together at WooSox games, complete with on-field experiences that gave children and parents alike the thrill of VIP access.

Each event was about more than just fun—it was about restoring a sense of normalcy during a time when joy can be hard to find. "For a few hours, you forget about appointments, scans, and bills," one parent shared. "You just get to laugh with your kids." These moments create lasting memories and remind families that they are not alone in their journey.

As the program continues to grow, JAF remains committed to offering patients experiences that heal the spirit. From stadiums to living rooms, (Up)Beat Events will keep delivering hope, laughter, and VIP treatment to families who deserve it most. JAF is incredibly grateful to the many partners and supporters who donate services, activities, tickets, and experiences.
