

2023 GRADUATION

Livestream | Virtual Event

Congratulations on your graduation

Hello 2022-2023 Graduates,

What a pleasure to prepare a few thoughts of congratulations to you as part of this year's graduating class.

As an adult learner, you may be someone who knows what it means to come back to school after an absence or who has had an employer advise you that updated skills are integral to your position. Regardless of your motivation, you chose to study and complete an academic program with McMaster Continuing Education. As evidenced by the fact that you are graduating today, you know what hard work is and what our changing world needs more than ever: educated and thinking human beings who are willing to make a difference.

Although we live in rapidly changing times where conversations range from war and civil unrest to massive social problems to artificial intelligence, I would say that a few things remain the same. I think you likely know these same things.

The first is that education is never a waste. As a graduate, you have acquired new knowledge and skills that will make your life and work more interesting and rewarding. The bigger world will also be a better place. Second, I hope you have experienced values like kindness and support as you have proceeded down your learning path, and that you will take these same values into your workplace and community. Last, as phenomena such as artificial intelligence continue to emerge, we need to remember that human beings as thinkers and actors were here first. As such, we have a responsibility to use our minds and moral compasses to make the best decisions we can despite the shiny and, at times, overwhelming nature of new technologies.

In closing, today is your day. Celebrate it as we celebrate you. You've earned this moment, and the world is a better place because of you and your many accomplishments.

Sincerely,

Lorraine Carter, PhD
Director, McMaster Continuing Education

LAND ACKNOWLEDGMENT

Meet the Speakers

Susan Tighe, Provost and Vice-President, Academic, McMaster University

Dr. Susan Tighe is Provost and Vice-President (Academic) and professor of civil engineering at McMaster University. In the position, Dr. Tighe has fostered collaboration and championed partnerships across McMaster, including oversight of the successful Black Cohort hiring and the launch of the Indigenous Studies Department. She continues to support innovation through the funding of unique projects and pilots across the academy that foster excellence in teaching, student experience and research through the Strategic Excellence and Equity in Recruitment and Retention (STEER/R) program and the Strategic Alignment Fund (SAF). Recognizing that innovations in teaching and learning are the foundation of university excellence, Dr. Tighe has also supported the development of McMaster's first Teaching and Learning Strategy and digital learning strategy framework to enhance pedagogy, reduce barriers to education and prepare students for the future of work. Dr. Tighe, received her BSc in Chemical Engineering from Queen's University, and her MASc Civil Engineering and PhD in Civil Engineering from the University of Waterloo.

Kim Dej, Vice-Provost, Teaching and Learning, McMaster University

Dr. Kim Dej is an Associate Professor in the School of Interdisciplinary Sciences, and currently the Vice-Provost, Teaching & Learning at McMaster University. Dr. Dej has been at McMaster since 2004 and holds a PhD in biology from Johns Hopkins University. She is a renowned educator having won the President's Award for Outstanding Contributions to Teaching and Learning, a McMaster Student Union Award (Science), an OCUFA Teaching Award and a YWCA Women of Distinction Award for Education and Mentorship. Dr. Dej has previously taught in the Life Science program and has taught courses in Genetics, Cell Biology, Research Methods, Community Engagement, and the McMaster Discovery Program. Dr. Dej also leads the Intersession Learning Initiative and is involved with the McMaster Children and Youth University. She is engaged in pedagogical research with a focus on interdisciplinary programming and community-engaged teaching and learning, and is engaged in interdisciplinary curriculum development, reflexive learning practices, and peer-mentorship opportunities for undergraduate students with an emphasis on equity and belonging in all curricula.

Gayleen Gray, Associate Vice-President and Chief Technology Officer, McMaster University

As the Assistant Vice President and Chief Technology Officer at McMaster University, Gayleen leads the institution's enterprise IT strategy, systems, and service operations. A truly collaborative leader, Gayleen works with the institution's leadership team and a network of diverse colleagues and IT personnel across the campus to ensure that McMaster's research, teaching and learning initiatives are supported and enabled by technology systems and infrastructure. With over two decades of experience in Higher Ed IT, Gayleen has built relationships and fostered engagements with peers across Canada and in the US to further collective areas of interest. Gayleen is well-known for her openness, authenticity, and lifelong learning approach. She is a frequent presenter and active participant at various national and regional professional conferences in both Canada and the United States and is also a member of the CUCCIO Board of Directors and EDUCAUSE Board of Directors.

Lorraine Carter, Director, McMaster Continuing Education

Dr. Lorraine Carter is the Director of McMaster Continuing Education which she joined in 2015 after re-locating from northern Ontario. She is an award-winning educator and researcher whose areas of interest include instructional design, educational access and accessibility, non-traditional learners, health education in rural and remote contexts, and leadership. Lorraine's commitment to teamwork and diverse forms of learning including work-integrated learning and microcredentials is enabling adult learners in the Hamilton region and well beyond provincial and national borders. Lorraine's doctoral work explored the critical thinking, writing and learning experiences of post RN nurses in online courses. She has served as the President of both the Canadian Association for University Continuing Education and the Canadian Network for Innovation in Education and on the Board of Contact North | Contact Nord.

Daniel Piedra, Assistant Director, McMaster Continuing Education

Dan Piedra oversees online course design and development of all certificate and diploma programs at McMaster Continuing Education. Previously, he has served in similar positions at Sheridan College in Oakville, Ontario and as Director of Conestoga College's Continuing Education department in Kitchener, Ontario. He has also served as an instructor of online and in-person programs at several higher education institutions, including Brock University in St. Catharines, Ontario. He completed his Bachelor of Education and Master of Science at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah and is currently working on a PhD in Education from Brock University. His research interests lie in exploring the quality of online learning in areas of instructor training, instructional design, humanization of online courses, the use of non-traditional assessments, alternate digital credentials, and student empowerment.

Tracy Gibbs, McMaster Continuing Education Graduate, Organizational Development Consultant

Tracy Gibbs (she/her) is an independent consultant who helps communities and organizations work together to achieve greater social impact. Her work disrupts status quo traps of thinking and doing that prioritize power and corporate interests over people. She believes that, with courage and commitment, organizations working in equitable partnership with communities can be an innovative and transformative force for positive change. Inspired by 25+ years' experience working in the health and not-for-profit sectors, thought leadership throughout her formal education, and direct experience in relationships with resilient communities, Tracy embraces life-long learning as both a professional and deeply personal journey. Tracy began her journey into post-secondary education as an adult learner.

Tracy holds two undergraduate degrees (BA, Social Development & Bachelor of Social Work) from the University of Waterloo, and a graduate degree from McMaster University (Social Work). She is also a certified Project Management Professional (PMP) and holds a certificate of Leadership in Community Engagement from McMaster Continuing Education. Currently, Tracy is enrolled in the Creative, Critical & Design Thinking Program through McMaster Continuing Education.

Tyson Dimayuga, McMaster Continuing Education Graduate,
Master of Public Policy Administration and Law Candidate

Tyson Dimayuga is currently a Research Analyst for the Ontario Ministry of Infrastructure. Before becoming a public servant, he was a Community Engagement and Content Specialist for the pre-arrival immigrant program of the YMCA of Greater Toronto. He has also worked in the healthcare and banking sectors. He is one of the founders of "SIBOL" {see-ball} Pride Network, a volunteer-led community of Filipino Canadian LGBTQI+ in Toronto focused on professional development, networking, and support.

He has a Bachelor of Nursing degree from the University of Santo Tomas in Manila, and a Certificate and Diploma in Business Administration, Marketing Concentration from McMaster Continuing Education. He is currently pursuing a Master's degree in Public Policy Administration and Law at York University. Tyson is active in community organizing and volunteering and aims to do a 21K marathon in the near future.

Recipient of the MAPS Centennial Award

Sarah Montes

On behalf of the McMaster Association of Part-time Students, we would like to congratulate Sarah Montes as this year's proud recipient of the 2023 Centennial Award. This award is presented to a part-time student who has overcome particularly adverse circumstances in order to attend university and/or who has demonstrated an outstanding achievement or commitment in activities distinct from university studies. Sarah's academic success has been achieved through her hard work and unwavering determination, by selflessly continuing to put others first, her journey speaks to her strength, resiliency, and commitment to education as a whole.

Sarah considers her academic achievement as being one of the most rewarding and enlightening experiences of her life, and we celebrate this accomplishment with her. This award clearly reflects the effort and dedication Sarah has taken while on her academic journey.

On behalf of McMaster Continuing Education, we congratulate Sarah Montes on achieving the McMaster Association of Part-time Students 2023 Centennial award!

Recipient of the MAPS Instructor Award

Gail Ordogh

On behalf of the McMaster Association of Part-time Students, we would like to congratulate Gail, who has been honoured as this year's recipient of the 2023 Instructors Award. Gail is a dedicated instructor for the Integrated Marketing Communication's course and holds a B.A.A from Ryerson University, and a B.Ed. from Niagara University. She has a keen understanding of the evolving media landscape and the significance of effectively delivering messages to a wide body of audiences. Her students describe her as an outstanding instructor who consistently goes above and beyond. Gail's ability to talk with and encourage her students through difficult times has been much appreciated by them.

On behalf of McMaster Continuing Education, we congratulate Gail Ordogh on achieving the McMaster Association of Part-time Students 2023 Instructors award!

Recipient of the McMaster Continuing Education Appreciation Award

Lynn Cartan

Last year, the Canadian Health Information Management Association (CHIMA) informed McMaster Continuing Education that our Health Information Fundamentals (HIF) Certificate was required to meet new standards. With Lynn's background in health information and education, she was able to integrate the new standards into our new Diploma.

The journey from certificate to diploma required significant changes to be accepted by McMaster and CHIMA Leadership. We would like to acknowledge, that Lynn went above and beyond by participating in many meetings in which she created a PowerPoint to effectively bring everyone together in mutual understanding. Lynn was also engaging in strategies to support student success. She created a bridging course to ensure our current students do not miss out on any learning and brought two instructors together in a co-operative manner and merging each of their courses into to one cohesive course.

The quality of her work is irrefutable. Moreover, experiencing Lynn's exceptional ability to bring people together to meet project needs, we personally consider a professional growth opportunity.

On behalf of McMaster Continuing Education, we congratulate Lynn Cartan on achieving the 2023 Appreciation Award!

Recipient of the McMaster Continuing Education Educational Innovator Award

Anna Tubina

Anna Tubina is a recipient of this year's Educational Innovator Award. Anna has been working with McMaster Continuing Education since the end of 2021, and in this time, has been the primary contributor to our new Health and Wellness Coaching program. Anna has developed the largest amount of content for this program and is now serving in two roles as we develop the final exam for the program. In her development work, Anna strives to create the highest quality content to generate the best possible learning experience for our students. She focuses on ensuring the content is relevant, accessible, and engaging, and of course aligned to the established learning outcomes; she is a lifelong learner herself and approaches development and teaching from this lens. In addition, Anna also works as an instructor for this program where she has shown the highest level of dedication to creating an engaging online learning environment; she has the utmost respect for her students and strives to further enhance their learning experiences and ensure they are successful not just in the courses, but in their future careers as health coaches. Moreover, Anna exhibits continued dedication to the program as a whole, contributing to promotional webinars and having a critical eye toward course elements that may need to be tweaked or updated to better serve our learners. The dedication, professionalism, innovation, and overall excellence that Anna brings is exemplary. She is always open to feedback and self-reflection, she truly takes the accountability for the learning experience of our students to heart, and she is most certainly invested in the success of our programming. She is a true asset to our learners and team, and is most deserving of this award.

Recipient of the McMaster Continuing Education Educational Innovator Award

Emily Baillie

One of the recipients of this year's Educational Innovator Award is Emily Baillie. Emily is an accomplished content marketing professional who has developed and taught courses in both the Marketing and Digital Marketing programs over a number of years. She is widely admired by McMaster Continuing Education staff and students for her extensive subject area knowledge and dedication as an educator. Among her most recent projects was the redevelopment and subsequent delivery of the Digital Marketing Program's Content Management course, which now includes a number of innovative media components and also became the first course to incorporate the use of generative AI into a course assignment, as students use ChatGPT to generate sample copy for a promotional social media post. The McMaster Continuing Education community is very fortunate to count Emily as a longstanding member and we are delighted to recognize her many valuable contributions with this award.

Recipient of the McMaster Continuing Education Educational Innovator Award

Jeff May

We are pleased to announce that Jeff May is a recipient of the McMaster Continuing Education Educational Innovator Award. Jeff has served as an instructor at McMaster Continuing Education since 2011. During this time, he has proven to be a strong asset to the Business Administration Program. Jeff has made outstanding contributions in teaching as well as moving the program forward, recently serving on the working committee for the 2020 program review. In his work, he has demonstrated his knowledge, helpfulness, and responsiveness with both students and staff.

Learners consistently report that Jeff enriches their learning experience, highlighting his excellence in teaching, often naming him as a top instructor in their academic journeys, and recommending him to others. Jeff imparts knowledge in a clear and concise manner, allowing students to broaden their knowledge in a short duration of time, which learners greatly value.

Jeff's strong interpersonal skills and unwavering professionalism are appreciated by all who interact with him. We thank Jeff and appreciate his dedication and support of our learners.

On behalf of McMaster Continuing Education, we congratulate Anna Tubina, Emily Baillie and Jeff May on achieving the 2023 Educational Innovator Award!
