SYNOPSIS

Movies are more than entertainment; they are powerful reflections of human behavior, leadership, teamwork, resilience, and decision-making. This talk, "Management and Life Lessons from Movies," explores how cinema offers valuable insights into personal growth and professional success. Through memorable characters, inspiring stories, songs, dance sequences and recollection of various scenes from popular movies the session aims to draw lessons on aspects of management and relatable examples that connect theory with real-life experiences. By blending management principles with engaging cinematic narratives, the talk aims to inspire audiences to think differently, lead effectively, adapt to challenges, and apply meaningful life lessons in their careers and everyday lives.
