Editor's Letter

Creativity is one of the things that make the holidays so special. Celebrating the unique things that make the people in your life special and spending time together is magical. Often times we like to take the opportunity around the holidays to give meaningful gifts to let others know how much we care and appreciate them. This Holiday Shopping Guide is a collection of small businesses owned and operated, and products created, by people with disabilities. Purchasing these one-of-a-kind gifts not only celebrates your loved ones, it also gives back to the community made up of one-of-a-kind people.

Many of these artisans and entrepreneurs can be found on a variety of social media like Facebook, Instagram, TikTok, YouTube, and Linked In. Company titles link to their websites but be sure to connect with them on social media to explore further and show your support.

Happy Shopping and Happy Holidays,

By shopping small businesses, you are supporting neighbors across our country.

Not only can you find quality, unique items no one else has but you are also part of an empowering movement.

Your purchase helps the mission to employ people with disabilities, further dreams, and promote equity in our communities.

Do you know a small business that needs recognized?

Let us know about the business owned and/or operated by a person/people with disabilities that we might feature them in our next issue of the Holiday Shopping Guide. Also notify us if you know of a product line created by a person with disabilities.
