WORDS of ENCOURAGEMENT

An Investment in Florida Memorial University yield dividends for South Florida

Greetings FMU Family:

The season of service and gratitude is upon us. And, Florida Memorial University (FMU) has so many things for which to be grateful. We are thankful for the thousands of students we are blessed to educate and the community we are privileged to serve. We appreciate the support of our community partners, corporate leaders, and elected officials. Your contributions help us train a new generation of leaders for the global marketplace and employ hundreds of residents that live, learn, and work in South Florida.

This issue highlights the contributions of many of South Florida's elected officials. Thank you for your service to our community and state. As a point of Lion pride, I am elated to acknowledge the election victories of FMU alumni like the Honorable Christopher Benjamin, a new member of the Florida House of Representatives; the Honorable Shannan Ighodaro, a new member of the Miami Gardens City Council, and the Honorable Gordon Weekes, the first African-American elected to serve as Broward County's Public Defender. We also extend congratulations to all the candidates elected and re-elected to public office. It is my honor and pleasure to work with each of you to continue to make South Florida a premier destination to live, learn, and work.

As one of the state's oldest higher education institutions, FMU has a rich heritage of transforming lives and impacting communities. Our University has been an academic center and economic generator for the South Florida community for more than 50 years. We have welcomed national and global advocates for education, public service, economic development, and equality, and other critical areas throughout the years. Despite our national challenges, I take this opportunity to say "thank you" to many of our partners and governmental officials for your constant support. We are continuing to expand our degree and certificate offerings in healthcare, esports, aviation, education, and business. Since arriving in this community, Florida Memorial has remained true to its commitment to be a resource to South Florida.

Florida Memorial's trustees, faculty, staff, and I look forward to continuing our collaboration with elected officials to serve our communities. Whether it's leading sponsored-research projects, providing grant-funded services, or making tuition more accessible to low-wealth families, FMU stands ready to make a meaningful contribution and have a transformational impact on South Florida.

Problems, Prayer and

PHILIPPIANS 4:6-7 “Be careful for nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.”

If it were possible, most of us would choose a world or a course of living where problems were a thing of the past. Problems are incidents, accidents and mishaps that come in our lives that rob us of our ability to be happy. They make sunny days dark and spoil good times. But God, in his infinite wisdom, has chosen not to give us lives that are like Disney World. At Disney – which was once known as the happiest place on earth – everything is beautiful and nothing ever goes wrong; but the thing we forget about Disney World is that it is an amusement park. The word “amuse” is a combination of the pre-fix “a,” which means “not” and the word “muse” which means to “think or ponder or consider;” so, “amusement parks” are designed to make us an unthinking people. But life does not allow us the luxury of being unthinking because it always presents a new twist that creates a reason to rethink where we are and what we’re doing.” If you lived an unthinking life, your brain would atrophy from inactivity; but when you confront problems, you are forced into the place of having to find a way or make one. When I was a student at Atlanta University in graduate school, that phrase was its motto: “Find a way or make one.”

This morning, I want to talk about problems because none of us are exempt from trouble. The Book of Job 14:1 says, “Man that is born of a woman is of few days and full of trouble.” In other words, Job tells us to expect problems rather than being surprised when they happen. In Ecclesiastes 3:1, the Word says, “To everything there is a season and a time to every purpose under heaven.” This was Solomon’s way of saying life never stays the same and as that passage develops, it says: A time to be born, and a time to die; a time to plant, and a time to pluck up that which is planted; a time to kill, and a time to heal; a time to break down, and a time to build up; a time to weep, and a time to laugh; a time to mourn, and a time to dance; a time to cast away stones, and a time to gather stones together; a time to embrace, and a time to refrain from embracing; a time to get, and a time to lose; a time to keep, and a time to cast away; a time to rend, and a time to sew; a time to keep silent, and a time to speak” This is just an extended way of saying times change, and there will be times when things don’t always look favorable but time does not stop to wait on us. In the B clause of John 16:33, Jesus - the Master teacher - reiterates this theme when he says,“These things I have spoken unto you, that in me ye might have peace. In the world ye shall have tribulation” Jesus was telling his disciples that trouble was coming but they need not worry because it could be overcome.

This morning I want to remind you that problems may come but they are not insurmountable. Jesus, again, in John 16:33 said, “In the world ye shall have tribulation (thelipsis – pressures); but be of good cheer for I have overcome the world.” Every one of us may have problems; but all of us also have the ability to supersede our troubles. Right there in the fourth chapter of Philippians, two answers to how to solve problems are: (1) Philippians 4:13: “I can do all things through Christ which strengthens me.” This is the assurance that God will give you the ability to address anything that comes along in your life if you remember where your help comes from. [I can = mind; do all things

Peace

= mission; through Christ – Master; which strengthens me = motivation (dunamis or dynamic ability). Then in Philippians 4:19 Paul writes, “But my God shall supply all your need according to his riches in glory.” This means that when all else fails, the Lord is there to help me. The fourth chapter of Philippians is a series of exhortations or words of encouragement. Paul was writing to a young church that did not fully understand its own strength; so, he encouraged them to rely on the Lord for help in times of trouble.

We have been taxed in 2020 by a series of problems that seem overwhelming. We have been fighting with COVID-19 since January and we’ve seen the numbers of cases rise to 13 million in America and some 266,000 deaths. Last week, we were averaging nearly 2,000 deaths per day and hospitalizations had reached 80,000. Although America calls itself the world’s greatest nation, COVID-19 has reminded us that we are not better than anyone else. We also recently held national elections when a new president-elect was named but 45 – the president who has given being a president a bad name – has been sending out all kinds of signals that he might not give up his position willingly. He tried to suppress the votes of black citizens in Philadelphia, Detroit, and Atlanta. He has filed frivolous law suits alleging that there was fraud and the election was stolen. He has delayed the transition in order to hinder the new administration. Most Americans alive have never seen a time when we could not have a peaceful transition of power. So, America has a problem at the highest levels of government. We also have millions of people who are dealing with unemployment, having lost their jobs or seen their businesses diminish. At the same time, there is no relief expected since the House, Senate and president cannot agree on a stimulus package to help them. These are just some of the problems we’re facing, but there are many others that existed long before we became familiar with COVID-19. But again, problems are not insurmountable. They can be overcome if we trust in the Lord. Proverbs 3:56 says, “Trust in the Lord with all thine heart and lean not to thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him and He will direct thy paths.”

The scripture for this morning says, “Be careful for nothing” which means don’t worry about anything. I know this sounds cavalier but you must read on in the verse to understand why worry has to be put in its proper place. While we may have problems, the Word teaches us that problems have solutions. The text says, “Be careful for nothing but in everything by prayer, and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God” Note that the text does not say, you don’t have problems but it does say how to handle them with prayer. We live in a world that is so mechanized and technology driven, we’ve come to forget the lessons our parents taught us. When I was a child, the old people would listen to a young person worrying out loud about a problem and respond by saying, “Pray about it.” They had lived long enough to know that some things are beyond our personal ability to solve them. So, they would carry the problem to the Lord. 1 Thessalonian 5:17 says, “Pray without ceasing.” I love the text of Matthew 6:5-7 which says, “And when you pray, do not be like the hypocrites. For they love to pray standing in the synagogues and on the street corners to be seen by men. Truly I tell you, they already have their full reward. But when you pray, go into your inner room, shut your door, and pray to your Father, who is unseen. And your Father, who sees what is done in secret, will reward you. And when you pray, do not babble on like pagans, for they think that by their many words they will be heard....” Notice that the text suggests that prayer ought to be a regular part of the life of a believer. It repeats the phrase “and when you pray.”

While the text tells you how not to act in prayer, don’t overlook that it suggests that you should have a place where you can close yourself off from everything and everyone and talk to God for yourself. Prayer is a personal responsibility for believers. We have a God who can do anything but fail. Again, the text in Philippians 4:6 provides a solution to your problems, “But in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your requests be made known unto God . . .” We waste so much time worrying when we should be praying. We exhaust our friends, calling to tell them our troubles instead of doing what the Word says about taking them to the Lord in prayer. There is an old hymn that says, “What a friend we have in Jesus, all our sins and griefs to bear, what a privilege to carry everything to God in prayers. O what peace we often forfeit, O what needless pains we bear all because we do not carry everything to God in prayer.”

Problems, Prayer and Peace

I know COVID-19 is out there, but that is a problem for God in prayer. I know 45 has given us four years of the worst governance possible and has diminished the Office of the President but he is a problem for God in prayer. I know unemployment and anxiety over bills are high but those are problems for God in prayer. In this text, Paul says in everything by prayer. Prayer is the ability to communicate with God for yourself. The text says, “in everything by prayer.” Hebrews 4:16 reminds believers: “Let us come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in the time of need.” So, the first thing you need to do is pray. Second, the text says by prayer and supplication. Supplication is the act of begging or pleading or laboring before God is prayer. No, God is not hard of hearing; and he hears the cries of his people (Psalm 34:17; Psalm 145:19). But sometimes we have to persist in prayer because that is what the situation requires. Third, it says by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving. . .” Thanksgiving means that no matter what the circumstance, there is always room to tell the Lord than you. Some people like to ask but they never say thanks. The ability to breath is worth thanking god for, to be able to stand on your own two feet, to have a home and family is something to thank God about. If you have eyes to see with or a voice that can be lifted to the heavens and hands to feed yourself, there is something to thank God for. Tell someone that thanksgiving isn’t just for “Thanksgiving.” Then, the text says, “let your requests be made known unto God.” This simply means tell God what you need, specifically. The scripture tells us to name the thing we need God to do for us. Yes, the Lord already knows even before you pray. But I encourage you to be obedient to the language of this text, which says, tell God what you need.

Finally, verse 7 says, “And the peace of God which passeth all understanding will keep your hearts and minds through Christ Jesus.” Problems may come but prayer provokes peace. I am not talking about the failed peace that we try to carve out for ourselves but the peace that begins and ends with the Lord. This is a peace that comes from understanding: Psalm 23 – “The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want. 2) He maketh me to lie down in green pastures: he leadeth me beside the still waters. 3) He restoreth my soul: he leadeth me in the paths of righteousness for his name’s sake. 4) Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil: for thou art with me; thy rod and thy staff they comfort me. 5) Thou preparest a table before me in the presence of mine enemies: thou anointest my head with oil; my cup runneth over. 6) Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life: and I will dwell in the house of the LORD forever.”

Psalm 27 – “The Lord is my light and my salvation, whom shall I fear. The Lord is the strength of my life, of whom shall I be afraid.”

Psalm 37:25 – “I have been young and now am old and have not seen the righteous forsaken or his seed begging bread.”

Psalm 46:1 – “God is our refuge and strength, a very present help in trouble.”

As a community as large and diverse as Miami-Dade County, local institutions play a huge role in opening doors to the American dream for all our residents. For over 140 years, Florida Memorial University has continually expanded access to quality, affordable education and equipped young Black leaders with the skills needed to succeed and make a difference in their fields. At the same time, FMU goes above and beyond in offering pre-college programs to our young residents. FMU, you are an indispensable partner in building a Miami-Dade that truly lives up to our core principles of inclusivity, equality, and opportunity.

Dr. Hardrick, it is a joy to be with you. As I walked the campus I was serenaded by the "ROAR" and it reminded me of all the marching bands that are apart of the jewel of our HBCUs. I looked at the students and I told them what I saw. I saw a collection of young leaders and when I look at them I see the future of our country and that inspires me to know that our future is bright.

LS & FMU POLITICAL PORTERS

RODNEY HARRIS
Mayor
City of Miami Gardens

Florida Memorial University is South Florida's only Historically Black College and University, and I am proud that it's located right here in the great City of Miami Gardens. I admire and support the university's commitment to the educational experience of its student population. FMU's President Jaffus Hardrick, Ed.D., and his leadership team are moving this university into a much brighter future.

ALCEE HASTINGS
U.S. House of Representatives
Florida - District 20

As a member of the Bipartisan Congressional HBCU Caucus and a product of Fisk, Howard, and FAMU, I know the incredible value of an HBCU education and will always fight to protect and preserve HBCUs. One of the first schools to offer an education to Black students in our community, Florida Memorial University is an integral part of our history. I applaud the Florida Memorial University community for serving as a cornerstone of educational opportunity for the Black community in South Florida, and continuing to represent a legacy of academic excellence to this day.

DALE HOLNESS
Commissioner
Broward County

Florida Memorial University is the only HBCU in South Florida that has served our community as an empowerment place for over 141 years. To me, it means an institution that focuses on uplifting the black community but also the broader community. Through the work of FMU, the community has been positively impacted economically, socially, and culturally. Though their focus is on education, their impact is far reaching. I am happy to be a strong supporter of FMU and the great work they do there. Over the past 10 years, I have chaired the United Negro College Fund Annual Event that has brought in over $1 million to help FMU students and other educational centers. I am happy to be of service to FMU and will continue to support this great institution.

SHANNAN IGHODARO
Councilwoman
City of Miami Gardens

Florida Memorial is a center for academic excellence and an environment where students can be nurtured to become leaders.

SHEVRIN JONES
State Representative
Florida - District 35

As a proud HBCU graduate, I know firsthand the special role Florida Memorial University plays in our community as South Florida's only Historically Black College and University. The University has a rich history of expanding opportunity for young minds, putting higher education within reach for students who may not otherwise be able to pursue it. FMU Lions are proven leaders throughout the region, contributing to our vibrant communities as public servants, entrepreneurs, business leaders, activists, and more. I couldn't be prouder to have Florida Memorial University home in our community, and I couldn't be prouder to have FMU in District 35.

ELECTED OFFICIALS & FM

BARBARA J. JORDAN
Retired Commissioner
Miami-Dade County

Florida Memorial University represents the only Historically Black University that is located here in South Florida. It brings such a richness of culture and education that our young people desperately need. The university welcomes our students and teaches them about being proud of their heritage and lets them know that there is nothing that they cannot achieve. I am so grateful that this university is located here in Miami Gardens. As a former graduate of an HBCU in Atlanta, Morris Brown College, I know that there is a difference that it makes when you go to a school that represents you; that represents the community; and understands who you are and what you need to have in terms of your education.

DOTIE JOSEPH
State Representative
Florida - District 108

As South Florida's only HBCU, Florida Memorial is a true treasure in Miami-Dade County. With renown instructors ranging from Zora Neale Hurston and author of the Negro National Anthem John Rosamond Johnson, to graduating Barrington Irving, who was the youngest person and first Black person to fly solo around the world, Florida Memorial is an undeniable incubator of Black excellence. In its various iterations throughout Florida for over 140 years, FloMo, as it is affectionately known by us who grew up in Miami, is a beacon of hope and opportunity for underserved communities.

KIONNE L. MCGHEE
Commissioner

The Lion is the symbol of majesty, strength, courage, and justice.

Revelations 5:5 tells us, "And one of the elders said to me, Weep no more; behold, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has conquered, so that he can open the scroll and its seven seals."

Florida Memorial University's symbol is the Lion, which embodies their spirit and that spirit drives their legacy at the institution that is the home of the origins of the Black National Anthem, "Lift Every Voice and Sing." First established in 1879, it is one of the oldest universities in Florida, with a large spirit of Christianity, and an inspired mission to uplift the minds of studious African-Americans from far and wide.

Well more than a century later, Florida Memorial University continues to create educators, communicators, movers, shakers, business executives, professionals, aviators, mathematicians and scientists of the best and the finest stock.

The school is one of our most treasured pathways in the County to a brilliant and bright future, a true Lion Legacy, and that is what Florida Memorial University means to me.

HAROLD FERNANDEZ PRYOR

Florida Memorial University is an HBCU in South Florida. It is a hidden treasure that must be brought to the forefront in South Florida. I am honored to support this fine institution of higher learning.

Historically Black Colleges and Universities are critical to the nation. From building future leaders to instilling pride in community and self, HBCUs continue to be the backbone of our post-secondary educational system. Florida Memorial University is a standout among HBCUs. While it is the only HBCU in South Florida and calls District 102 its home, Florida Memorial continuously matriculates students who are prepared, resilient, understand the importance of integrity, are diligent community servants, and aspire to excellence in all endeavors.

PERRY E. THURSTON JR

Florida Memorial University, being the only HBCU in South Florida, not only enriches the community that surrounds them but strives to build a better future for any student that enters. The university is a goldmine with untapped resources filled with knowledge, pride and promise.

Florida Memorial University creates a nurturing environment that acknowledges our history, supports our advocacy, prepares its students for academic achievement, while giving them the tools to successfully navigate this world.

GORDON WEEKES
Public Defender
Broward County

Florida Memorial University was one of the most nurturing environments for me as a college student. It gave me a great place to grow and mature and pursue my education. It provided me a great foundation that prepared me for law school and for my career as a public defender, and for that I am grateful.

FREDERIKA WILSON
U.S. House of Representatives
Florida - District 24

Throughout its storied history, Florida Memorial University has educated generations of African Americans and other people of color. As an HBCU graduate and former educator, I have a special appreciation for the supportive space and community it provides in which students of all ages can learn and thrive. FMU graduates do great things. They work on Emmy and Oscar award-winning productions. They set records, like Barrington Irving, who studied aviation and became the first black pilot and youngest person to fly a plane solo around the world. Investing in young people, especially young people of color, is perhaps the single greatest use of our resources. Beyond providing a world-class education, FMU develops exemplary citizens who make our Miami community — and the nation — proud.

ON JULY 16, 2020, FLORIDA MEMORIAL UNIVERSITY PRESIDENT DR. JAFFUS HARDRICK — in reaction to the months of unrest following the murders of Ahmaud Arbery, Breonna Taylor, and George Floyd — announced the founding of the FMU Social Justice Institute. It is my privilege to serve as its founding director. Our intention is to create a research institute and solutions-focused think-tank examining racial inequality and injustice in Miami-Dade County and the state of Florida. The goal of the FMU Social Justice Institute is to serve as a resource for creating and facilitating tangible reforms in order to achieve a more just and fair society. The greater vision, however, is to create in South Florida a society bereft of social injustice and racial disparities.

As the only Historically Black University in South Florida, and with its 141-year track record of educating servant-leaders, Florida Memorial University is well-positioned to explicitly advocate for uplift and racial justice for the communities that it has served since its founding in 1879 — Live Oak, Jacksonville, St. Augustine, and now Miami Gardens and Opa-locka. Unfortunately, the scourge of anti-Black racial violence that threatened FMU's existence in both Live Oak and St. Augustine still exist, manifesting in new and vicious ways. The increase in overtly racist speech and actions in the nation over the past several years — as evidenced by both the continued murder of unarmed men and women of color, and the violent murder of Heather Heyer in the aftermath of the White supremacist rally in Charlottesville, Virginia in 2017 — are proof that our nation's previous efforts toward addressing this long history of inequality are incomplete.

In more recent years, Florida Memorial has also had a front row seat to the tragedy and ongoing movement born by the tragic murder of Trayvon Martin. In 2012, our campus mobilized to support Sybrina Fulton, who is an alumna of FMU. After the marches and the trial, we extended an invitation to the Trayvon Martin Foundation to establish their offices on our campus. Since that time, we've watched the powerful advocacy and healing work of Tracy Martin, Sybrina, and their family, and the ways that they have embraced and inspired our students.

It makes perfect sense, for both historical and contemporary reasons, that Florida Memorial University would embrace social justice as a core part of its agenda to serve the South Florida community, with hopes to bring real energy and solutions to address the reality of systemic racism and racial injustice. The questions are complicated but the answers are within our reach if we are willing to do the work. FMU is mobilizing the resources of our campus, both capital and human, along with the support of the South Florida community, to address the thorny issues of the day and to produce future change-agents to build a brighter and better society with true opportunity for all. The Social Justice Institute will be the genesis of that work.

READING IS FUNDAMENTAL FOR SYSTEMIC CHANGE

BY TAMEKA BRADLEY HOBBS, PH.D.
Founding Director, FMU Social Justice Institute

The goal of the FMU Social Justice Institute is to serve as a resource for creating and facilitating tangible reforms in order to achieve a more just and fair society, specifically targeting racial inequality and social injustice in Miami-Dade County and the state of Florida. One of the areas of focus we have identified as central to achieving long-term change is systemic racism. By definition, systemic racism is an interconnected phenomenon, rooted in individual bias, which then influences the policies of an institution, and is there replicated across multiple institutions in a society. One of the most prevalent manifestations of this is anti-Black racism. In an example, the anti-Black bias of an individual gatekeeper can mean the denial of job opportunities in various industries, or decisions by a gatekeeper to police and punish one group more than another. Within institutions, racism is embedded as policies and practices that maintain or increase racial disparity. This manifests in the banking industry, for example, when Black loan applicants are denied at high rates, even when they have the same economic profiles as White applicants.

For many, the elements of systemic racism are hidden in plain sight. We take the operations of our systems and institutions for granted, taking a shared ethic of inclusion and equity as a foregone conclusion. Upon interrogation, however, we find that many of our systems are built on policies and practices that exclude more than they include, and attitudes about institutional culture that maintain the racial status quo. One of the most poignant examples of this was Michelle Alexander's The New Jim Crow: Mass Incarceration in the Age of Colorblindness. Beyond her keen observations in the nation's criminal legal system, Alexander vividly illustrates the systemic nature of racial bias embedded within the structures of this system at every level.

Other scholars and experts have provided similar revelations of systemic injustice in other areas. In his book The Color of Law: A Forgotten History of How Our Government Segregated America, Richard Rothstein provides a critical look at the roots of the modern manifestation of the racial wealth gap and its origins in systemic policies exercised by the U.S. government. His research takes the conversation about the wealth gap beyond knee-jerk assumptions about bootstrapping and the myth of equity that does not exist, to a data-driven and systemic analysis of persistent barriers to economic advancement in our society.

Alexander and Rothstein are only two of dozens of experts that interrogate systemic racism in many different arenas, as well as the stories of individuals whose lives have been changed or ended by causes rooted in racial or gender inequity. The challenge, however, has been to translate the learning from these works to the broader public.

This thinking was the genesis of the South Florida Social Justice Common Read. Achieving the ambitious goals of the FMU SJI can only be accomplished by educating, engaging, and motivating our community to demand legislation that will address the hidden barriers to true inclusion and opportunity in our region and our society. A just future can only be built and sustained when an engaged constituency has a sound understanding of the factors that have colored our collective past, and who are passionate about demanding change.

The goal of the South Florida Social Justice Common Read is to create intentional conversations that bring people of all ages together from across the region for the purpose of increasing awareness of social justice issues. The selection of Rest In Power: The Enduring Life of Trayvon Martin is a fitting way to end a year that, according to tracking by the New York Times, witnessed the most protests in the nation's history, spurred by the tragic and unjust murders of Ahmaud Arbery, Breonna Taylor, and George Floyd. This comes eight years after the murder of Trayvon in 2012, which galvanized so many across the nation in the quest for justice. After the improbable acquittal of George Zimmerman in 2013, Patrice Cullors, Alicia Garza, and Opal Tometi coined the hashtag #BlackLivesMatter, which has become the mantra of a movement that has at long last captured the hearts and minds of the nation.

Remembering the story of Trayvon Martin, and understanding the efforts of his parents, Sybrina Fulton and Tracy Martin, as they work for change, justice, and healing provides the clarity and inspiration needed to work for systemic change. Their story sparked a movement, and the FMU Social Justice Institute is committed to furthering the cause.

MACK'S BIG NIGHT PROPELS FMU PAST ST. THOMAS SATURDAY

Florida Memorial University senior guard Sam Mack Jr. stared down defenders and pounded his chest after he made each one of his five three-pointers Saturday, propelling the Lions to a hard-fought 77-73 victory over visiting St. Thomas University in an emotionally-charged game in the FMU Wellness Center.

Mack turned in his FMU career-high for points, totaling 32 in 30 minutes of action – including racking up 14 points in the second half.

While Mack's points seemed to be amplified by his bravado, it was a handful of other FMU players that quietly made "winning plays" in crucial moments as the Lions rallied back from a 9-point deficit over the course of the final five minutes of the game.

Tristan Stephens added 16 points, 7 rebounds, and 3 steals off the bench Saturday. Seven-foot senior center Mubashar Ali also came off the bench and gave the Lions (1-1, 1-1 The Sun Conference) a huge lift – registering a double-double with 14 points and 10 boards.

Aubrey Washington gave the team solid minutes, steadying the offense as a primary ball-handler against the Bobcats' pressing defense as well as knocking down clutch free throws.

Trailing 68-59 with 5:01 left in the game, Florida Memorial went on a 15-0 run in a three-minute span, throwing what would be the final blow in what was a seesawing battle.

It almost became a literal "battle" between the neighborhood and conference rivals. Late in the first half, there was a play where players from both teams dove to the floor after a loose ball; two players got tangled up on the floor as the whistle blew and a small dust up occurred as an FMU player tried to pull a St. Thomas player off of another FMU player. There was some light pushing, but the officials and coaches intervened and separated the players. Technical fouls went to both teams, but St. Thomas University had a pair of players ejected for leaving the bench area during the skirmish.

Florida Memorial, which will travel to play Ave Maria University next Wednesday (Nov. 18), shot 42 percent from the field Saturday – compared to just 37 percent for the Bobcats (1-2, 1-1 TSC). Four St. Thomas players scored in double figures, but the Lions forced the Bobcats into 23 turnovers Saturday – including 9 steals.

Keaynna Tolbert Named Sun Conference Player of the Week

Florida Memorial University's Keaynna Tolbert was named the Sun Conference's women's basketball player of the week, Monday, after she led the Lady Lions to a pair of victories this past week. Tolbert, a junior who transferred to FMU from Prairie View A&M University, earned the honor after she totaled 64 points through two games – the highest point total of any women's basketball player in the conference this past week. The Orlando, Florida native also extended her streak of consecutive games scoring at least 18 points to five straight games.

Tolbert secured her first double-double of the year against Ave Maria University – going for 35 points and 13 rebounds – and followed that up with a 29-point performance in the Lions' win over Keiser University. This is Tolbert's first TSC weekly award of the season and the first of her career.

Lions Rally Back, Take Down Keiser University 83-80 in Overtime

Trailing by seven early in the fourth quarter on the road, Florida Memorial University's women's basketball team could've folded its proverbial tent and rolled over.

Instead, the Lady Lions showed resilience and mental fortitude – rallying back from the fourth quarter deficit and ultimately capturing a hard-fought 83-80 victory over host Keiser University Saturday afternoon in KU's Student Life Center.

After jumping out to a five-point lead through the first two minutes of overtime, FMU saw Keiser tie the game at 80 with 1:13 left in the extra period. With the game hanging in the balance, the Lions came up with two big defensive stops – forcing a pair of turnovers – while junior guard Unique Tate made two free throws (in four attempts) to give Florida Memorial an 82-80 lead.

Keiser did have a chance to either tie or go-ahead with 12 seconds left as Shykim Gillion drove to the basket, but saw her layup rim out. FMU's Jamari Tillman grabbed the rebound, took a foul, and all but iced the game as she sank one of her two free throws with two seconds remaining, sealing the 83-80 margin and denying the Seahawks their first win of the season.

The Lions, who will play an exhibition game at Florida Gulf Coast University this coming Wednesday (Nov. 25), were led by Keaynna Tolbert's game-high 29 points – extending her streak of games scoring at least 18 points to five – but had to play the entire overtime without the junior as she fouled out in the final seconds of the fourth quarter.

Tillman picked up the slack and continued her own streak of games with 10 or more points, totaling 19 points (6-of-7 from the free throw line) and a game-high 7 steals. Chantel Barnett and Heather Durand each added 10 points while senior Anjolie Tirone tied for the game-high with 10 rebounds – playing in her first game back after missing the previous two for an undisclosed reason.

Florida Memorial (3-2, 3-1 The Sun Conference) methodically erased the Seahawks' lead through the fourth quarter – tying the game at 66 with just over two minutes left and even took a 71-68 lead with 1:33 left.

The game then became a free throw shooting contest. Keiser regained the lead (72-71) after it knocked down a pair of free throws, forced a Lions turnover, then sank another pair of free throws. Durand gave FMU the lead once again (73-72) when she calmly dropped a pair of free throws with 22 seconds left in the fourth. Both teams actually had opportunities to win the game in regulation.

Keiser's chance came at the free throw line. The Seahawks drew a foul on FMU's Tolbert – her fifth and disqualifying foul – sending Gillion to the line. Gillion made the first, tying the game at 73, but missed the second. Florida Memorial called a timeout with 12 seconds left, but had its possession end before it could even attempt a shot – with Cheyanne Whitfield being called for traveling.

With six seconds left, the Seahawks threw up a desperation heave that fell well short – sending the game into overtime.

The Seahawks (0-4, 0-2) also had four players score in double digits Saturday, led by Emily Patton's 25 points. Patton, who has been a thorn in the Lady Lions' paw the past two years, was also a perfect 5-of-5 from the three-point line. Keiser's undoing was the 38 turnovers it committed.

Of those 38 turnovers, 12 came from steals generated by the full court press that Florida Memorial head coach Gregory Stanback used for long stints of Saturday's game.

DR. C.T. WRIGHT
October 4, 1942 - October 23, 2020

Dr. C.T. Wright, 78, was known as a renowned global powerhouse. The Georgia native was born and grew up in the cotton fields of Social Circle, Ga. Dr. Wright was born on Oct. 4, 1942, to the parentage of the late George Wright and the late Carrie Mae Enus Wright. As an only child, C.T. was very fond of his mother and other relatives who he grew up with and affectionately referred to them as his brother, Rev. Dr. Willie Enus, and sister, Ollie Enus James. Dr. Wright gained his wings on Friday, Oct. 23, 2020.

Dr. Wright received his elementary and secondary education in the Georgia public school system, graduating valedictorian of his class from the Carver High School in Monroe. He went on to earn a B.S. degree from Fort Valley State University in social science education; M.A. degree from Clark Atlanta University in history; and Ph.D. from Boston University in American history and New England studies. Additional studies were done at George Williams College and Carnegie Mellon University. He received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters (LHD) from Mary Holmes College.

Professor Wright served as a teacher and administrator at several schools. His experience in this area included: provost and executive vice president at Florida Memorial University, 1985-1989; president at Cheyney University of Pennsylvania, 1982-1985; vice president of academic affairs at Talladega College, 1981-1982; assistant provost of special programs and director of black education at Eastern Washington University, 1977-1981; chairman of the Social Science Division and head of the History and Political Science Departments at Morris Brown College, 1967-1977; and teacher at the Social Circle Training School, 1965-1967.

Dr. Wright was the founding chair of The Light of Hope Institute that promotes human rights around the world through conferences, workshops, lectures, etc. Several of these activities focused on Africa. Also, he was the directing force behind Christians Teaching Wisdom, a ministry that involves national, international and local leaders in prayer. It has received the support of the White House, Congress, and governors.

As a community leader, Dr. Wright served in several capacities on the Fountain Hills Unified School District Governing Board; president of the Fountain Hills Kiwanis Club; senior advisor to the Liberian Association of Arizona; chairman of the Advisory Committee of World Children Relief; president of the Arizona African Society; vice president of the Governor's Advisory Council on Aging; member of the Phoenix Mayor's African American Advisory Committee, member of Maricopa County Attorney's Citizens Advisory Council; and member of the Arizona African American Legislative Group.

C.T. was a husband, teacher, leader, humanitarian, political activist and friend. His memories will forever be cherished by all who knew him. To know C.T. was also to definitely love and respect him. He had a way of making a person feel like a million dollars.

He is survived by two aunts: Delores Jackson of St. Petersburg, Fla. and Ollie James of Social Circle, Ga.; James (Claudette) Enus of Las Vegas, Nev.; Dr. Gus (Dr. Olivet) Robinson and Olivia Robinson, all of Greensboro, Ga.; two sisters-in-law: Catherine Wilson and Martha Tukes, both of LaGrange, Ga., and one brother-in-law: Booker T.
