Central Wyoming College (CWC) is the #1 community college in Wyoming and #85 best community college in the U.S., according to a new college ranking list released from Niche (Spring 2025 Report).

CWC is a community college serving Fremont, Hot Springs and Teton Counties that offers Associate's and Bachelor's degrees, as well as many certificate programs. The college includes a main campus in Riverton, an outreach center and the Alpine Science Institute in Lander, and outreach centers in Jackson, Wind River Reservation and Dubois, each designed to meet the needs of the community it serves.

Central Wyoming College's mission is to transform lives and strengthen communities through learning, leadership and connection. CWC is a designated Native American Serving Non-Tribal Institution (NASNTI) and serves the largest American Indian student population in Wyoming.

THINGS TO DO IN RIVERTON

Wyoming is a fantastic place to come to college for students who crave both academic focus and unforgettable outdoor adventures. In and around Riverton, students can enjoy hiking, horseback riding through open landscapes, rodeos, world-class fly fishing, and camping under wide, star-filled skies. Riverton offers a welcoming small-town atmosphere with friendly locals, scenic views, and convenient access to some of Wyoming's most iconic landscapes. It's a hub for both cultural experiences and outdoor recreation.

IZAAK SMITH

Olney, England

Business Administration

Hailing from Olney, England, Izaak made the decision to attend Central Wyoming College after receiving an offer and conducting thorough research. What followed was an extraordinary and transformative experience. A lifelong soccer enthusiast, Izaak found a perfect fit with the CWC Soccer Team, where a strong team dynamic, shared passion for the game, and a deep sense of community created lasting memories. Despite being more than 4,500 miles from home, he says he's never felt more at home.

ISAAC PATIK

Casper, WY

Business Administration

Originally from Casper, Wyoming, Isaac was recruited to play basketball at CWC. Majoring in Business, he appreciates the welcoming school environment and supportive community. He found the faculty, staff, and fellow students always willing to help and quick with answers. A passionate fly fisherman, he enjoys spending his free time outdoors. As a member of the CWC Men's Basketball team, he valued the strong bond among teammates, describing the team as a family by the end of the season. He admired his coach's dedication to pushing players to improve and perform at their highest level.

SYDNEY JONES

Farson, WY

Business Administration

Sydney, a sophomore on the Rustler Rodeo team, competes in Breakaway Roping and Barrel Racing. Hailing from Farson, Wyoming, she's studying business administration at CWC and plans to earn a bachelor's degree at the University of Wyoming to become a Farm Bureau Insurance agent. In her free time, she enjoys riding horses, baking, shopping, and volunteering in her community. Sydney loves Wyoming's sunsets and is passionate about horsemanship. Coach Andrew Schrock praised her leadership, positivity, and dedication both in and out of the arena.

RUSTLER AG & EQUINE COMPLEX

Discover the future of agriculture and equine science at Central Wyoming College's 85,000 sq. ft. state-of-the-art facility. Designed with your success in mind, this premier complex features specialized classrooms, two professional-grade equine arenas, and a fully operational meat processing plant - offering hands-on learning experiences that set you apart. At CWC, you'll gain the skills and knowledge to lead in Wyoming's thriving ag and equine industries.

LINDSEY STEWART

Student of the Year 2025

Regenerative Food Systems, AAS

Lindsey Stewart discovered Central Wyoming College in 2022 and will soon become the first graduate of its Regenerative Farming program. Named Student of the Year, she manages Fremont Local Market, connecting deeply with her community and local producers. Lindsey values small-scale farming and the hands-on practicum classes that taught her to appreciate food production from seed to harvest. Though she didn't grow up farming, she aims to become a first-generation farmer. After graduation, she plans to pursue a Bachelor's in Agricultural Leadership at CWC to continue building food system leadership.

RESHAPING THE FUTURE OF WYOMING'S AGRICULTURE INDUSTRY

Central Wyoming College serves as vital hub for agricultural education and innovation in Wyoming. The Freight Farm, a 40-foot shipping container is a fully automated hydroponic, year-round growing system, and is capable of producing two to four acres of produce a year.

OUR STUDENTS

TAYLOR CHAND

Early Childhood Education, BAS

Originally from Riverton, Wyoming, Taylor chose CWC for its strong educational opportunities and proximity to home. Studying Early Childhood Education, she appreciates the supportive community, dedicated professors, and the overall learning environment. This year, she has improved her time management skills, which has positively impacted her studies. Inspired by her grandmother, a special education teacher, she hopes to become a preschool, kindergarten, or special education teacher. Her passion for babysitting evolved into a love for teaching and guiding the younger generation through meaningful education.

VIRGINIE RACHART

Early Childhood Education, BAS

Originally from France, Virginie has lived in the U.S. for 26 years and became a citizen two decades ago. After living in several states, she settled in Wyoming 13 years ago. She chose Central Wyoming College because it offers the degree she wanted - an online BAS in Early Childhood Education. Balancing a full-time job, family, and studies, she proudly says, "I can do it!" Grateful for CWC's supportive community and flexible programs, she's even considering pursuing a master's degree in the future. She deeply appreciates the faculty and staff.

SUMMERI BASS

Expedition Science and Native American Indigenous Studies

Summeri Bass, a Northern Cheyenne with Crow and Lakota roots, has found her niche at Central Wyoming College, where she is the current Aldinger Fellow. The fellowship supports Indigenous women in STEM. Bass studies Expedition Science and Native American Indigenous Studies while living at the Alpine Science Institute. Her project involves creating an indigenized map of the Bozeman Trail. Inspired by internships at the Medicine Wheel and Fort Phil Kearny, she focuses on restoring Indigenous perspectives. Passionate about history and nature, Bass hopes to inspire Native youth to reconnect with the land.

SUSIE ANTELOPE

Organizational Management and Leadership, Tribal Leadership option, BAS

After surviving cancer, Susie Antelope felt it was time for change. A Facebook post about Central Wyoming College's Bachelor's in Organizational Management with a Tribal Leadership focus sparked her interest. With a background in human services and tribal work, she returned to school for growth and purpose. Her Indigenous Studies classes, especially Federal Indian Law, have deepened her understanding of tribal sovereignty. Inspired, her Marine veteran husband also enrolled. For Susie, education is a path to decolonization and reclaiming knowledge—a journey of healing, leadership, and empowering her Native community.

CAREER SERVICES

Central Wyoming College offers a dedicated Career Services department to serve our students. Our mission is to provide high-quality student services while providing support and guidance for student career development.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT

Help build your resume by working for CWC as a student worker. Work-Study* positions are also available.

*Must be eligible. These positions are federally funded; see your Student Aid Report from your FAFSA, the FAFSA website for eligibility, or visit the CWC Financial Aid office.

EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING

Learn through experience! Enhance your education by gaining valuable experience and participate in a variety of paid and unpaid opportunities outside the classroom.

- Mentoring/Informational Interviewing – Short term visit(s) with people working in your desired profession. Learn from professionals about your desired career choice or occupation.
- Job Shadowing – Short term/temporary opportunity to be placed in a work environment for a few hours a day, up to a few weeks. Experience what it would be like to work for an employer in a selected field without a long-term commitment.
- Internships – Gain valuable experience working part-time in your field of interest. Internships can be paid or unpaid, depending on the employer.

GET INVOLVED

Student organizations join people together, are FUN, and foster discovery, leadership, and creativity. Joining a club or organization is a memorable experience and we're sure you'll make some great connections.
