

CREEators

The more who join us on our journey, the faster we will go: meet the CREEators, a win-win-win collaborative model to push forward the cause of sustainable construction.

Being a CREEator signals expertise in building sustainably and boosts visibility.

WHO ARE CREEATORS?

CREEators are carefully selected companies who are currently designing CREE buildings or would like to become recognized experts in doing so. Typical CREEators include integrated planning teams, architects, structural engineers, MEP experts and sustainability consultants.

PLANNING WITH CREE

A new systematized way of building requires early integration of stakeholders, and early design decision-making. Our CREEator partnership expedites this by bringing all stakeholders together while offering the possibility to tender the involvement of the different parties in the market. We share our knowledge and experience, and support CREEators throughout the building design process.

CREEATOR BENEFITS

Being a CREEator:

- Helps to quickly identify projects where CREE would be a good match.
- Eases the integrated planning process, also resulting in a highly sustainable, unique timber-hybrid building.
- Provides a spotlight to showcase projects and portfolios with CREE and like-minded industry players from around the world.
- Signals expertise in doing so. It can expand the company's portfolio.
- Boosts visibility among trusted strategic partners.
- Enables uploading projects on the platform so that others can see and reach out.
