It is with great pride that we call Tim McLoone and the members of Holiday Express our friends and supporters. Over many years, they have brought their magical brand of holiday cheer to the students, adult clients, and staff of St. Joseph's School for the Blind. Their love, joy and true compassion, especially for individuals of all ages with disabilities is heartfelt. They bring a lively spirit to each performance that is unmatched by any other. Thank you Tim and Holiday Express for making this world a better place.

David Feinhals,
Executive Director

Since he founded Holiday Express in 1993, Tim McLoone has held true to his mission. Together with an impressive lineup of professional musicians, singers and more than 2,500 dedicated and talented volunteers, Tim and the members of Holiday Express continue to make a positive difference in the lives of those in need.

Tim and his team deliver music, food, gifts, financial support and friendship to those who are often forgotten throughout New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania from early November through Christmas Eve. Each year they bring the gift of human kindness to thousands of people. They are a critical link to the forgotten individuals in society, fostering the healing connection between music and people.

For those unknowing few, Tim McLoone is best described as a modern day Renaissance man. Schooled at Harvard, he is a gifted musician, athlete and business entrepreneur. Tim has a wide range of accomplishments to his name but none more special than Holiday Express. His love of music was a driving force behind the creation of Holiday Express. He learned to play piano as a child and, after college, formed Tim McLoone and his Atlantic Coast Band.

Sports also had a significant influence upon his life and future endeavors. As an alumnus of Harvard's All-American Track and Field Team, he parlayed his interest in athletics and entertaining into a career as a sports announcer. He has done broadcast work for the U.S. Olympic Trials and was part of the Emmy Award-winning broadcast team for the New York and Los Angeles Marathons. In fact, Tim put his track and field background to use when covering the New York Marathon, jogging alongside the runners as he reported on the event.

Off-camera, Tim directed the U.S. Men's Olympic Trials in 1998 and served as musical director of the Rockefeller Center Tree Lighting Ceremony for NBC from 1998-2000. Additionally, he serves as Director of Game Operations and Arena Announcer at The Prudential Center for Seton Hall Men's basketball and held the same position for the former New Jersey Nets of the NBA.

When not touring with Holiday Express and engaging in television and sports projects, Tim can be found on many weekends performing with his band Tim McLoone and the Shirleys. Tim is also the owner of twelve restaurants including: McLoone's Pier House in Long Branch, McLoone's Rum Runner in Sea Bright, Tim McLoone's Supper Club and McLoone's Asbury Grille in Asbury Park, McLoone's Boathouse in West Orange, McLoone's Woodbridge Grille in Woodbridge, McLoone's Bayonne Grille in Bayonne and Robinson Ale House in Red Bank, McLoone's Pier House in National Harbor, Maryland.

Tim resides in Little Silver, NJ. As much as he enjoys being "on the go", Tim is very much a homebody, cherishing his free time with his wife Beth and their four children.

THANK YOU

St. Joseph's School for the Blind has a proud and noble history and has been a part of the fabric of New Jersey since 1891. True to its mission, we have remained faithful to the vision of our founders, the Sisters of St. Joseph of Peace, and continue as the only private school for the blind in the state. Since our early beginning, we have grown and expanded our programs and services and today we have broadened our reach to include all children with special needs. Children with disabilities, without a vision impairment, are now eligible to receive the full benefit of our trained, professional staff and fully equipped facility.

For more than a century, we have relied on the generosity of friends and supporters to help us provide unique opportunities for individuals, from birth through adulthood, to develop to their greatest potential. We extend our most sincere gratitude to our past, present and future donors. It is imperative that we continue our mission to provide for our current students but ensure our School and our services endure for future generations of children and adults with special needs.

Today, St. Joseph's remains, one school, one vision promoting independence in an environment of caring, acceptance and respect.
