ENGLISH VERSION

ÉDITORIAL

Students in the fourth year of Biotechnology and Chemistry at the CYTech engineering school in Cergy, we spent several months to realize our project: the creation of a series of magazines highlighting the cultural and tourist heritage of the Île-de-France region. In total, we created 8 magazines, each corresponding to a department of this region.

Aware of the challenges involved in discovering such a rich territory, we have undertaken this project to promote our region during our student mobility in Italy. The magazines "Don't miss anything about Île-de-France" have the objective of listing the must-see sites of each department, while highlighting lesser known but equally interesting places to explore. Of course, this selection is not exhaustive!

This edition focuses on the department of Val-de-Marne. As far as possible, you will find the website of each place and its access on Google Maps by hovering over its title and address respectively.

To find out more about the other departments of the region, we invite you to go to the last page of this magazine: you will find a list of all available magazines, as well as a link to our website and Instagram account.

Enjoy your reading!

VAL-DE-MARNE

HISTORY & GEOGRAPHY

In the Middle Ages, the territory of the Val-de-Marne was marked by the construction of many churches and castles. In the Renaissance, aristocratic estates and second homes of Parisian nobles multiplied.

The development of the railway and transport infrastructure in the 19th century facilitated the urbanization and industrialization of the department. The Val-de-Marne was officially created in 1968 during the administrative reorganization of the Paris region.

The coat of arms of the department is "azure sown with flowers of golden lilies, with waved chevron and overturned silver; clothed with gold".

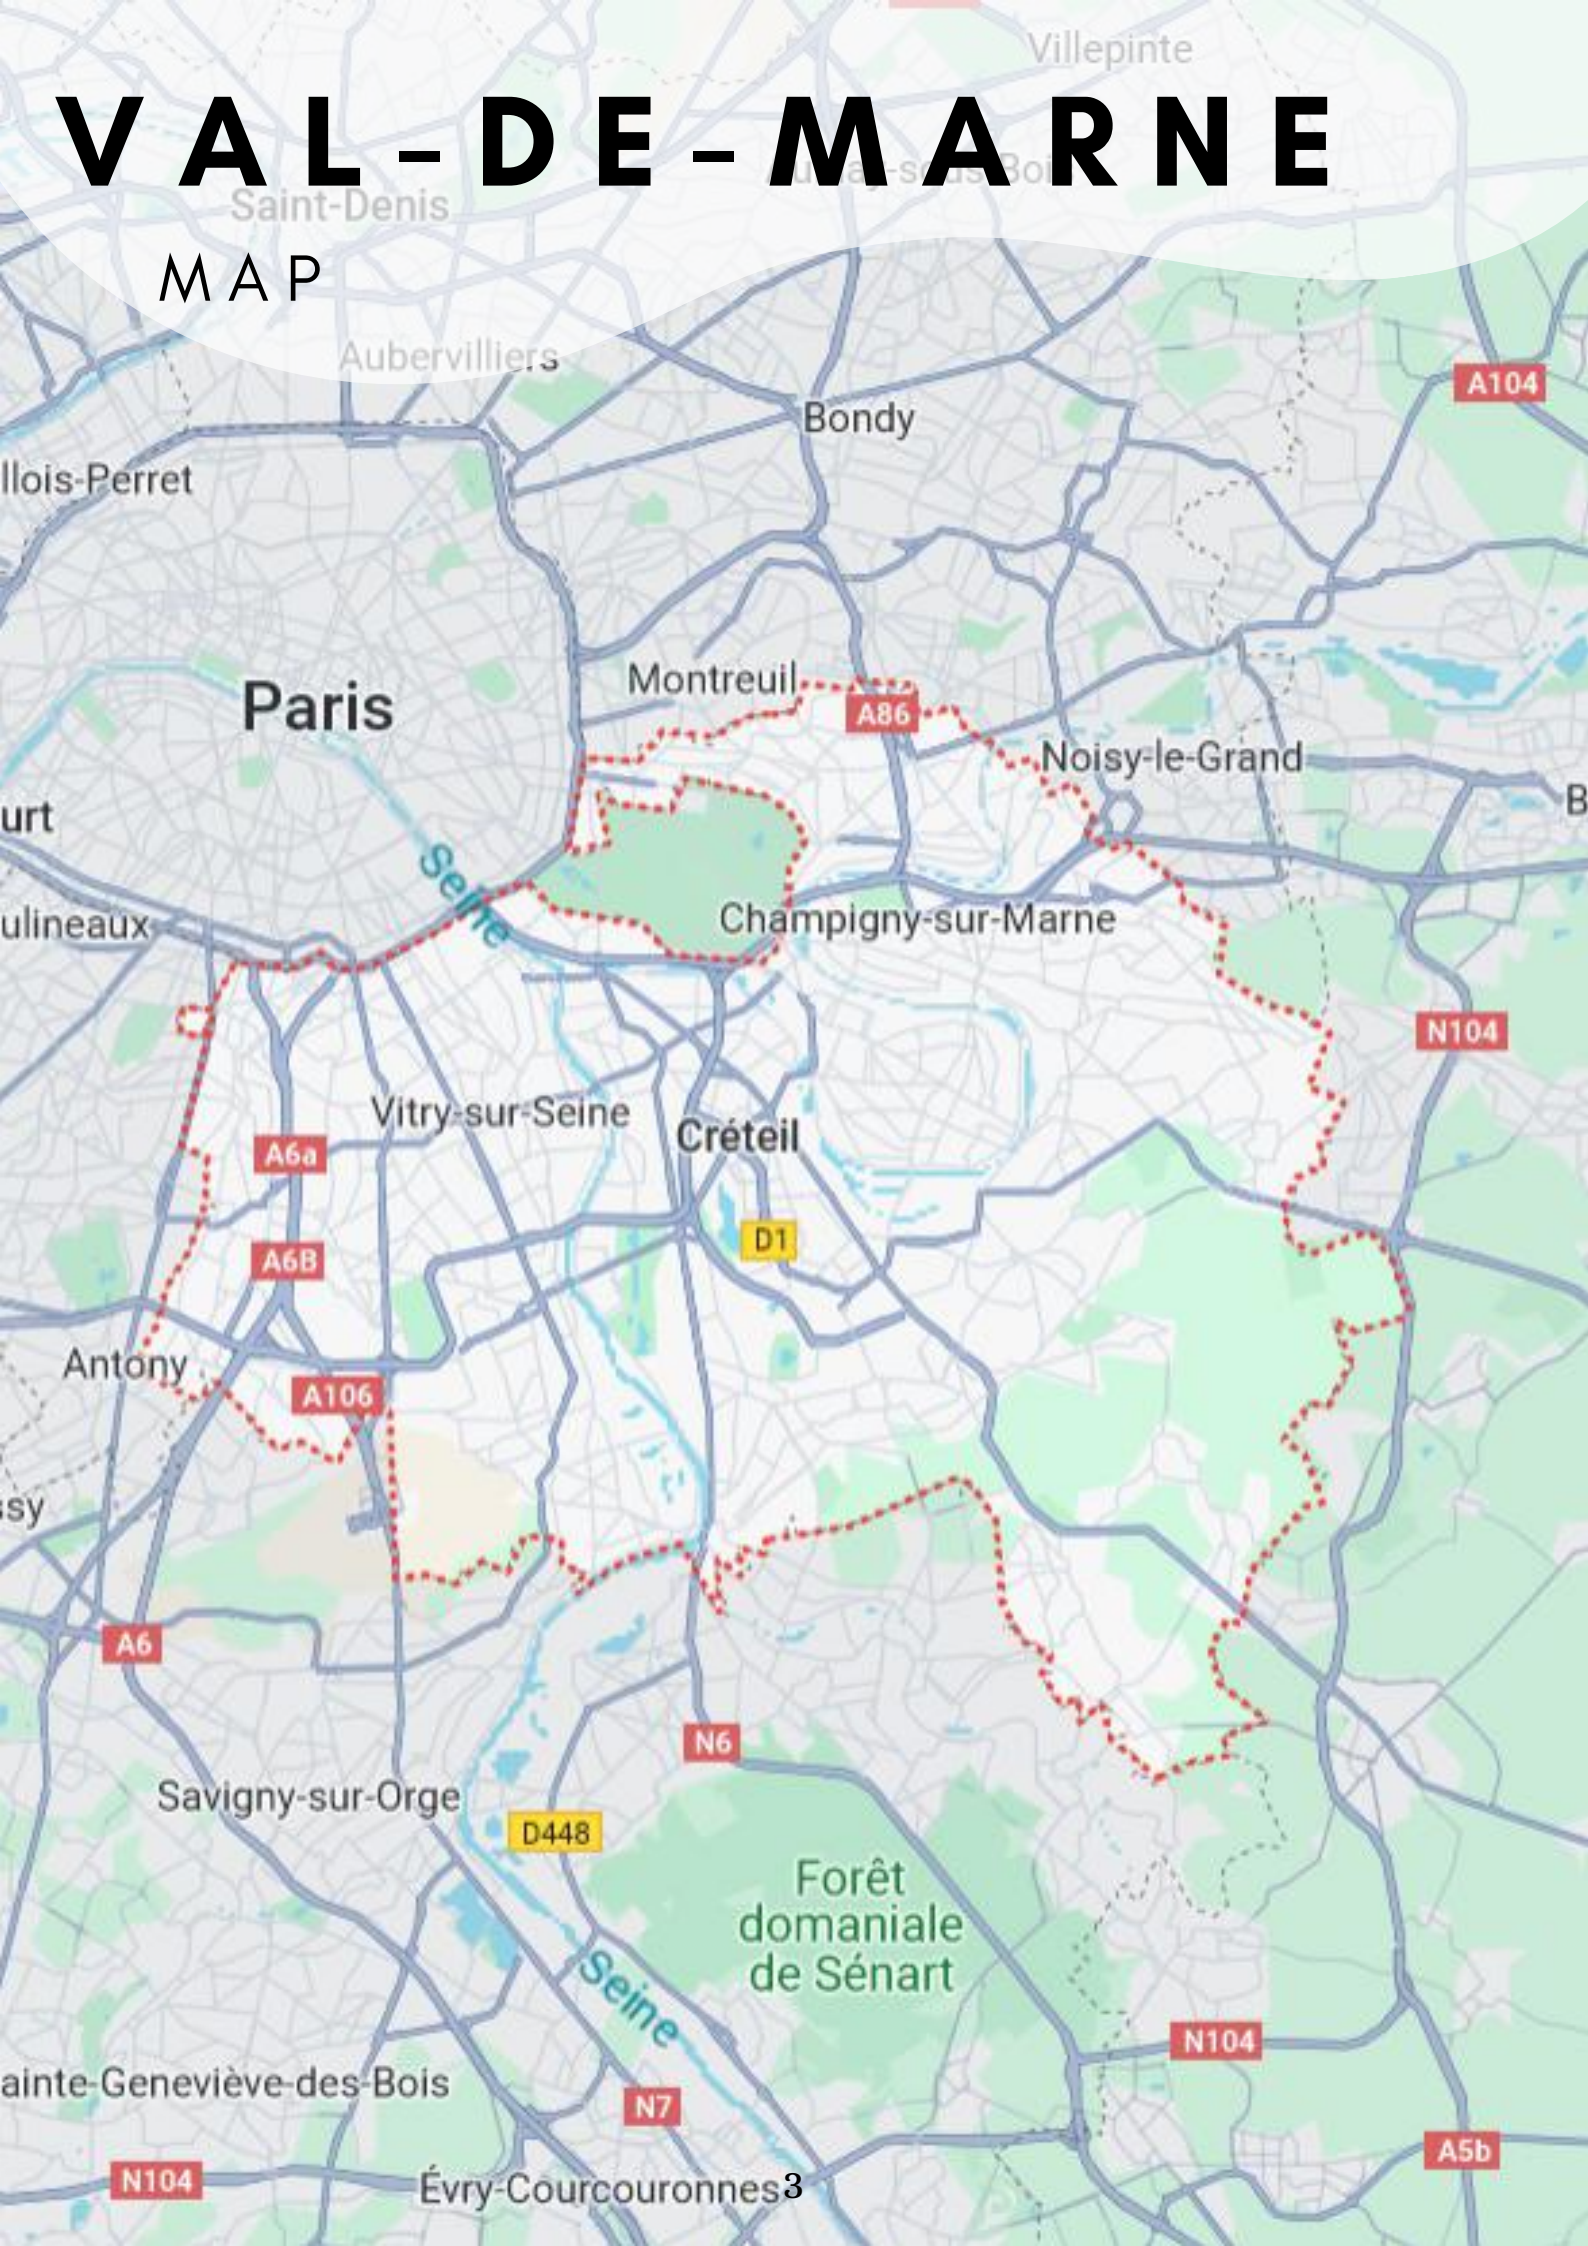

With its surface of about 245 km², the Val-de-Marne is one of the smallest departments in France. It is crossed by the Seine and the Marne, which are major geographical elements and play an important role in the landscape and activities of the region.

The department is heavily urbanized, especially in the area near Paris. However, it retains important green spaces, such as the departmental park of the Roseraie in L'Haÿ-les-Roses, the park of Vincennes and its castle, and many municipal parks.

MUST-SEE

Parks, Domains & Castles

Thanks to its aristocratic past, the department of Val-de-Marne seduces with its parks, properties and castles!

Vincennes Castle

The Vincennes Castle is one of the most important fortified castles in France, and it has a rich history that stretches over several centuries.

The site began to develop under the reign of Louis VII in the 12th century, and became a royal residence during the Renaissance. Charles V then built the 52-meter dungeon, the tallest in Europe still standing.

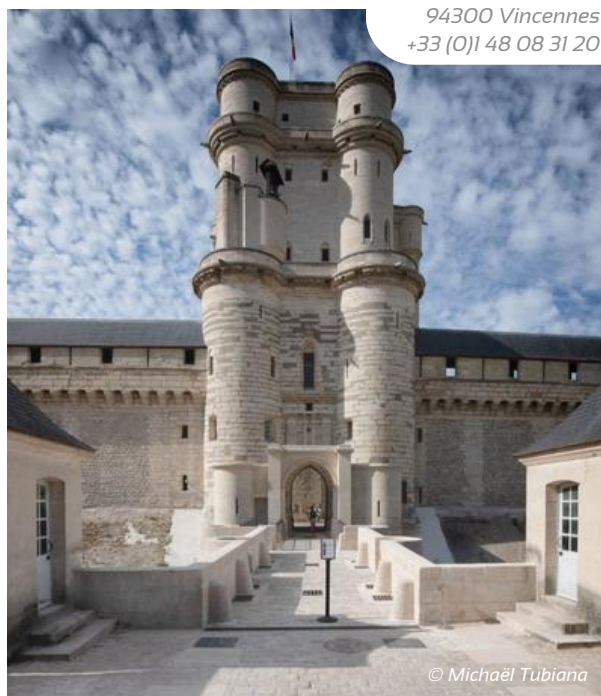

In the 17th century, the castle lost its importance to the Louvre and Versailles. It was used as an arsenal and a state prison.

Within the castle walls, a 15th-century Gothic church, known for its elegant architecture and magnificent stained glass windows, is also accessible: it's the Sainte-Chapelle.

Open every day from 21/05 to 22/09 from 10am to 6pm, then from 23/09 to 20/05 from 10am to 5pm. Closed on 01/01, 01/05 and 25/12. The Sainte-Chapelle closes every day between 1pm and 2pm.

Grosbois Domain

© Paris 2024

Although the origins of the Grosbois domain date back to the Middle Ages, the current castle was mainly built at the end of the 16th century and the beginning of the 17th century.

It passed into the hands of several noble families, including those from La Vallière, and was transformed and embellished over the years, in particular with the addition of French gardens.

In the Napoleonic period, the castle became a center of military and diplomatic activities. Today, it is one of the largest trot training centres in Europe, with more than 1,500 horses.

Inside, the castle preserves sumptuous period pieces such as richly decorated lounges, a library, and rooms with furniture and historical art objects.

Accessible only by guided tour, by reservation by mail. Guided tours of the training center organized every Saturday at 11am. Guided tours of the castle organized every Saturday at 2pm.

Full price: 15€ (visit of the training centre) and 18€ 50 (visit of the castle).

Banks of the river Marne

The Val-de-Marne is a department strongly influenced by the presence of water, where 37 of the 47 municipalities in the department are crossed by a stream. Alongside the Seine, the Marne is an essential component of this territory: the banks of the Marne are the vibrant heart of the region.

On the banks of the Marne, 3 islands are classified as a nature reserve: the Abreuvoir, Gords and Pissevinaigre islands. These islands protect a rich biodiversity and offer important habitats for birds and other species.

Some of these islands are suitable for walking but others are inaccessible to protect the fauna and flora.

Fragonard Museum of the National Veterinary School of Alfort

Founded in 1766, the Fragonard Museum of the National Veterinary School of Alfort is one of the oldest museums in France dedicated to veterinary medicine and comparative anatomy. Created by Claude Bourgelat, founder of the Veterinary School of Lyon and that of Alfort, it was intended to serve as a teaching resource for veterinary students.

The museum is known for its "skinned", these anatomical preparations of human and animal bodies, made by Honoré Fragonard in the 18th century. It also houses a collection of skeletons, waxes, fossils, etc.

Open on Wednesdays, Thursdays, Saturdays and Sundays from 2pm to 6pm.

Full price: 8 €. Click here to find the conditions for reduced rates or free here.

Dubuffet Foundation

The Dubuffet Foundation is an institution dedicated to the preservation and promotion of the work of Jean Dubuffet, a major artist of the 20th century. It was created by Jean Dubuffet himself, a pioneer of Art Brut, with the aim of preserving and publicising his work.

Today, the foundation strives to preserve Dubuffet's works, to ensure their dissemination through exhibitions and publications, and to promote research on the artist and his work.

The Closerie Falbala, located in Périgny-sur-Yerres, is one of the greatest achievements of Dubuffet. An impressive architectural and sculptural ensemble, it contains major works of the artist in a unique setting.

Open on weekends (except holidays), by reservation by phone. Extended opening from Wednesday to Sunday in July, August and during school holidays in the Paris region.

Full price: 8€. Find out how to take advantage of the reduced rate or free by clicking here.

Street Art

The Val-de-Marne is a true open air museum for street art! If Vitry-sur-Seine is often considered the flagship city of this art, other municipalities such as Ivry-sur-Seine, Fontenay-sous-SeineBois, and Vincennes also play an important role in this artistic scene.

RUNGIS

THE WORLD'S BIGGEST MARKET!

The Rungis market is the largest fresh produce market in the world! Inaugurated in 1969, it covers an area of more than 234 hectares and is considered the main food distribution center in France and Europe.

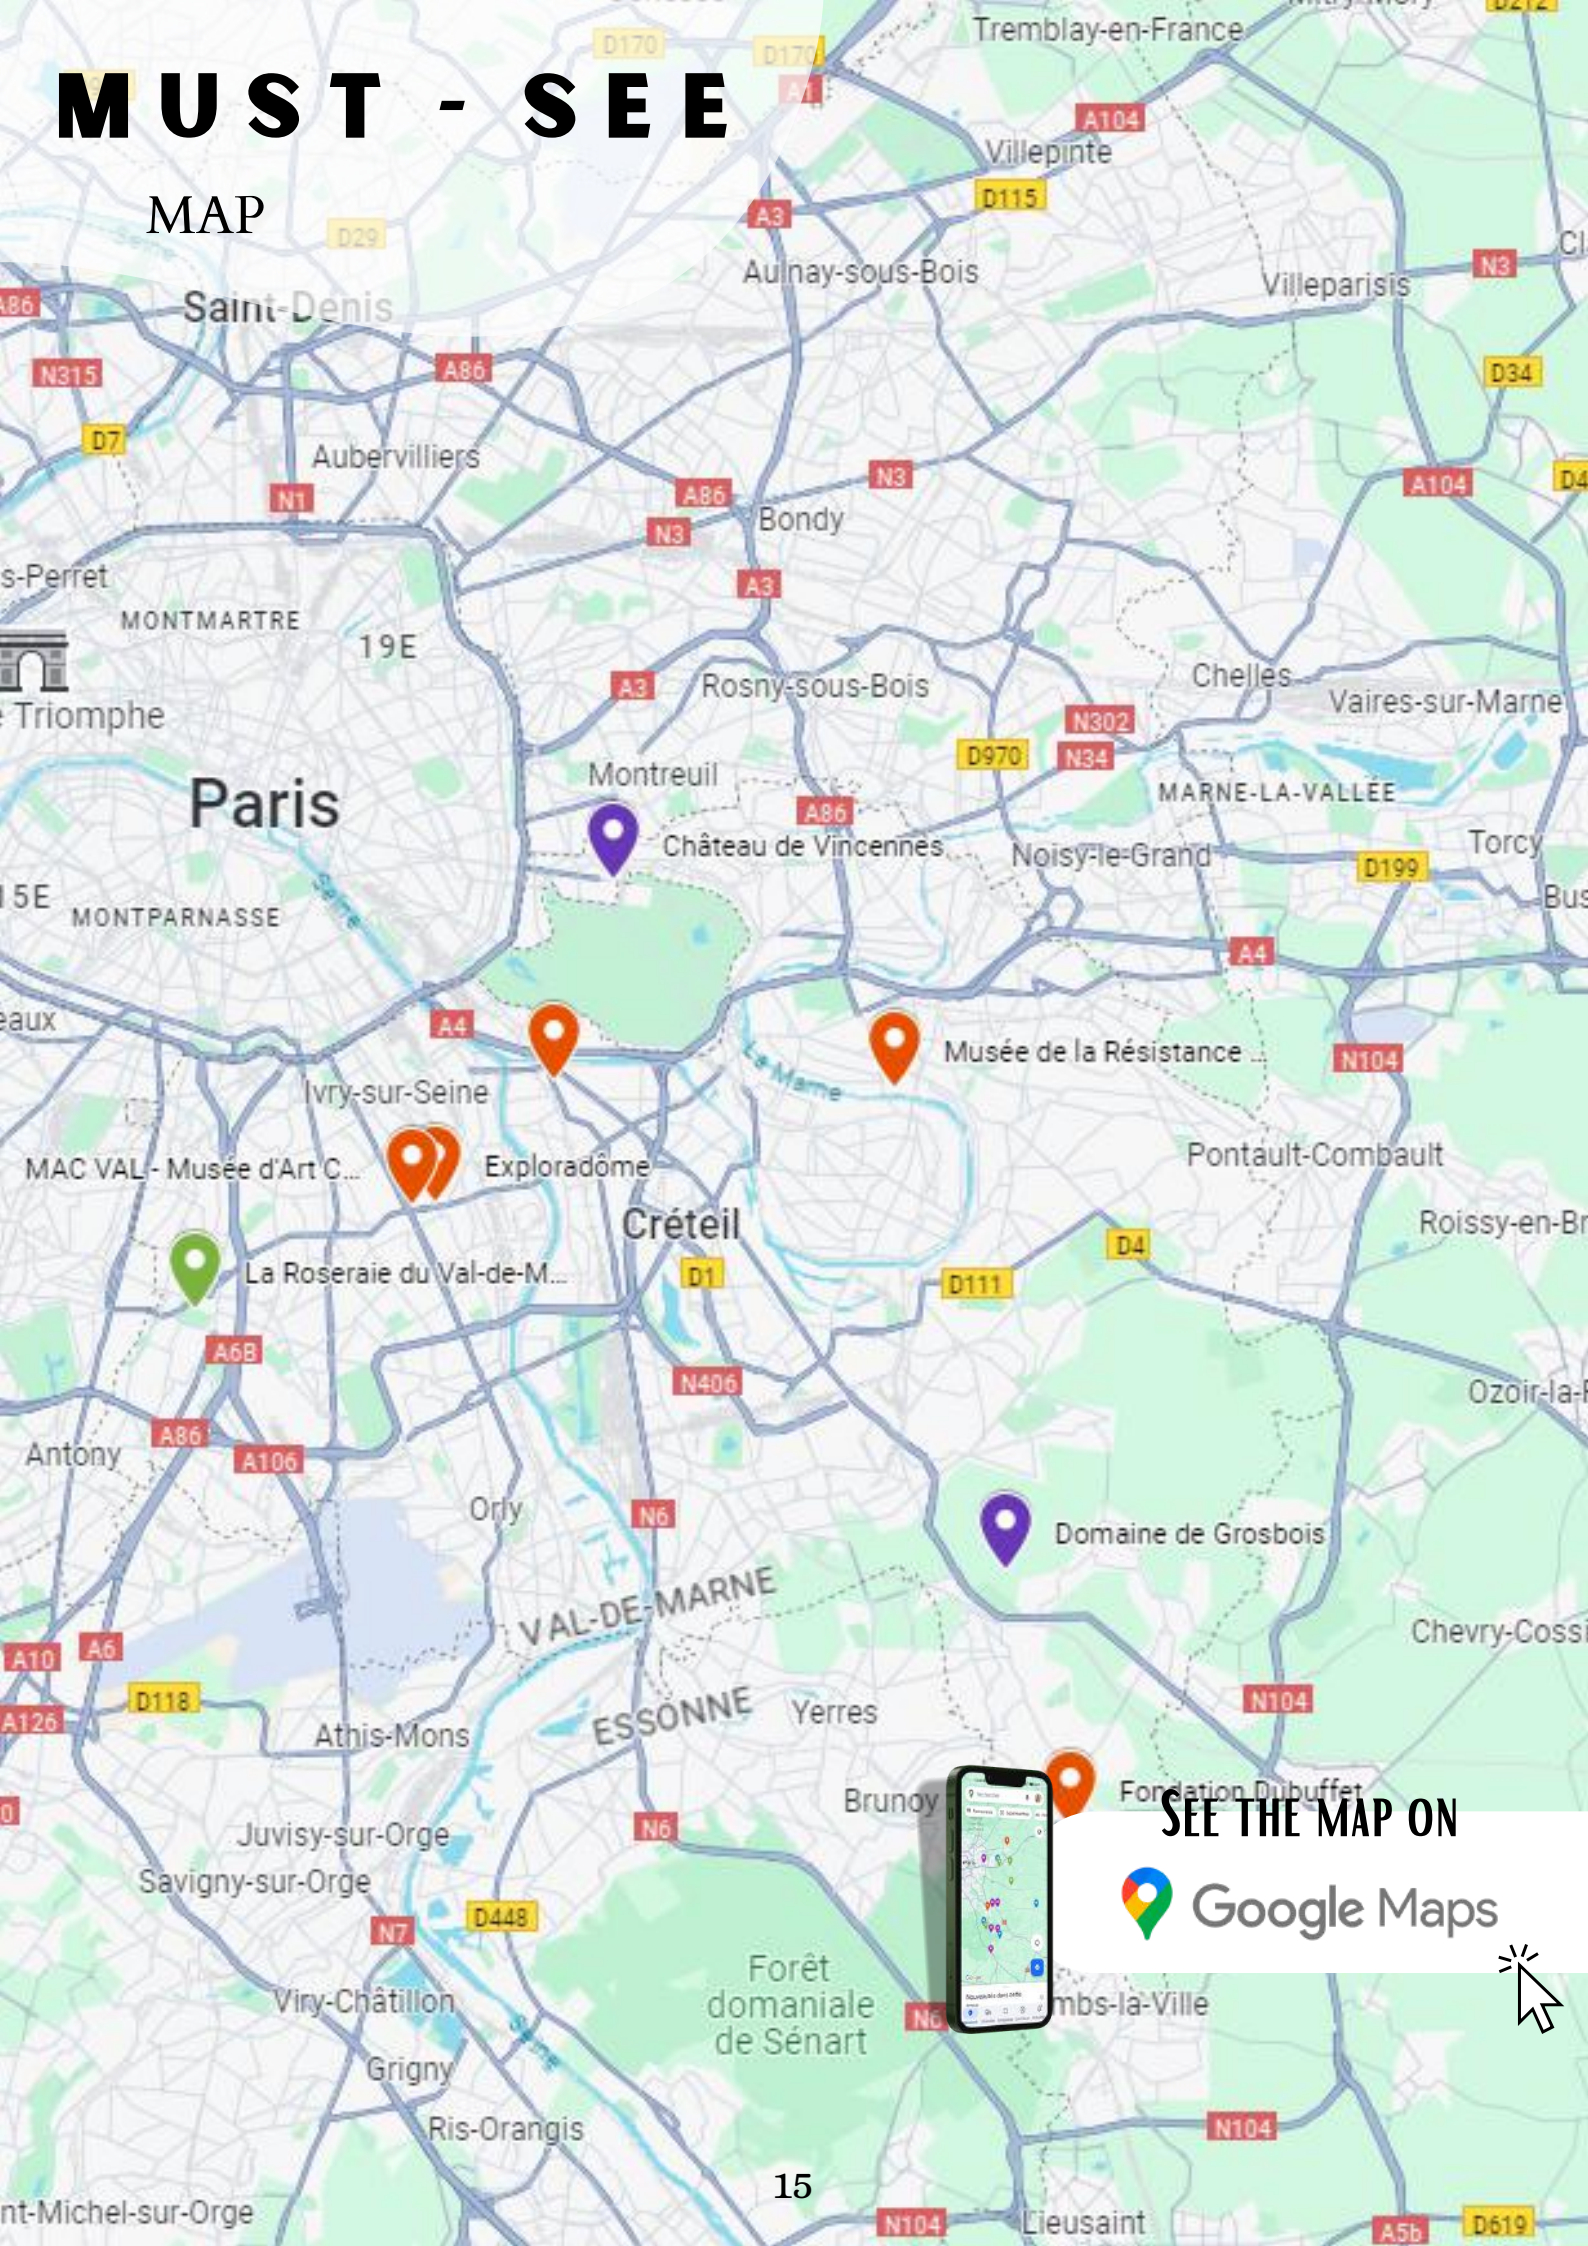

Rungis specialises in a wide range of fresh produce, including fruits and vegetables, meat, fish and seafood, dairy products, flowers and various food products. The market is divided into different sectors, each dedicated to a specific type of product, and is known for the quality and variety of its products, who come from different regions of France and the whole world.

The market of Rungis mainly supplies food professionals, such as restaurants, grocers, wholesalers and distribution chains. It is essential for the supply of fresh products to large French cities.

The Rungis market is a closed venue exclusively reserved for professionals.

From castles to religious sites, the Val-de-Marne offers a multitude of remarkable places, each unique in its kind and worth visiting.

Louis Daguerre's Diorama

Louis Daguerre's Diorama depicts a biblical scene inspired by the episode of the life of Jesus Christ, and uses ingenious lighting techniques to create visual illusion effects.

The lighting and transparency of the paint layers allow to change the appearance of the scene according to the light, for example simulating a transition from day to night.

Accessible every day from 8:30am to 7:30pm. A switch located on the left of the nave, when entering the church, allows to activate the lighting of the diorama.

Self-guided visit.

Dovecote of Créteil

At the end of the 14th century, the Colombier de Créteil was associated with a seigneurial manor house, where King Charles VI resided to treat his bouts of dementia.

Only the columbine tree has survived from this manor, and it is now one of the oldest in the Île-de-France region. Today, it serves as an exhibition site.

Notre-Dame of Créteil Cathedral

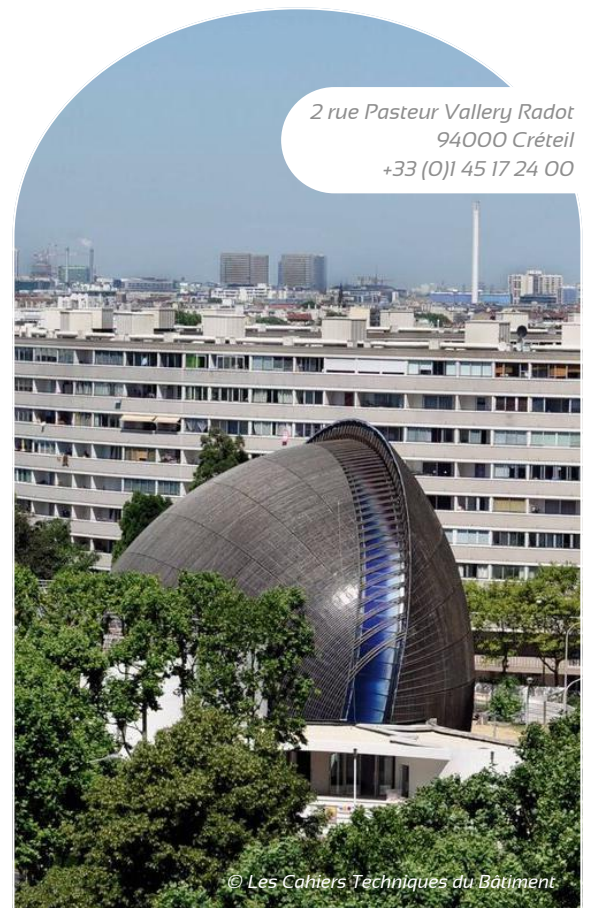

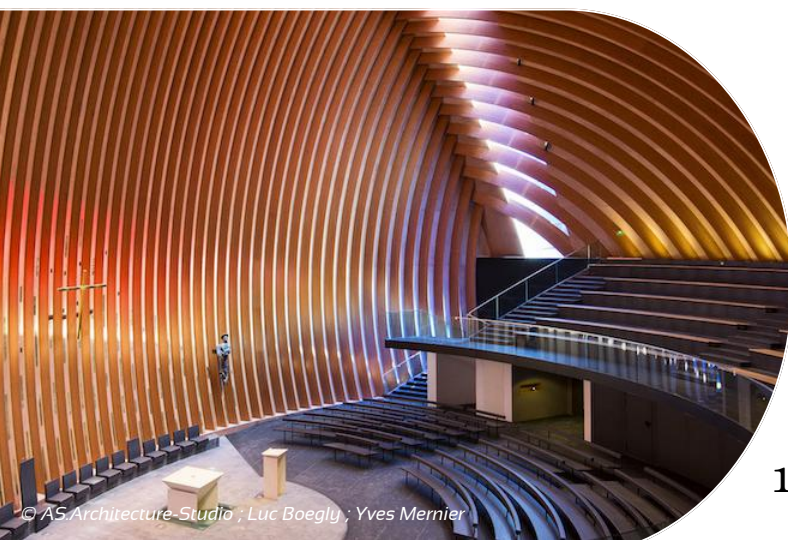

The Cathedral of Créteil is a modern example of sacred architecture, renowned for its contemporary and symbolic design. Built in 1976, the cathedral was a modest structure, and in 2015, a reconstruction and expansion project was carried out to respond to the growth of the Catholic population in the region.

The cathedral now features modern architecture with an elliptical dome that symbolizes a tent, evoking the notion of gathering and welcoming.

Reception on weekdays from 10am to 4pm, and on weekends and holidays from 3pm to 6pm.

Fort of Sucy-en-Brie

The Fort of Sucy-en-Brie is a military structure designed to protect the French capital. It is a classic example of military fortifications from the late 19th century.

It is characterized by a pentagonal plan and thick walls of stone and brick, designed to withstand bombing. The fort includes various buildings, including barracks, powder stores, and communication galleries. These facilities were intended to house a garrison and store ammunition and provisions in case of siege.

The fort is now a cultural and historical site accessible to the public. It hosts various events, such as exhibitions, guided tours, and historical reenactments.
