FAIR TRADE SUSTAINABLE JEWELRY HANDMADE IN ECUADOR

Dear Customers,

I am delighted to share with you and all Tagua lovers the highlights of the past year at your favorite sustainable handmade jewelry company!

The beginning of 2024 brought significant challenges for our artisans and logistics team in Ecuador. Our country is grappling with the aftermath of decades of political corruption, resulting in low employment, inflation, and a troubling rise in crime. Recently, a nationwide power shortage has severely impacted us, causing delays in production and creating uncertainties for our entire team.

Despite these hurdles, our team's commitment to delivering our goods on time has been nothing short of remarkable. They have worked tirelessly, often putting in overtime and enduring irregular hours, to ensure we meet our deadlines. Our Ecuadorian team's dedication, love, and appreciation for your continued support shine through in every piece they create. To them, you are not just customers but integral members of our team. Here, we prioritize people, valuing their abilities and never underestimating the power of hope.

I cannot thank you enough for another successful year. Our brand is reaching new horizons, and our new designs inspired by Mother Nature are receiving widespread admiration. These creations are a testament to the incredible artisans who craft them and the inspiration I draw from the vibrant rainbows that push me to dream bigger.

God Bless,

Soraya Fetzner Cedeño

HOW TAGUA JEWELRY IS MADE

What is Tagua (pronounced TAG-WAH)? The Tagua nut grows from a palm tree found mainly in the Ecuadorian rainforests. It is also known as vegetable ivory. It takes the fruit 12-18 months to dry in order for it to become a hardened, natural nut that we use in our jewelry.

HARVESTING

The process begins by gathering and collecting nuts from both the rainforest floor, where the nuts have fallen or harvested directly from the palms. The material we use is hidden in the very heart of the fruit. After harvesting, the seeds are dried in the sun for up to 8 weeks

HAND CARVING

The carving process is done by skilled artisans. While a grindstone and dremel are sometimes used to shape the nuts into intricate shapes, most of the artisans use their own handmade tools to achieve the desired outcome. This is a skill that has been handed down from generation to generation

DYEING

In large batches, the newly shaped tagua pieces are submerged into vats of Italian, certified organic vegetable dyes where the tagua seeds absorb the color, the process can last anywhere between 10-14 hours depending on the desired color.

DRYING

Once the desired color is achieved, the tagua nuts are laid out in the sun to dry. This can take up to 5 days.

TUMBLING

The dyed tagua pieces are put into tumblers for 10-14 hours. This is what gives our tagua that smooth and shiny appearance, no chemicals are used in processing our jewelry.

ASSEMBLING

Finally, the artisans skillfully assemble the tagua into fashionable jewelry. Each artisan can assemble up to 100 pieces per day. Our artisans have a safe work environment, make a fair, living wage and enjoy the work they do.

WE USE 100% NATURAL MATERIALS

Tagua nuts, bombona seeds, pambil, açai berries, bamboo, recycled coconut shell, natural straw, and recycled wood. All of these resources are sustainable and by harvesting these materials, we are helping preserve the Ecuadorian rainforest.
