KWETB Hosts EDI Event Celebrating Equality, Diversity, and Inclusion

Kildare and Wicklow Education and Training Board (KWETB) recently hosted an event titled Celebrating a Culture of Equality, Diversity, and Inclusion, bringing together staff from across the organisation to recognise and promote EDI values.

The event marked a significant milestone, with 67 KWETB staff completing the IHREC e-Learning module on Public Sector Human Rights and Equality Duty. Certificates were presented to participants during the event, which was attended by over 50 staff from Schools, OSD, FET programmes and Quality Assurance. Members of the EDI Working Group organised and facilitated the successful occasion.

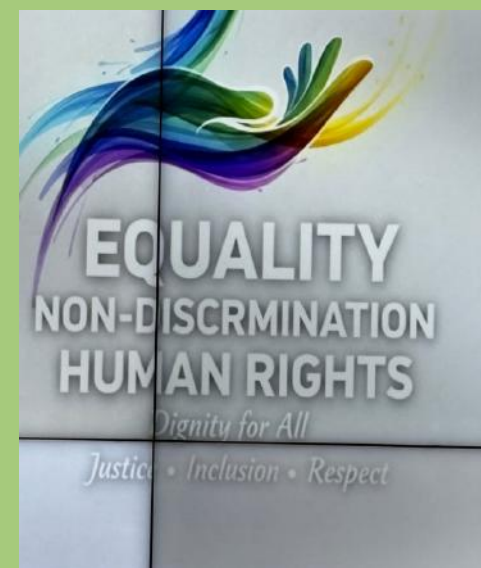

Led by KWETB Chief Executive Dr. Deirdre Keyes, the event featured an inspiring address from Bernie Bradley, the Irish Human Rights and Equality Commission (IHREC) Public Sector Duty Training Manager, who spoke about the importance of equality, diversity, and inclusion, the responsibility of public bodies to uphold human rights in Ireland and to continue to meet their Public Sector Human Rights and Equality Duty.

Ken Scully, Director of Schools, acted as MC for the occasion, anchoring the proceedings to a celebration of our staff cohort's completion of the IHREC e-learning module to our commitment to EDI throughout the ETB.

Dr. Keyes highlighted KWETB's core values and reaffirmed the organisation's commitment to embedding the Public Sector Duty within its Statement of Strategy, ensuring that equality and human rights remain central to all operations.

The event also featured a powerful reflection from our HR Manager Gemma Whitty, who shared her experience of completing the EDI learning module and highlighted the critical role that equality, diversity, and inclusion play within HR practices. Her perspective reinforced how EDI principles are embedded in our policies and culture, ensuring fairness and respect for all staff.

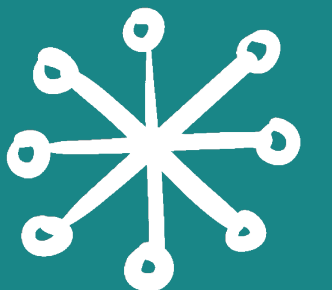

Brenda Lynch, EDI Working Group chair, thanked Bernie and IHREC for holding Irish public organisations to account to fulfil our Public Sector Duty obligations, thereby working towards eliminating discrimination in Ireland.

The event was widely regarded as a success, fostering collaboration and reinforcing KWETB's commitment to creating an inclusive culture for staff, learners and service users.

Supporting HSE Homecare Workers Through Education

In Summer 2023, Ann Kearney, HSE Manager of Services: Home Care Support Services, approached Naas FETC with a challenge presented to them: all HSE Homecare Workers were required to hold a QQI Level 5 Healthcare Award.

Following close collaboration between Ann and Carol Toft in the HSE, Roy Brennan in Naas FETC, and the KWETB FET management, a dedicated education programme was developed for approximately 80 homecare workers. This programme was designed to build on the learners existing knowledge and expertise, address gaps, and to fit into their daily work pattern. The programme was delivered across KWETB FET Centres in Naas, Maynooth, Athy, and Blessington.

We are delighted to share that the HSE learners in each centre have successfully completed their courses and achieved their QQI Level 5 Healthcare Awards.

At a recent awards ceremony in Newbridge FETC, Ann stated that the Kildare and West Wicklow HSE CHO Home Care Workers were the national leaders in achieving their healthcare awards, and were setting the standard for others around the country.

This photo of the Naas group proudly receiving their certificates marks a significant milestone in their professional development and in the continued partnership between KWETB and the HSE.

New Beginnings

Newbridge FETC recently hosted a Welcome Coffee Morning to mark the beginning of the academic year. The event provided an opportunity for new and returning students to meet, connect, and share experiences in a warm and inclusive setting.

Students from many different nationalities gathered to share coffee and conversation, showcasing the vibrant diversity of our centre. This relaxed event provided an opportunity to form new friendships, exchange stories, and feel truly connected within a welcoming learning community.

One student shared:

“It was lovely to meet people from so many different countries as well as staff. I already feel more comfortable and excited about starting my course.”

Former Student Natalia shared:

“Thrilled to be back at Newbridge FETC to finish my studies! Last year was an amazing journey with incredible support—can’t wait to make this year even better!”

Maths Week Ireland 2025 Celebrated at Naas Youthreach with Interactive Workshop and Ministerial Visit

Naas Youthreach celebrated Maths Week Ireland 2025 with a special interactive workshop on Thursday the 16th October 2025 which included a visit from the Minister for Further Education and Training James Lawless, TD. Maths Week Ireland is one of Europe's leading festivals of its kind, celebrating mathematics and promoting a positive attitude towards maths in everyday life, education and work. The theme of Maths Week 2025 is encouraging curiosity and confidence in maths through real-world problem-solving.

Mathematical literacy is a crucial life skill that empowers young people to navigate everyday challenges, from managing finances to making informed decisions. For learners who may not have thrived in traditional classroom settings, hands-on, creative approaches to maths can build confidence and demonstrate that mathematics is both accessible and essential for future success.

The Naas Youthreach event featured an engaging workshop delivered by Tiago Hirth, a maths enthusiast and energetic presenter known for his innovative approach to maths outreach.

Tiago's workshops demonstrate that maths is everywhere, not just in textbooks, mixing mathematical concepts with card tricks, magic and interactive demonstrations. Designed to be both educational and entertaining, Tiago's sessions make maths accessible to all participants regardless of age or ability.

The workshop focused on interactive, group-based activities that made maths enjoyable and relevant for young people.

The event took place at Naas Youthreach, Jigginstown Commercial Centre, Newbridge Road, Naas West, Co. Kildare.

The activity was organised by SETU Calmast STEM, with Nollaig Healy coordinating the event. "Maths for All" is the guiding principle of Calmast, reflecting the organisation's commitment to inclusive and engaging mathematics education. Minister Lawless attended as guest of honour to show support for Maths Week and for the work of the Youthreach programme in promoting inclusive education.

Also in attendance were representatives from Kildare and Wicklow Education and Training Board was Úna Burke (Adult Education Officer) and Nollaig Healy representing (SETU Calmast)

Bray Institute of Further Education

Congratulations to BIFE graduate Amanda Kelly on being selected for the Royal Ulster Academy of Arts 144th Annual Exhibition in Belfast!

Massive congratulations to BIFE Culinary Arts Student April Dickenson who competed in the Kerrygold Culinary Arts student competition at Airfield Estate.

"The brief was to use local ingredients and April used lamb from Kilmullen farm, Wicklow Way wines in her sauce, organic potatoes from Wicklow town and honey from Powerscourt estate which was wonderful to see in support of Wicklow county's food producers."

HAPPENINGS IN WEST WICKLOW

Further Education Students Celebrating Success in West Wicklow

Blessington and Baltinglass Further Education Centres hosted their annual QQI Awards on week of the 17 November. The Award ceremony was held in Blessington FETC on the 18 November and in Germaine's Inisfail in Baltinglass on Thursday 20 November. Certificates were presented for courses ranging from Level 2 to Level 5 across a wide variety of subjects, including Communications, Excel, Word Processing, IT Skills, ESOL, Office Skills, Horticulture, Art, Healthcare, Special Needs Assistance (SNA), Business Administration, and Employability Skills.

Annette Mangan, ALO for KWETB West Wicklow ABE Service acknowledged the hard work, commitment and dedication of all students. Anne McGrath, KWETB West Wicklow BTEI Co-ordinator pointed out. "It's more than certification—it's confidence. It's the belief in yourself and what you can do."

Many students were progressing from Level 2 through to higher levels, demonstrating the pathway and power of lifelong learning. The event was a fun and enjoyable occasion, filled with pride and celebration. So nice to see families celebrating with the students.

Celebrity Chef Catherine Fulvio visits Blessington FETC

On 26 November in Blessington FETC, again thanks to the ALL/CIF, students across the services of ABE, BTEI, YR in West Wicklow were treated to an inspiring cookery demonstration and question and answer session with well known chef Catherine Fulvio in Blessington FETC.

The topic was how to 'Waste less and Eat Healthy'. Catherine shared her expertise and gave plenty of tips such as how to sharpen your knife, how to cut an onion without crying!

Catherine also mentioned how to store herbs and how to freeze peels to make a stock at a later date. The recipes centred around "Love Food Hate Waste", which included a chickpea curry, beef and lentil cottage pie and Smoky Chicken and Black Bean Chilli.

Everyone got a small taste of all recipes, great morning had by all.

Thanks to the ALL/CIF fund, students from Baltinglass FETC and Blessington FETC enjoyed a memorable evening at the Civic Theatre on Wednesday 19 November. The night began with bus collection in Baltinglass at 6.30pm and chocolates and a bingo quiz to set the tone! After picking up more students in Blessington FETC the journey continued with plenty more fun, chat and laughter. Arriving at the Civic Theatre in plenty of time, everyone had the chance to grab a coffee before sitting down to see the Dublin Gospel Choir. On the way home the music and singing did not stop. Music had truly broken down barriers and creating connections.

These nights out are invaluable—they build confidence, encourage social interaction, and create lasting memories
