A Little Bit About Us

Florida Hat Company is a family business, which started over 40 years ago. The owner, John Siroky, is a second-generation hatter, who has been designing and selling hats for most of his life.

Located in sunny Tampa, Florida, we service an expansive range of resorts, boutiques, gift shops, amusement parks, zoos, aquariums. etc.

At FHC, we are a close-knit team! We work together to ensure your order ships out quickly. We hold high standards in the packing, shipping, and overall quality of your hats. Our employees are trained to skillfully maximize each box for shipping, without compromising the condition of your hats.

We offer a wide range of prices and open stock (no minimums!), allowing you to buy exactly what fits your needs.

PANAMA HAT HISTORY

Despite its name, the hat is not made in Panama. Rather its name originated from the workers who helped construct the Panama Canal as protection against high temperatures.

The Panama Hat became more popular due to the visit by U.S. President Theodore Roosevelt in 1914 on the occasion of the inauguration of the Canal, local newspapers and USA recorded images of President Roosevelt wearing a Panama hat adorned with his traditional black ribbon.

ELABORATION PROCESS

Panama hat is 100% handmade manually by braided fibers of a palm known as Paja Toquilla (Carludovica Palmata).

The stalks of this palm are harvested and each stalk is fragmented into thin fibers which are then classified according to its width and length.

Toquilla fibers are taken to a cooking process with sulfur and carbon. This eventually causes the fibers to take a natural color of beige or ivory.

These fibers are carried to a natural drying process by extending them outdoors and under the shade.

Depending on the quality of the hat to produce the fibers, they are classified by their thinness, symmetry, color uniformity and width.

The fibers are then ready to start the weaving process. Depending on the quality of the fiber, weaving a hat may take anywhere from one day to two months.

The woven hats have a bell shape (hat bodies) and are ready to start the blocking process and decorated at a later time
