A Little Support Goes a Long Way

Everyday tasks can feel different when Parkinson's symptoms are at play. Changes in balance, coordination, strength, or dexterity can make familiar routines more challenging.

Adaptive tools are designed to make these tasks safer, easier, and more manageable — helping you maintain independence and confidence in your daily life.

You don't have to figure this out alone. Our team can help guide you toward tools that fit your needs.

How to Use This Guide

FINDING WHAT WORKS FOR YOU

Everyone's experience is different. You may not need every tool - and that's okay.

As you look through this guide:

- 1. Focus on tasks that feel challenging
- 2. Start with one or two small changes
- 3. Choose tools that feel comfortable and easy to use

We recommend speaking with a therapist or trained professional for personalized guidance.

dressing

GETTING DRESSED WITH EASE

Getting dressed can become more difficult due to stiffness, tremors, or limited mobility. These tools are designed to reduce strain and make the process smoother.

- 1 Button & Zipper Hook
Helps guide buttons through holes and pull zippers with greater control.
 - 2 Sock Aid
Allows you to put on socks without bending down.
 - 3 Dressing Stick
Assists with pulling clothing on or off, including shirts, pants, and socks.
 - 4 Shoe Horn
Helps guide your foot into shoes without bending or straining.
 - 5 Magnetic or Adaptive Shirts
Designed to replace buttons with magnets for easier fastening.
 - 6 Pull-On Pants with Grip Tabs
Provides extra support when pulling clothing up.

bathing & grooming

STAYING SAFE IN THE BATHROOM

The bathroom can present balance and safety challenges. These tools help reduce risk and support independence.

- 1 Grab Bars
Provide stability when entering or exiting the shower or using the toilet.
 - 2 Shower Chair
Allows for seated bathing to reduce fatigue and fall risk.
 - 3 Non-Slip Bath Mat
Improves traction in wet, slippery surfaces.
 - 4 Electric Toothbrush
Helpful for limited wrist mobility or coordination.
 - 5 Dispensers (Soap/Shampoo/Toothpaste)
Reduce the need for gripping or squeezing containers.
 - 6 Foot Scrubber
Helps clean feet without bending or balancing on one leg.

eating & cooking

MAKING MEALTIME EASIER

Tremors, reduced grip strength, and coordination changes can make preparing and eating meals more difficult. These tools help improve control and reduce frustration.

- 1 Weighted or Adaptive Utensils
Designed to improve grip and reduce the impact of tremors.
 - 2 Plate Guard
Prevents food from sliding off the plate while eating.
 - 3 Rocker Knife
Allows cutting with one hand using a rocking motion.
 - 4 Cutting Board with Stabilizers
Keeps food in place while cutting.
 - 5 Non-Slip Mats
Prevent dishes from moving during preparation.
 - 6 Spill-Proof Cups
Reduce spills and improve confidence while drinking.

A Trusted Leader in Parkinson's Programming

For more than 25 years, Evergreen Commons has been a trusted guide for individuals and families living with Parkinson's disease. What began in partnership with Holland Hospital has grown into a specialized, research-informed program that supports strength, mobility, confidence, and connection.

Today, our trained and certified staff lead eight class formats, 17 weekly exercise sessions, and a monthly support group, all designed to meet people where they are and help them move forward.

Backed by strong partnerships with healthcare, rehabilitation, and community organizations, Evergreen Commons offers both the expertise and compassionate support needed along the Parkinson's journey.
