ABOUT INDEPENDENT BOOK PUBLISHERS ASSOCIATION

The Independent Book Publishers Association (IBPA) is a not-for-profit membership organization serving and leading the independent publishing community through advocacy, education, and tools for success.

Founded in 1983, IBPA has over 4,000 members and is the largest publishing trade association in the U.S. Through the years, IBPA has become one of the most influential associations in independent publishing. IBPA members include Independent publishers, hybrid publishers, author publishers (a.k.a. self-published authors), university presses, and association presses.

For questions or more information, contact IBPA or visit our website.
1020 Manhattan Beach Blvd., Suite 204 • Manhattan Beach, CA 90266
310.546.1818 | info@ibpa-online.org

ibpa-online.org

IBPA's core values include Independence and Inclusivity. As a nonprofit association, we are committed to independent points of view and a publishing industry where everyone can tell their story and find themselves in the content they read.

Please note that a listing in this IBPA catalog does not constitute an endorsement of any particular book, author, or publisher by IBPA, its employees, or board members.

Welcome to ALA!

Dear Librarian friends,

Welcome to ALA and, on behalf of IBPA members, staff, and the board of directors, we want to thank you for the work you do. During this time of unprecedented censorship, which is occurring in our schools and communities across the country, we rely on librarians like you to keep the magic of books alive.

There has never been a more challenging time for authors to have their voices heard, and for publishers to help them reach readers. We recognize that librarians are on the front lines of ensuring that books – including life-saving books – remain available to readers at every age, in every state in our nation. As a non-profit association whose mission it is to serve the independent publishing community through education, advocacy, and providing tools for success, we are proud to partner with librarians to help connect our publishers' books to your patrons.

On the following pages, we present 270 independently published titles from IBPA members for your consideration. We hope you will take some time to review the books found within these pages and consider supporting independent publishing by adding some of them to your collection.

Beyond our booth (#3711) displaying these titles, and the giveaways and author signings at ALA 2023, you can learn more about our members' titles through IBPA's periodic cooperative marketing emails. These emails highlight 15 indie titles that have been selected specifically for librarians in the following categories: elementary school librarians; middle and high school librarians; college and academic library librarians; public library children's and YA librarians, and public library adult librarians (fiction and nonfiction focus lists). If you are not currently receiving these communications, please email us at info@ibpa-online.org (or have your badge scanned by us in the IBPA booth) and we'll add you to our list.

IBPA understands that the words, stories, and images presented in books have the power to shape culture and history in big and small ways. At the same time, IBPA acknowledges that the legacy of the book publishing industry is one of privilege, bias, and exclusion, which significantly impacts how and which books are published. To that end, IBPA is invested in partnering with organizations such as We Need Diverse Books, NABU, Benetech, and developing new programs such as our new IngramSpark-sponsored Innovative Voices Program to support publishers from marginalized communities.

We are also interested in supporting you and your efforts to keep books on shelves and accessible to all readers. If you have any suggestions for ways that IBPA can partner with you and your library in these efforts, please reach out to me directly: andrea@ibpa-online.org.

With gratitude

Andrea Fleck-Nisbet
