A close-up photograph showing a large pile of dried, light brown straw or reeds on the left side of the frame. The straw is composed of many thin, elongated, and slightly curved pieces, creating a dense, textured mass. The background is a light-colored, heavily textured surface, possibly a wall or a piece of paper, with a mottled appearance and some darker spots. Overlaid on the right side of the image is the text "Wall decor" in a dark gray, cursive script font.
