Last!

THEY SAID IT WOULDN'T LAST

Though someone else's ditty might be very witty
Could even be euphonious but it would be erroneous.

You plopped into my lap and into my life
How curious it is that the next rhyming word is wife.
But so cute you are and so beautiful you are
I'm so glad that I hitched my wagon to your star.

But they said it wouldn't last
They said it wouldn't last
Twas doomed our love but we fit like a glove
No they said it wouldn't last.

While basking in your twinkling eyes of blue
I never knew that we'd create a glue.
Such a comfortable zone knowing that we'll never be alone
And for that I'm saying Merci Beaucoup.

But they said it wouldn't last
We left them all aghast
A winsome wench, could he be a mensch?
No, they said it wouldn't last.

After having struggles and joys for many years
It seemed like we should make a change of gears.
So we rolled the dice and now we're living in senior paradise
Well, baby, ain't that music to our ears.

But they said it wouldn't last, the time has gone so fast
Though we're over the hill you still fit my bill
So much time we'll fill,
You're always a thrill and I love you still
But they said it couldn't, probably shouldn't

THEY SAID IT WOULDN'T LAST.
