From the Executive Director

As we step into a new year, I want to take a moment to reflect on our progress and share what's ahead. Thanks to your unwavering support, we've already placed over 250 cats into loving homes in 2025—a testament to the dedication of our volunteers, staff, and incredible community.

Looking forward, we're committed to making an even greater impact:

Enhancing Veterinary Care – We recently performed our first-ever Perineal Urethrostomy (PU) surgery, a life-changing procedure for cats with severe urinary blockages. This is just the beginning of our efforts to expand medical care for cats in need.

Strengthening Statewide Partnerships – By collaborating with more shelters, rescues, and advocates, we're increasing our reach and saving more feline lives across Colorado.

Revitalizing Our Volunteer Program – Volunteers are the heart of CCS, and we're introducing new roles and opportunities for those eager to support our mission—whether in hands-on care, outreach, or behind-the-scenes assistance.

Bringing the Community Together – We're launching new events to celebrate our work, deepen connections, and highlight the incredible cats we serve. Be sure to mark your calendar for our Tails of the Painted Cats gala on Saturday, October 18—one of our largest fundraisers featuring a silent auction, dinner, and stunning feline-themed art.

With all these exciting initiatives, we're more committed than ever to compassionate care, expanding our impact, and creating brighter futures for cats in need. None of this would be possible without you—our dedicated supporters, adopters, and volunteers.

Thank you for being part of the Cat Care Society family. Here's to a year of growth, compassion, and even more heartwarming endings!

Sue & Charlie

Sue and Charlie's adventure began on August 14, 2023, when our Director of Philanthropy, Ashleigh, reached out about an older grey cat who had been surrendered to us from DAP. Intrigued, Sue decided to visit—and that's when Charlie stole her heart.

When she arrived, Charlie was terrified. He hid behind a door, his wide eyes filled with uncertainty. But Sue gave him the gift of patience. She sat quietly on the floor, allowing him to come to her when he was ready. Eventually, he “slunk out of the room,” moving low to the ground before finding a hidden shelf to perch on. He didn't dare move, but Sue stayed with him, speaking softly, reassuring him.

The 90-minute car ride home was anything but easy. Overwhelmed by stress, Charlie panted anxiously the entire way. Knowing he needed time to adjust, Sue placed him in a quiet room upon arrival, giving him space to settle.

Every day, multiple times a day, she visited him—talking to him gently, earning his trust. For three weeks, he would retreat to the side of the toilet, hissing as she cleaned his litter box or refilled his food bowl. But one day, the hissing stopped. Sue knew he was ready for the next step.

She opened the door to her bedroom. As she sat in her chair, Charlie hesitated before making his move. Then, as if deciding it was finally safe, he climbed onto her lap, stretched out on his side, and began kneading against her arm.

There wasn't much information about Charlie's past before arriving at CCS. Sue had to start from scratch—learning his favorite foods, discovering what toys sparked his interest. Having been declawed by his previous owner, Charlie didn't even know how to play.

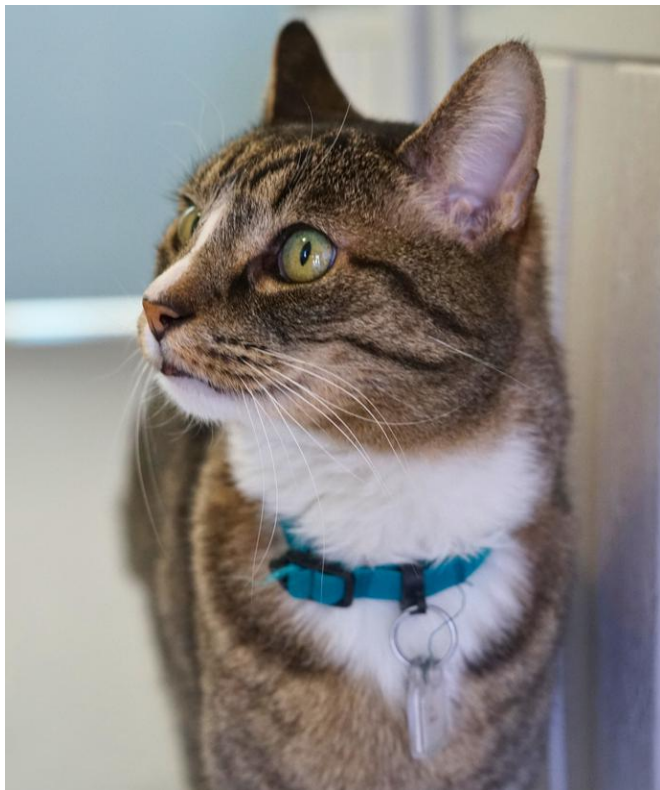

“HE MADE SO MANY BISCUITS, I COULD HAVE OPENED A BAKERY!”

But with patience and love, he found joy in chasing wand toys with feather attachments, watching birds and squirrels from the window, and curling up next to Sue as she worked on her computer. His favorite pose? Lying on his back, all four paws in the air, waiting for belly rubs.

At night, he snuggles close to Sue, safe in the warmth of a loving home.

Sue calls Charlie “a little treasure and my best buddy,” adding that he brings “pure joy” to her life. A once-fearful cat, now loved beyond measure.

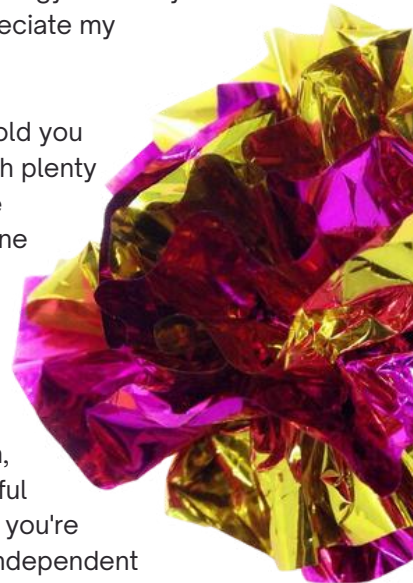

Hi there, I'm Lil Milo! I'm an affectionate and adorable 11-year-old boy searching for a quiet and loving home. I enjoy playtime, especially with stringy wand toys and crinkly mylar balls, but I also appreciate my independence and alone time.

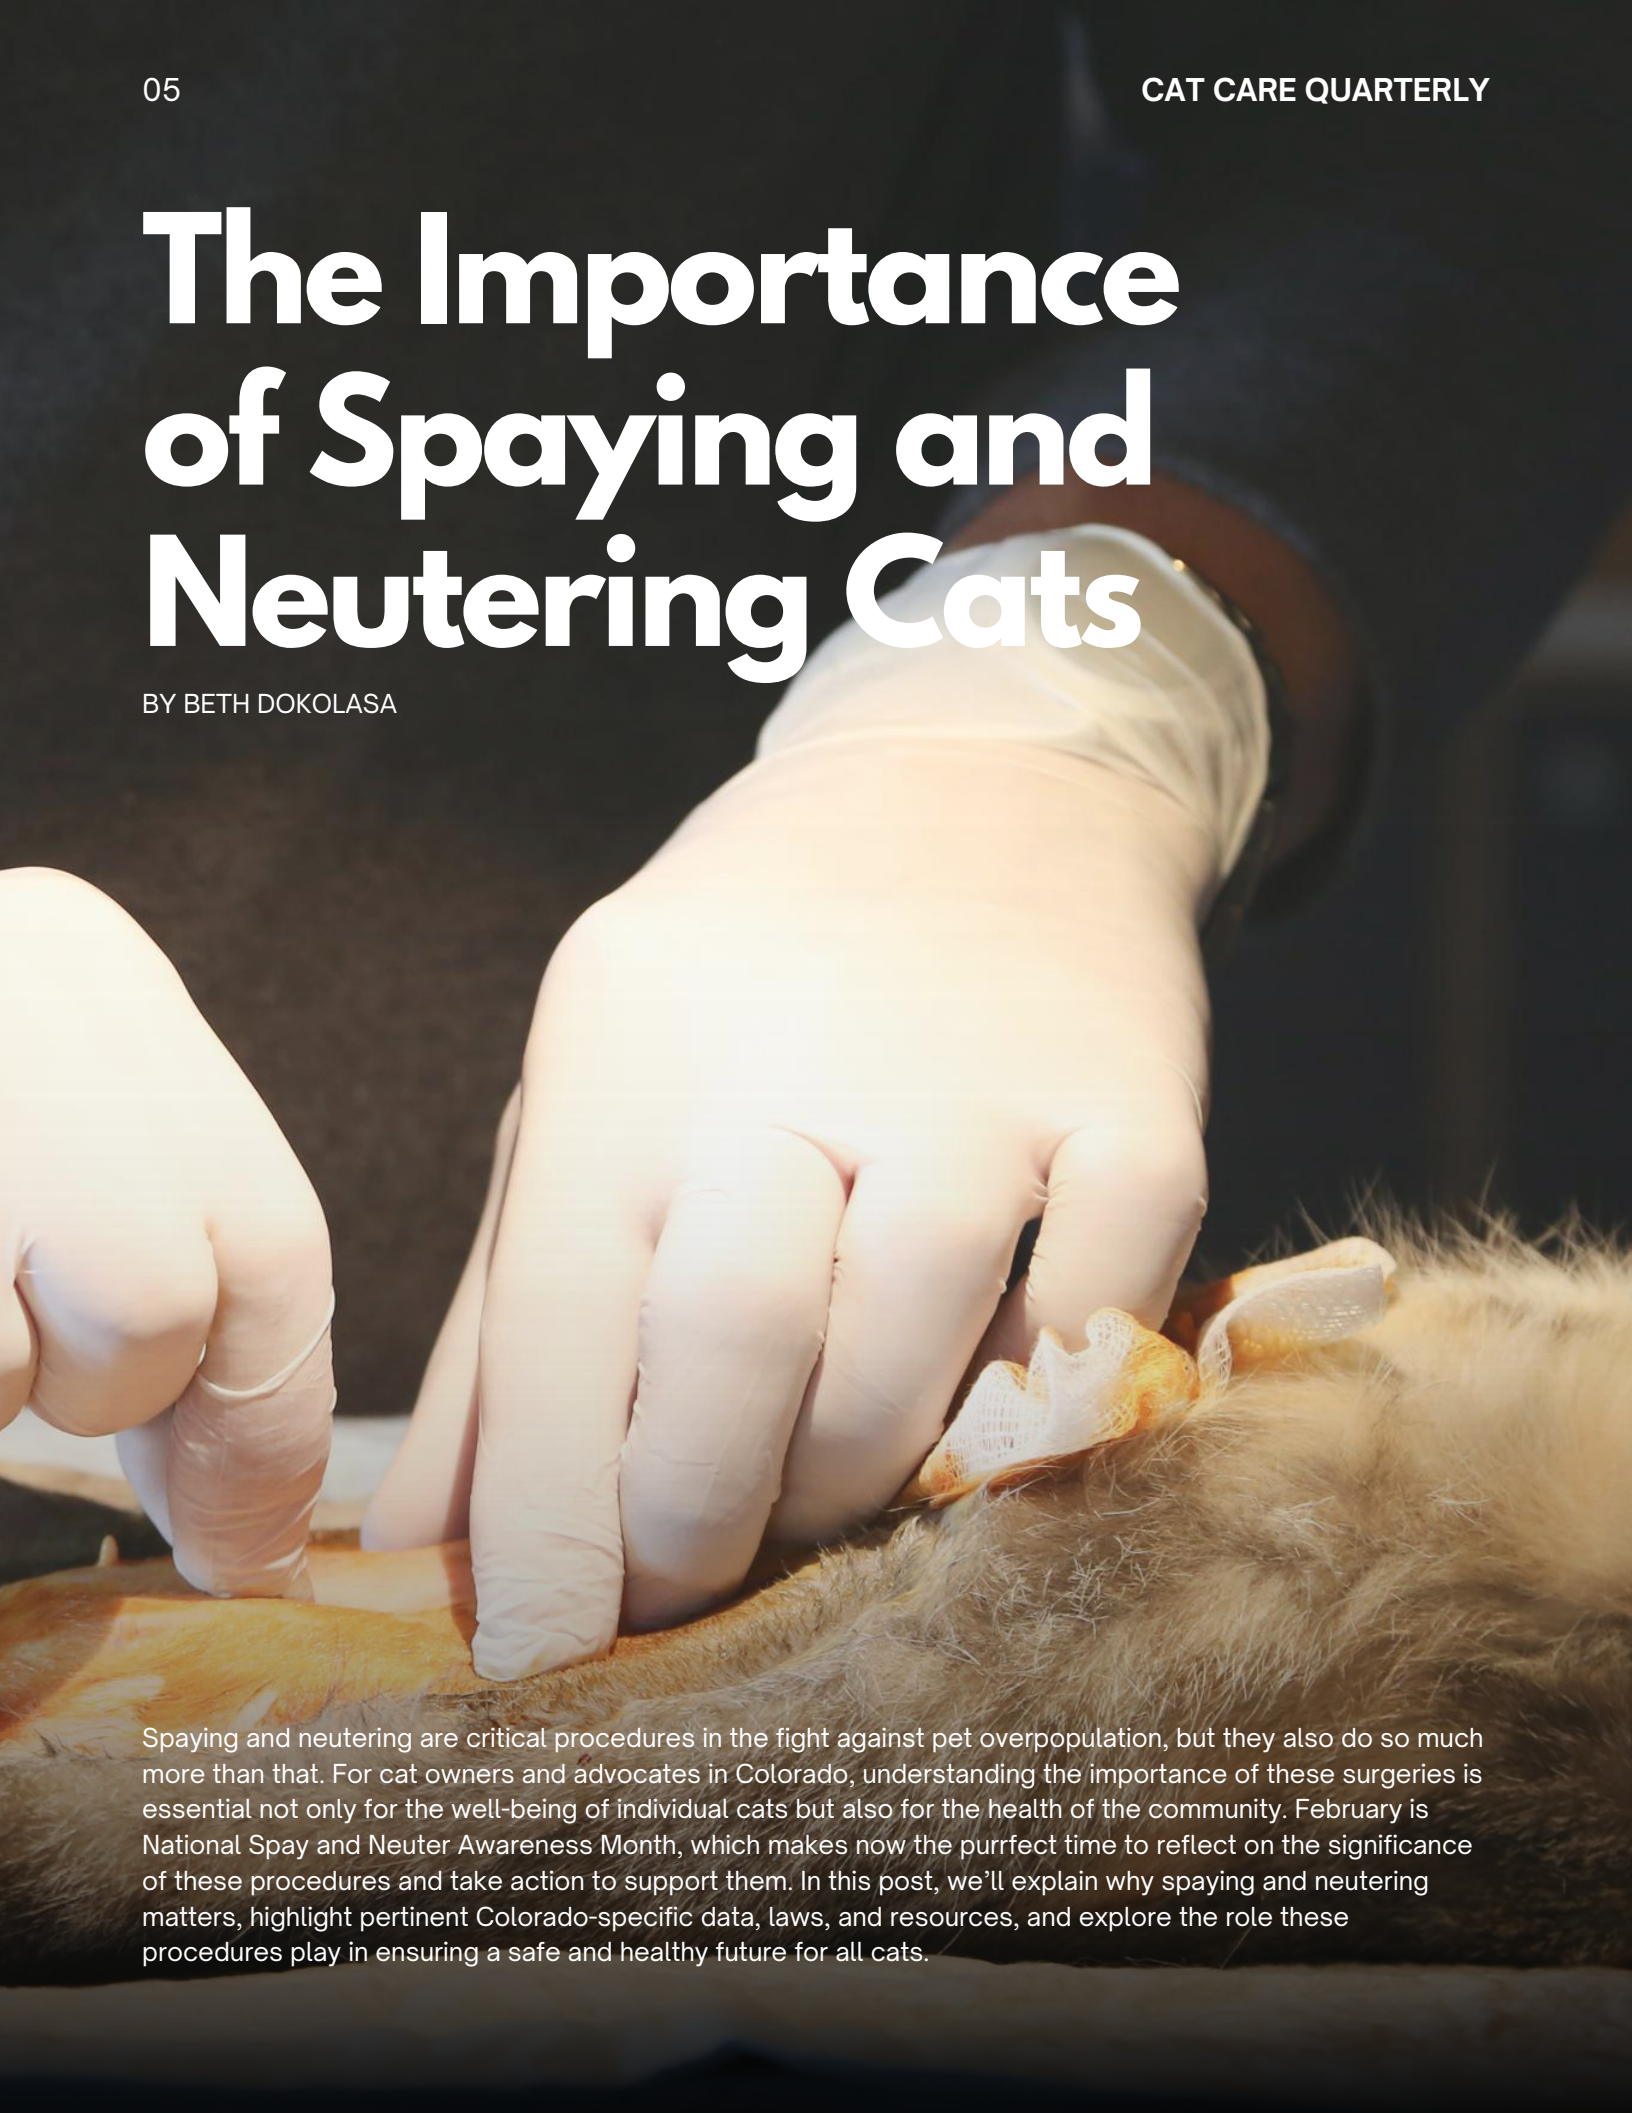

I may be FIV+, but don't let that hold you back, I'm a happy, healthy guy with plenty of love to give! One of my favorite pastimes is lounging in the sunshine on the catio, watching the birds and squirrels play.

I've had a tough time finding my perfect match, which is why I'm part of the Lonely Hearts Program, a special initiative to help wonderful cats like me find loving families. If you're looking for a sweet, playful, and independent companion, I'd love to meet you. Let's start our journey together today!

The Importance of Spaying and Neutering Cats

BY BETH DOKOLASA

Spaying and neutering are critical procedures in the fight against pet overpopulation, but they also do so much more than that. For cat owners and advocates in Colorado, understanding the importance of these surgeries is essential not only for the well-being of individual cats but also for the health of the community. February is National Spay and Neuter Awareness Month, which makes now the purrfect time to reflect on the significance of these procedures and take action to support them. In this post, we'll explain why spaying and neutering matters, highlight pertinent Colorado-specific data, laws, and resources, and explore the role these procedures play in ensuring a safe and healthy future for all cats.

Chief Veterinarian Dr. Palamara and Veterinary Assistant Ana Salas performing spay and neuter surgeries.

The Overpopulation Crisis

The biggest benefit of spaying and neutering is helping to control the pet population. Population control has countless advantages, from reducing the number of homeless animals to improving overall community well-being.

Each year, millions of cats across the United States end up in shelters. Despite significant declines over the last few decades, an estimated 3.3 million cats entered shelters in 2023, according to Shelter Animals Count. Colorado contributes to this number with animal shelters statewide reporting significantly higher intake numbers since 2021, making overcrowding a continued and consistent concern. Considering that millions of pets were not spayed or neutered during the pandemic, it is increasingly important for pets to receive these surgeries and support the decrease in shelter populations.

Fortunately, spaying and neutering are simple, effective tools to prevent unwanted litters. Beyond population control, these procedures also offer additional health and behavioral benefits!

Benefits of Spaying and Neutering

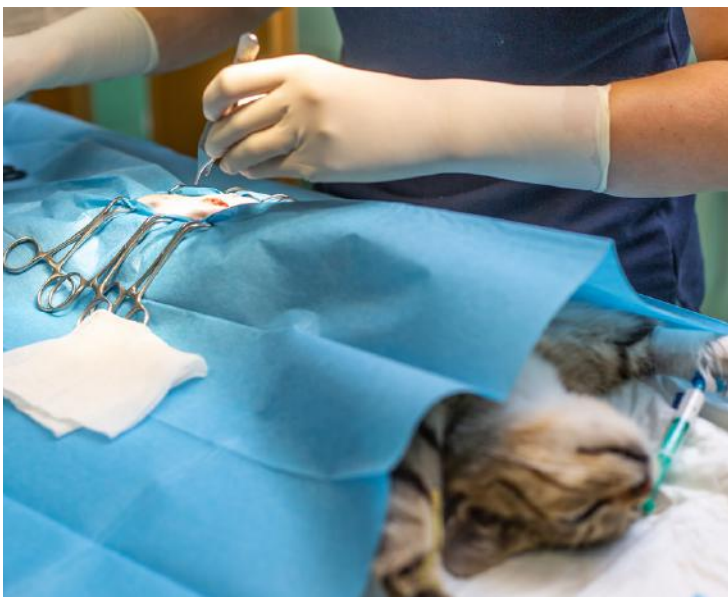

Spaying (most commonly removing the ovaries and uterus of female cats) and neutering (removing the testicles of male cats) offer numerous benefits:

Health Advantages: Spayed female cats do not develop uterine infections and less likely mammary tumors, while neutered males are at reduced risk for testicular cancer and prostate issues.

Behavioral Improvements: Neutered males are less likely to spray urine to mark territory, engage in aggressive behaviors and to roam if they get outside. Spayed females won't experience heat cycles, which can lead to excessive vocalization and anxiety.

Community Impact: Fewer stray and feral cats mean decreased spread of diseases like toxoplasmosis, parasites, and rabies. If a cat goes outdoors and has a smaller territory due to reduced roaming, it can lead to reduced hunting of native wildlife which produces a healthier balance in urban ecosystems. Please note that Cat Care Society (CCS) encourages all cat owners to keep their cat indoors for many research-based health and safety reasons.

Population Control: Preventing unwanted litters reduces the number of cats entering shelters, allowing resources to be directed toward those cats already in need.

Our Spay and Neuter Policy

Cat Care Society has long championed spaying and neutering as a critical part of its mission, performing over 400 spay/neuter surgeries in 2024. Every cat adopted through CCS is spayed or neutered before leaving the shelter (unless there is a documented medical reason preventing the procedure from being performed safely), ensuring that adopters take home a pet that will not contribute to overpopulation and have the best chance of living a healthy and happy life.

Colorado Laws and Programs Supporting Spay/Neuter Initiatives

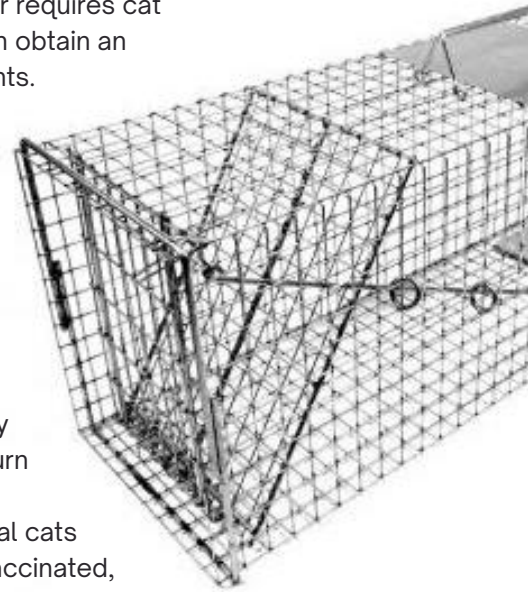

Colorado has made significant strides in promoting spaying and neutering through state and local legislative action. The Pet Animal Care Facilities Act (PACFA), overseen by the Colorado Department of Agriculture, regulates shelters, rescues, and pet care facilities. PACFA mandates that all pet shelters and rescues spay or neuter each cat before releasing them to a new owner.

Cities also have local laws in place for spaying and neutering. For example, Denver requires cat owners to spay or neuter their cats by six months of age. Alternatively, owners can obtain an annual permit for unaltered cats while also complying with all licensing requirements. Breeding cats requires a separate license. Always check your local laws for specific requirements.

Addressing Feral Cat Populations

In Colorado, feral cat colonies pose unique challenges. These cats, often unsocialized and unadoptable, contribute significantly to overpopulation. Trap-Neuter-Return (TNR) programs are a humane and effective solution. Through TNR, feral cats are trapped, spayed or neutered, vaccinated, and returned to their original location. This approach stabilizes colony sizes and reduces the number of kittens born in the wild. Cat Care Society rents traps to help support TNR efforts. These initiatives not only control populations but also improve the quality of life for feral cats by reducing health issues and reducing conflicts with humans.

How You Can Help

Spay or Neuter Your Cat: If your cat hasn't been altered, schedule a surgery as soon as possible. Check out our Resources page on our website for veterinary services, including low-cost clinics.

Support TNR Programs: Get involved by volunteering with or donating to organizations that run TNR programs in your community. Explore the Resources page on our website for groups offering services and resources for feral or unowned community cats and check out our blog post on other ways you can support local feral cats.

Promote Awareness: Share the importance of spaying and neutering with kindness and compassion with others. Help dispel misconceptions and inspire others to practice responsible pet ownership.

Adopt, Don't Shop: By adopting from shelters, you're giving a home to a cat that has likely already been spayed or neutered, supporting the broader community and mission of population control. If you're ready to open up your home to a new cat, check out our adoptable cats.

PACFA Explained:

How the Pet Animal Care Facilities Act Raises the Bar for Colorado's Pet Care

BY BETH DOKOLASA

In Colorado, caring for animals isn't just a calling—it's a fundamental responsibility governed by the Pet Animal Care Facilities Act (PACFA). Established in 1994, this program protects the health, safety, and welfare of animals in pet care facilities while also protecting consumers who utilize pet-related services.

Whether someone runs an animal shelter (like we do at Cat Care Society!), a pet grooming business, a breeding operation, or a rescue, PACFA requires a license to legally care for animals. This state law sets comprehensive standards to ensure that animals in licensed facilities receive proper care. Through regular updates and inspections, PACFA prioritizes animal welfare, positioning Colorado as a leader in this field. In this article, we'll explore the broad and comprehensive scope of PACFA, clarify what it doesn't cover, and explain why it matters for pets and pet owners across Colorado.

PACFA Compliance and Oversight

The Colorado Department of Agriculture (CDA) is responsible for enforcing PACFA regulations. This oversight ensures that any organization involved in pet care operates with transparency, accountability, and a deep commitment to the animals in their charge. To earn and maintain a PACFA license, facilities like shelters, rescues, pet stores, and groomers must pass rigorous inspections, meet specific criteria on an ongoing basis, and complete annual reporting.

PACFA's licensing program isn't just about paperwork—it's about safeguarding animal welfare. By maintaining a PACFA license, facilities commit to meeting essential standards for animal housing, health, and safety, all under the enforcement of the CDA. And as these standards are regularly updated, shelters and rescues must stay current, adapting to new regulations that reflect the evolving practices in animal care. Additionally, current PACFA licensees must complete a qualifying continued education every two years to stay up-to-date with PACFA's standards.

Cat Care Society: Raising the Bar

Since 1981 Cat Care Society has been committed to a very simple mission: provide cats with the best possible care until they find their forever homes. We fully comply with PACFA's standards, and our commitment to evolving with the research behind these regulations reflects our ongoing dedication to providing the best possible care for the cats we serve. But we don't stop there. We believe every cat deserves a safe, loving environment, regardless of age or medical condition.

From individualized care plans to behavioral enrichment programs and our exceptional volunteer and foster teams, we strive to exceed PACFA's requirements to make sure each cat is living its best life. That includes having a free-roaming environment for our cats and going above and beyond in evaluating older and special-needs cats to determine the best course of treatment and care.

Your Amazon & Chewy Donations

We want to take a moment to express our heartfelt thanks to everyone who has supported us through donations from Amazon, Chewy and other similar platforms. Your contributions play a vital role in helping us continue our daily operations, and we are truly grateful for your generosity!

Recently, some of you have reached out to us wondering why we haven't been able to acknowledge your donation. We sincerely apologize for the confusion and want to explain. Unfortunately, when donations are made through Amazon or Chewy, these companies do not provide us with your personal information. This policy stems from Amazon's "AmazonSmile" program, which was designed to protect donor privacy by not sharing customer details with the charities receiving the funds. Although this program was discontinued due to its inability to create a significant impact across so many charities, we are still grateful for the ongoing support you provide by sending us items that we desperately need in the shelter.

To ensure you can still benefit from tax deductions, please be sure to keep your receipts from Amazon or Chewy. If you would like us to provide an official acknowledgment of your donation, simply forward your receipt to us, and we'll promptly send you a donation receipt in return. Alternatively, you can send your donation as a "gift" and include your name and details in the gift note attached to the order, so we can properly acknowledge your kindness.

Once again, thank you for your continued support. Your donations make a world of difference, and we hope you will continue to support us in this way. We appreciate you more than words can express!

In Loving Memory of Clete Nolde 1943-2024

Clete Nolde, a proud Marine veteran who served in Vietnam, dedicated 10 years of his life to the military before retiring from Colorado Parks and Wildlife. His dedication to service extended beyond his career, as he became a cherished volunteer at Cat Care Society for 16 years, contributing over 3,000 hours of his time.

Always willing to lend a hand, Clete was often spotted on a ladder changing lightbulbs or tackling odd jobs to keep the shelter and White House in top shape. Beyond maintenance, he was a passionate supporter of events, especially Tails of the Painted Cats, where he not only worked tirelessly behind the scenes but also stepped up as an artist sponsor. He also brought joy to many through his famous rum cakes, a staple of the Santa Paws bake sale, earning him a loyal following of eager customers.

During his time at Cat Care Society, Clete opened his heart to a pair of senior British Shorthairs, Patsy and Boo. Though Boo passed away from heart failure soon after, Patsy remained his beloved companion for years.

Clete’s kindness, dedication, and warm presence made a lasting impact on the Cat Care community. His absence is deeply felt, but his legacy of compassion and service will always be remembered.
