KUBB

KUBB

A turn-based style attack game where teams compete to win by using batons to slay all Kubbs, followed by slaying the King, in a single round. Pieces are slayed by knocking them over with an underhand, vertical baton toss. The game starts with 5 Kubbs per baseline.

Prior to an attack, knocked-over Kubbs are resown onto the opposing team's field. These are "field Kubbs." Field Kubbs must be attacked first before baseline Kubbs. Claim your team's victory and start slaying!

LAWN PONG

HOW TO PLAY:

Begin by laying out the buckets 15-25 feet apart. To help stabilize, simply fill 1/4 of each bucket with water, sand, or bean bags. In teams of one or two, take turns throwing the balls into the oppositions' buckets. If a ball lands in a bucket that bucket is removed from play. The first team to abolish all of their opponents buckets is in the lead to win! The losing team does get a rebuttal throw but must make it into the last bucket. (Tying up the score) This will go on until one team misses, leaving a victor.

How are your products made?

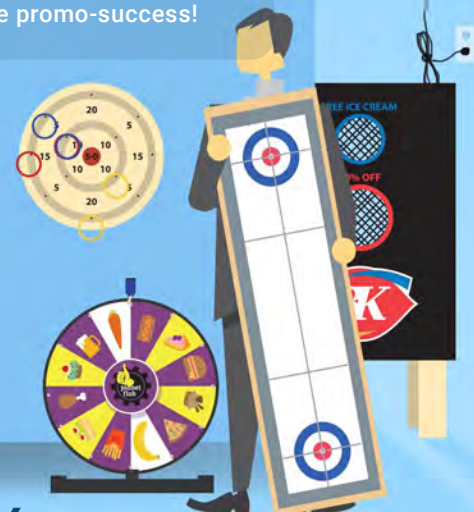

Our products are manufactured by limited overseas and domestic suppliers, with which we work directly. The products are stored in our large warehouse which is connected to all of our other departments, including the production team who will imprint the products on an on-demand basis.

How did you guys start?

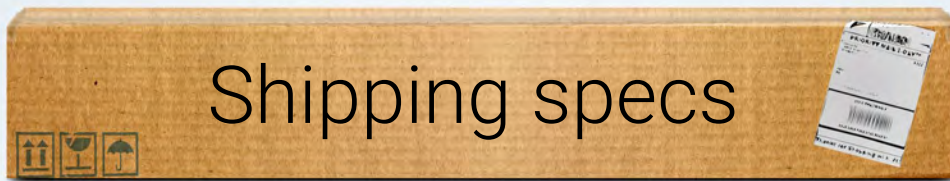

Starting in 2005, out of two college friends' garages, Promotoss was built from the ground-up to serve clients and deliver a 5-star, tailored experience. Promotoss has since grown into the number one Cornhole supplier and branded games leader of the promotional products industry.

With a wide offering of custom branding capabilities for game products and accessories, Promotoss continually drives higher audience engagement for companies worldwide.

Each customer that comes through Promotoss is suited with a staff of high quality customer service representatives, in-house designers, a highly trained production team, prompt response times and more. We are very proud of the relationships that have been acquired through the Sage and ASI network and we intend to continually grow and create more promo-success!
