The Art of Natural Elegance

SUSTAINABLE, FAIR TRADE, HANDMADE IN ECUADOR

Soraya

Dear Customers,

As we celebrate another Tagua year, I'm excited to share the inspiration behind our 2026 collection.

This season, I returned to the beaches of Ecuador, where the ocean, the warm light, and the vibrant coastal colors brought me back to the joy and simplicity of my childhood. The energy of the waves, the textures of the shore, and the spirit of community sparked a renewed creativity in me.

From that inspiration came a collection filled with sun-kissed colors, organic shapes, and sustainable artistry—all crafted from Tagua, the natural "ivory" that protects our forests and supports Ecuadorian artisans.

My hope is that each piece carries the warmth, freedom, and joy I felt standing on those beaches.

With love and gratitude,

Soraya Fetzner Cedeno

Soraya &
daughter Nicole

SOURCE OF INSPIRATION

Manta, Ecuador

This season, we traveled to Manta — where Ecuador's natural beauty and modern spirit come together to inspire Tagua's story.

Our Family of Artisans

Each piece begins with their hands, hearts, and heritage.

HOW IS IT MADE

TAGUA JEWELRY

What is Tagua (pronounced TAG-WAH)? The Tagua nut grows from a palm tree found mainly in the Ecuadorian rainforests. It is also known as vegetable ivory. It takes the fruit 12-18 months to dry in order for it to become a hardened, natural nut that we use in our jewelry.

Harvesting

The process begins by gathering and collecting nuts from both the rainforest floor, where the nuts have fallen or harvested directly from the palms. The material we use is hidden in the very heart of the fruit. After harvesting, the seeds are dried in the sun for up to 8 weeks.

Hand carving

The carving process is done by skilled artisans. While a grindstone and dremel are sometimes used to shape the nuts into intricate shapes, most of the artisans use their own handmade tools to achieve the desired outcome. This is a skill that has been handed down from generation to generation.

Dyeing

In large batches, the newly shaped tagua pieces are submerged into vats of Italian, certified organic vegetable dyes where the tagua seeds absorb the color, the process can last anywhere between 10-14 hours depending on the desired color.

WE USE 100% NATURAL MATERIALS

Tagua nuts, bombona seeds, pambil, aÇaí berries, bamboo, recycled coconut shell, natural straw, and recycled wood. All of these resources are sustainable and by harvesting these materials, we are helping preserve the Ecuadorian rainforest.

Drying

Once the desired color is achieved, the tagua nuts are laid out in the sun to dry. This can take up to 5 days.

Tumbling

The dyed tagua pieces are put into tumblers for 10-14 hours. This is what gives our tagua that smooth and shiny appearance, no chemicals are used in processing our jewelry.

Assembling

Finally, the artisans skillfully assemble the tagua into fashionable jewelry. Each artisan can assemble up to 100 pieces per day. Our artisans have a safe work environment, make a fair, living wage and enjoy the work they do.

BORN IN THE HEART OF ECUADOR'S RAINFOREST

Where the skilled hands of artisans transform Tagua with heart, tradition, and care.

Behind every collection are artisans whose hands and hearts guide each step of the process. Every bead is hand-cut, hand-dyed in small batches, slowly dried under the Ecuadorian sun, and polished to a smooth organic shine — making no two pieces alike.

Your jewelry helps safeguard their heritage, providing fair income, stability, and opportunities for future generations.
