Catch up on our February AGM highlights, meet our new Chair, Gina Baum, and see what's in store for the year ahead.

Read the full story in Association News.

A message from the new Chair

Hello everyone and welcome to another brilliant addition of Sculpture Loop, affectionally known as “Sloop” by the committee. For those members who were unable to attend the AGM in February, a hello from me your new Chair.

Gina Baum
Chair

See a round-up of the AGM highlights here

Thank you to our committee and to those members who stepped down at the AGM, your hard work on behalf of the members is really appreciated. The committee are an amazing bunch of people and should you wish to see what we do or wish to be involved please contact me or any member of the committee. The association only works if we support each other in our sculptural endeavours.

CSA's next exhibition will be Miserden 2026 (both indoor and outdoor). The private view will be held on the evening of Saturday 6th June, so put the date in your diaries, more information will be sent out later. The committee will be asking for volunteers to support them closer to the date and any help with managing the bar and parking would be gratefully received.

The Committee is really close to releasing a new and exciting opportunity for up to 5 artists to be part of a pilot project created between CSA and the National Trust property Newark Park. The details are just being refined and an artist brief will hopefully be sent out to you all by April.

See p.38

I will be sending out an update in the next few weeks but in the meantime enjoy this addition of Sloop.

Best Wishes and Happy Making

'Creating Spaces' 2026 at Miserden Gardens and Club House

Behind the Scenes: Curating 'Creating Spaces' at Miserden

The magic of an exhibition often begins long before visitors arrive. At this year's CSA 'Creating Spaces' exhibition, volunteers have been working tirelessly behind the scenes, ensuring that both the outdoor and indoor displays are thoughtfully planned and beautifully presented.

For the outdoor exhibition, Ange, Lynda, Kim, and Graham have been hard at work, armed with lists, spreadsheets, and plenty of biscuits to keep them going!

EXHIBITIONS

Meanwhile, Anna, Juli and Ian Knight have been grappling with the intricacies of indoor placement. “The complexities of curation!” sums it up perfectly.

A big shout-out also goes to Sarah Cushing, who has been kept very busy meticulously processing all the submissions. Selections for both indoor and outdoor exhibitions will be confirmed by 14th March.

Thanks to all who have applied to be part of Miserden this year!

We're especially excited to welcome the Indoor exhibition back at Miserden Club House this year. With such a dedicated team behind the scenes, it promises to be a fantastic exhibition, showcasing the very best of CSA sculpture.

Whether you're a sculptor or a visitor, we look forward to welcoming you - and do join us for the private view on Saturday 6th June (details coming soon).

A remarkable setting for sculpture

Creating Spaces 2026

Set within the historic Cotswold landscape of Miserden, this much-loved exhibition places contemporary sculpture among sweeping views and intimate garden spaces — giving each work room to breathe.

Clay and fire offer continuing surprise and challenge. This has remained a fascination as has simple mark making and the endless possibilities of creating texture on hand-built forms. Often I use found objects to mould or impress patterns later enhanced by oxides and glazes in a final firing.

Similarly, the effect of heat, vitrifying and fusing elements baking solidity into a plastic material offers endless spurs to further creativity.

MEMBERS & COMMUNITY

Rudimentary knowledge of clay and techniques was gained in Birmingham and interest maintained working alongside other sculptors and ceramicists during a career in education.

Forms are made using hand construction techniques, proformas, armatures and moulds using contrasting clay bodies.

Experimenting with the different properties and frailties of varying clay bodies, recently I have referenced experiences watching volcanoes and geysers , molten bodies taking on organic forms as they cool - a fundamental process repeated in firings on a very small scale.

Terry Merritt

I am a Chichester based Sculptor whose medium is stone and wood, studied at the University of Chichester achieving a BA (hons) Degree in Fine Art with Sculpture.

I hand carve beautiful sculptures from various types of stone including colourful Zimbabwean Serpentine rock, using hand and power tools incorporating Toolmaking skills.

Using sketches and bars of household soap as maquettes before upscaling to stone, I then start creating my design using diamond disc angle grinders to remove bulk, then hand chisels and mallets, then diamond riffler files to finalise the form and detail work, and finally the long process of polishing using diamond blocks and wet and dry sandpaper.

I am inspired by the natural beauty of the human anatomy, human gestures, and movement, exploring the human form combining curves, lines, and negative voids in the form of abstraction, also create beautiful modern abstracted forms, some of which rotate on their bases.

In 2023 I not only sold a large sculpture at the infamous London Art Biennale but also was awarded a place in the Chianciano Art Biennale 2024, near Tuscany, Italy, where I received "A Sculpture Special Mention Award" for my sculpture titled "UNITY".

My inspiration is taken from observations of the modern and natural world. I often use objects in my sculpture with a history or reference the viewer can relate to.

I explore my ideas through the process of making, remaking, adding and subtracting. I continue to experiment with different materials until I achieve a combination of materials and process to convey a meaningful outcome.

I live and work in West Sussex and exhibit in Hampshire, Sussex, Surrey and London.

Commissions and collaborations are welcome. Studio visits are available through pre arranged appointments.

I am a maker - a maker of things.

My medium of choice is wire - not sure if I found it or it found me either way I'm hooked. I use a variety of wires through constant experimentation.

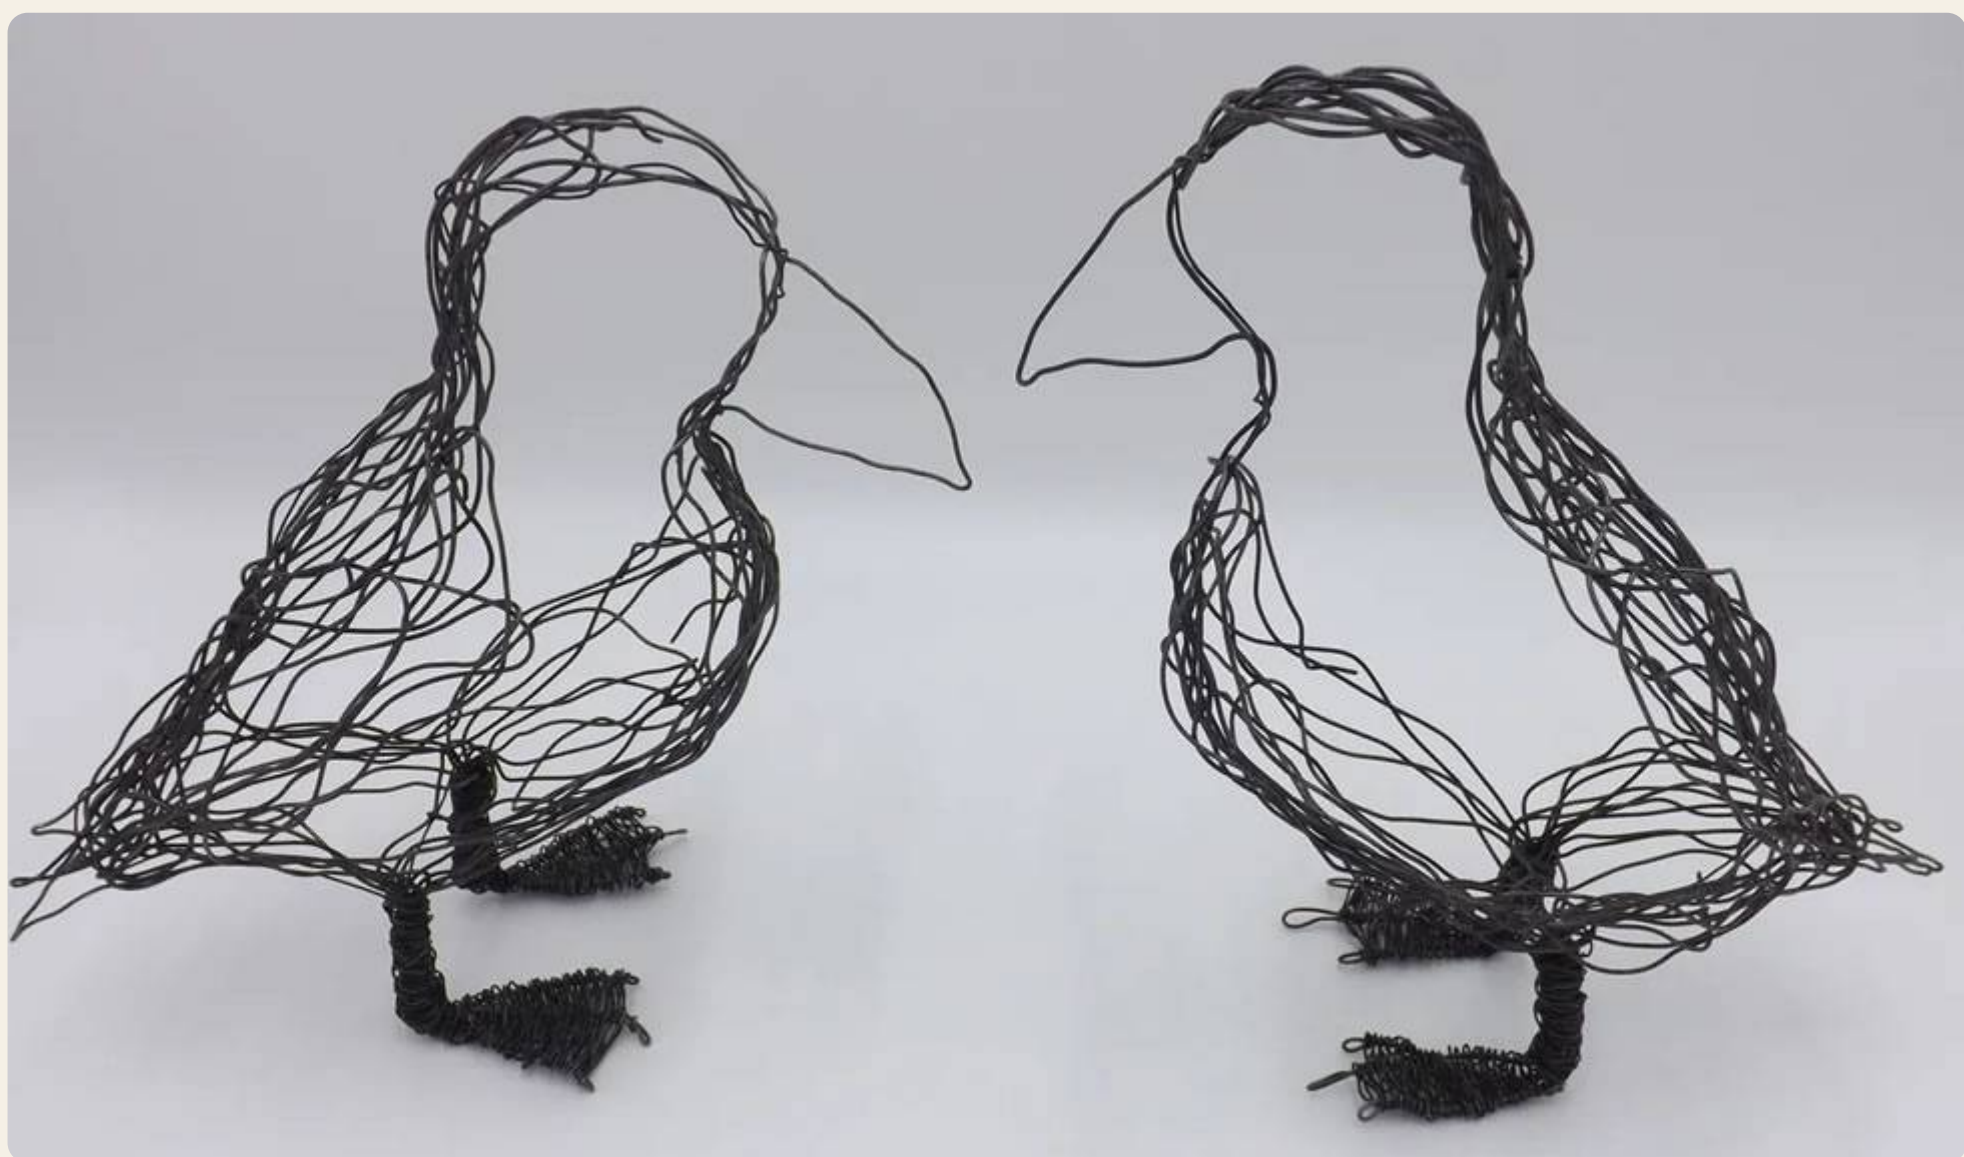

My inspiration comes from nature with a passion for birds intrigued by the vast variety of species and sadly their decline.

My studio is based in the Wye Valley where I can sit, play and experiment while listening to the sounds of nature.

Johannes Steuck

I was born in Sweden to German parents in 1956, after a short interlude in Germany, I have lived in Britain since 1962. I completed a sculpture degree course in Winchester between 1975 and 1978. I am a multimedia artist working with stained glass, mosaic and sculpture. I have taught in schools and worked with special needs people, doing an Ms in special education in 2015.

I am a stone carver (using traditional hand tools). I mostly use limestone, it seems to carry within itself the memory of water, making it a perfect medium for organic forms. I try to simulate the effect of the elements, the action of wind, the abrasion of sand in water.

I primarily use a point, working directly into the surface, the challenge is to create volume out of an essentially negative process—the punching of tiny holes. One has to carry an imagination of positive form, to counteract the reduction of material.

My leitmotiv is to, Bringing Matter into Motion.

MEMBERS & COMMUNITY

Eleanor Lachab

Eleanor is a stained glass artist with a long, deep interest in the complex geometric frameworks found in Gothic cathedrals. She was fascinated to find the commonality of patterns used in sacred art throughout human history and seeks to apply these ideas using light and line through her stained glass work. The meditative repetition of shape creates an interesting challenge to her craft. Discovering that each pattern can be recreated in a multiplicity of ways means that a unique piece of art is created with each rendition.

Eleanor has been working with stained glass since 2002, initially for established Stained Glass studios until developing her own practice. In 2008 she was awarded a QEST crafts scholarship that allowed her to study MA Glass and Architecture at the National Glass Centre. She currently uses the skills she has acquired to create new glass works inspired by geometric patterns.

Sally Dorrity

I work in a variety of stoneware clays to hand build my pots, creating small, medium and large pieces, both functional and sculptural. These are then fired in an electric kiln. My work is frost resistant and is therefore suitable for use both indoors and outside.

Hand building allows for exploration and individuality in each piece, taking on a sculptural quality or a more traditional shape, in each case allowing me to showcase the hues and textures I want to explore. It is a slow process and rarely results in perfect symmetry. Therefore no two pieces are exactly the same. Each piece is unique.

In my studio I am constantly experimenting with different shapes, new glazes and glaze combinations. My glazes are composed of few ingredients, relying on the magic of kiln and chemistry.

I am very drawn to movement in my work, taking my inspiration from traditional forms as well as the lines, tones and textures of nature. My ceramics and my skills are continually evolving and progressing, as I pursue my fascination with clay and its many possibilities.

SPOTLIGHT

Kay Singla

Kay has been sculpting for over thirty years and is a member of several art societies. She creates most of her work at her studio/workshop in Buckinghamshire. She is an experienced tutor and voluntarily teaches at children's schools. Kay exhibits all over the country, including at several prestigious National Trust properties. Her work is both tactile and contemporary and is a reflection and expression of happiness, family, love and togetherness. Kay's vision is for her work to be enjoyed by viewing and by feeling its texture. She works with many different materials such as clay, ciment fondu, bronze resin and marble resin. She makes a combination of indoor and outdoor pieces and most of her work is unique or limited edition.

SPOTLIGHT
Darren Rumley

The artist behind One Artisan who has a passion for unique and functional concrete: “Concrete as you’ve never seen it!”. Creating pieces that can be used inside and outside the home, as well as commercial pieces for large scale architectural projects.

Having been born and brought up in the Cotswolds, Darren now designs and creates from his workshop in Stroud, Gloucestershire. During his early life, he struggled with severe dyslexia and has got past this disadvantage by working with his hands and creating the pieces that you can see today.

Some of his larger pieces can be seen in situ at Mermaid Quay in Cardiff, Wales and Silverburn Shopping Centre in Glasgow, Scotland. Smaller pieces, such as lamps, tables and water features, are also available for those who wish to have something unique in or around the home.

Endorsed by famous faces such as Toyah Willcox and featured on television programmes including Love Your Garden with Alan Titchmarsh, Darren's work can become a conversation starter and enhance the ambience of any private indoor or outdoor space.

As the One Artisan brand grows, so does the artists aspiration to add more sculptural pieces to the collection that encourage people to think about concrete itself, the art and what it represents. The very ethos of One Artisan is to create "art with a function" and to show everyone "Concrete as they've never seen it!".

SPOTLIGHT
Elliot Dylan Quinn

Originally from Suffolk, Elliot discovered a passion for clay work after moving to Oxfordshire in 2022. Their art is a deeply personal exploration, shaped by their experiences with schizophrenia. Sculptures often represent the creatures and forms they encounter during difficult times, turning what could be an isolating experience into one that can be shared and understood through art.

Elliot works primarily with clay, drawn to its raw, organic texture that allows them to mould their inner visions into tangible forms. Their sculptures often blur the line between reality and imagination, inviting viewers to engage with the unseen worlds that others may navigate silently. This creative process is both therapeutic and communicative, offering insights into mental health through a unique artistic lens.

Inspired by the natural world and the surreal landscapes of the mind, Elliot's work captures a blend of earthly and fantastical elements. Their goal is to use art as a bridge to foster empathy and understanding, highlighting the complexity and beauty of the human experience.

GET INVOLVED!

As our committee evolves, members will inevitably step down. To ensure smooth transitions, we're inviting members to shadow existing committee roles and learn how the CSA is run.

We're delighted that Gina Baum has now officially taken over from Shirley Sharp as Chair, and Zoe Hawkins has now taken over from Sarah Cushing as Treasurer. Huge thanks to Shirley and Sarah for their dedication in these roles over the years - their contribution in shaping the CSA has been hugely valued. The committee continues to go from strength to strength - and we'd now love to bring a few more people on board.

If you're interested in contributing a little time and learning how things work behind the scenes, please get in touch:

Life Model Available - Alys

With nearly two decades of experience as a professional artists' model, Alys brings a deep understanding of the artistic process and a strong, expressive presence to every session.

She began her modelling career in London, working full time with art schools, universities, independent artists, sculptors, and photographers across a wide range of creative settings.

Now based in Bristol, Alys is looking to expand her client base and welcomes collaborations with artists, institutions, and groups throughout the area. Whether you're working on traditional figure drawing, photography, sculpture, or experimental media, she's happy to discuss your specific needs and tailor her approach accordingly.

Alys has a background in performance and the arts, which informs her dynamic and thoughtful modelling style. She values the creative exchange between artist and model, and takes pride in being part of a process that fosters inspiration, focus, and artistic growth.

Feel free to get in touch with any questions or to discuss a potential booking.
