SUSTAINABLE & COLOURFUL

Colour brings joy to everyone! Popular are soft, nude shades like taupe and vanilla yellow combined with bolder, eye-catching colours like burgundy and petrol. By creating colour combinations that match, you can create a trendy terrace with inviting contrasts. Let your terrace shine with this colourful code. The frame is made of recycled aluminium, and the seat and backrest are made from 'post-consumer waste'. How? Recycled aluminium is used to extrude tubes and form the frame. The seat and backrest are made from recycled plastic. The plastic is sorted by colour and then remelted, creating the characteristic base colour with cheerful speckles. Now also in trendy ivory shade. With this sustainable approach, you effortlessly combine environmental friendliness with style.

Retro with a twist and romantic without being overly decorative. Allow space for a light, feminine retro style full of round shapes, soft fabrics, and floral patterns. A bit quaint but also tough. # YEAR-ROUND TERRACE ENJOYMENT

LA DOLCE VITA IN THE BETUWE

Nestled in Kesteren, a village surrounded by orchards and natural landscapes in the heart of the betuwe region, you'll find Brasserie De IJsboetiek. This dream spot, owned by Paul and Anisa Gootjes, offers an all-day experience of lunch, drinks, and dinner with a hint of Italian 'la dolce vita.' their newly revamped, year-round terrace allows guests to enjoy warmth, ambiance, and comfort even in the colder months. 'Our aim is to be welcoming, distinctive, and accessible,' Paul says. 'We want everyone to feel at home here, all day.'

COUNTRY CHARM

'Kesteren is the fastest-growing village in the area,' Paul explains. 'The population has nearly doubled recently, and tourism is on the rise. This creates exciting opportunities for regional entrepreneurs. Locals now have access to everything - retail, hospitality, and leisure - right on their doorstep.' Paul and Anisa have over four decades of combined hospitality experience. About a year and a half ago, the opportunity to take over De IJsboetiek in the heart of town felt like destiny. 'The charming village, hardworking people, and local culture resonate with us. This is a forward-thinking area with rural charm, a place where we thrive. We've expanded the original ice cream parlour into a brasserie with a focus on lunch, drinks, and dinner. Ice cream and cocktails are our signature items. The location is intimate but well-planned, allowing us to host many guests with ease. Our hospitality is distinct, guests feel pampered and are met with a courteous approach.'

ZONED TERRACE

Brasserie De Ijsboetiek has a warm Mediterranean style with rural charm, designed by Corine Roodbeen from Event & Style. 'We wanted to extend the 'wow' feeling from inside to the terrace,' Paul shares. Their slogan, 'Ice, Ice Baby,' inspired by Vanilla Ice's song, matches the bohemian vibe, eclectic decor, and concept. Paul explains, 'The outdoor area was also carefully designed to enhance ambiance. In the Satelliet showroom, we put together a mix of furniture that exudes coziness, luxury, and comfort. To connect the indoors and outdoors, we have Portuguese-tiled tabletops on the terrace, bordered with a luxurious copper edge for extra flair.'

“WE WANTED TO EXTEND THE 'WOW' FEELING FROM INSIDE TO THE TERRACE”

Efficiency is key in setting up a terrace. 'Thoughtful layout and routing make the service and logistics flow smoothly,' Paul adds. The L-shaped terrace is split into zones. Larger Sigma benches provide a spot for ice cream, while groups enjoy drinks in a sunken seating area surrounded by hedges. In the garden, by the conservatory, you can relax in bohemian Twine chairs and Taco's, sheltered among the trees. Although the terrace is cozy with varied seating, it can accommodate up to 130 guests.

BULL'S-EYE

‘In summer, we have ample terrace space,’ Paul says. ‘We wanted to offer that same comfort and coziness year-round, so we’ve covered the terrace with a stylish garden conservatory in line with the brasserie’s ambiance. It’s been a big hit, with bookings for birthdays, high teas, and baby showers pouring in. The conservatory has become a warm, inviting space to gather, even on colder days. We adapt the decor seasonally, as we do with the menu, and ice cream can be enjoyed year-round.’

The terrace is decorated with cozy lighting, blankets, and winter decor, making it as inviting as it is in summer. ‘Some people even drive by filming - we’ve become a real attraction,’ laughs Paul. ‘We put a lot of effort into beautiful decor, and it’s rewarding to see that we’re Instagrammable, with people sharing and posting about our ambiance.’

“WE BELIEVE THAT FOOD AND DRINKS
BRING PEOPLE TOGETHER. THAT’S
WHY WE WORK WITH SO MUCH
PASSION AND ENERGY EVERY DAY”

BUZZ AND EVENTS

Brasserie De IJsboetiek buzzes with liveliness year-round. ‘Each season is celebrated with a beautifully decorated terrace, complete with warm lighting, decor, and music. During village events like Winterfair, King’s Day, and the annual fair, we go all out with live music, fire pits, and a beer carousel. The terrace becomes a lively gathering place for all ages, a full-on celebration,’ says Paul excitedly as De IJsboetiek’s illuminated sign shines, catching the eye of passersby. With ‘service with a smile,’ genuine attention, and an ever-changing menu of seasonal dishes, unique ice cream flavours, signature cocktails, and beer of the day, De IJsboetiek continually surprises guests. At the same time, this motivates and challenges its employees to remain creative and innovative.

FUTURE AMBITIONS

Paul and Anisa’s ambitions extend beyond Brasserie De IJsboetiek. Inspired by its success, they are planning a second concept: De Koffieboetiek. ‘We want to give a new dimension to the warmth and atmosphere that De IJsboetiek exudes,’ says Paul. ‘A place that connects and where hospitality always comes first.’

SAFARIPARK BEEKSE BERGEN

AUTHENTIC KIKUYU FLAIR ON THE TERRACE

In the heart of Safaripark Beekse Bergen, within the African village on the savannah, Rick Merkx -designer at Libéma - has created a terrace that is both practical and an African experience. The vision is clear: the terrace must be a nod to the vibrant, traditional Kenyan Kikuyu culture with a contemporary twist. The result? A space that invites visitors to relax while being surrounded by nature and wildlife.

A UNIQUE CHARACTER

The spacious hospitality square is divided into various zones with the Mugunda restaurant, the Kahawa coffee bar, and the Waru snack bar. 'We wanted to give each terrace its own character and identity,' Rick explains. 'It needed to align with the African village theme.' The challenge in designing this terrace lay in finding a balance between a natural appearance and modern, durable materials and furnishings suitable for heavy use. 'Choosing the right colours is an important detail,' Merkx notes. 'We wanted to preserve the vibrant, authentic colours of the Kikuyu culture and translate them into a contemporary, user-friendly style. For the base materials, we opted for plastic and metal due to their durability and strength. However, these materials have the look and feel of natural materials, which allows them to perfectly match the safari park's theme.'

FUNCTIONAL ROUTING

A terrace must be practical as well as visually appealing, with attention to accessibility, flow, and the needs of diverse visitors. Rick elaborates: 'Our guests range from families with young children to older visitors with limited mobility and everything in between. The wide pathways accommodate wheelchairs, handcarts, and prams. By incorporating height variations in the seating landscape with different types of chairs, stools, and tables, everyone can enjoy optimal views of the animals and the surroundings, no matter where they sit on the terrace.'

HEART OF THE SAVANNAH

At the Rhino and Elephant terraces, Safari Park Beekse Bergen offers truly spectacular views of the animals. 'Visitors can enjoy food and drinks in a relaxed, family-friendly setting while watching the animals in their natural habitat,' says Rick. 'The terrace – where all sightlines converge – is the heart of the savannah. The nature, the wildlife, and the terrace surroundings combine to create a harmonious experience that visitors will remember for a long time.'
