SOFTSHELL 3 LAYERS

Technical characteristics of the softshell fabric

WATER RESISTANCE + BREATHABILITY = WATERPROOF

The 3-layer SOFT-SHELL is the result of the combination of 3 different fabrics to offer maximum comfort to the user:

- an external fabric with water repellent treatment
- a waterproof and breathable internal membrane and windproof
- an internal anti-pilling fleece fabric

Icon inside item descriptions

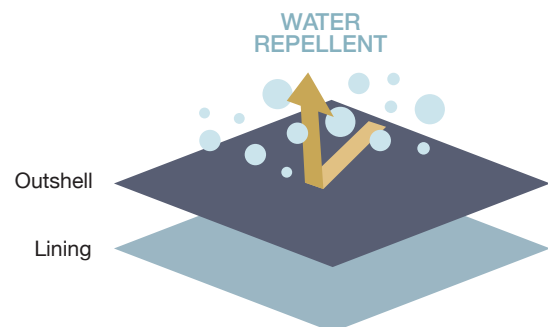

The internal membrane is made up of a mesh structure that blocks access to the water molecules while allowing human vapor to escape. This is why 3-layer softshells are defined as waterproof. The membrane opposes also resistance to the wind, making the garment windproof.

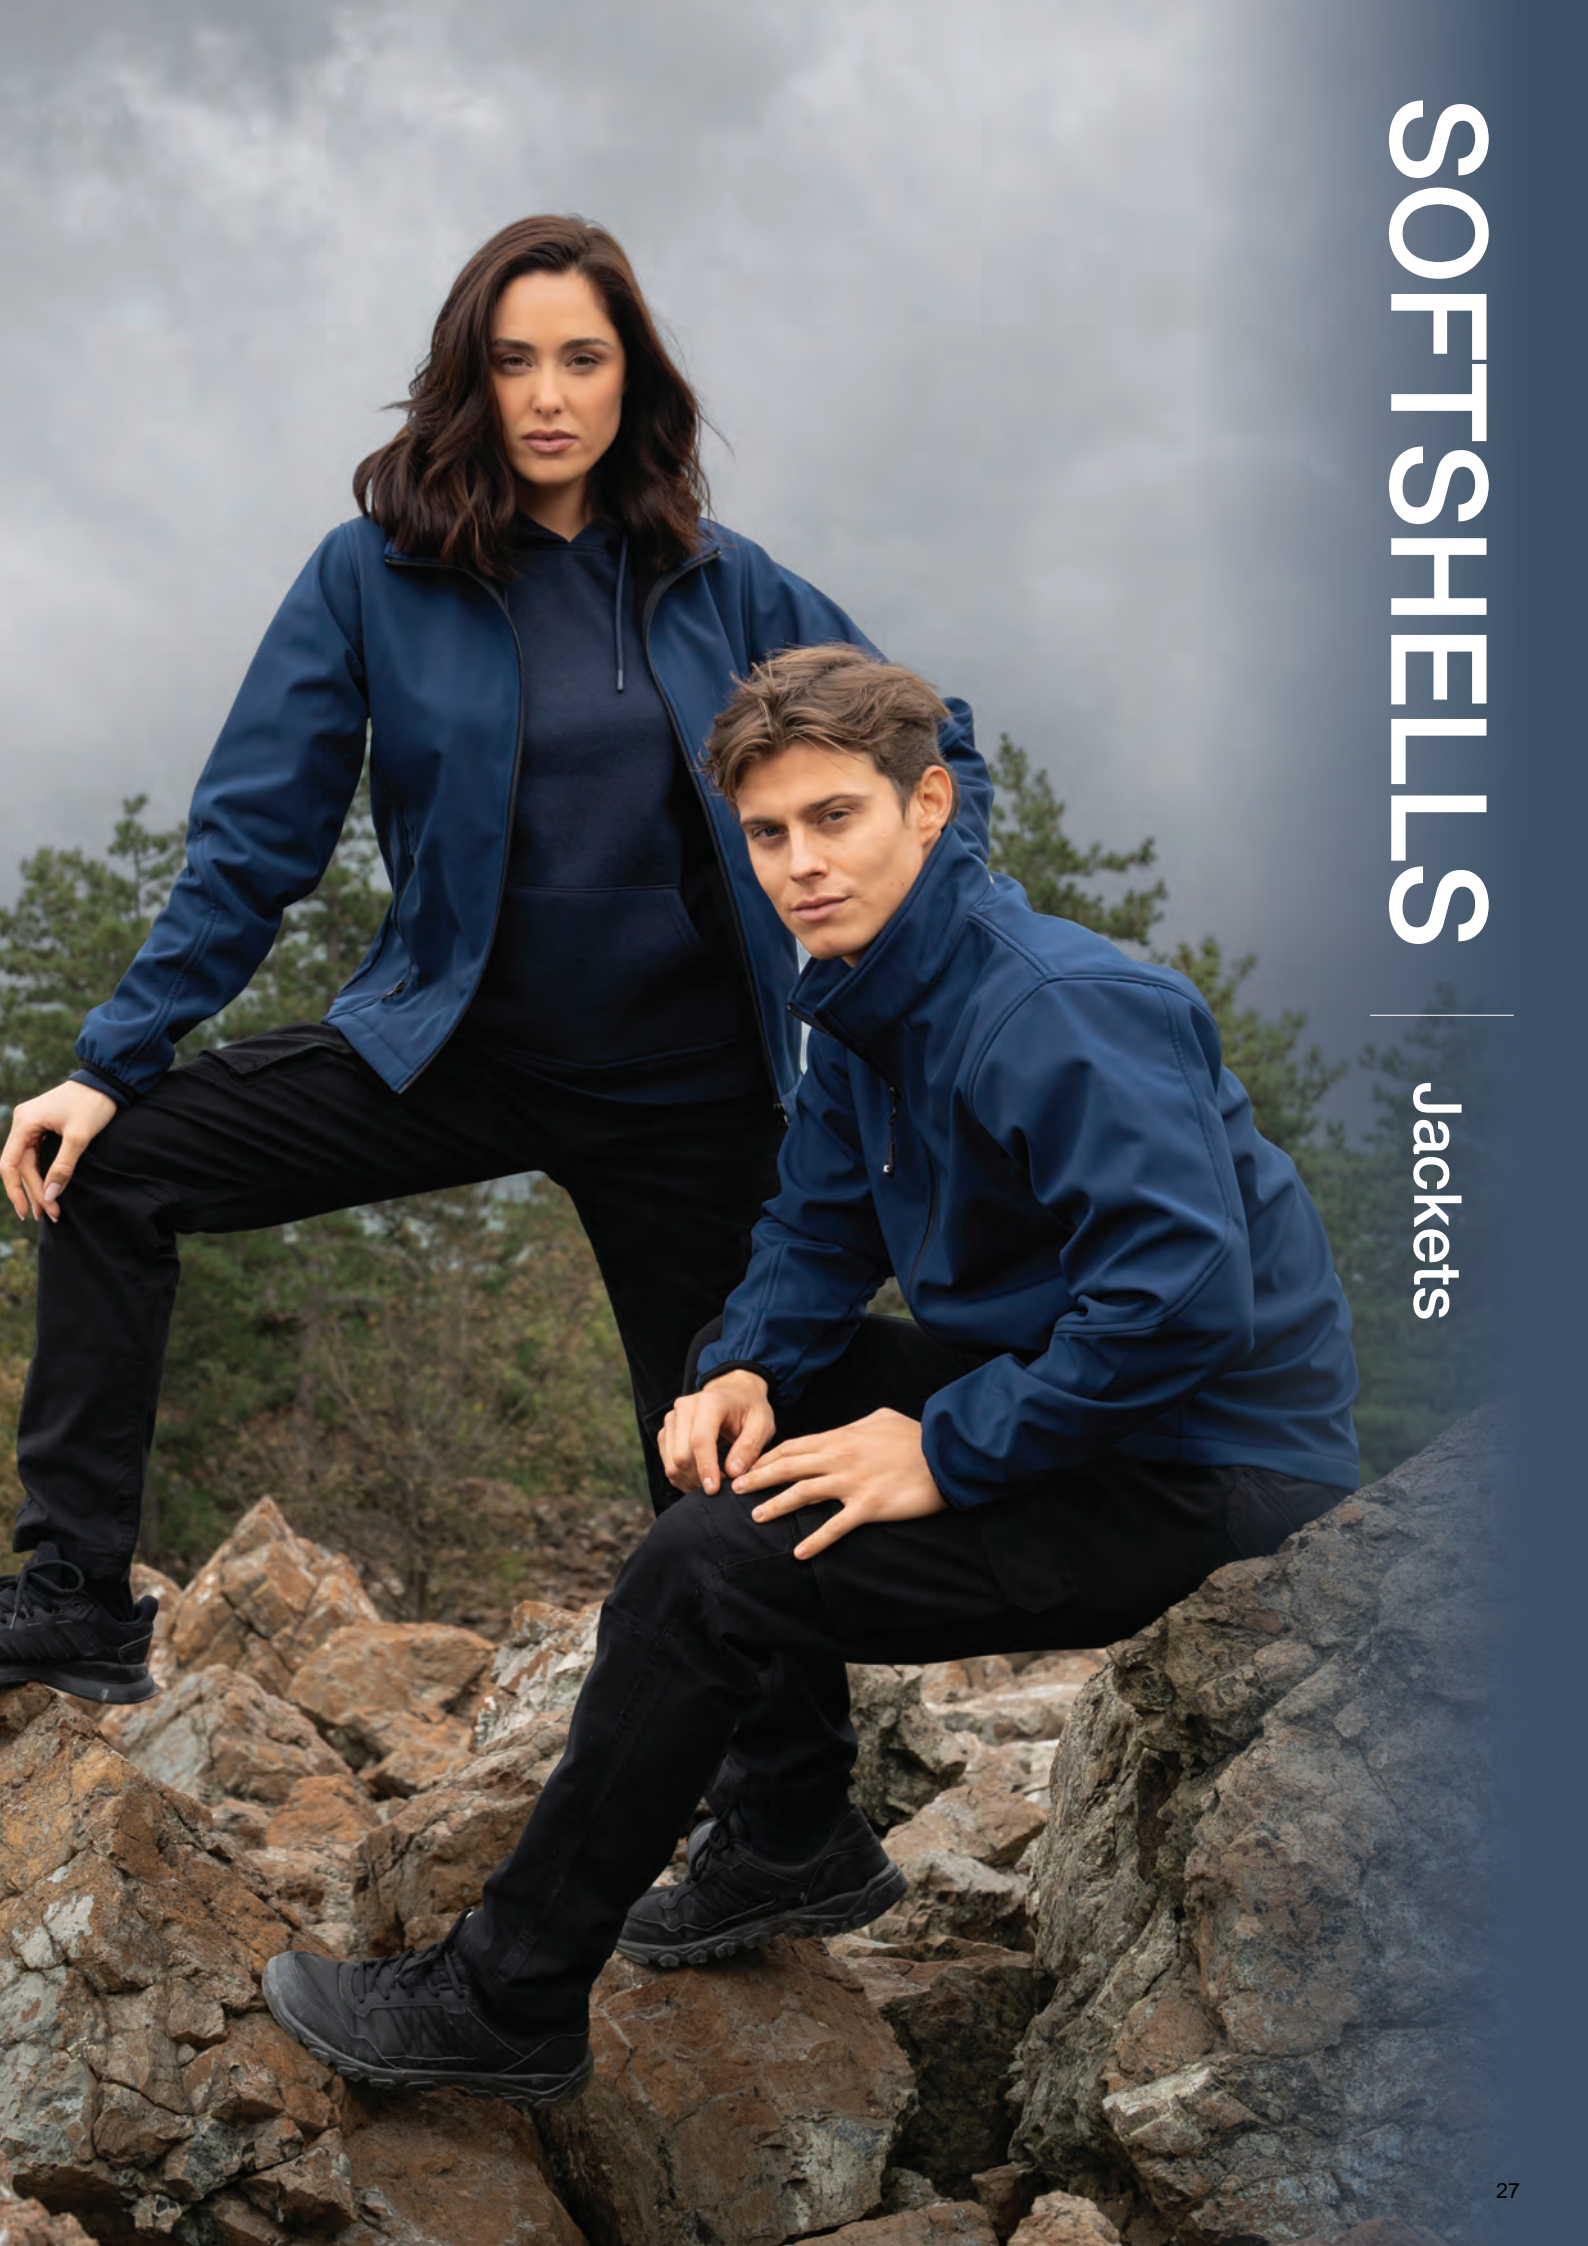

SOFTSHELL 2 LAYERS

In the 2-layer SOFT-SHELL there is no internal membrane, so the garment is softer and more embracing, but thanks to a repellent treatment that JRC applies on the external fabric, the garment remain water repellent.

A photograph of a row of townhouses, likely in a European city. The focus is on a central house with a dark door and a window above it. To the left, there's a balcony with plants. The right side of the image is overlaid with a semi-transparent red gradient. The text 'POLO' is written vertically in white on the red background.

This translates into a compact volume, great lightness of garments and freedom of movements. Its hypoallergenic and antistatic properties make it totally wearable as a second skin even by epidermal sensitive individuals. It is breathable, stain-resistant and with very fast colours.
