Welcome to Rainbow Phonics, Australia's most comprehensive Structured Literacy program. Rainbow Phonics covers the entire reading journey, from pre-reading and phonemic awareness training, alphabetic knowledge, systematic synthetic phonics, through to morphology and fluency. This catalogue provides information on the program, training, decodable readers, slideshows, and the various school solutions we offer, all designed to help children experience reading success.

A Structured Scope and Sequence

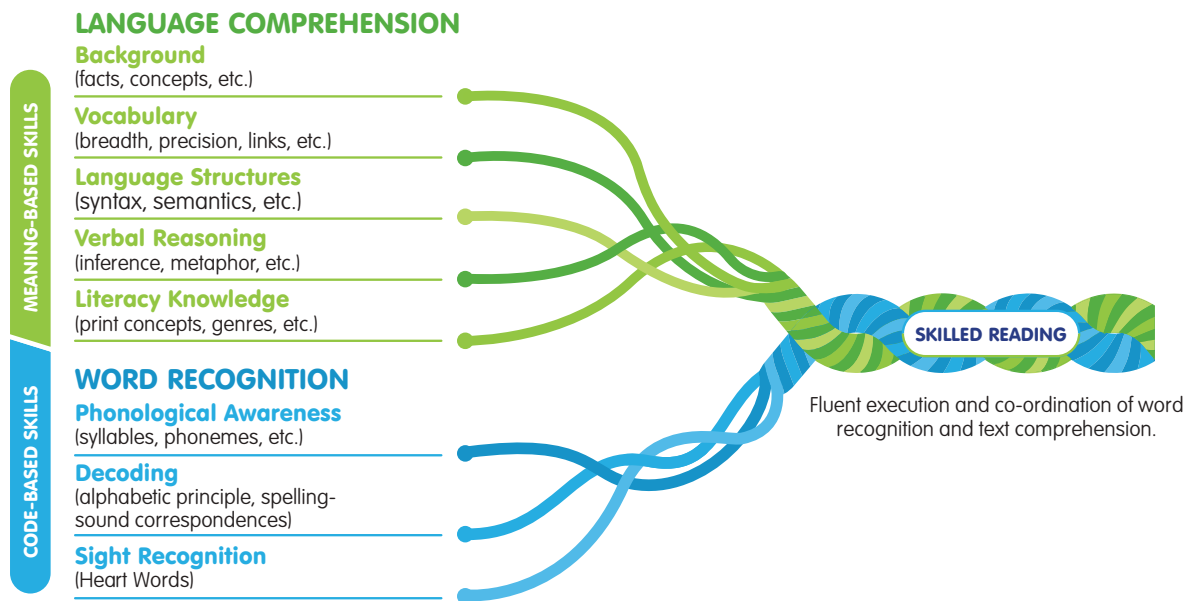

The Rainbow Phonics Scope and Sequence is designed to take children through from emergent to fluent over the course of four years. Specifically, the Rainbow Phonics Scope and Sequence is broken down into Phases.

In simple terms: Phase 1 covers Phonemic Awareness; Phase 2 the first 18 letter patterns; Phase 3 the next 22 letter patterns; Phase 4 adjacent consonants; Phase 5 remaining letter sounds including vowel digraphs; Phase 5.5 vowel teams and sound families; Phase 6 prefixes and suffixes.

The Many Strands That Are Woven Into Skilled Reading

The essential components of reading are highlighted in Scarborough’s Reading Rope. Rainbow Phonics explicitly teaches the code-based skills for word recognition. Learning to read and spell is more complex than just memorising words. Rainbow Phonics utilises systematic synthetic phonics as the most important component in early, effective reading instruction. Decodable texts develop meaning-based skills based on the application of new word recognition skills.

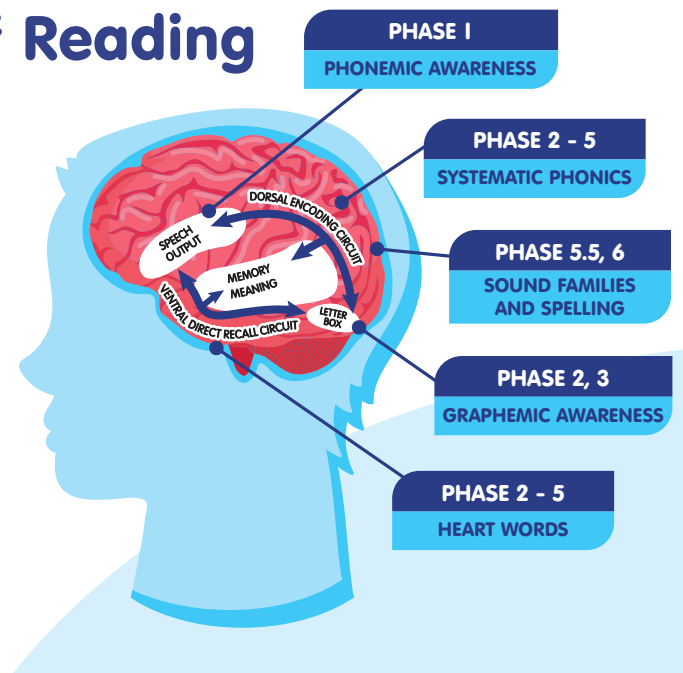

Scarborough’s Rope Model. Adapted from Neuman, S.B. and Dickinson D.K. (2001). Handbook of Early Literacy Research, Volume 1.

Brain Based Model of Reading

The Phases of Rainbow Phonics can be mapped onto the brain to show the neural development of the reading process through the two main circuits involved in building a reading brain. Rainbow Phonics explicitly teaches the upper circuit so the brain can map graphemes (letters) onto phonemes (sounds) and use the operations of phonemic awareness to blend these sounds together. Successful reading then involves building a lower circuit so that words can be accessed in an instant when read fluently.

Adapted from Teaching the Brain, Dr Duncan Milne, 2014.

Systematic Synthetic Phonics

Rainbow Phonics is a Systematic Synthetic Phonics Program that explicitly teaches children letter patterns through a comprehensive scope and sequence. The scope and sequence is designed to build on letter sound knowledge and support decodable readers that are controlled and have vocabulary specifically chosen in accordance with this progression. Together, this science-based reading methodology is a powerful tool for supporting all readers on the road to fluency.

Every lesson of the program follows a simple & consistent layout:

TEACH	Involves the explicit teaching of the lesson objectives including: hear phonemes, show new graphemes, teach letter formation, decoding, encoding, and introduce new tricky words. Detailed notes are provided on what and how to teach key learnings.
PRACTISE	Involves a teacher-led activity where children engage with the learning through a multi-sensory activity. Designed to reinforce learning and new skills.
APPLY	Involves another application of learning through a different activity. Practise & Apply alternate between Reading and Spelling activities.

Why the Program Works

This 'Teach, Practise, Apply' methodology, also known as the 'I do, We do, You do' teaching model, helps build skills and confidence in young learners and aims to have children take the lead in their learning. Children gradually gain responsibility through repeated practise of phonics knowledge, starting with explicit instruction and explanation by a Phonics instructor, understanding through repeat practise and concluding with independent application of skills.

The Rainbow Phonics program is built around this research-based teaching strategy, and guides teachers and parents on how to apply this themselves. Overall, Rainbow Phonics is a complete Systematic Synthetic Phonics Program that provides children with the best opportunities for progressing to reading fluency, spelling proficiency and a love of literacy.

Teacher Planner Kindergarten

The Rainbow Phonics Kindergarten Teacher Planner provides lesson plans for introducing the program. It focuses in detail on the seven aspects of Phase 1 and has specific emphasis on language development and phoneme awareness so that children are prepared for decoding when they enter Foundation.

The Real Science of Learning Phonics

Australia's most comprehensive Science of Reading program!

Rainbow Phonics works because it is grounded in the Science of Reading. Rainbow Phonics follows a clear scope and sequence, both for introducing letter patterns, but also for introducing Common Exception Words (also known as Heart Words or tricky words). Whole class teaching introduces new letter patterns and consolidates learning with teacher-led activities. Newly developing decoding skills are then applied into contextual reading with decodable text. Together, the Rainbow Phonics method builds phonemic awareness, grapheme-to-phoneme knowledge and lexical access, with the ultimate goal of developing fluent and independent readers.
