Let Your Walls Whisper

The walls around you set the mood for your life. Through art, murals, and wallpapers, you can create a space that feels like you.

I used to collect pages torn from every design magazine I could find, tucking vibrant, color-rich rooms into a three-ring binder of dreams. Designers like Tricia Guild showed me that bold, beautiful spaces weren't just possible — they were magnetic.

Today, I design the wallpapers I always wanted to find: full of color, story, and heart. When you start tuning into what truly inspires you, it's amazing how easily beauty begins to find you back.

START COLLECTING YOUR IDEAS

Dream It:

What colors, patterns, or moods do you want to wake up to every day?

Pin It:

Start a Pinterest board and collect anything that makes your heart skip a beat.

Set the Mood:

Are you craving calm neutrals or a pop of color magic?

Test It:

Order wallpaper samples and see how they change with the light.

Feel It:

Want cozy texture? Renting? Try peel & stick! Craving luxe? Think grasscloth.

Match It:

Love your furniture but not the vibe? Chalk paint + wax = a brand new look.

✨ Weave Story and Comfort into Your Home with Textiles

Frame your windows with flowing fabric.

Curtains soften the edges of a room, filter the sunlight, and create an atmosphere that shifts with the seasons.

Velvet Throw Blankets that Invite Rest

Drape a plush throw over your favorite chair. Velvet adds a hush of luxury – a gentle invitation to slow down, to stay a little longer.

Pillows that Welcome You Home

Toss pillows across sofas, chairs, and beds. Layer patterns, colors, and textures to create a feeling of abundance, playfulness, and ease.

Sheets and Duvet Covers that Cradle You

Your bed is your daily refuge. Choose sheets and duvet covers in colors and textures that feel like a deep exhale at the end of the day.

Tablecloths that Set the Stage for Gathering

A simple tablecloth transforms everyday meals into quiet celebrations. It's an easy way to add beauty to your daily rituals and make memories linger longer.

Fabric Napkins that Elevate the Everyday

Swap paper for fabric. Fold a cloth napkin beside your plate – a small act that says: today, too, is worth honoring.

Quilts that Tell a Story

Layer quilts at the foot of a bed, across a sofa, or draped over a reading chair. Their stitches and patterns hold warmth – and stories ready to be added to.

🌈 "Each textile you choose layers your home with beauty, comfort, and the quiet stories that make a house a home."

Curate a Gallery of Memories

A gallery wall is a living memoir. Mix original art, prints, heirlooms, and photographs to tell a story that's uniquely yours. Start with one meaningful piece and let it grow as your life unfolds.

Sometimes, very different pieces can come together beautifully by unifying the frames or choosing a theme. For example, in the hallway between our bedrooms, I've hung a series of black-and-white paintings by an artist I love—Susan Campbell. They're custom portraits of our girls and our cats, and I treasure them.

I often gather gallery wall ideas on Pinterest. Seeing how others arrange their collections can spark your own creativity—or jog a memory while you're browsing frames at a resale shop. I usually look at old frames and wonder how I could make them my own. Sometimes I glue patterned fabric over the matting \(passe-partout\), or paint the frame a new color with custom chalk paint and finishing wax.

"What moments, memories, or artwork would you want to see on your gallery wall?"

Your Story is Already Beautiful

YOUR INSTINCTS ARE ALREADY LEADING YOU HOME

Your natural eye for beauty is a gift. Notice what makes a room feel inviting – a worn texture, a certain shade of green, a curve in a chair's leg. These small loves are the starting points. Let them guide you one joyful discovery at a time.

BEAUTY GROWS IN LAYERS, NOT IN A DAY

A meaningful home isn't made all at once. Start with one corner – a cozy chair, a piece of art that speaks to you. Let each choice support the life you live now, and a hope for what's to come.

COLLECT PIECES THAT SPEAK TO YOU

Instead of asking, "Does this match?" ask, "Does this make me feel something?" Find pieces at antique shops, local artists' markets, or inherited from family – and don't worry if they don't match perfectly. The best homes are the ones that express who you are and what moves you.

YOU'RE NOT STARTING FROM SCRATCH – YOU'RE BUILDING ON WHAT YOU LOVE

Look around you. Every favorite object, every well-loved chair, every color you return to again and again – these become your foundation. Begin by honoring what you already cherish, and let your home unfold from there.

YOUR HOME CAN BE A STORY YOU WRITE OVER TIME

You don't have to have it all figured out. Trust that what you drawn to will work together: the soft linen, the bold brushstroke, the handmade mug. Homes built slowly with heart have a magic that fast design trends can't replicate.

LET MEMORY AND MEANING LEAD YOUR STYLE

Your favorite sweater, a childhood memory, the smell of your favorite lilac bush – these are style guides more trustworthy than any trend. Let your life experiences inspire the textures, colors, and stories woven into your home.

Resources to Bring Your Vision to Life

Every home tells a story – and the right details can make it sing. Here you'll find links to thoughtfully chosen resources for upholstery fabrics, custom framing, original artwork, art prints, wallpapers, and more. Each piece is an opportunity to weave more beauty, meaning, and creativity into the spaces you live in every day.

May these resources help you create a home that feels like a true reflection of you.
