Willie's Cacao

Willie's Cacao are constantly on a quest to seek out the long-forgotten flavours of the world's great single estate cacaos. The definition of single estate for Willie's Cacao is a single type of cacao grown on a single farm, or a collection of small farmers growing the same type of beans and doing all the postharvest fermenting and drying together.

Darlington's

Marion Darlington started making her award-winning range of products in the 1980s. A surplus of eggs from the family farm led Mrs Darlington to use them up by making batches of her homemade lemon curd. Today the family continue to create preserves and chutneys with such a fabulous homemade taste.
