Renting Out Your Voxie Tactics NFT

Did you just sweep the cheapest Voxies NFTs in OpenSea? Or if you've been playing Voxie Tactics for a while, chances are you've already dropped a Voxie Tactics Item NFT. Voxies and Item NFTs are integral parts of the Voxie Tactics ecosystem and are used together to play the game Voxie Tactics. Aside from simply listing your Voxies and Items for sale in OpenSea or the Voxies Marketplace and earn ETH or VOXEL tokens from the sale, you can also list them for RENT in the Voxies Marketplace and earn VOXEL tokens too!

To list your NFT for rent, follow the new Voxies Marketplace guide for setting up rentals in the Voxies Monthly News, August 2023 issue, pages 9-11. Now that you know how to set up a rental listing, you might want to ask: so what should I put in the blanks? Check out some guidelines below to help you decide:

1. For the price and % rewards, you can set only price and 0%, 0 VOXEL price and some %, or a mix of the two. For the VOXEL earned with the price setting, 96% of it will go directly to your wallet once it's rented (there is a 4% marketplace fee for every successful rental). For VOXEL earned with the % share setting, these go into your in-game VOXEL earnings every time the renter wins in battle, and you must login to the game and claim the VOXEL there, then wait for the biweekly VOXEL claim distribution to send the VOXEL to your wallet.

2. NFT rewards (item drops in-game) can either be set to Renter, or to You (Owner). In general, single Voxie and Item rentals are set to Renter so that the renter can rent more stuff from other owners, because a renter can only rent one NFT to Owner rental. NFT to Owner is good to set when you have a full team composition for rent that is ready to use in battle.

3. Time period, or number of days the NFTs will be rented, is self-explanatory. But depending on your preference, setting it for a few days will require you to renew it often. Setting it to the maximum 30 days might save you the hassle of setting up the rental often, but you might lose out if the market price of the NFT that you are renting out suddenly increases due to demand.

4. For Voxies NFTs, Rarity, Class, and Movement stat are the biggest factors that affect the price. You can check the current marketplace rental listings of the same or similar NFT that you have and use that as reference, or ask what the Discord community thinks is the fair price for it.

5. For Item NFTs, there is an easy method to find out how much your item have been rented: Use the Will It Rent? feature of Undeep's Voxies Community Tool. Click the blank box in the center, type the name of item that you have, select how many Max Items in bundle, and the historical rental prices of the item will appear in a table. You can use these data as reference for pricing your item for rent.
