Chocolarder is one of only a few independent bean-to-bar chocolate makers in Britain, begun by Mike Longman in 2011. Based in Cornwall, he produces fine quality, stone ground chocolate using organically grown beans from single estate, family owned plantations and just a handful of quality ingredients.

Sourcing with care, Mike buys cacao beans only from suppliers that guarantee fair prices for their growers and invest in their communities. His commitment to finding the best flavours from each new harvest is kept through small batch production and a range that changes with the season.
