WELCOME TO REGENERATE 2025: THE PROSPER NETWORK SUMMIT

A LETTER FROM OUR CO-FOUNDERS

Some people just get it.

They move through the world knowing that success isn't something you take — it's something we grow together through contribution, gratitude and reciprocity.

But for most people—us included—it's taken some unlearning.

Unlearning the idea that we have to hustle alone.

Unlearning the scarcity story that says there's not enough to go around.

Unlearning the belief that we have to trade our wellbeing for our worth.

As we gather this week for The Prosper Network Summit, we are called to remember a different way forward.

A way rooted in what Robin Wall Kimmerer calls "the gift economy" — where we recognize that the world gives freely to us, and we get to give back in return.

Where business becomes a reciprocal act of care — not extraction. Where women rise together, not at each other's expense, but because this is actually how we are hard-wired.

No more top-down hierarchies. No more power derived only from what you can consolidate and hoard.

Rather, we are moving into a regenerative model of business where success ripples out and creates win-win-wins for all involved.

The future of prosperity requires each of us to make the internal change, of working in a new and courageous way.

Not competition, but connection.
Not more grind, but deeper grace.
And it's not optional — it's the only way forward.

This is our call. This is how we change a system that has only ever operated on the illusion of scarcity.

We love that you're here.
We love that you're on board.
It's time to regenerate.

Let's go prosper together.

“Harmony Over Hustle: Redefining Success, Burnout, and Prosperity in a Regenerative Era” with Tina Wells, in Conversation with Sheri Salata, Co-Founder of The Prosper Network

In this deeply grounded and inspiring conversation between Sheri Salata and entrepreneur, author, and brand visionary Tina Wells, the two trailblazers explore what it truly means to create a regenerative life—one where our work doesn't deplete us, but restores and renews us. Tina shares how early burnout at age 27 led her to create The Elevation Approach, a system for building work-life harmony instead of chasing the myth of balance. Together, she and Sheri unpack the mindset shifts required to thrive as purpose-driven founders in chaotic times: intentional pauses, curiosity as a business strategy, and designing success that's rooted in sovereignty, not hustle. They also dive into the energetic side of entrepreneurship—the difference between abundance and scarcity, and how generosity in business can become a spiritual practice. With warmth and humor, Tina reminds us that prosperity isn't just about profit margins—it's about meaningful relationships, aligned priorities, and the courage to keep learning and evolving.

Tina Wells is strategic business advisor and founder coach, an entrepreneur, a 22x best-selling author. She is a 2x founder, and developed her first agency at age 16. Wells is an award-winning marketer is known as a "millennial whisperer" for her early understanding of the needs and inclinations of the millennial generation. Her work has been featured in Entrepreneur, Ebony, O Magazine, Cosmo, Marie Claire, Inc, Essence, Fast Company and among dozens of corporations.

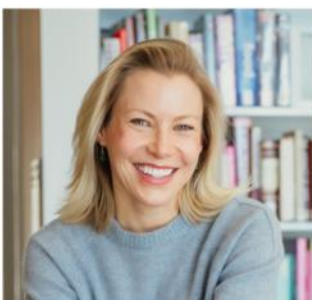

*Sheri Salata is the co-founder of The Prosper Network and a visionary leader devoted to helping women expand their impact, deepen their purpose, and build lives filled with meaning and possibility. Best known for her two-decade career with Oprah Winfrey—where she served as Executive Producer of The Oprah Winfrey Show and later President of OWN and Harpo Studios—Sheri has become a celebrated author, storyteller, and mentor for women in transformational seasons of life and leadership. Her bestselling memoir, The Beautiful No, chronicles her own reinvention journey and continues to inspire women around the world to embrace change with courage, curiosity, and self-trust. Today, Sheri brings her signature blend of wisdom, humor, and heart to the Prosper Network, The Practiced Life Podcast and its sister community—The Support System championing a practiced life, reciprocity, and the power of women supporting women. She is committed to helping founders lead with authenticity—and create success on their own terms.*

The Art of the Fresh Start: Regenerating Our Lives, Work, and Self-Belief with Olivia Dreizen Howell

After her divorce in 2019, Olivia Dreizen Howell found herself in a half-empty house — surrounded by remnants of her old life and an unexpected invitation to begin again. That moment inspired Fresh Starts Registry, the first platform devoted to supporting people through major life changes. Since then, Olivia has walked alongside thousands rebuilding after divorce, loss, career shifts, and reinvention. In this session, Olivia explores regeneration as an intentional practice — something we choose and cultivate, not just something that follows upheaval. She shares The Art of the Fresh Start, a framework blending storytelling, neuroscience, and self-compassion to help people rebuild their lives, work, and confidence from a grounded place. This interactive experience includes gentle guided visualization and optional reflection to help attendees identify the areas of their lives calling for renewal, understand what may be blocking growth, and begin imagining what expansion could look like next.

Olivia Howell is a visionary in divorce support and emotional wellness. She is the Co-Founder and CEO of Fresh Starts Registry—the world's first divorce registry, leading divorce support network, and divorce education platform. A business and podcast coach, marketing expert with over 20 years of experience, and public relations strategist, Olivia supports the 120+ experts on the Fresh Starts Expert Guide with ongoing business and podcast coaching. She also meets daily with women navigating divorce to connect them with the expert resources and emotional support they need to rebuild their lives. An award-winning podcast producer of four top globally ranked shows, Olivia is also the author of multiple transformative guides, including Simple Scripts to Support Your People, Divorce Dictionary, and How to Get Divorced as a Stay-at-Home Parent. A solo parent to two tween boys, Olivia finds fulfillment in painting, crafting, and listening to audiobooks while walking. www.freshstartsregistry.com

Participant Roundtable Discussions & Curated Networking

Participants can expect a dynamic, connection-centered experience during The Prosper Network Summit's Roundtable Discussion and Curated Networking session. Designed to help women genuinely meet, learn from, and support one another, this session features two breakout discussions with small, intentionally curated groups. Each breakout is facilitated by a trained guide who will lead thoughtful, research-informed prompts to spark meaningful conversation rather than surface-level small talk. Attendees will explore shared challenges and opportunities, exchange insights from their own entrepreneurial journeys, and discover points of resonance with others in the room. The structure is intentional: smaller groups, guided questions, and a warm, welcoming pace that ensures every voice has space. By the end of the session, participants walk away not only with new ideas and perspectives, but with new relationships—connections that continue to grow throughout the online summit and beyond. It's networking with depth, purpose, and ease. www.theprospernetwork.org

The Regenerative Power of Ambition: Leading and Living from Wholeness with Amina AlTai

In a culture that prizes productivity and performance above all else, many of us have been taught to chase ambition in ways that deplete rather than sustain us. In this intimate fireside chat, bestselling author and executive coach Amina AlTai invites us to reimagine ambition as a regenerative force, one that restores our energy, deepens our relationships, and fuels collective impact. Drawing on insights from her book The Ambition Trap: How to Stop Chasing and Start Living, Amina explores how purpose-led ambition can become a form of cultural repair, especially for women who have been navigating systems built on extraction and exclusion. Participants will walk away with practical reflections and mindset shifts to: Reconnect to ambition as a natural, neutral energy that belongs to everyone, Identify the difference between extractive and regenerative ambition, Lead from wholeness to create impact without self-sacrifice.

Amina AlTai is an executive coach, leadership trainer and chronic illness advocate, whose roster of clients include Fortune 500 leaders, entrepreneurs, and celebrities. After spending a decade grappling with a fast-paced career in marketing and two autoimmune diseases, Amina hit burnout. In hopes of healing her own life, she sought training in coaching, mindfulness, nutrition, and fitness, and her goal became to teach others how to balance a thriving career, body, and mind. She has partnered with companies such as Google, Snap, Outdoor Voices, Chief, and Roku, and been featured in goop, Forbes, Well+Good, NBC, CBS, The New York Times, and more. She's an Entrepreneur Magazine expert-in-residence, a Forbes contributor, and was named one of Success Magazine's Women of Influence.

The Courage Not to Know: Mindful Leadership in Uncertain Times with LeeAnn Franklin, MDiv, MBA

True leadership courage isn't about always knowing—it's the ability to decide, learn, and adapt when certainty isn't possible. Grounded in evidence-based leadership and the work of Dr. Ellen Langer, this session explores mindfulness as "actively noticing new things" and shows how awareness transforms uncertainty into insight. Drawing on decades of helping leaders navigate complexity, LeeAnn teaches how mindful decision-making strengthens clarity, adaptability, and grounded presence. Participants will learn the Second Act Compass™ for pausing, questioning assumptions, and choosing aligned action. Courage becomes less about control, and more about awareness, integrity, and steady confidence in the unknown.

Lee Ann Franklin has reinvented her life through every season of change. From a career in corporate creativity as a Hallmark Innovation Leader and Creative Director, to over a decade as a Healthcare Ethics and Spiritual Care Executive, to caregiving for her mother through the final years of Parkinson's Disease, Lee Ann has lived the rhythm of regeneration she now teaches. Her proprietary Second Act Compass™ and Terrain of Transitions™ frameworks integrate mindfulness, ethical leadership, and systems thinking to help people find meaning and momentum in seasons of uncertainty. Lee Ann's work blends spiritual intelligence with strategic clarity, guiding individuals, entrepreneurs, and organizations to create sustainable success that's rooted in presence, purpose, and renewal. A board-certified chaplain, certified health ethics consultant, certified mindfulness practitioner with Master of Divinity and MBA degrees, Lee Ann has over 25 years of experience leading and coaching across healthcare, corporate, and creative sectors. Lee Ann now speaks and consults nationally on transitions, regenerative leadership, and the inner work of sustainable growth. www.secondactsoulcoaching.com

Re-energize through Somatic Practice with Rachel Moore-Beard

In our fast-paced world, it's easy to feel disconnected and depleted. The holiday season, with all its commitments and demands, can often pull us even further away from our bodies. This workshop is an invitation to pause and come back to yourself. Through a series of gentle, guided somatic practices, you'll explore the mind-body connection to release built-up tension and restore a sense of calm. You'll learn simple, effective tools to navigate challenges with more resilience and ease. You will learn grounding practices to help you feel safe and present in your body, somatic tools to regulate your nervous system and reduce feelings of stress and anxiety, and mindful movement to release physical tension and restore energetic flow.

Nashville native Rachel Moore-Beard is an experienced Integrative Somatic Coach and Facilitator passionate about leadership development and helping individuals and organizations activate their potential for impact. Certified by Integrative Wellness Academy, trained by Coach Academy International, and a graduate of Mastery of ToP Facilitation with The Institute of Cultural Affairs, she brings over 15 years of experience working with mission-driven organizations, associations, and companies to build strong teams, actionable plans, and motivated leaders. Rachel began her career with Strategy and Leadership, LLC in 2006 and became president and owner in 2021. She also serves as program administrator and facilitator for the Nashville Emerging Leaders program, is a certified ATHENA International facilitator, and has held leadership roles with the Nashville Area Chamber, Nashville Cable, and the Center for Nonprofit Management. She is married, has a teenage son, two dogs, and is a Level 2 Intuitive Healer. www.leadthinkdo.com

The Gift Economy: Regeneration Through Reciprocity with Carole Murko

The Gift Economy reminds us that the world is built on circulation, not accumulation. In nature, nothing hoards — every tree, river, and root system participates in the great exchange. That's also how the human body works. Each breath, each heartbeat, each neuron communicates in reciprocity with the whole. When that flow is open, energy regenerates. When it's blocked, we stagnate. Generosity is the frequency Carol teaches from. She'll share stories, science, and a guided practice freely — not as information to consume but as energy to experience. Because when we give from alignment, the act of giving refuels us. Reciprocity will be felt in real time. The session is designed as a shared field, where my energy meets the audience's and we co-regulate together — a small, sacred ecosystem of give and receive.

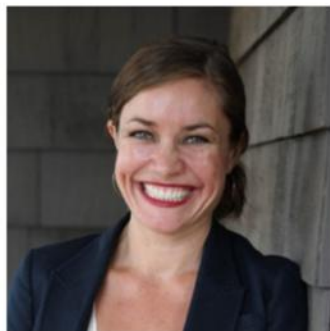

Carole Murko is a Self-Mastery and Healing Coach, NeuroChange Solutions Consultant trained by Dr. Joe Dispenza, and the founder of Love.Eat.Heal — a movement that helps people activate their inner healer by reconnecting science, spirit, and self. A former Wall Street executive turned energy alchemist, Carole blends neuroscience, ancient Taoist practices, and the wisdom of nature to help others rewire their thoughts, regulate their nervous systems, and regenerate from the inside out. Her work — from KitchenQi workshops and corporate retreats to her daily “Cellular Reboot” Qigong practice — teaches that the body is a living ecosystem of reciprocity: what we give, we receive. A lifelong student of the natural world, Carole's approach echoes the teachings of Robin Wall Kimmerer's Gift Economy — where generosity, gratitude, and mutual flourishing are the new currency. She's living proof that healing and prosperity begin the same way: through coherence, intention, and love in motion. www.loveeatheal.com

Building Community, Connection, and Purpose: The Vision Behind Serenbe with Garnie Nygren, in conversation with Sheri Salata

Garnie Nygren, founder of Serenbe Real Estate, is redefining what it means to live, work, and connect. She shares how she built a vibrant, pedestrian-friendly community in the Chattahoochee Hills, blending family, purpose, and creativity into every corner. From fostering unplanned neighborly connections to integrating life, work, and play, Garnie shows how intentional design and mission-driven work create a place—and a life—that truly nourishes the soul.

Garnie Nygren is the eldest daughter of the founders of Serenbe (Steve and Marie Nygren) and serves as Managing Partner/COO of the community's real-estate, hospitality and development ventures. She holds a degree from the Hotel School at Cornell University and, early in her career, worked as a policy fellow in the Georgia Governor's Office before assuming leadership roles at Serenbe Real Estate. Over two decades, Garnie has focused on building a place that integrates nature, community and purpose—leading operations at Serenbe and developing businesses that span hospitality, real estate and wellness. Based in Chattahoochee Hills, Georgia, she lives in the community she helps build and leads efforts that reflect regenerative design, walkable neighborhood planning and a strong sense of belonging. www.serenbe.com

The Unignorable Email: How One Intentional Message Can Change Your Life with Carly Valancy

In this energizing and practical session, Carly Valancy shows how a single, intentional act of connection—one genuine email—can transform your life, work, and network. Through her “unignorable emails” framework, she demonstrates how specificity, generosity, and honesty turn ordinary outreach into meaningful, lasting relationships. Carly reframes networking as a regenerative practice of reciprocity, where giving comes first, and teaches how to connect with authenticity, overcome fear and perfectionism, and cultivate relationships before you need them. Participants will leave equipped to build a network that grows opportunities, collaborations, and friendships while regenerating connection and trust over time.

Carly is a founder, artist, and writer. She has performed on Broadway stages and held executive roles at high growth tech startups and every single opportunity has come from the consistent practice of reaching out. Now, Carly builds products and experiences that help people find their people. She is the founder of TETHER and Reach Out Party, tools that turn meaningful connections into outsized opportunities. She is also the co-founder of Momentum, a growth consultancy geared toward helping health and wellness startups scale. www.carlyvalancy.com

Beyond Revenue: How Fostering Community Builds Legacy with Kelly Vrchota

In this session, Kelly Vrchota shows how to move beyond revenue and design a business rooted in connection—one that regenerates energy, impact, and legacy. She explores why connection is everything, how transformation happens when people feel seen, heard, and understood, and why the most sustainable business models are regenerative. Kelly demonstrates how offers grounded in community give back more than they take, fueling impact, longevity, and energy for both leaders and clients. Participants will learn that true legacy is built through people and shared purpose, not programs, and that lasting impact comes from connection that endures long after the work is done.

Kelly Vrchota is a Membership & Community Strategist who helps entrepreneurs design right-fit, sustainable offers that prioritize connection, impact, and freedom. Through her signature frameworks and one-to-one strategy work, she guides business owners in creating memberships and communities that truly serve both their members and themselves. When she's not talking memberships, you can find her enjoying lake life in Minnesota, a good 80s playlist, and planning her next travel adventure. www.kellyvrchota.com

FIND YOUR PEOPLE, CHANGE YOUR LIFE.

A Force for Good Project with Sam Horn, in Conversation with Sheri Salata

In this deeply inspiring fireside chat, bestselling author and communication expert Sam Horn turns the tables on Sheri Salata—former executive producer of The Oprah Winfrey Show and co-founder of The Prosper Network—for an intimate conversation about what it truly means to be a force for good. Together, they explore the evolution from self-sacrifice to self-honoring, the energetic shift that happens when women choose integrity over overextension, and how inner healing becomes the foundation for outer impact. Sheri shares personal stories of transformation, intuition, and surrender—how learning to listen to life's "nudges" led her to a new chapter of deep fulfillment and purpose. This conversation is a luminous invitation to lead with alignment, generosity, and self-trust—and to recognize that our greatest contribution to the world begins with our own expansion.

Sam Horn is the CEO of The Intrigue Agency. She helps people create respectful, collaborative, one-of-a-kind communications and projects that add value for all involved. Sam's work has been featured in New York Times, Fast Company, Investors Business Daily, MSNBC, Forbes, INC, Foreign Service Journal, NPR, and Huffington Post. Her 20+ year track record of results includes speaking for such clients as National Geographic, Cisco, SXSW, Fortune 500 Forum, Intel, YPO, Capital One, NASA, Accenture, Fidelity, the U.S. Navy and Four Seasons Resorts. She was the pitch coach for Springboard Enterprises which has helped women entrepreneurs generate $36+ billion in funding / valuation. www.intrigueagency.com

Why Your Success Is Making You Miserable (And How to Fix It) with Meghan French Dunbar, in Conversation with Sheri Salata

Many high-achieving women have done everything "right" yet still feel exhausted, overwhelmed, or unfulfilled. Yet, when we look for answers, we only find surface-level "solutions" like scheduling a spa day or taking a few days off. In this transformative talk, author Meghan French Dunbar exposes the outdated playbook of success that's often the root cause of why so many of us are struggling and replaces it with a research-backed framework for success that will help you actually start to thrive.

Meghan French Dunbar is a trailblazing entrepreneur, author, and leadership strategist redefining how we think about success and sustainability in business. She's the co-founder of Conscious Company Magazine and the World-Changing Women's Summit, platforms that have inspired thousands of leaders to build more conscious, equitable companies. As co-founder of Stakeholder Business, she helps organizations embed purpose and humanity into their operations. Meghan's book, This Isn't Working, blends research, storytelling, and personal insight to challenge toxic hustle culture and champion a healthier model for achievement. Over her career, she's interviewed more than 1,000 leaders and advised brands seeking to align profit with purpose. She holds an MBA in Sustainable Management and lives near Boulder, Colorado, with her family. www.meghanfrenchdunbar.com

Participants will gain insight into what regenerative leadership and ecosystems look like in practice, learn how Kindred Lane supports organizations and individuals in solving real-world problems, and discover practical steps to begin leading and living in alignment with regenerative principles—even if the path feels overwhelming at first. This session is ideal for anyone curious about building work and life that fosters connection, growth, and lasting impact.

Elaine is the Founder & CEO of Kindred Lane and mother of three young boys, who are her daily inspiration for living from her roots. Elaine is passionate about the magic that unfolds when personal growth & purpose are nurtured in community, guided by nature. She guides Kindred Lane's regenerative systems design, strategic client partnerships, and the Kindred Lane Collaborative. She is a trusted partner to clients, co-creating systems-level transformations & individualized solutions that benefit people, society, and nature. Before founding Kindred Lane, Elaine was a leadership advisor and executive recruiter at Korn Ferry, where she served as a Principal in the firm's Global Consumer Market and founded Korn Ferry's Purpose Community. Her journey into motherhood revealed a deeper calling, leading her to the Shakti Leadership Global Women's Fellowship, Pranik Soul Yoga Teacher Training, and ultimately to her current nature-based community where she lives and works. In surrendering to the rhythms of regenerative growth in her own life, she discovered the work that has become Kindred Lane. www.kindredlane.com

Intergenerational Communication with LaGina R. Harris, in conversation with Rachel Anzalone

Join this conversation with LaGina R. Harris, exploring the power of intergenerational communication, not just in the workplace, but across all aspects of life. This fireside chat will highlight how every generation has wisdom to share, lessons to learn, and perspectives that can transform the way we connect with one another. LaGina emphasizes mutual mentorship, curiosity, and the human side of communication, showing how younger and older generations can learn from each other to strengthen communities, foster innovation, and improve well-being. The conversation also explores the role of intentional spaces like The Us Space, where people of all ages can gather, share knowledge, and build meaningful connections.

LaGina R. Harris is a Houston-based social impact entrepreneur, media personality, and thought leader dedicated to building inclusive business ecosystems that transform ideas into impact. A proud HBCU graduate of Stillman College and Delta Sigma Theta member, she is the founder of The Us Space, a female-forward, people-of-color-centered business hub offering flexible workspaces, business education, incubation, and curated programs to help ventures launch and grow. Through her brand LaRae Infinity, she provides consulting, produces podcasts, and hosts shows spotlighting Houston's cultural and entrepreneurial talent. LaGina also co-founded Melanin Minds, a five-year mental health advocacy initiative recognized with official proclamations. She mentors and judges for leading entrepreneurship programs, serves on multiple boards, and supports youth initiatives. Across all her work, LaGina fosters sustainable ecosystems, intergenerational collaboration, and inclusive growth, creating spaces where people, ideas, and impact thrive. www.theusspace.com

Participants can expect a dynamic, connection-centered experience during The Prosper Network Summit's Roundtable Discussion and Curated Networking session. Designed to help women genuinely meet, learn from, and support one another, this session features two breakout discussions with small, intentionally curated groups. Each breakout is facilitated by a trained guide who will lead thoughtful, research-informed prompts to spark meaningful conversation rather than surface-level small talk. Attendees will explore shared challenges and opportunities, exchange insights from their own entrepreneurial journeys, and discover points of resonance with others in the room. The structure is intentional: smaller groups, guided questions, and a warm, welcoming pace that ensures every voice has space. By the end of the session, participants walk away not only with new ideas and perspectives, but with new relationships—connections that continue to grow throughout the online summit and beyond. It's networking with depth, purpose, and ease. www.theprospernetwork.org

Remix, Repurpose, Regenerate: How to Avoid Content Burnout with Kim Kiel

In this session, participants will discover outside-the-box strategies for regenerating energy, attracting clients, and creating ease by remixing existing content. They'll get an over-the-shoulder look at real examples of content repurposing—from the presenter and other creators—and learn why repurposing is not just practical, but essential. Instead of constantly starting from scratch, attendees will explore how thoughtful regeneration of content can expand reach, deepen engagement, and amplify impact, all while saving time and maintaining authenticity. This session offers actionable insights and inspiration for making your existing work work harder, smarter, and more intentionally.

Kim Kiel is an expert in premium messaging, sales strategy, brand voice and direct response copy. With 17+ years of writing multi-6-figure campaigns for small businesses and nonprofits, Kim helps Gen X entrepreneurs and experts sell more high ticket offers (with less effort) so they can share their gifts and positive impact with the world. She has a knack for instantly capturing a client's voice and writing elegantly persuasive copy. When she's not nerding out on sales psychology in her home of Edmonton, Alberta, you can find her tromping through the Canadian wilderness with her kids or continuing her quest to find her favorite whisky. Craft, Commerce and Conscience: Building a Non-Profit/For-Profit Ecosystem of Social Impact with Mpho Hansjee, in conversation with Jenn DeBarge Goonan

In this inspiring fireside chat, marketing and social impact strategist Jen Goonan sits down with Mpho Hansjee, founder of Women Enabled Enterprises and ShopConsciously, to explore how craft, commerce, and conscience can come together to create a regenerative ecosystem of social impact. Mpho shares how her mobile-based entrepreneurship program empowers women of color in South Africa, Kenya, and Uganda to transform their craft skills into sustainable businesses—gaining training, market access, and connections to impact investors. She reveals the evolution of her model, the power of pivoting, and how recycled materials are becoming bestselling products that uplift communities and reduce waste. Jen and Mpho also unpack the growing consumer demand for purpose-driven brands, offering practical examples from global companies and entrepreneurs alike. Together, they illuminate how businesses of any size can build conscious supply chains, deepen customer engagement, and create systems that give back more than they take. This conversation is a masterclass in purpose-fueled innovation.

Mpho Hansjee is the founder of Women Enabled Enterprises and ShopConsciously, two sister organizations transforming women's entrepreneurship in Africa and beyond. Born in South Africa and now based in California, Mpho spent over a decade in retail and e-commerce before dedicating her work to empowering women and communities. Guided by the belief that "when you empower a woman, you empower a community," she founded Women Enabled Enterprises, a nonprofit providing business training, mentorship, and tools to help women of color build sustainable enterprises that generate local employment. Her passion for equitable markets also led to ShopConsciously, a Fair Trade lifestyle brand that brings artisans' handcrafted work to a global audience. Under Mpho's leadership, ShopConsciously has expanded into multiple retail locations, including San Jose International Airport, and has earned recognition through grants and fellowships. Through her work, Mpho bridges global markets with local impact, demonstrating that conscious commerce can be both beautiful and transformative.

Thoughtfully and mindfully handcrafted fair trade products that amplify women of color, provide dignified employment and create impact in communities in Africa.

ShopConsciously is a sister company to Women Enabled Enterprises, a non-profit that helps African women of color start or grow their small business for self-sufficiency. We hand select high potential entrepreneurs from our program and curate seasonal collections alongside them and their team of women.

This brand is centered on us as consumers, shifting the narrative that our small actions are unable to create a ripple effect of change.

At ShopConsciously, ordinary people are able to empower communities by simply becoming consumers that care about how their products were made and those who are passionate about creating dignified employment for underserved communities in Africa.

We curate a seasonal collection of hand crafted goods that are thoughtfully and mindfully made by women of color in Africa. These incredible entrepreneurial artisans are passionate about their craft and are so bold and courageous to help to create employment for people in their community.

Using the IMPACT Framework to Accelerate Your Work in The World with Melissa Camilleri & Angela Greaser

Discover how the IMPACT Framework helps authors, founders, and thought leaders accelerate their work in the world by expanding beyond 1:1 delivery. In this session, you'll learn how to diversify your offerings with scalable B2B and B2C "one-to-many" programs that grow your influence, amplify your message, and generate sustainable revenue. We'll break down the essential components of the framework, share real examples of how creators have used it to evolve their business models, and show you how to turn your expertise into offerings that are both transformative and regenerative—for you and the communities you serve.

Melissa Camilleri and Angela Greaser are forever (not former!) teachers with decades of experience in adult learning, training and development, digital marketing, and enrollment. As the founders of Stand for the AND Education Co, they've guided the generation over $58 million in revenue for their 1:1 clients and their clients inside their signature program, The Impact Incubator. They share the mission to help as many women as possible create or pivot into life-first businesses—intentionally designing offers, systems, and strategies that are aligned to the values of each individual client. They focus on what works and are obsessed with data and discernment to drive implementation and results. By "standing for the AND" Melissa and Angela operate with a both/and mentality: meaning you can be wildly successful at work on your own terms AND present to the things that matter most to you outside work, too. Both/AND, always. They are co-Founders of BOTH this agency AND The Prosper Network. www.standfortheand.com/impactincubator

Building Ecosystems, Not Empires: Regeneration as a Growth Strategy with Rachel Anzalone

Regenerative growth isn't about doing more — it's about creating systems that continually renew the energy, resources, and relationships that sustain you. In this thought provoking session, Rachel will invite you to consider the differences between the empire model (centralized power, ownership, extraction) and the ecosystem model (mutual nourishment, co-creation, flow), and how shifting from one to the other changes everything: how you lead, how you partner, how you sustain yourself. Rachel's approach weaves strategy, embodiment, and reflection, so participants will leave not just inspired, but with a clearer sense of how to apply regenerative growth principles inside their own businesses.

Rachel Anzalone is the Founder of Ease & Acumen Consulting, Pleasure & Profits Advising & Mentoring, and the Creator of the Pleasure & Profits Podcast. As a Sustainable Growth Advisor and Satisfaction Strategist, Rachel guides purpose-driven entrepreneurs to expand their impact and profitability without compromising their integrity or wellbeing. At the heart of her work is The Satisfaction Strategy—her signature framework that redefines success through the integration of Impact, Profit, and Pleasure. Drawing from over 25 years of diverse experience in entrepreneurship, corporate leadership, and digital marketing—along with deep roots in embodiment and holistic wellness—she's developed a distinctive approach that blends strategic excellence with soul-aligned satisfaction, helping leaders build world-changing businesses that stand the test of time. www.rachelanzalone.com

Inside Out: Regenerative Leadership as a Way of Being with Rochelle Schieck

How do we lead and grow in ways that renew rather than deplete? In this experiential session, Rochelle Schieck invites us to explore regeneration as an embodied practice — not just in how we run our businesses, but in how we relate to ourselves and each other. Through gentle movement, reflection, and discussion, we'll uncover how living and leading from the inside out cultivates reciprocity, presence, and authentic expansion.

Rochelle Schieck is the creator of Qoya Inspired Movement, a movement practice that honors the wisdom of yoga, the wild of dance, and the freedom of expression. With decades of devotion, she has facilitated over 5,000 classes and guided women on transformative retreats worldwide, trained hundreds of teachers in 20 countries and led over 120 retreats on 6 different continents. Rochelle weaves together ancient wisdom and embodied practices to remember that our essence is like nature, wild, wise, and free. Exploring the roles of entrepreneur, author, mother and invitation maker, she creates opportunities to listen to the wisdom emerging from the most trustworthy parts of ourselves. www.qoyainspiredmovement.com

The Time Will Pass Anyway: A Story of Healing, Courage, and Regeneration, with Jodi Salata, LMFT, in Conversation with Sheri Salata

In this deeply moving fireside chat, Sheri Salata sits down with her sister-in-law Jodi Salata, LMFT, to explore what it really means to rebuild—and rise—after profound loss. From navigating sudden grief as a young mother to earning both her bachelor's and master's degrees from Northwestern University and launching a thriving therapy and coaching practice, Jodi's journey is a testament to resilience, purpose, and the regenerative power of support. Together, Sheri and Jodi reflect on how transformational growth begins with one simple truth: time will pass anyway. This intimate conversation invites us to consider how community, reciprocity, and courage can turn even the hardest chapters into a life that shines with possibility.

Jodi Salata is a licensed Marriage and Family Therapist and a Martha Beck Certified Life Coach, dedicated to helping people navigate the messy middle of life—those seasons when anxiety, discontent, and feeling stuck drown out clarity and purpose. She works with clients who are moving through midlife transitions, wrestling with self-doubt, burnout, or a deep inner knowing that something needs to shift. Her clients are often craving more—more meaning, more connection, more aliveness—but aren't sure how to get there. With compassion, clarity, and zero judgment, Jodi meets them exactly where they are and walks beside them toward the life they're ready to claim. Whether someone is seeking healing, reinvention, or a return to their true self, she offers a safe space to do the real LifeWork—the kind that frees, expands, and reconnects them to their deepest sense of purpose. www.jodisalata.com

A Hopeful Future: How Generosity, Reciprocity, & Collective Expansion are the Way Forward with Angela Greaser

In this closing keynote, Angela Greaser invites us to imagine what's possible when women entrepreneurs choose to build businesses—and lives—rooted in generosity, reciprocity, and collective expansion. Drawing from her work building a community where women thrive by lifting one another, Angela will illuminate the real-world practices that turn regenerative business from a concept into a lived experience. She'll explore how belonging fuels resilience, how shared visibility accelerates impact, and why collaboration—not competition—is the most powerful strategy for sustainable growth in today's shifting landscape. You'll walk away inspired, grounded, and clear on one thing: the future of business is built together, and you already have a place in it.

Angela Greaser is a highly sought-after growth strategist and co-founder of the operations consulting firm ALL THE OPS and her most recent venture, Stand for the AND Education Co. She's been the wizard behind the curtain, helping well-known thought leadership brands and change-making organizations grow into 7 and 8 figure empires. www.standfortheand.com

Regenerating Your Voice: From Inner Critic to Wise Woman Power with Kaleo Wheeler

After decades of building careers, supporting families, and carrying the invisible load, many women inevitably reach a moment of reckoning: Who am I now? This isn't a breakdown—it's a breakthrough. In this session, you'll discover how ancient Hawaiian wisdom offers a regenerative path back to your power, helping you address the real roots of burnout, self-doubt, and exhaustion. Through story, lived experience, and more than 35 years of practice, you'll explore why your inner critic is often inherited conditioning, how to reclaim your authentic voice, and how the principle of Aloha Lokahi—living in love, unity, and self-acceptance—becomes a compass for renewed leadership. You'll leave with simple, practical tools you can use immediately to shift from depletion to clarity, and a reminder that midlife isn't a fading—it's an ascension into Wise Woman leadership, where your presence, experience, and power matter more than ever.

Kaleo Wheeler is a dynamic force in the world of women's spiritual transformation. In this Year of the Feminine—a time of abundance, balance, and infinite possibility—she is deeply devoted to guiding women to Shine Their Light and live as fully empowered beings. Through her signature system, The Heart of Aloha and its transformational journey, Her Voice Rises with Aloha, Kaleo helps women embrace hidden dreams and design lives overflowing with joy, positivity, and purpose. A gifted storyteller and performer, Kaleo draws audiences into each experience she creates—opening hearts, expanding minds, and inspiring women to reclaim their innate power to shape the lives and worlds they desire. With more than 35 years in women's spiritual transformation, Kaleo's path has evolved from her own healing journey to her role today as a Spiritual Thought Leader and Awakening Guide. She shares her wisdom through speaking, performing, private mentoring, and her beloved Aloha Sacred Sisterhood Circles, where women gather in community and spiritual partnership. Kaleo is also a contributing author of The Complete Guide to Acupressure and a recording artist of Ulana: The Way of the Heart. www.theheartofaloha.com

The Case for Slow Visibility: Slowing Down, Speaking Truth, and Building a Magazine that Brings Women Together with Lena Gosik-Wolfe

In a world that prizes speed, constant posting, and viral moments, slow visibility can feel radical. Lena Gosik-Wolfe, founder of Nora Magazine, shares how embracing intentional, thoughtful presence can transform the way we show up in our work, our communities, and our lives. In this session, Lena will explore the philosophy behind Nora Magazine—a publication designed to connect, inspire, and celebrate women through storytelling, conversation, and reflection. Attendees will learn how slowing down can create space for authentic voices, foster meaningful connections, and build a platform that truly serves its audience. This talk is for anyone looking to step off the noised-driven treadmill, speak their truth, and cultivate visibility that is purposeful, sustainable, and deeply resonant.

Lena Gosik-Wolfe is a brand strategist, creative director, and founder of Lena Design Studio and Nora Magazine, a publication redefining business media for women entrepreneurs. Through her signature process, The Brand Glow Up®, she helps women align vision, voice, values, and visual identity to lead with clarity, confidence, and credibility. Nora Magazine, launched in 2025, addresses visibility, access, and authentic representation, sharing the real stories of women building business and legacy. Lena also mentors emerging entrepreneurs, offers pro bono brand strategy support, and champions animal welfare through fostering and rescue. Her mission is to help women see themselves as leaders. www.noramagazine.com

"Joining the Prosper Network has been one of the best decisions I've ever made for my business. I've made my investment back more than 10x over in just the first year. But beyond the financial return, the quality of connections, the genuine support, and the collaborative opportunities have been invaluable. I'm so happy to have found a community that values authenticity, generosity, and reciprocity as much as I do. If you're an established woman entrepreneur looking to scale through strategic, meaningful relationships, this is your community."

"The Prosper Network is a wonderful place for connections, learning, support, and growth. And the mission of Generosity, Reciprocity, and Expansion are aligned with my core values."
