ABOUT US

The Age of Enlightenment produced a legacy of creations which was a determining factor in the choice of their name "Edition Bougainville," however it was the reference to an emblematic figure, Louis-Antoine de Bougainville, which confirmed this choice.

A relentless explorer, Louis-Antoine de Bougainville, was the first French navigator, during the 18th century, to travel around the world with a team of botanists and astronomers. Back from these long voyages, he would present precious drawings and details of his discoveries.

Similar to his insatiable thirst to discover, Edition Bougainville continually creates and explores new designs.
