Why Tummy Time?

It develops strong muscles, improves coordination and promotes healthy brain development. But many babies don't enjoy it! Top tips:

1. Lay baby down and ensure their hands are by their heads.
2. Lay them on a rolled blanket, enabling them to move their head and look around.
3. Roll a ball, shake a shaker, hold up a mirror, lie down with them – have fun! Make it part of your routine. Little and often is perfect.

FUTURE LIFE

Future Life are Will writing specialists for parents of young children. Helping thousands of parents protect the ones they love.

When you have little ones who are financially dependent upon you, getting your financial and emotional wishes in place legally is crucial – to avoid lengthy disputes and financial worries should anything happen.

We're a family business with children of our own, so we know how important it is to talk to someone who really understands your situation.

Important reasons why parents need to make a Will:

- 1 You choose who would look after your children.
As well as taking care of your assets, a Will allows you to nominate who would look after your children. It is the ONLY way to appoint legal guardians. If guardians aren't nominated, social services could make those decisions.
- 2 You specify where your wealth goes.
If you don't have a Will in place, it's a very real possibility that your assets wouldn't go where you would want them to – and there could be lengthy waits for your financial arrangements to be processed through Probate, while the children still need financial and emotional support. Having your affairs in order is key – even if you are married, but especially if you're not married to your partner.
- 3 Who gets the family heirlooms?
What charities are important to you? Do you want to leave any money to friends or distant family members? Writing a Will is the only way to ensure your wishes are achieved.

Future Life Wills are offering FREE Wills. Scan the QR code to get yours.

BIRTH TRAUMA

It can feel unbearable, but help is available!

by Dr Kim Thomas

After Daisy had pushed for two hours without success, doctors decided that they needed to use forceps to help her baby out. She'd already had a long, painful labour, and now the room was filling with people, leaving Daisy feeling frightened and out of control. Her baby daughter was eventually born safely, though back-to-back. Shortly afterwards, however, Daisy had a haemorrhage. She felt tired and exhausted and found it difficult to breastfeed. At home, her stitches became infected.

She also began having flashbacks to the birth and found it difficult to see anything that reminded her of what had happened, such as tv shows involving birth. In addition, Daisy felt that she wasn't a good mother because she still couldn't do simple things like sit up in bed to feed her daughter.

Birth trauma is the name we use for what happened to Daisy.

It describes the experience of being so traumatised by birth that the memory of what happened continues to affect you every day. This often takes the form of flashbacks to the birth, feeling intensely anxious all the time or avoiding anything that reminds you of the birth.

In some women, the trauma symptoms are severe enough to qualify for a diagnosis of post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), which affects one in 25 women after birth – about 30,000 a year in the UK. Sometimes, fathers or partners can also be so traumatised by the experience of watching birth that they develop birth trauma.

When you're a new mother, already struggling with the demands of caring for a newborn, having birth trauma on top can make life feel unbearable. The mums who come to us at the Birth Trauma Association tell us that the constant sense of anxiety – watching over their baby to make sure it doesn't die, feeling frightened to leave the house – leaves them feeling isolated. Some feel guilty because they find it hard to bond with their baby. Others tell us that family and friends don't understand why they still feel traumatised and insist that they just need to "move on".

Fortunately, help is available. In England there are new maternal mental health teams to support women with birth trauma, and there is also the option of self-referring to therapy if you need it from the NHS Talking Therapies service (outside England you will need a referral to therapy from your GP or health visitor).

Two forms of therapy: trauma-focused CBT and EMDR (Eye Movement Desensitisation and Reprocessing) are very effective at treating trauma symptoms.

Daisy was initially worried about receiving therapy because she was scared the counsellor would think she was a bad mother, but she found it helpful. She also benefited from a birth debrief with the hospital, which enabled her to get answers to her questions about what happened during the birth. Most maternity units now provide a birth debriefing service.

If you'd like to share your experience with someone who understands, you can email the Birth Trauma Association's peer supporters on support@birthtraumaassociation.org.uk or join our Facebook group (facebook.com/groups/theBTA).

Women tell us that having the opportunity to talk to others who have been through a similar experience makes a huge difference – and some even say that it saved their life.

Dr Kim Thomas is CEO of the Birth Trauma Association, a charity that supports mothers and fathers affected by traumatic birth. She is also author of the recent parliamentary report into birth trauma.

HALLOWEEN HANDPRINT

CRAFT ACTIVITY

Make a pumpkin keepsake craft with your toddlers, preschoolers or older kids this Halloween. Turn their handprints into a ghost, and Jack-o'-Lantern.

SUPPLIES:

- Air Dry Clay
- Paint
- Drinking Straw
- Craft Stick
- Green Ribbon
- Parchment Paper

TIP: Make sure to use parchment paper when rolling out the dough. This will stop the dough from sticking to the table and will make it easy for you to transfer it to another area to let it dry for 24 hours.

HOW TO MAKE:

STEP 1: Roll the clay out on parchment paper until it's about ½ inch thick. Let your little one press their hand onto the clay. You may want to help by applying a bit of pressure to their hand to make sure the handprint makes a clear impression.

STEP 2: Use a craft stick to cut the shape of a pumpkin, making sure your child's handprint is in the middle of the pumpkin. Smooth out the edges of the pumpkin with your fingers (use a bit of water, if necessary).

STEP 3: Use a drinking straw to punch a hole in the stem.

STEP 4: Transfer the clay to a dry area. Let it stand for 24 hours until it is dry.

STEP 5: Use acrylic paint to turn the handprint into a Halloween design. It can be a ghost, Jack-o'-Lantern, Frankenstein etc. Paint the rest of the pumpkin orange and the stem brown.

STEP 6: Thread a green ribbon through the hole in the stem.

"I'm sooooo bored!"

by Laura Tristram

SHOULD BOREDOM BE PART OF YOUR CHILD'S DAILY ROUTINE?

When you're a parent, life can feel non-stop. We're in a constant struggle to keep our little ones healthily entertained, rushing between various groups and clubs, with day trips squeezed in between work and household chores.

We dread hearing those words slip from our children's mouths... "I'm bored!"

However, new research from the Child Mind Institute suggests that allowing children to experience boredom can actually be beneficial for both them and their parents.

IS BOREDOM BAD?

Parents, influenced by societal narratives, often perceive boredom as an unproductive and negative state. Being busy is often equated with success, leading to the belief that boredom signifies laziness.

It's time to rethink this notion.

Boredom can play a significant role in children's development and mental health, forcing them to use their imagination and creativity to entertain themselves. This self-directed play fosters curiosity, helps them discover their interests, and enhances their innovative thinking.

Research even shows that engaging in monotonous tasks can boost creativity when later performing creative activities.

PROBLEM-SOLVING AND SOCIAL SKILLS

The ability to persist is crucial for facing future obstacles and cultivating a proactive mindset. Dealing with the "problem" of boredom enhances their problem-solving skills and self-reliance, fostering a sense of initiative and independence.

'Free play', where children engage in unstructured activities of their own choosing, allows children to interact with peers, developing essential social skills like negotiation, collaboration, and communication. These skills are vital for forming relationships and working well with others.

Successfully finding ways to entertain themselves boosts children's confidence, helping them take risks and explore new things, thereby strengthening their self-esteem.

FREE TO 'BE'

By giving children the free time to 'be', we can improve mental health as it reduces anxiety and stress. It gives them the opportunity to process thoughts and emotions and engage with their surroundings. These periods of boredom can lead to more creative activities.

HOW TO INTRODUCE MORE BOREDOM

1. Remove Structured Activities

Encourage children to create their own activities on an "activity detox" day, helping them explore their interests and creativity.

2. Keep It Simple

Offer materials like blocks, art supplies, and household items to inspire creativity and free play.

3. Less Screen, More Space

Take your child to open spaces and allow them to explore independently, fostering a sense of independence and creativity. Limit the use of electronic devices and encourage imaginative play instead.

4. Be The Change

Show them how to change by engaging in creative activities yourself and limiting your own screen time.

Experiencing boredom helps children develop crucial life skills like problem-solving and creativity. Boredom also helps children build tolerance for less enjoyable experiences and encourages mindfulness, self-reflection, and interpersonal communication skills.

It's a valuable lesson for all: alongside your to-do list, create a 'let's be' list. Make time to be mindfully present with those around you. Amidst the rushing around, take a moment to walk and clear your head. These idle moments without a to-do list are essential for mental clarity and happiness. So, the next time your child complains of being bored, embrace the opportunity to foster their creativity, growth, and wellbeing.
