ENGLISH VERSION

ÉDITORIAL

Students in the fourth year of Biotechnology and Chemistry at the CYTech engineering school in Cergy, we spent several months to realize our project: the creation of a series of magazines highlighting the cultural and tourist heritage of the Île-de-France region. In total, we created 8 magazines, each corresponding to a department of this region.

Aware of the challenges involved in discovering such a rich territory, we have undertaken this project to promote our region during our student mobility in Italy. The magazines "Don't miss anything about Île-de-France" have the objective of listing the must-see sites of each department, while highlighting lesser known but equally interesting places to explore. Of course, this selection is not exhaustive!

This edition focuses on the department of Seine-et-Marne. As far as possible, you will find the website of each place and its access on Google Maps by hovering over its title and address respectively.

To find out more about the other departments of the region, we invite you to go to the last page of this magazine: you will find a list of all available magazines, as well as a link to our website and Instagram account.

Enjoy your reading!

SEINE-ET-MARNE

HISTORY AND GEOGRAPHY

The traces of the first inhabitants of the Seine-et-Marne date back to prehistory. Subsequently, the Sénons, a Gallic tribe, occupied the area before the arrival of the Romans, who built roads still visible today.

The Middle Ages then saw the rise of the seigneuries and the construction of castles like Blandy-les-Tours, then the Renaissance brought architectural elegance with the castles of Fontainebleau and Vaux-le-Vicomte.

The arms of the Seine-et-Marne are thus blasonnent: “of azure sown with flowers of gold lily, with two fasces wavy of silver”.

The department is the largest in the Île-de-France region, covering an area of approximately 5,915 km².

The department has a great diversity of landscapes, its majority being agricultural plains and plateaus, such as Brie and Gâtinais. It is also crossed by several important rivers, including the Seine, the Marne, and the Yonne.

Seine-et-Marne is also home to several important forests and natural areas, such as the Forêt de Fontainebleau and the Forêt de Ferrières.

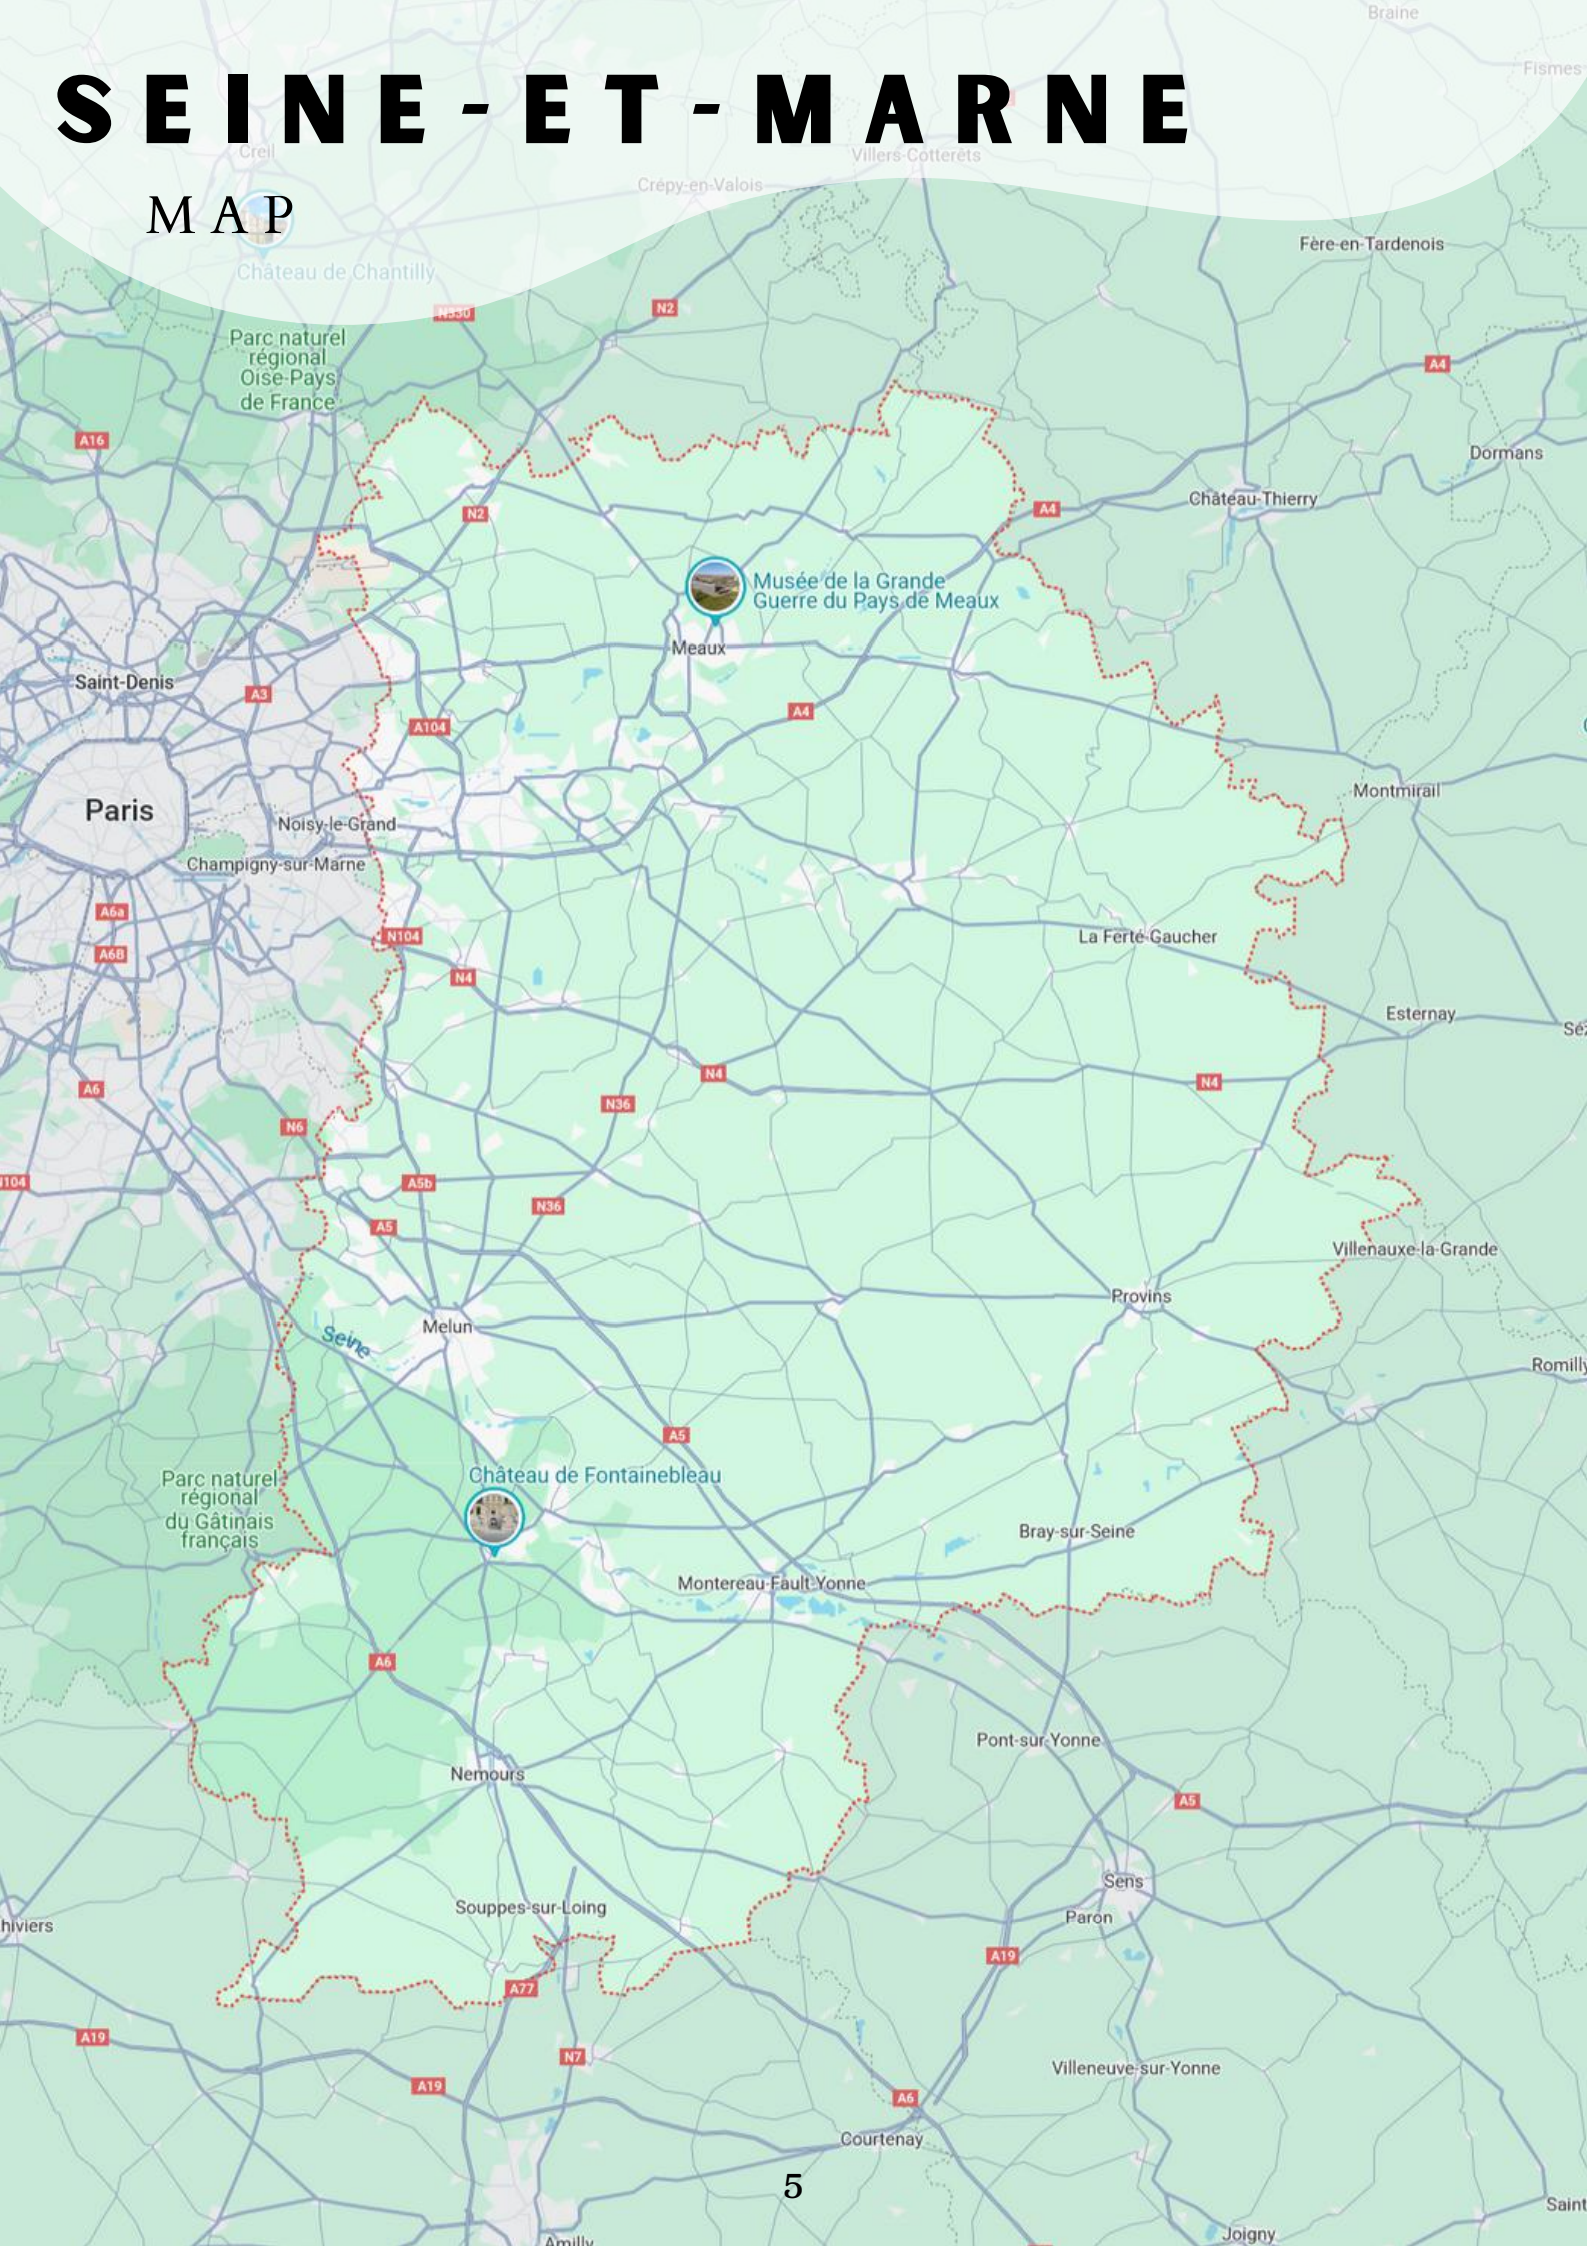

The department combines extensive rural areas with major urban hubs, and its proximity to Paris makes it an area well served by transport infrastructure,

In summary, the Seine-et-Marne offers a balanced mix of agricultural landscapes, forests, rivers, and urban areas, with a rich natural and cultural history, while being closely linked to the Parisian agglomeration.

Villages: picturesque and original

Between art villages, medieval towns and villages dedicated to leisure, the Seine-et-Marne is full of surprises. It's up to you to discover them!

Barbizon: the impressionist village

Follow in the footsteps of pre-Impressionist painting in the village of Barbizon, famous worldwide for having inspired Jean-François Millet's painting, L'Angélus.

Located on the edge of the forest of Fontainebleau, the village gained its fame thanks to the landscape painters of the nineteenth century such as Théodore Rousseau, Jean-Baptiste Corot, Charles-François Daubigny and Jean-François Millet.

Considered one of the precursors of Impressionism, the art movement of the Barbizon school flourished from 1830 to 1875, attracting artists who came to seek the tranquility and natural beauty of this peaceful village.

Still today, Barbizon seduces lovers of painting and romanticism.

With its beautiful villas adorned with ivy waterfalls, its bucolic inns, its cobbled and flowery streets, and its atypical chapel, Barbizon ticks all the boxes of the village of character.

Freely accessible.

Provins: the medieval town

Classified as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, the medieval city of Provins invites you to a real trip to the Middle Ages, animated by visits, historical shows and great events.

In the 12th and 13th centuries, Provins reached its peak thanks to the famous Champagne Fairs. The urban plan was then designed to accommodate many merchants, and the presence of waterways favored economic activity, especially for drapers, parchments and butchers.

The imposing ramparts, real architectural masterpieces of the thirteenth century, are erected to protect the inhabitants and wealth, while affirming the power of the counts.

Provins offers exceptional shows and monuments to discover throughout the year, described below.

Free access, except to visit certain monuments and to do other paid activities.

Cesar Tower

Emblematic monument of the medieval city of Provins, this 12th century keep impresses with its size and shape.

The Cesar Tower served as a watchtower, refuge and prison. The prisoners were locked in narrow turrets and dungeons, often in total darkness. Today, it houses the bells of the collegiate church of Saint-Quiriace.

The Tithe Barn

Thanks to an audio-guided tour, the Tithe Barn of Provins offers an immersive staging of the Champagne Fairs that took place in Provins. You will discover the trades of the Middle Ages practiced in Provins. In the sixteenth century, this place served as a warehouse for tithing, the tax on crops, hence its name.

The Saint-Ayoul Priory

The origins of this architectural ensemble date back to 996, when relics attributed to Saint Ayoul were discovered. The chapel, too small to accommodate the many pilgrims, led Count Thibaut I of Champagne to build, in the middle of the 11th century, a parish church and a priory for the Benedictines of the Order of Saint Benedict.

Sold as a national property at the end of the 18th century, the site hosted a sub-prefecture, a national gendarmerie, the cavalry, and the army. Since 2003, continuous efforts have been made to rehabilitate and restore this monument, now classified as a Historic Monument.

Underground

It is very likely that these subsurfaces were initially used as a quarry to extract a specific type of fuller's earth for degreasing woollen cloth.

Subsequently, these cavities served as refuges and warehouses during the Champagne Fairs, as well as places for cultural meetings. Ancient inscriptions on the walls also attest to their use by Freemasons.

Moret-sur-Loing: one of the most beautiful detours in France

Medieval town, Moret-sur-Loing is proud of its roots that still structure its architecture today, with its royal square, ramparts and keep of the twelfth century. Although all the ramparts and turrets are no longer present, the gates of Bourgogne and Samois and the urbanism of the city center testify beautifully to its medieval past.

As you stroll through the city, you will discover Renaissance facades, the Maison du sucre d'orge, as well as the house and tomb of Alfred Sisley.

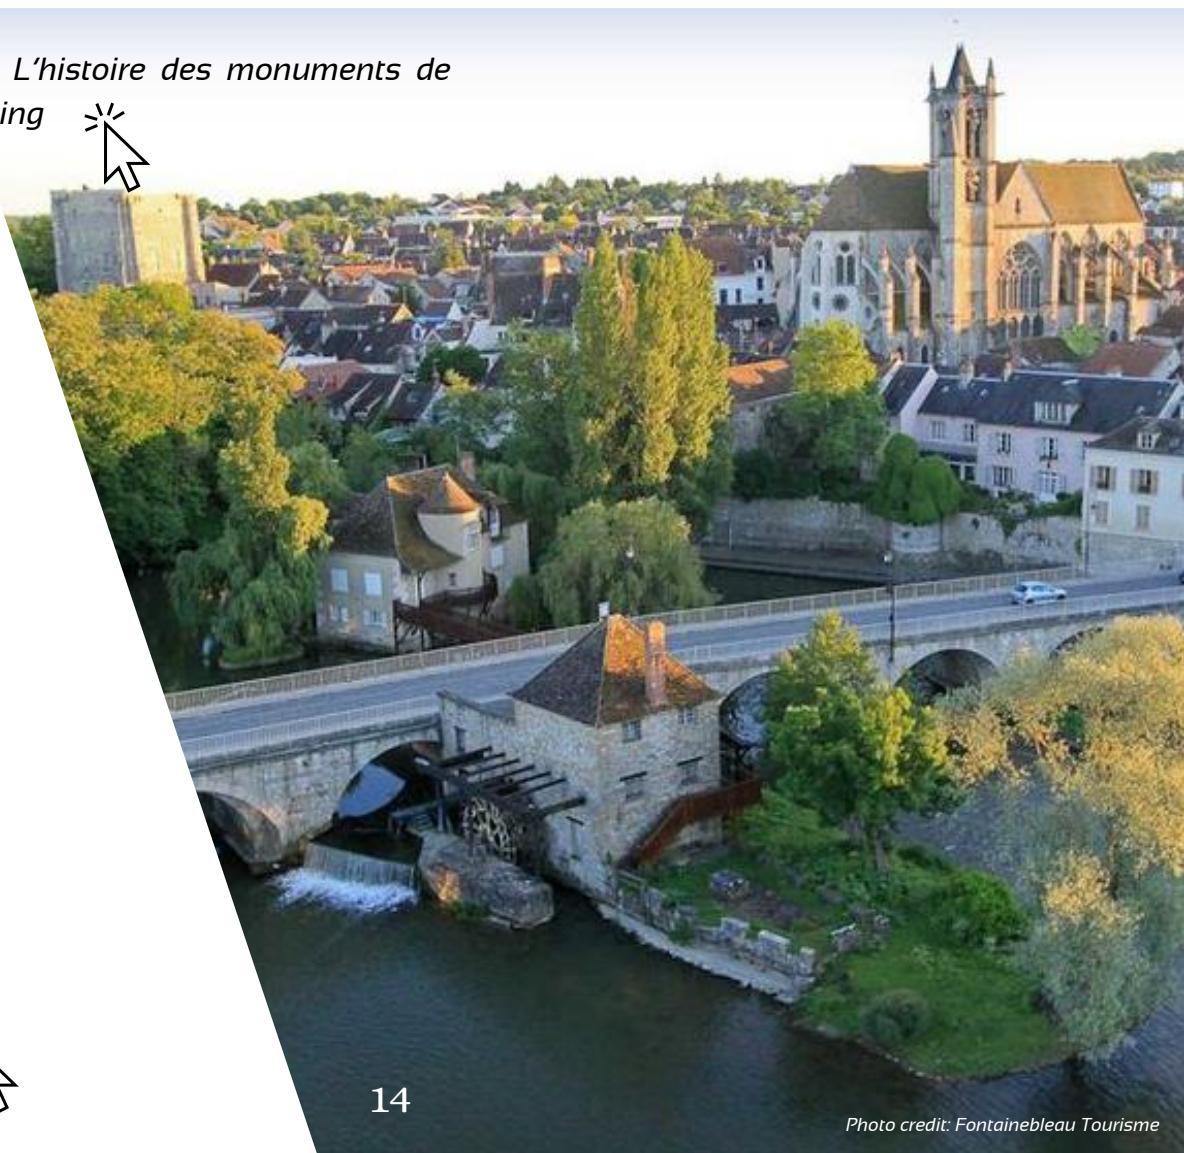

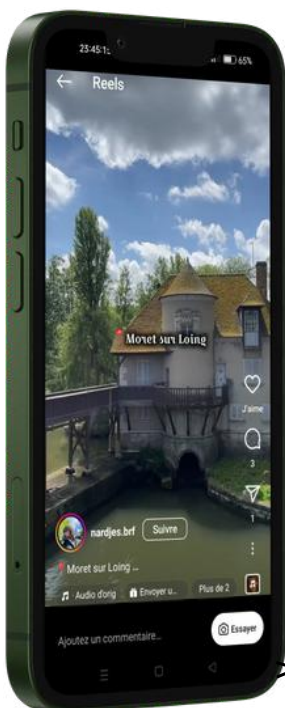

Many tourists come to admire the sites painted by Sisley, some of which are still preserved: the bridge over the Loing, the Notre-Dame church, the keep, and the towpaths.

Enjoy guided tours and let yourself be carried away in the small streets or along the banks. Hiking, canoeing, boat arrival at the port, museums and various festivities await you.

Freely accessible all year.

Domains and castles: a rich historical heritage

At the crossroads of architecture and landscape, a perfect harmony emerges around each historical monument of the Seine-et-Marne. Immerse yourself in the unmissable heritage of this department steeped in history!

Castle of Blandy

The visit opens with the presentation of objects from archaeological excavations, revealing the pre-existing populations but also the daily life of the inhabitants of the castle.

The ascent of the Keep (147 steps) offers a magnificent view of the surroundings and continues with the walkway, as close as possible to the six towers. Visit the Auditorium, witness of the banquets of the Middle Ages, and the weapon room of the Tower of the Guards.

Throughout the year, the castle comes alive to the rhythm of many shows and events.

Open from Wednesday to Monday from 1pm to 6:30pm, in February (holidays in the Paris region) and from April to October. Opening hours are subject to change depending on events: access all opening hours here.

Castle of Fontainebleau

An imposing building mixing classical and Renaissance styles, the Château de Fontainebleau is much more than a witness to Napoleon's imperial adventure. With its 1,500 pieces, it tells a multitude of stories and offers a real immersion in the past.

Immerse yourself in the apartments of eminent figures of the court, such as Marie-Antoinette, Pope Pius VII, Madame de Maintenon, Napoleon I or Napoleon III. The splendor of the two chapels and the richness of the four museums will also dazzle you.

Outside, discover the courtyards and gardens: the Cour d'Honneur with its famous horseshoe staircase, witness to the farewell of the Emperor; the Grand Parterre, the gardens, the ponds populated with carps and the Grand Canal invite you to walk.

Don't miss the many events offered throughout the year: exhibitions, shows, conferences or historical re-enactments.

Opening of the Castle from Wednesday to Monday from 9:30am to 6pm (early closing at 5pm from October to March). Closed on 01/01, 01/05 and 25/12.

The courses and gardens are open every day from 9am to 7pm (early closing at 6pm in March, April and October; and 5pm from November to February). The park is open every day, 24/7.

Castle of Champs-sur-Marne

A masterpiece of French classical architecture, the Château de Champs-sur-Marne, built between 1703 and 1708, is a superb illustration of the French art of living in the 18th century.

Over the centuries, it has hosted many eminent personalities, including the Marquise de Pompadour, and more recently, the President of the French Republic, who used it as an official residence for foreign heads of state.

The richly decorated rooms reflect the refinement and taste of the various owners who succeeded each other. Today, the Château de Champs-sur-Marne is open to the public and offers a fascinating immersion in the history and lifestyle of the 18th century.

Explore the many rooms of the castle, stroll through the splendid park of 85 hectares, or participate in cultural events and temporary exhibitions organized throughout the year!

Open from Wednesday to Monday from 10am to 12:15pm and from 1:30pm to 6pm. Early closing at 5pm from 01/10 to 31/05. Find the calendar of exceptional closures of the domain here.

CASTLES

TO BE DISCOVERED

Like many Île-de-France departments, the Seine-et-Marne is full of castles, most of which are already mentioned in the Must-See section of this magazine. Below, extend your reading with a non-exhaustive selection of other castles to discover!

Castle of Brie-Comte-Robert

Built in the 12th century and now in ruins, this castle offers partially restored remains, revealing the castral architecture with its 12th century defenses and residential areas with exceptional comfort for the time.

As you walk around the castle, you will discover the remains of the restored towers, the moat, then the central courtyard.

The Heritage Interpretation Centre welcomes you to help you understand this building with more complex architecture than it seems. The exhibition reveals the daily life of the lords and more modest inhabitants who lived in the castle for eight centuries.

Finally, the remains of the seigneurial hotel allow you to walk freely through the medieval rooms.

Open on Wednesdays from 2pm to 5pm, on Saturdays from 2:30pm to 6pm, and on Sundays from 10am to 12:30pm and from 2:30pm to 6pm.

Free admission.

Castle of Montceaux

The castle, whose origins date back to the early 12th century under the reign of Louis VII, was a major place of power in the Renaissance and a central actor in the history of France.

Emblematic of this period, it reached its peak in the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. Nicknamed "Castle of the 3 Queens", it was occupied by Catherine de Médicis, Gabrielle d'Estrées and Marie de Médicis. The prince of Conti was the last resident.

Open only by appointment. Free access without appointment during events.

Prices: 5€ (free visit) or 10€ (guided visit).

Île-de-France Museum of Prehistory

Immerse yourself in 600,000 years of history and discover the major stages of prehistory and protohistory in Île-de-France.

The museum's itinerary, organized chronologically, explores the evolution of man, from the Australopithecus to the Homo sapiens. It also presents the flora of the different periods of prehistory, and highlights the work of archaeological excavations. The museum's archaeological collections contain more than 2 million objects, of which 3,400 are part of the permanent collections.

The main circuit chronologically retraces the main lines of regional prehistory, while the deepening circuit offers four additional rooms to complete the main route.

Open every day, except Wednesday morning and Saturday morning, from 10am to 12.30pm and from 2pm to 5.30pm. Closed at 6pm in July and August. Closed on 01/01, 01/05, 24/12, 25/12 and 31/12.

CHEESE

A TRUE FRENCH PASSION

France is a country of cheese enthusiasts, with an average consumption of nearly 24 kg per person each year. Cheese plays a central role in French gastronomy, bringing comfort and conviviality. It accompanies pasta and pizza as well as the end of meals, and can even be the main element of a dish.

With more than 1,200 varieties of cheese, France offers an impressive range: raw or pasteurized milk, matured or spread, cow, goat, and many more. Thus, one could taste a different cheese every day for several years!

BRIE

Although it was not counted among the 10 most appreciated cheeses of the French, Brie de Meaux was crowned "King of Cheeses" at the Congress of Vienna in 1815.

Described as an essential figure of the trays, Brie de Meaux benefits from the Appellation d'Origine Contrôlée (AOC) and the Appellation d'Origine Protégée (AOP) and is mainly produced in Île-de-France region!

Donnemarie-Dontilly

Nestled among woods, valleys and fields, Donnemarie-Dontilly is a character village known for its charm and authenticity. The commune results from the twinning of two very close but rival cities: Donnemarie-en-Montois and Dontilly, founded respectively in the 9th and 12th centuries.

Medieval village, its medieval walls counted 20 turrets and 4 gates. Donnemarie-en-Montois was once animated by many craftsmen and traders, while Dontilly was mainly populated by farmers.

The medieval garden and the cloister of Donnemarie-Dontilly are part of a parish complex among the best preserved in France.

Flagy

During the 2023 edition of the French Favourite Village, the charming village of Flagy represented the Île-de-France. Crossed by the river Orvanne, it is embellished with many bridges and footbridges to discover the village from different angles. Flagy, with its picturesque character, will not fail to seduce you.

Free access all year.

DID YOU KNOW?

Among the legends whispering in Flagy, one of the most intriguing concerns the weathervane on the roof of the church. This curious weather vane is decorated with a rooster and a pig's head.

The story goes back to the time of the Hundred Years War, when a dark epidemic of Black Death ravaged the region. The inhabitants of Flagy, terrified by the contagion, refused to welcome the sick from a nearby village, leaving them to their fate.

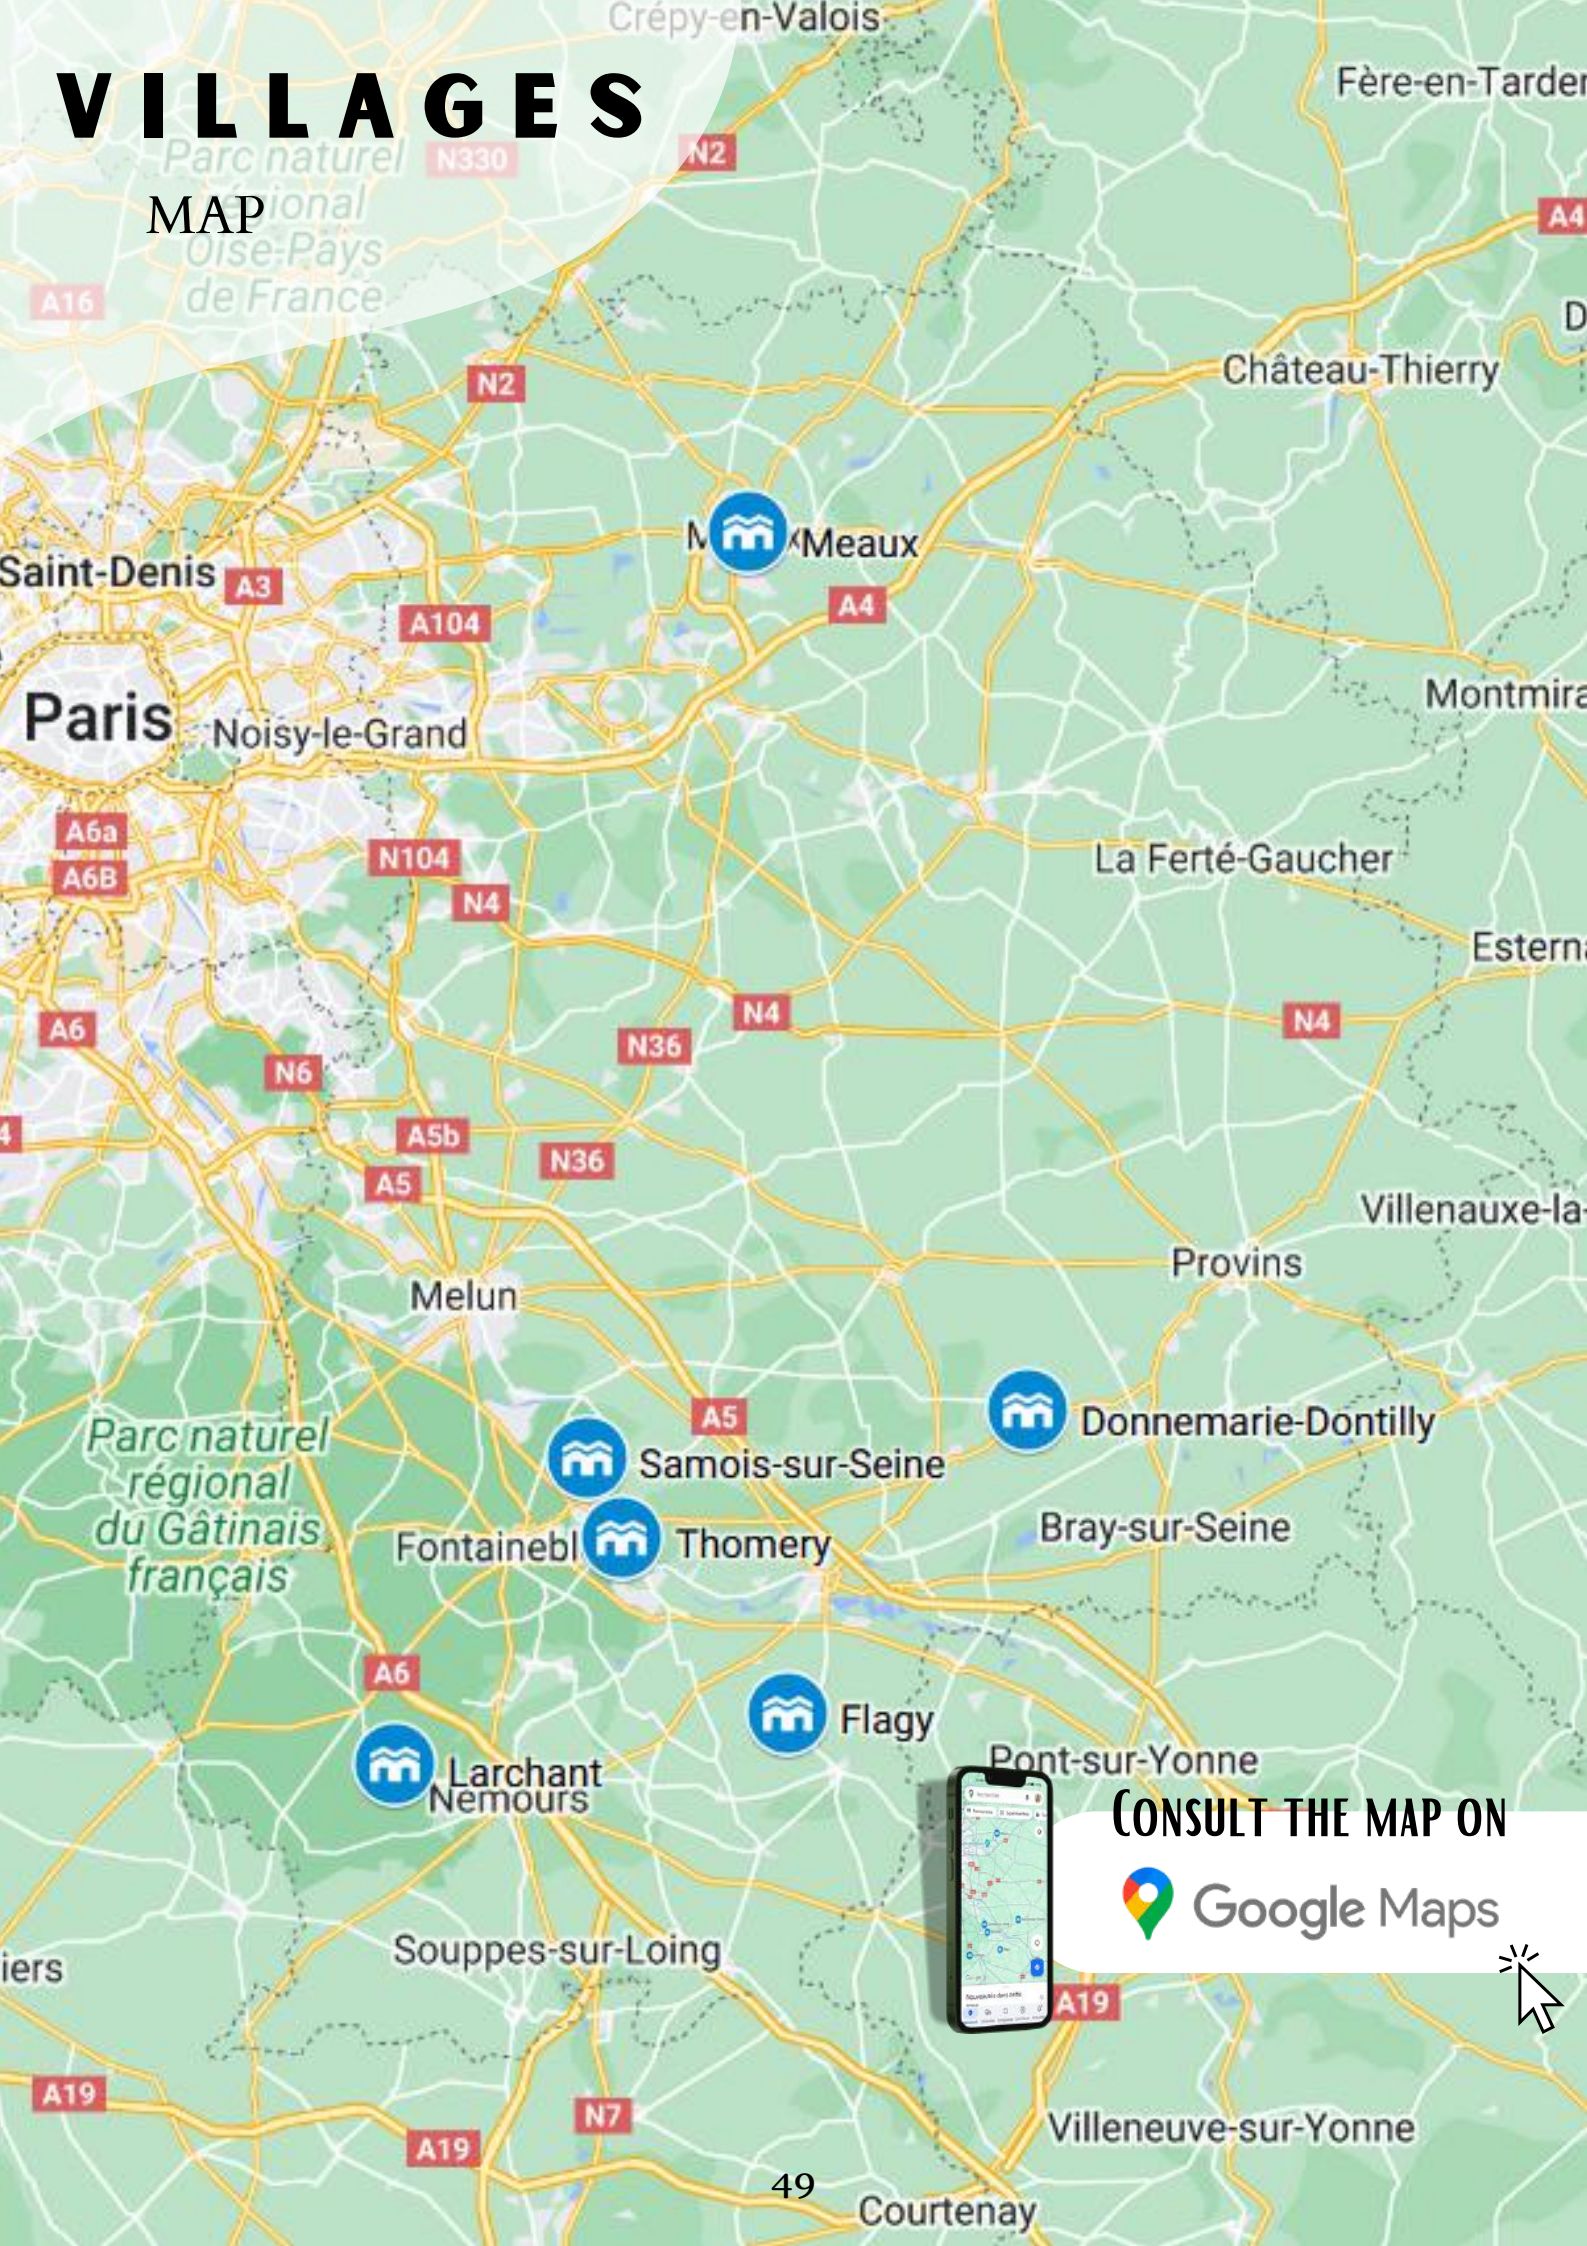

As punishment for this lack of compassion, the bishop of the region decided to mark this fault forever. He ordered the installation of a pig-shaped weather vane on the roof of the church, a constant reminder of the villagers' selfishness.

Since then, this strange weather vane and its history have become an integral part of Flagy's heritage, reminding everyone of the importance of solidarity and humanity in times of crisis.
