

THE IKATAN

duCK

A dimly lit living room with a large potted plant, a leather chair, a wooden table, and a patterned rug. The room is decorated with dark curtains and a small fan on a side table. The lighting is warm and focused on the central area.

I want to reconnect you to a memory of the past with The Ikatan dUCK.
The Eid collection is a
homage to tikar
mengkuang where strong connections are made.
May our iteration of the iconic woven structure
foster moments of closeness and fortifies your bond.

Love, D.

THE IKATAN
duCK

Life happened on the tikar mengkuang and for decades, this is where families bond. The Ikatán dUCk reconnects us to a memory of our past, a tradition that weaves families and friends together.

Made from Satin Silk, each scarf comes with a weave (kelarai) and silver dUCk charm.

We bond and we connect with each other on the tikar mengkuang, and on a similar note, this artform motif on Ready-To-Wear is fashion that encourages the exchange between people.

The Ikatán dUCk embraces a warm, contemporary feel for this season of togetherness. Iterations of the iconic woven structure is accentuated in the Luxe edition with detailed beading and weaving techniques for a refined touch.

A woman is the central figure, wearing a light purple or lilac-colored ikatan set. The top has a high, gathered neckline and long, voluminous sleeves with ruffled cuffs. The matching skirt is long and features a subtle, repeating floral pattern. She is also wearing a matching ikatan headscarf and silver high-heeled sandals. The setting is an interior space with dark wood paneling and heavy black curtains. To the left, a floor lamp with a large, fringed, cream-colored shade is lit. To the right, a traditional wooden chair with a curved back is visible. The background wall has a mural of tropical foliage. The overall lighting is warm and focused on the model.
