WORKING: ON MYSELF BY MYSELF FOR MYSELF

Self Worth

There is an undeniable cord in which we are all connected. There is a spectrum of darkness or negative thinking that holds us back in life and a higher frequency or a “living in the light,” where we glow our best. Consciously we have the choice to live at either end of this spectrum. Because our lives are made up of many moving factors it can be difficult to understand and navigate at times, especially when embarking upon a new journey, it can unquestionably shake us. It is no small task to break the work, eat, sleep, and repeat pattern that the U.S. has ingrained into our nature.

My deepest desire in this guide, is to impart the wisdom and lessons I’ve learned through my experiences. When taking on a journey of this magnitude, I will tell you emphatically, it takes courage, and this courage begins in our minds and ends in our hearts.

This guide allows you a moment to breathe, take inventory, and truly think through fears, limitations, and emotions to clear your path to sovereignty.

Whether it be Merida or another country, I beckon unto you ... take a chance and change your life for the better.
