Ghost Walks of Niagara & Hamilton

We feature the most interesting historic and haunted places in Hamilton and Niagara. With vivid ghost stories following the traditional art of storytelling. And amazingly strange "Ghost Guides" for their unique character and ability. Yes, we believe in ghosts. As a way to connect people to the rich history... and because it's spooky!

NATURE'S SUPERHEROES:

LIFE

STORIES OF AMAZING SPECIES

AT THE LIMITS

Eye of Science / Science Source

Life is full of unexpected wonders. Over billions of years, living things have evolved from simple cells into an awe-inspiring array of life forms—a spectacle of colours, textures, behaviours, specialized parts and exacting skills. Some species are familiar. But others are so amazing that they test the limits of our imagination.

No matter how extraordinary certain plants and animals seem to us, their unusual features often address the most ordinary of tasks: To reproduce, breathe and move around. To sense the world. To find food and safety. The living things you are about to see respond to these basic challenges in extremely inventive ways.

Book your class field trip today to see this amazing exhibit. January 27 to April 21, 2024. Contact us at fieldtrips@rbg.ca

Outdoor education offers endless benefits

Step into Nature's Classroom!

The Niagara Peninsula Conservation Authority (NPCA) offers curriculum-linked and recreational outdoor adventure programming for elementary and secondary students at conservation areas across the Niagara Peninsula Watershed (Niagara region, parts of Hamilton and Haldimand).

Step into nature with your class or group at Ball's Falls Conservation Area (Lincoln) or Binbrook Conservation Area (Hamilton) for hands-on environmental education designed by OCT-certified educators.

These programs explore themes such as biodiversity, history and heritage, water and air quality, and environmental science. Looking for adventure? There are also activities such as archery and orienteering.

Benefits of learning within nature:

Whether in a play-based, child-led, or structured setting, outdoor learning is beneficial to childhood development. When kids spend time outdoors, they are encouraged to use their imagination and engage with the natural world. Immersive outdoor learning and play empowers them to explore places like forests, creeks, and meadows, and discover habitats and the animals that call them home.

Students learn resiliency and adaptability when they prepare to spend time in nature and consider the impacts and implications of changing weather and terrain conditions.

With an endless list of benefits, it is important for teachers and schools in traditional settings to incorporate, support, and fund outdoor learning, especially in urban areas with limited access to nature.

It is equally important that parents and caregivers explore new ways of incorporating outdoor learning, through daily activities within family or after-school groups, or by enrolling children in nature school, day camps or outdoor learning programs.

Learn more about NPCA's educational programs at npca.ca/learning. Follow @NPCA_Ontario.

NATURE'S SUPERHEROES:

LIFE

AT THE LIMITS

Eye of Science / Science Source

Life is full of unexpected wonders. Over billions of years, living things have evolved from simple cells into an awe-inspiring array of life forms—a spectacle of colours, textures, behaviours, specialized parts and exacting skills. Some species are familiar. But others are so amazing that they test the limits of our imagination.

No matter how extraordinary certain plants and animals seem to us, their unusual features often address the most ordinary of tasks: To reproduce, breathe and move around. To sense the world. To find food and safety. The living things you are about to see respond to these basic challenges in extremely inventive ways.

Book your class field trip today to see this amazing exhibit. January 27 to April 21, 2024. Contact us at fieldtrips@rbg.ca
