QUARTZ

Choosing your perfect worktop can sometimes feel a little overwhelming. With such a wide choice of materials available, it can be difficult to make a decision. Whilst some people may be drawn towards natural, organic granite to add a luxurious feel to their kitchen, others may want a worktop that is extremely durable and hard wearing. As a result, quartz has seen a significant increase in popularity over the years and is an ideal alternative to granite. It is perfect for those who want the visual appeal of natural stone along with the many benefits and robustness of an engineered material.

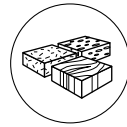

Quartz is a natural mineral which is combined with resin and other materials to create the quartz slabs that are available at Mayfair Worktops. When it is used for kitchen worktops it is extremely hard-wearing and durable. It is also non-porous, meaning that germs and bacteria cannot get into the surface. It will not pick up stains as some granites can and has the added advantage that you only really need a mild mix of soap and water to wipe away any mess on your worktop. Quartz is man-made, and is therefore more controlled and consistent than granite. There is a much wider range of colours available than in other natural materials, from calm, muted tones to bold, bright shades. The only real limit is your imagination.

We have an excellent selection of quartz worktops and we supply all the major brands such as Silestone, Technistone, Compac, Cimstone, Caesarstone and Quartek, which are available and ready to go in our warehouses. This durable material is extremely hygienic and hard-wearing, giving you the perfect worktop for your home whatever your style.

PORCELAIN

Porcelain worktops have grown in popularity over the last 10 years, they can also be known as sintered stone. Because porcelain worktops are engineered, the sky is the limit with the colour and design options that this stone has to offer. Porcelain worktops provide a great look for the on trend, modern kitchen designs to the traditional kitchen designs.

Porcelain is a strategic mix of ceramic, porcelain and other polymers and considered to be one of the strongest materials available on the market. The material is made from the same raw materials found in glass, porcelain and quartz but what really sets this stone apart is the way in which it is manufactured. A process called sinterized particle technology is used which subjects this stone to extreme heat and pressure, this process mimics what would take mother nature thousands of years to do in a matter of seconds providing an ultra-compact surface which has countless benefits.

All of our worktops are cut from premium grade slabs provided by brands we trust. Our Porcelain slabs come from Dekton, Neolith, Laminam and Quartek who we have very close brand relationships with. Their quality combined with our state of the art factory process including CNC technology and polishing means that the outcome will be a modern and sleek worktop design that will see you through for life.

Aside from providing an ultra on-trend look, Porcelain worktops actually have tonnes of benefits. Due to its non-porous properties, this stone is completely scratch, stain and heat resistant. Water simply slides off it making it easy to clean. The nature of this stone means that it also carries antibacterial properties as germs and bacteria cannot penetrate the surface.

GRANITE

Granite is a hard wearing stone that is extremely popular due to its organic good looks and robust qualities. By using granite within your home you will have worktops that will last a lifetime. In fact your worktops could well last longer than the actual building itself!

At Mayfair Worktops we take pride in supplying and fitting only the very best quality granite worktops. We hold all of our granite in stock and cut your worktops from huge, single stone slabs. Granite has natural variations within the stone due to how it was formed billions of years ago, and this adds to the beauty and aesthetic appeal of the finished product.

Granite is beautiful to live with and makes your life easier. In the kitchen you can roll pastry and work bread dough on it without needing a board as it is very durable and hard-wearing. It stays cool and collected under pressure, is easy to wipe down, keep clean and simple to maintain every day.
