“RIGHT DOWN TO THE COLOUR OF THE CHAIRS AND PARASOLS, THE NEMO IDENTITY HAS BEEN SAFEGUARDED.”

TERRACE

GREEN URBAN OASIS

WITH THE REDEVELOPMENT OF ITS ROOFTOP SQUARE, NEMO SCIENCE MUSEUM GIVES A POWERFUL AND SUSTAINABLE BOOST TO AMSTERDAM'S HOSPITALITY AND LEISURE LANDSCAPE.

The iconic building by architect Renzo Piano has long been a beacon on the IJ, but the renewed rooftop terrace is now clearly positioning itself as a destination in its own right – a vital link in the overall museum experience.

A LIVING, GREEN URBAN OASIS

Designed by Olaf de Nooyer, the rooftop square blends greenery, technology and education. Hospitality manager Robert Verdam, who has been with NEMO for 17 years, calls it “a roof that truly lives”. “A third of the square is green, full of biotopes. What happens here... butterflies, birds, plants – right in the middle of Amsterdam. It still amazes me every day.”

The sloping construction required an ingenious approach. “Each plant species had to be positioned exactly right, otherwise it wouldn't survive.” At the same time, the square plays a strong social role, hosting music evenings, festivals and even a running event that finishes on the roof just in time for sunrise. The original Renzo Piano signature has been carefully preserved. “Right down to the colour of the chairs and parasols, the NEMO identity has been safeguarded,” says Robert. During the renovation, 24 tonnes of concrete were replaced with accoya wood, and existing furniture was given a second life – sustainability has been a guiding principle at NEMO from day one.

A FOUR-SEASON DESTINATION

With thousands of daily visitors, efficient layout is essential. Satelliet contributed to the routing and furniture selection, while designer Wendy Jorna created a setting that handles peak moments with ease. The result is a clearly organised terrace that feels intuitive for guests and workable for staff – from the Serre Bar to the lower terrace near the butterfly garden. Thanks to canopies, glass walls and heating, the rooftop square functions as a full-fledged event and hospitality venue even in winter. The renewed Piazza is an inclusive place where relaxation, education and design come together. “People come for the view, but they stay for the calm.”

OUTDOORS WITH CHARACTER

TAILOR-MADE DESIGN IS ABOUT CREATING A TOTAL EXPERIENCE – TELLING ONE COHESIVE STORY THROUGH AESTHETICS, FUNCTION AND FEELING. FOR HOSPITALITY ENTREPRENEURS AND DESIGNERS, A TERRACE IS AN EXTENSION OF THE OVERALL CONCEPT.

When your terrace feels like a bespoke suit, perfectly aligned with your vision, it creates recognition, atmosphere and an experience guest instantly sense. This is where true distinction lies. Hilversum-based hospitality entrepreneur Marco van Velthooven demonstrates the power of tailor-made design with his terraces at Café Français Emmanuelle and Rex. Two terraces, two styles, one shared philosophy: everything is consciously designed to create atmosphere and experience.

A TOUCH OF MOULIN ROUGE

On the colourful terrace of Café Français Emmanuelle, you're instantly transported to Paris. A hint of Moulin Rouge in the heart of Hilversum. The bistro concept is slightly cheeky and unapologetically maximalist. Think pure indulgence: rich fabrics with stripes, toile de jouy, folk patterns and leopard print. The metal frames of the semi-circular benches were specially sprayed in sky blue for Emmanuelle. Terra-coloured cushions combined with yellow-and-black tiger print sit atop them. Bordeaux-red round tables and classic woven chairs in green and blue complete the eclectic bistro experience. As soon as the first rays of sun appear, the terrace fills up. Marco: "The moment I saw that, I knew – this works. People feel that energy."

A CHARACTER OF ITS OWN

Just a few doors down, foyer restaurant Rex draws attention with a completely different, yet equally considered approach. The art deco atmosphere of the interior flows seamlessly outside. On the terrace, a mix of green and yellow spindle chairs, black webbing chairs and benches with mustard-yellow frames create a clear visual identity. Cushions featuring graphic aubergine zigzags paired with blue and green ginkgo leaves add character without shouting. By daring to be distinctive outdoors, you set the tone for the street.

LOVE AT FIRST BITE

TASTE THE ATTENTION

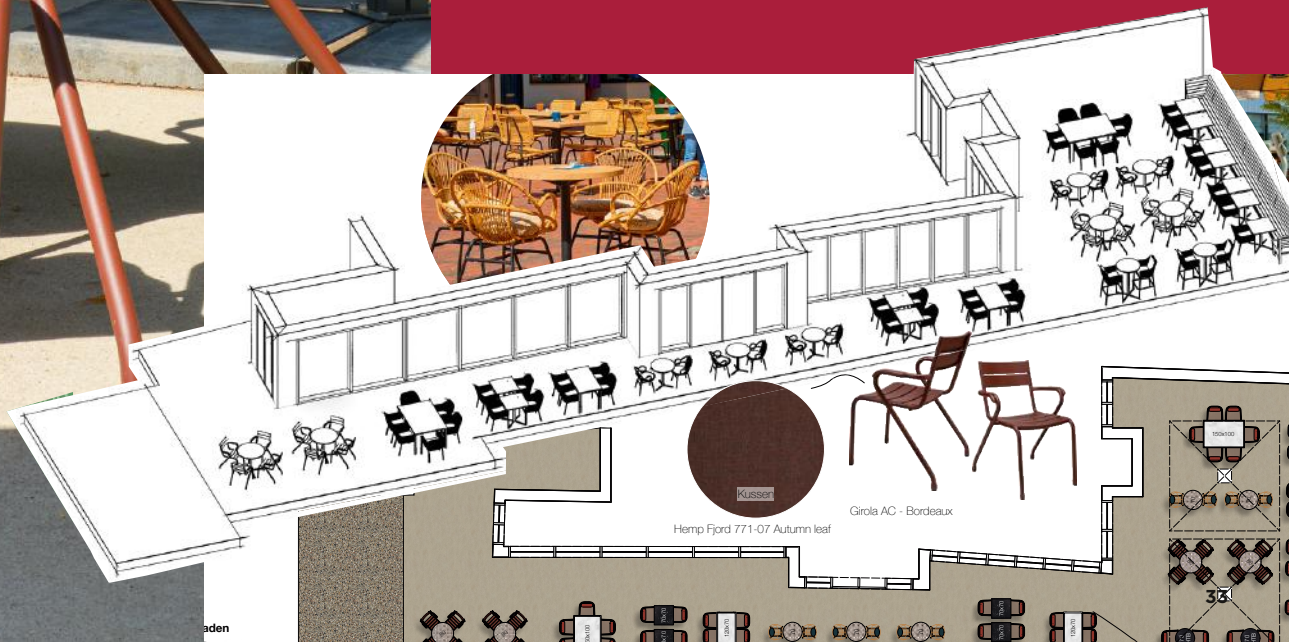

La Cocotte is a household name in Rotterdam's harbour district. For generations, this family business has stood for culinary craftsmanship, honest ingredients and attention to every detail. That same care extends outdoors, to the inviting terrace. La Cocotte's outdoor space offers a welcome escape from daily bustle. Surrounded by greenery, colour and warmth, guests relax, connect and enjoy.

CALM & HOSPITALITY

The bohemian-chic style comes to life through natural materials and comfortable seating, such as the wooden Area benches, the aluminium Girola terrace chair in warm terra, and the inviting Macy chair with refined straps. Each piece contributes to a sense of calm and hospitality. But atmosphere never exists without functionality. "Routing and layout are crucial to how guests experience the terrace," says Rachel Bergwerff-Top, project manager at Brasserie La Cocotte. "A good layout creates comfort, clarity and natural flow." The result? A terrace that not only looks beautiful, but feels intuitive.
