[WELCOME]

The 2024/2025 Home Building and Remodeling Directory is an excellent resource and guide to finding quality firms who will help you with any building or remodeling project.

The Builders Association of Greater Indianapolis (BAGI) represents a membership of over 500 firms in the residential construction industry throughout Central Indiana. BAGI exists to ensure members of the residential construction industry conduct their businesses efficiently, ethically and ultimately provide reliable, safe and affordable residential construction.

All members must adhere to the Quality Assurance Builder Standards. These standards provide new home buyers and remodeling customers a written set of standards addressing common issues.

Please take a moment to visit our website www.bagi.com for information on building a home, finding a builder or remodeler who fits your needs and for useful information on how to get started on building the home of your dreams. You can also find information about membership, trends and the latest industry news.

Sincerely,

Steve Lains

The Builders Association of Greater Indianapolis today exists so members of the residential construction industry and related businesses can conduct business efficiently and ethically in order to provide the community with reliable, safe, affordable residential construction accomplished by competent professionals in the industry. The charter jurisdiction of BAGI includes: Boone, Hamilton, Hancock, Hendricks, Johnson, Marion, Morgan and Shelby counties.

As of January 1, 2000, all BAGI builders and remodelers agree to adhere to the Quality Assurance Builder Standards. Divided into construction phases, the Standards provide new homebuyers and remodeling customers a written set of standards addressing prevalent issues that arise. The Standards are a series of performance measurements builders and customers can use to communicate and understand each other's expectations.

BAGI is also a member of the Indiana Builders Association and the National Association of Home Builders. To join BAGI, call 317-236-6330.

[QUALITY ASSURANCE BUILDER STANDARDS]

The Quality Assurance Builder Standards provide new homebuyers and remodeling homeowners with a way to measure the quality of the project against an industry approved set of standards.

Who set these standards?

These standards have been developed by the Builders Association of Greater Indianapolis as a service to new home and remodeling homeowners in the Central Indiana area who are working with an Association member.

What does this mean to me?

These standards create a series of performance standards that the member builders and the homeowners can use to communicate and understand each other's expectations regarding the building or remodeling project.

It should be noted that the standards are not a warranty nor are they intended as a substitute for a warranty. The service period for these standards is defined as one year from date of closing and/or final acceptance of project.

The standards address the most prevalent issues that arise between the builder/remodeler and the customer before the project, during the project, and, most importantly, after the project is completed. All too often it is the undefined expectations that create the majority of the problems encountered in the building and remodeling processes. The standards will help eliminate problems before the project even begins.

Do all builders use these standards?

Every builder and remodeler member of the Builders Association of Greater Indianapolis agrees to participate in the Builder Standards as a requirement of membership.

The contract you sign with a member builder or remodeler will include a provision that the project will be completed to meet the requirements of the Builder Standards.

How do I reference the Standards?

These standards are published online for easy reference. When you sign a contract with your builder or remodeler they will provide you with a password-protected login to the Standards.
