STEWARTS OF TRENT BRIDGE

Roasted In Nottingham

Our story starts with Nottingham coffee visionary Stewart Falconer, hand roasting coffee in the 80's, before the word "artisan" even existed. After a few cups of the good stuff during his travels abroad, he made it his mission to make quality coffee the norm, not the exception. We're proud to carry on his tradition, and the original roaster he bought for the job all those years ago is still a part of the furniture today.

We realise that we came together in this company because we share the same philosophy on life. That to truly experience life is to make every day count. Not always with something big but learning to appreciate the little things just as much as the grand adventures.

This has inspired our entire coffee range from the Sunset Espresso through to The Road Trip and Escape. Each coffee represents a little bit of each of us and our lifestyle. We all came to realise that life is simply too short, that things change and you never know what is around the corner.

Life is definitely too short for a bad cup of coffee
