Leadership

We understand that investing in your school's leadership is the single most effective way to secure sustained school improvement and drive better student outcomes. That's why the Continuous Professional Development (CPD) we supply is not just a benefit—it's an absolute necessity for modern school leaders.

Leadership Series

The 2025-2026 leadership series continues to develop leadership thinking in a changing world. Our Principal Consultant, Ruth McGlone, will be running a new series of online sessions across the three terms. Ruth will focus on strategic thinking that will impact on school performance and outcomes. As with sessions in previous years, participants will consider different models from research, current practice, and be helped with supportive documentation to help both new and experienced heads in their roles.

In it for the Long Haul

Effective and Sustainable School Leadership

This day-long course will provide school leaders with an opportunity to reflect on their role and what is needed to ensure it is a sustainable one. Leadership roles are exceptionally rewarding, but rarely straightforward. A strategic approach to issues such as managing workload, change and difficult situations is vital in order for leaders to feel that they are in it for the long haul.

CPD

CPD is vital for teachers to keep their knowledge and practice current. VNET's CPD programme enables teachers and leaders to apply evidence-based strategies to address local priorities and fosters a culture of collective efficacy and collaboration. This collective investment in skills directly elevates teaching quality across the community, ensuring every child benefits from professional expertise.

Early Years: Strengthening Practice through Strategic Self-Evaluation and Improvement Planning

Continuous self-evaluation is central to maintaining high-quality Early Years provision and ensuring the best outcomes for children. This two hour session will support Early Years leaders and practitioners to strategically review the effectiveness of their provision, using evidence from children's developmental progress, quality of learning experiences, and professional observations.

Making Learning Stick with Words and Images!

Explicit Instruction and Dual Coding

Pairing clear explanations with purposeful visuals is a proven way to deepen understanding and help pupils remember what they learn. This practical session unpacks the principles of dual coding and shows how to use images, diagrams and carefully chosen words to reduce cognitive load and strengthen memory. Delegates will see real classroom examples and leave with a toolkit of strategies to weave visuals into their own curriculum planning and everyday teaching.

What Does the New Ofsted Framework Mean for Me? A Guide for Teachers

This practical session will give teachers clarity and confidence about their role within the 2025 Ofsted Inspection Framework. It will translate the framework into classroom reality, showing how inspectors recognise effective teaching through pupils' learning, routines and experiences over time.

Rather than offering reassurance alone, the session provides concrete guidance on aligning classroom practice with inspection expectations while remaining focused on good teaching.

Understanding Complex Needs and Non-speaking Learners

This training will explore the needs of pupils with complex profiles, including many autistic learners and those with developmental or learning differences who may rely on alternative ways to communicate. We will look at the barriers these pupils can face in school, particularly around communication, emotional regulation, and mental health. A key focus of the session is the effective use of visual supports - rather than simply introducing what visuals are, we will explore where to start and how to implement them successfully, in real classroom contexts.

Teaching Assistants

We provide CPD for new and existing Teaching Assistants. Designed to support how TAs are deployed effectively in the classroom, directly leading to a greater positive impact on pupil attainment and fostering their confidence and professional growth.

Developing TA Expertise

This programme is designed to develop TA expertise and confidence in the classroom. An online resource, it can be accessed by individuals or as a group inset session.

The online Developing TA Expertise course consists of 13 units, each with a video tutorial, resources and a quiz. Staff can pick and choose which sessions suit them or it can be used as a group resource in inset training. A bank of useful supporting resources is available for each unit to allow personal learning to turn instantly into professional practice.

- All your TAs can access the course
- Use the training to suit you, either in groups or individually
- Access to the project online, watch recorded session, access resources, complete quizzes
- VNET TA Expertise Certificate issued on completion
- The member price is £350+VAT per school for a year
- Non-member price is £475+VAT per school for a year

Training objectives

- To enable TAs to effectively support learning in both English and Mathematics
- To improve TA confidence in phonics knowledge
- To improve TA confidence in maths subject knowledge
- To enable TAs to effectively facilitate the learning of SEND pupils
- To equip TAs to support behaviour management in the classroom
- To understand how to use questioning and formative assessment strategies to identify gaps and to check that gaps are closing.

Outcomes

- With the support of Teaching Assistants, pupils will become more proficient in English and Mathematics
- Through effective support by Teaching Assistants, pupils will be able to self-regulate better and increase their readiness for and focus on learning

Coaching

Supporting staff wellbeing

Research has shown that supervision and coaching can help to support staff wellbeing. Supervision has many benefits, but a key one in terms of staff wellbeing is that it reduces the feeling of being alone in managing a problem.<sup>1</sup> Creating a coaching culture in schools can, ‘create positive and supportive organisational climates for personal and organisational growth’ as well as fostering a, ‘way of being, where students and educators flourish.’<sup>2</sup>

Empowered Conversations

Supervision and coaching

Supporting staff wellbeing:

Supervision

Regular supervision is a key way to establish a genuine wellbeing culture. It acknowledges the multi-factoral pressures that are placed on school staff and provides a confidential setting in which to discuss them. It is crucial in providing a mechanism to enable specific problem solving. Supervision is an important way to provide wellbeing to staff working in a challenging environment. Our supervision is delivered by trained counsellors whom have experience of working in school environments.

3 sessions over 1 term, £225. The sessions can be delivered in person or online.

Coaching

Using the BASIC coaching method, our fully qualified associates deliver coaching to all levels of staff in school. These confidential conversations are particularly helpful in helping individuals to solve problems, create solutions and optimise personal and team performance. The coaching conversation is coachee-led and action orientated.

3 sessions over 1 term, £225. The sessions can be delivered in person or online.

Whole Staff Training

This day for all school staff uses coaching tools and techniques to equip staff to have better conversations and be more reflective about their practice. A very practical day it covers an approach to coaching conversations, questioning as a tool and listening skills. Everyone gets an opportunity to practice conversations in a supportive and scaffolded environment.

A day will cost £650+VAT for members, £750+VAT for non-members

Group Coaching

Group coaching takes coaching principles and applies them in a group setting. We use tools and techniques to create meaningful dialogue and discussion. We learn and practice questioning and listening skills. It is a useful forum particularly if you feel stuck in your professional life, want to make changes but are not sure how to start.

Supervision and Coaching sessions can be arranged to suit your needs, please contact support@vnetcic.com for more details.

Conferences

VNET conferences are essential for both professional development and a great opportunity to network with your colleagues across the county. Featuring insightful keynotes and presentations from a diverse range of expert speakers, plus opportunities to share best practice with others educators in the county, our conferences are not to be missed.

PE AND SEND CONFERENCE 2026

Creating an inclusive universal offer – Led by Gary Aubin

Teaching and learning is the greatest asset schools have to improve life outcomes for their pupils. For pupils with SEND, this remains the case, yet isn't always the thing we focus on the most. This 4-part course will explore the research evidence in relation to high-quality teaching for pupils with SEND.

Audience: Headteachers, SENDCO and Senior Leaders

4 in person and virtual events, October 2025 to March 2026

Inclusive Attendance – Led by Wayne Harris

Attendance remains one of the most significant challenges schools face nationwide, with data highlighting significant gaps, particularly among disadvantaged and SEND pupils. Project leader Wayne Harris (Inclusive Attendance) offers the sole accredited CPD programme in the UK.

Audience: School Leaders, Headteachers, Attendance Leaders and Managers

3 virtual events, September 2025 to March 2026

Transforming Behaviour Project – Led by Emma Shackleton

This three-part, interactive programme helps headteachers, senior leaders and SENCOs build a behaviour and inclusion culture that works, even in a stretched system.

Audience: Headteachers, SENDCO and Senior Leaders

3 virtual events, February to April 2026

Curriculum in Action – Led by Emma Adcock and Maria Curry

Following the DfE curriculum review, this training and development project will guide leaders through a strategic review of their curriculum and assessment systems, with a sharp focus on how these can ensure excellence and equity for every pupil.

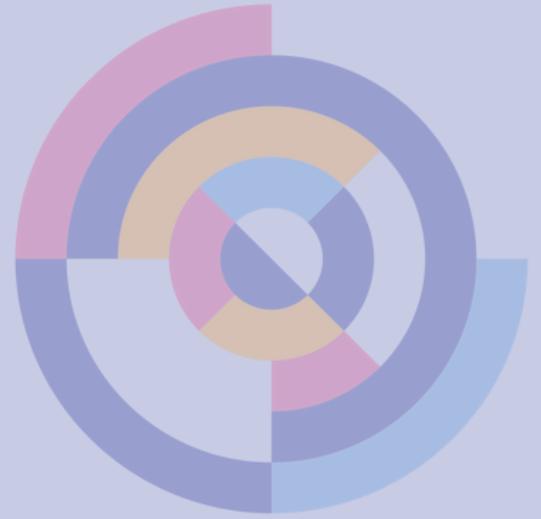

Audience: Senior Leaders and Curriculum Leaders
