About Sycamore

OUR HISTORY

In 1985, a group of parents and teachers had a dream. They dreamed that they could create a school where intellectually gifted children could be challenged and stimulated, a school where children could actually reach their potential as students and future leaders.

Since that time, Sycamore School has focused on the specific needs of our brightest learners. Our students, who would be outliers in other educational settings, find the challenge and support they need to develop their significant potential. These students learn in ways that differ from the norm; they need a program that is broader, deeper, more complex, more abstract, and delivered at a faster pace.

>>> Sycamore provides that.

Sycamore has given me an infinite quest for knowledge, the ability to ask for help, and, most importantly, lifelong friendships.

Gifted learners have unique intellectual, social, and emotional needs. They need an open, enriched educational environment designed to develop superior thinking skills and the opportunity to complete a broad range of academic and artistic projects and products. Sycamore School provides a full-time educational program to meet the needs of academically gifted students.

OUR MISSION

Sycamore School exists so that academically gifted children can experience the enriched, accelerated education they need to reach their potential and to lead responsible, constructive, fulfilling lives.

A LEADER IN GIFTED EDUCATION

Sycamore’s vision is to be recognized as the premier resource in Indianapolis and among the best in the nation for the education and development of the academically gifted child.

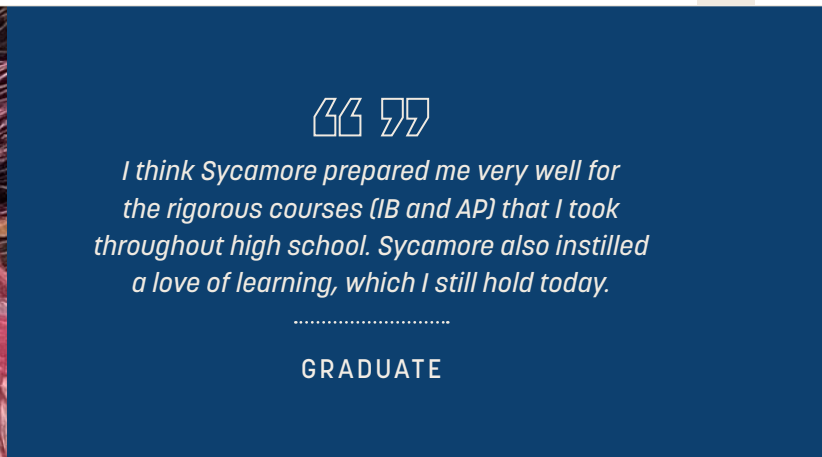

Sycamore has an ongoing commitment to leadership in developing and improving teaching methods, learning strategies, and curricula in gifted education. Our teachers are dedicated to learning from others in gifted education and to sharing their experience and expertise for the educational enrichment of all children.

Sycamore is 100% the right decision for me. It allows me to be academically and socially stimulated while surrounded by kids who are like me. The teachers are personally invested in students’ lives and leave a deep impact on all of us. Sycamore allows me to blossom and find a crowd and a place to express myself.

STUDENT

I think Sycamore prepared me very well for the rigorous courses (IB and AP) that I took throughout high school. Sycamore also instilled a love of learning, which I still hold today.

OUR CORE VALUES

At Sycamore we believe the most important character traits for all Sycamore students are:

respect
moral courage empathy relationships

These traits are taught to every age group and are practiced and exemplified by students. Our faculty in each division work to systematically integrate these character traits into our already existing programs, and they appear in virtually every discipline we teach as well as in athletics, on the playground, and in our clubs and activities.

Who is a Gifted Child?

Gifted students have characteristics and needs that are unique, but as a group they comprehend complex ideas quickly, are inquisitive, and tend to learn more rapidly and in greater depth than their same-age peers. They tend to retain information in richer detail and use that information to make connections between seemingly unconnected concepts. Each gifted child is complex and unique, and Sycamore School understands and celebrates that. Simply put, gifted children are the reason for our school's existence.

The thing that makes this place feel like it does is the people. Everyone has a little extra kindness, a little extra perseverance, a little extra something. When I arrived here, I was immediately surrounded by people who wanted to learn, who wanted to grow into better people, and ultimately, people who just wanted to be friends. I didn't have to seek out new people to hang out with; they sought me out. Sycamore is like a family.

Supporting the Whole Student

Sycamore's mission of educating gifted children includes supporting the whole gifted child. A full-time staff psychologist provides short-term and group counseling, crisis counseling, and parent consultation in addition to working with teachers and staff members to embed Social Emotional Learning (SEL) throughout the school that involves the following:

- Developmentally targeted proactive social/emotional learning in all divisions
- Parent education and support
- Faculty and staff consultation

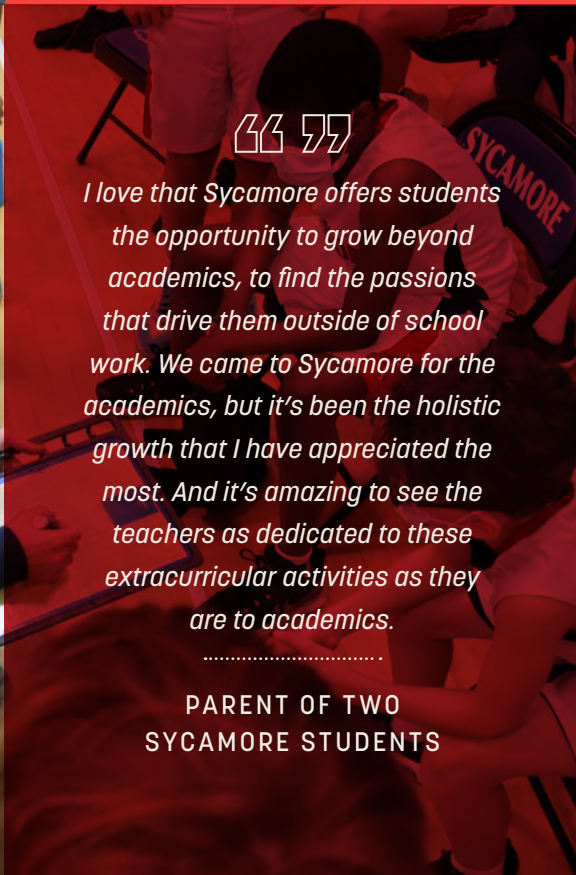

Gifted learners often exhibit asynchronous development, meaning that their intellectual skills develop earlier and faster than their skills in other domains. A full-time Learning Resource Specialist provides the following:

- Classroom-infused Executive Functioning programming that is developmentally appropriate for each academic division
- A summer camp for students entering Middle School
- Morning Crew for additional daily EF support
- Specialized services for twice exceptional (2e) students – individualized strategy plans, parent support, and faculty and staff consultation

Sycamore's teachers have a passion for learning. They are dedicated to creating an environment that is stimulating, nurturing, and well differentiated for students. They are lifelong learners who look for ways to support growth in their classrooms and challenge students to have open mindsets and reach for their goals. Even more importantly, the teachers and staff make the students feel known and appreciated. They greet them at the door each morning at drop off and help them feel welcome each day. There is a true sense of family and community.

Sycamore is a school that supports the growth of the entire child, not just academically, but also in the arts, music, sports, clubs and extracurriculars. Students at Sycamore are encouraged to explore all avenues of learning to help support their growth and development and cater to their special interests.

I love that Sycamore offers students the opportunity to grow beyond academics, to find the passions that drive them outside of school work. We came to Sycamore for the academics, but it's been the holistic growth that I have appreciated the most. And it's amazing to see the teachers as dedicated to these extracurricular activities as they are to academics.

Admission and Financial Aid

APPLYING TO SYCAMORE

We welcome applicants of all backgrounds. We admit students who display a high level of intelligence and academic achievement and who need a curriculum that is broader, deeper, and faster-paced than most. Each student should demonstrate age-appropriate social and emotional development and behavior that would enable the child to function effectively in a classroom environment. We consider all of the following when making admission decisions:

- Parental input from the application
- Intellectual ability (IQ testing or preschool screening)
- Academic achievement (report card and achievement test results)
- Teacher recommendation
- Classroom visit (applicants for Prekindergarten through 8th grade)

NONDISCRIMINATION POLICY

Sycamore School admits qualified students of any race, color, gender, and national or ethnic origin and is impartial in its administrative and educational policies with respect to these characteristics.

AFFORDING SYCAMORE

Sycamore knows that not all families can afford the full cost of attending an independent school; therefore, we award need-based financial aid to serve as many gifted students as possible regardless of family income.

Here are some key things to know about financial aid at Sycamore:

- Financial aid is not a loan and does not have to be repaid. It is a reduction in tuition.
- All financial aid at Sycamore is based on financial need.
- An independent third party, School and Student Services for Financial Aid (SSS), determines what a family can afford.

Sycamore has truly been more than a school to my kids; Sycamore is their second home. In this magical place we have found a community who is extremely caring and loving with teachers who take that extra step to support the kids' needs in every way possible. Gifted kids thrive next to their intellectual peers, and I know my kids are constantly being inspired by their classmates.

PARENT OF THREE SYCAMORE STUDENTS

One of the most special things about Sycamore School is the sense of community. There is a true sense of togetherness that is shared by the students, parents, teachers, and staff, and this is evident from the moment you walk in the door. It feels like being part of a very big family, and that bond is strengthened by the mission of the school. The environment is nurturing, encouraging, and rich in opportunity.

While my intuition was spot on that Sycamore would feel like a second home for my kids, I was not anticipating that it would feel like a second home to me as well. Some of my closest friendships have formed with fellow parents at the school. We share the same values and ideals in raising kind, hard working, and motivated kids who appreciate all the learning opportunities Sycamore has to offer both inside and outside of the classroom.

A large, stylized red maple leaf graphic is centered on the page. The leaf is composed of several overlapping, semi-transparent red shapes that create a sense of depth and movement. The colors range from a light, almost white red to a deep, dark red. The leaf is positioned in the upper half of the page, with its base pointing downwards towards the center.

At Sycamore your child is known and loved.
